—W. A. Westphal, N. C. Mague, J. A. Karet, C. L. Holstein and William Newcorn, committee on the proposed fair which Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., intend giving, made a partial report at the meeting last evening.

Miss Ethel Simmonds, of Park avenue, left yesterday afternoon for Brooklyn where she will spend a week.

Edward S. Randolph, of West Eighth street, has returned from Philadelphia after finishing his first year in the College of Pharmacy there.

Chief Engineer Doane was in telephonic communication with Charles J. Fisk at Lakewood this morning, and the readers of The Press will be glad to learn that he is slowly recovering his health and strength.

As Miss Whiting, who has been substituting as organist at the Park Avenue Baptist church, is not well, D. E. Davis will occupy the position tomorrow. Mrs. Maxson, of Rhode Island, has been engaged for subsequent services.

Taken in Time.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has achieved great success in warding off sickness which, if allowed to progress, would have undermined the whole system and given disease a strong foothold to cause much suffering and even threaten death. Hood's Sarsaparilla has done all this and even more. It has been taken in thousands of cases which were thought to be incurable, and after a fair trial has effected wonderful cures, bringing health, strength and joy to the afflicted. Another important point about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that its cures are permanent, because they start from the solid foundation of purified, vitalized and enriched blood. But it is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story.

A WONDERFUL FILTER.

HOW THE BLOOD IS KEPT PURE.

Health Comes From Pure Blood, Which Depends on the Filter Within You —Your Kidneys Are Nature's Filter.

Pure blood nourishes the body.

New blood is made very minute. As it goes to the lungs, and then passes through the body, it deposits new flesh, fat, bones, etc., and takes up worn-out matter.

If the kidneys act perfectly this worn-out matter is filtered from the blood and thrown out of the body. If the kidneys are sick they not only leave bad matter in the blood but sometimes take out the good. Nothing is more poisonous than bad blood. A proof of this is rheumatism, which is simply blood poisoning. Bright's disease is the kidneys working the wrong way by taking good food from the blood.

Our kidneys are very important organs. Simply because we don't take enough care of them, we are sick oftener than we need be.

Rheumatism, Bright's disease, anæmia, neuralgia, pain in the back, dizziness, bladder troubles, gravel, diabetes, sleeplessness, Nervousness, etc., are distressing "diseases." But back of them all are the sick kidneys.

Once these filters are made to work perfectly, all such diseases vanish.

All can be cured by Dr. Hobb s Sparagus Kidney Pills which have a special curative action on the kidneys By revitalizing the kidneys, Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills give them new strength. Their sickness is cured. The filter is cleared and renewed.

You feel a great differance at once. Your complexion will clear, your whole body gets renewed life.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure you where other medicines fail.

Endorsed by physicians and druggists.

What Will Do It?

Medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is positive proof that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact.

Soothing, healing, cleansing, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the enemy to sores, wounds and piles, which it never fails to cure. Stops itching and burning. Cures chapped lips and cold-sores in two or three hours. L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St.

KING WINTER IN GLORY.

A MANTLED CLOAK OF WHITE COVERS THE EARTH TODAY.

Biggest Snow Storm of the Season Came Yesterday and Last Night—No Serious Damage Can be Observed Thus Far.

King Winter has certainly made some mistake in his calculations, for here, almost at the beginning of spring, there comes a taste of real winter. Ths anniversary of the blizzard last Thursday was a surprise but the snow that began to fall yesterday and that continued all night until nearly a foot of the frozen vapor covered the ground, was a much greater surprise. The snow that fell yesterday afternoon made the sleighing very good last night, but the storm showed no sign of abating and kept right on.

There was scarcely any wind and the mercury remained close to the freezing point all night so the storm was not a severe one except for the unusual amount of snow. The snow was light and feathery and gathered on the trees and anywhere else it could catch. Everything wore a coat of white and the barren and bleak appearance of the town was changed to a white robed fairyland.

The usual damage that follows in the wake of the blizzard was not to be seen. The trains were only delayed two or three minutes behind their usual time. and part of that was caused by the change in the schedule. There was a strange looking crowd that assembled at the station this morning. Some wore boots, some big Arctics, while many had the bottoms of ther pants strapped or tied down to keep the snow out. The railroad cars also presented quite a wintry appearance.

As soon as the daylight had fairly arrived, a veritable army of boys and men, colored and white, started out, armed with shovel and broom, to do battle with the steadily falling snow. Many householders preferred to wait until the storm was over before having their walks cleaned, but in the business streets all was animation.

Several straw rides have already been planned for this evening, and the livery stables are busily preparing for the great demand for sleighs that is sure to come unless warmer weather and a heavy rain immediately follows the snow.

Out in the country in the vicinity of Oak Tree a number of trees have been broken by the overwhelming weight of the snow.

All this morning the mercury slowly rose until it passed the freezing point and started above it. The dry snow of the night and early morning became more moist, until at noon hail began to fall, and the hail gradually turned into a cold rain. This is all according to Farmer Dunn's prophecies, but if the rain increases in force the probable results are not the most cheerful. The thick layer of snow on the roofs, with the increased weight of the water, would make lively times for plumbers and tinners, and if the snow should melt rapidly the flood of last month is likely to be equalled if not exceeded.

William VanWinkle, the Somerset street grocer, did excellent service in the borough this morning with his sidewalk snow plow and horse. The residents in front of whose homes he cleaned the walks appreciate his efforts exceedingly.

The heavy storm yesterday did not prevent good attendance at the various churches. In the morning most all of the churches were well filled, and in the evening the number present at each was very encouraging to the pastors and workers. Many of the church attendants, however, remained at home and passed the time in singing and reading. Last evening at one Plainfield home, the entire family held a service of their own, and it is safe to say that many others did likewise.

Supt. John Adleman, of the street railway, and his efficient corps of men, did good work yesterday and last night in keeping the tracks clear, and thus giving travelers excellent service. The cars were kept running until 12 o'clock last night, and from that time till nearly 2 o'clock the scraper attached to horses was used. At 3 o'clock this morning the cars were brought out and run from that time on. Thus it is that today people are enjoying the benefits of the car service. The cars are run in pairs, thus securing more power.

Weather Observer Neagle says that there is now fourteen inches of snow on the ground. Four and a half inches fell during the storm of Thursday, and nine and a half inches yesterday and today.

—The hearts of the Central's employes were gladdened this morning by the advent of the pay car.

—Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will meet tonight and work the first degree on one candidate.

HOW TO RIDE A BICYCLE.

Miss Marguerite Lindley's Interesting Lecture Saturday Afternron.

That the bicycle has won the hearts and attention of the people was clearly evidenced Saturday afternoon, when a large number of enthusiasts gathered at the Casino to hear Miss Marguerite Lindley lecture on "Bicycling." The stage was very attractively arranged with wheels, both ladies' and gents', including a tandem. Surrounding them were neat decorations of college colors, including Yale, Harvard and Princeton. Miss Lindley was heartily received and spoke in part as follows:

"The time has come when the bicycle should be built for the rider. The very peculiar construction of the organs of the body demand this. Over exercise causes many ills, and a wheel not built for the rider is almost as dangerous. We often wait till our health is gone, then we are willing to do anything to regain it. Walking as an exercise no longer attracts, and the wheel comes to us with untold advantages. We are all too closely confined and need more fresh air. Socially the wheel is a great thing. We Americans are too stiff, we pass people in walking and only know them by name, but the wheel bids fair to bring us closer together socially. We should be careful in riding to secure the right posture. Scorching may do for the child, but not for us older people."

Miss Lindley explained posture through the use of a skeleton body, and described thevarious influences of it.

Continuing she said, "I like men, and I don't want it understood that I am finding fault with them, but I like them better when they stand erect. Let us tell them how much we like them and thus win their confidence. Some riders in scorching give one the idea that there is a vacum in the stomach, but such is not the case. If the vacum is anywhere it's in the head That posititon is what makes physicians object to the wheel. Women should be independent enough to decide what to wear and not let her dressmaker do it for her. A wheel should be built fit to ride, then let all Christendom ride. Dr. Stimpson, of New York, appoves the duplex spring saddle, thus avoiding the narrow compression, which is an evil."

At this point, Miss Barrus, of New York, and Miss Lindley's niece, Miss Lindley Sumner, gave examples of the Swedish movement for bicycle riders, which developes every part of the body.

In speaking of dress, the speaker said that "art should be used. Don't think anything will do. Plain dress is the most advisable, and it should be long enough so that the wearer will not feel conscious of it. Knickerbockers should not be thought of, as the American woman is not ready for that dress yet. We have got to protect this pastime. There is no excuse for a woman being masculine."

Miss Lindley dwelt at length on the proper saddle to use, claiming that those now in use were exceedngly harmful.

At the close of the lecture Mrs. Anthony, of New York, gave an exhibition of riding on the Upright wheel, on which she is an expert.

Through the courtesy of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company an attractive line of Cleveland and Crescent wheels were loaned to decorate the stage.

A Profitable Meeting.

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday afteroon R. D. Schoonmaker, C. K. Roys and F. B. Cowan, of Princeton University, spoke on Foreign Missions. R. D. Schoonmaker is a resident of this city. Special music was rendered by members of the choir of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. An offering was taken for the work among young men in foreign lands as carried on by the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. The service was conducted by Wm. D. Murray.

A Master in Chancery.

Lawyer Charles J. McNabb was appointed master in chancery last Friday and went to Trenton today to be sworn in.

Measles in Morristown.

One hundred and twenty-five cases of measles have been reported to the Morristown Board of Health this season.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale by Reynold's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

THE END NEAR AT HAND.

THE LEGISLATURE WILL ONLY LAST TWO WEEKS LONGER.

Much Important Legislation is to Be Considered in That Time—Are Likely to Pass the Judiciary Amendments.

Ex Judge Fort, of Newark, has been assisting the Senate Judiciary Committee in preparing the Constitutional amendments, and says they will be ready by this evening, and that the committee will recommend the set prepared by the nine lawyers selected by the Senate.

The Judiciary amendments, he says, are almost identical with those unanimously recommended by the Constitutional Commission of 1894, and which were ignored by the Legislature last year. While there is a considerable sentiment in favor of the Corbin amendments providing for one court of fifteen judges with equity, law, and appellate jurisdiction, it is believed the committee amendments will be adopted.

The Republican Senators are displeased over the action of the Assemblymen in deciding to continue the session until March 25th. They wanted to end it on next Friday at the latest, and they express the opinion that the events of last week in the House show that that body is rapidly getting beyond control.

This was shown by its action in turning down its committees and ordering them to report bills. Half-a-dozen members have filed notice of intention to try and get bills out of committee tomorrow night, and in its present humor the House may adopt the resolutions when presented. The Railroads and Canals Committee has been holding up important bills, some of which were introduced in the second week of the session, and the majority has grown suspicious that Chairman Lower is trying to usurp the powers of the House and decide which bills ought not to pass. This suspicion has considerable to do with determining the date of adjournment, which was fixed for a date that will give time to rescue the bills from Lower's hands and consider them on the floor.

The House this week will begin work on appropriation bills. The Deficiency bill is ready, and it contains several items that will receive opposition on the floor. It is announced that the House bill making a horizontal reduction of 25 per cent. on the salaries of all State officers who get more than $3 000 a year will not pass the Senate, as it is clearly unconstitutional. Under its provisions it would go into effect on August 1st, except so far as its affects the salaries of the Governor, Chancellor, and Supreme Court Justices, who are specifically protected by the Constitution.

It is said that the New Jersey courts have decided that no public officer's salary can be reduced during his term, and this prevented the Senate last year from passing the bill putting Chancery Clerk McDermott and Supreme Court Clerk Lee on a salary.

The most important work the Legislature has to do is to pass a law governing the organization of boroughs and relieving those that have been wiped out by the recent decisions of the Court of Errors and Appeals. There are said to be over 100 of these, most of them in the northern part of the State; more than a dozen of them have a voting capacity of between sixteen and seventy-two. A number of the seaside resorts are affected by the decisions. The joint committee is at work on a general law which will divide the boroughs into three classes, and require action by the Legislature in fixing the boundaries of the municipalties, instead of leaving the question to the decision of the County Judge. Provision will be made for the payment of bonds on boroughs wiped out. The smaller boroughs will not be reincorporated.

The House expects to adjourn over from Wednesday afternoon until the following Monday to give some of its committees to finish up business.

Great Musical Organization.

The Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will be at the Casino on April 18th. There are between twenty-five and forty in the company, and is one of the best musical organizations the university has ever had. The arrangements for their appearance are under the management of W. N. Runyon.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by Reynold's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue. T. S Armstrong, Manager.

BOMBARDMENT OF SIN.

BALLINGTON BOOTH TO SPEAK IN MUSIC HALL THURSDAY EVENING.

The Local Salvation Army Secessionists to be Reorganized Under the New American Movement on That Date.

Commander Ballington Booth will visit Plainfield on Thursday night in the interest of "God's American Volunteers," as the seceders from the Salvation Army will be called in the future. Music Hall has been secured for the occasion and Captain Mimms, who is in command of the local Volunteers, is making extensive preparations for the distinguished leader. The Commander will on that night formally accept the Plainfield seceders as a recognized post in the new organization. He will present them with a handsome American flag and the colors of the movements.

If the weather permits a large street parade will precede the meeting, which will be led by Major Glen, assisted by Adjutant Hartwright and other staff officers. The Volunteers are to be organized on military lines.

The Commander having decided to adhere, as closely as is consistent with the spiritual side of the organization, to the rules and regulations of the regular army of the United States, the uniforms, it is said, will be patterned after those of the United States troops, the fatigue costume being chosen as the mos serviceable in every way. What the the woman's uniform will be has not yet been made public.

At the conclusion of the meeting in Music Hall, Orange, yesterday afternoon, a lady ascended to the platform and introduced herself as a sister to the late General Grant. She offered Commander Booth an autograph letof the General's to be sold at auction. the proceeds to be devoted to the cause. Major Glen immediately became auctioneer and knocked the letter down to ex Mayor Stillman, of Buffalo, for $350. Mr Stillman, who a personal friend of Commander Booth, and who has been spending the last few days with him, promised to advertise the autograph in Buffalo, and sell it over again, and the proceeds to be used in the same manner. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and Commander Booth was enthusiastically welcomed by the people of Orange. When Major Glen made an appeal for funds to defray the expenses of the new headquarters and the local post, the audience responded with a collection which amounted to over $90. Eight members were secured for the "Defenders' League."

Commander Booth addressed a meet in Newark last night, while Mrs. Booth and Staff Captain Patti Watkins were in Cooper's Union, New York city.

The seceders from the regular army will hold a meeting in Reform Hall this evening, to be led by Capt. Mimms.

Officers Chosen.

At the annual meeting of the Seaboard Sanitary, Garbage, Cremating and Refuse Utilizing Company held Saturday at the Grenada hotel, the following Board of Directors were elected: Dr. John T. Fritts, Seymour G. Smith, Plainfield; Cornelius Berrien, Montclair; William J. Fanning, New York; William T. Tiers. Samuel G. DeCoursey, George E. Bartol, Philadelphia. The officers elected for one year were as follows: Dr. J. T. Fritts, president: C. Berrien, vice-president; W. J. Fanning, treasurer; S. G. Smith, secretary.

Endeavor Officers Elected.

The following officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the East Third Street Mission were elected recently: President, Robert W. Barnes; vice-president, William Ulmer; corresponding secretary, Miss Edith Hunt; recording secretary, Clifford Braider; treasurer, Miss Althea Vail; chairman of lookout committee, C. E. Hepburn; chairman of prayer meeting committee, Miss Randolph; chairman of social, flower and Sunday school committee, Miss Mary E. Thorn; chairman of music committee, Clifford Braider.

Drunk at the Station.

A man named Brown was found drunk at the North Avenue station early this morning and Roundsman Mattox and Patrolman Vanderweg arrested him. He will be tried this afternoon after he gets over the effects of his over-indulgence.

The Press the Best.

A pair of eye glasses was advertised as lost in The Press and in The News Friday evening. Saturday morning the missing article was returned to the owner, T. S. Armstrong, by a reader of The Press. Results are what Press ads bring.

—Naylor, of this city, will play at a reception to be held at Rahway tonight.

THE RISKY PARLOR MATCH.

The Head Flew Off and Ignited a Curtain, Causing an Incipient Blaze.

A fire alarm, sent in from box 25, Saturday evening about 8:15 o'clock, attracted a large crowd to the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street only to find that the fire was already extinguished. George M. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, was just turning that corner when he saw the front second story windows on Mrs. Mary Stiles' residence, at 211 East Fifth street, suddenly filled with flame. He called in Neuman Brothers' grocery store that there was a fire and in company with Compton Vail and Adam Seales, two of the clerks, Mr. Rittenhouse hurried to the scene and assisted the occupants of the house in extinguishing the fire. Harry Milligan, another clerk, sent in the alarm.

The fire was caused by the head of a match, which was being lighted, breaking off and flying into the window and igniting the curtain. The damage was trifling.

The house was insured through W. A. Woodruff and within two hours after the fire, the small loss was adjusted by Mr. Woodruff.

An Interesting Speaker.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, secretary of the Woman's Board of Domestic Missions, Reformed church, has generously consented to address a meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the lecture room of the Trinity Reformed church, and the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church have decided to serve light refreshments to all who attend at the close of the meeting. No admission fee will be charged, but a collectioh will be taken. Mrs. Horton is an exceedingly interesting speaker and all who listen to her address tomorrow evening will be highly entertained.

A Watchful Track Walker.

Track walker Higgins, of the Central Railroad, prevented what might have been a serious accident on last Friday evening. He discovered a break in one of the main line rails. These rails are all connected with the block signal service, and if there is a break in them the red light appears on the tower nearest the break. It is supposed that the cold weather frosted the steel, thus causing the break. The passing of a train might have caused the rails to spread and result in a terrible accident.

Borough School Election Tomorrow.

The annual school election in the North Plainfield borough will be held in the public school building to-morrow. The polls will be open at 8 o'clock and remain open one hour, and as much longer as may be necessary to enable the voters to cast their ballots. The following budget will be voted on: For the payment of teachers' salaries and other current expenses of maintaining the school for the coming year, $6 600; painting etc., $900; for text books and other necessary school supplies to be furnished free of cost to be used in school, $750. The total amount thought to be necessary is $8,250.

A Bridge Builder Hurt.

William Henry Love, a bridge builder, met with a painful accident yesterday morning about seven o'clock, while working on a railroad bridge near Bound Brook. While placing one of the iron beams in position, it slipped and fell on his left foot, crushing it severely. He was brought to Muhlenburg Hospital, where Dr. Probasco, assisted by Drs. Murray, Hedges and Tomlinson, amputated the foot. Today the patient is doing nicely.

Popular Tom Jones Laid Up.

Tom Jones, the popular baggageman on John Herbert's train on the Jersey Central railroad, has been unable to perform his regular duties for the last two weeks on account of illness. Mr. Jones resides at Dunellen and is one of the oldest employes of the company. He was formerly prominent in the Plainfield volunteer fire department. The railroad company has offered to promote Mr. Jones a number of times but he has always refused.

Railroad Accident Cases Getting Well.

Miss Giles, who was recently injured in the railroad accident at Stelton, is still confined in the hospital at New Brunswick. Her condition is much improved, and the physicians say that in a few weeks she will be able to get up. The hip fracture is mending nicely. Ralston Dunbar has improved so rapidly that he was able to leave the hospital today. His brother Nelson is still confined and has a high fever. Erysipelas has also set in and his condition is not favorable.

To Talk Good Government.

A "Good Government" meeting will be held in the Congregational church next Sunday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society. Rev. Wm. F. Cooley, D. D., will be the principal speaker.

CONVENTION DATE SET.

THE DEMOCRATS WILL MEET IN TRENTON, MAY 7TH.

E. F. C. Young, Chairman of the State Committee, Resigns Owing to Business — Possible Delegates-at-Large.

The New Jersey Democratic State Committee met Saturday afternoon in Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City. Chairman E. F. C. Young presided, and there were present Richard V. Lindabury, of Elizabeth; Rufus Blodgett, of Long Branch; Oliver H. Kelly, of New Brunswick; Harry B. Paul, of Camden; Wm. J. Keys, Gen. Richard Donnelly, of Trenton; Eckard Budd, of Burlington; Judge Howard Hayes, of Newark.

The first matter taken up by the committee was the date of the convention for the election of delegates to the Chicago convention in July. After some discussion May 7th was selected. The place will be the Taylor Opera House in Trenton.

Chairman Young then tendered his resignation. He said his business engagements were such that he could not give the duties of chairman the attention they deserved. The committee was loath to accept the resignation and only did so at the urgent request of Mr. Young.

Messrs. Blodgett, Lindabury and Budd were appointed a committee to select Mr. Young's successor.

The committee spent some time in discussing a suggestion made by Mr. Lindabury that some steps should be taken to bring the county, city and township committees in closer touch with the State Committee. He suggested that some plan be adopted whereby the local executive committees could be elected directly by the people and the heads of the county committee be members of the State Committee.

He said that in his journeys through the State last fall he noticed in many of the counties that there was no relation at all between the local and the State committee, and both were working independent of each other, with anything but satisfactory results. The discussion was purely informal and no definite action was taken on the subject.

There was little if any gossip among the members as to who will be the candidates. It was said that ex-Senator Keys, of Somerset, would try for one place. Mr. Young may be one of them, and even Mr. Blodgett is said not to look unfavorably upon the possibility of representing his State in the National Convention.

Died Suddenly at the State Hospital.

James Watt, aged sixty-six years, who has been confined in the State Hospital at Trenton for the past eighteen years, died very suddenly Saturday evening of apoplexy. His son-in-law, George W. Squires, of Somerset street, brought the body to Plainfield last evening. Mr. Watt was a Scotchman, and was a resident of Somerville for twenty-five years. One daughter, Mrs. G. W. Squires, survives him. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Warren chapel.

A Visiting Minister.

The services at the First Baptist church yesterday were of a special character. Rev. Dr. Chivers, of New York, preached a missionary sermon in the morning, and in the evening the Temple Builders Society had charge of the service, at which time Dr. Chivers preached another forcible and interesting sermon. The Temple Builders frequenntly hold these special meetings, which are very helpful and of much interest.

Probable County Physician.

The next physician of Union county for three years, from present indications will be Freeholder Frank W. Westcott, of Fanwood, who once before held the office.

—Considerable interest was manifested last evening in the evangelistic Rible class which is held regularly in the Y. M. C. A. building every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

Not to be Trifled With.

(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Reynold's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue, T. S. Armstrong Manager.

GOSSIP FROM BERLIN

The Breach Between Germany and England Patched Up.

CHANGE OF FRONT OF NEWSPAPERS

Now Suggested That Italy Modify Her Plan of Campaign in Abyssinia and Make Terms with Menelek.

Berlin, March 16.—Count Goluchowski, Austrian minister of foreign affairs, has returned to Vienna from his visit to Berlin. He took the route by the way of Dresden, where he held a brief conversation with Dr. Schurig, president of the council of ministers of Saxony, and Herr von Seydewitz, Saxony's minister of public instruction, who awaited his arrival at the station. The results of the Austrain foreign minister's mission here have become distinctly visible in the changed tone of the semi-official press in regard to the relations between Germany and England. The cue seems to have been given to deny that any differences have existed between the governments at Berlin and London or else to ignore the fact of there having been any strain in their relations which threatened a definite estrangement of the two countries. The North German Gazette, which, as recently as last Tuesday, accused England of encouraging the French desire for revenge upon Germany and the English newspapers of rejoicing at the prospect of a rupture of the dreibund, now refers to England's active sympathy with Italy, treating the matter from the standpoint of approval of England's course. Still more significant is the fact that the Gazette has not a single word to say suggesting the existence, now or heretofore, of any strain in the relations between England and Germany.

Germany's Change of Front.

Another example of the German change of front is shown in the Weser Zeitung of Bremen, which publishes a Berlin inspired note upon the theme "England Wishes to Maintain Egypt." "It is in the interest of Germany," it observes, "to preverve the balance of power in the Mediterranean, and this can best be done by maintaining the status quo in Egypt. The security of the dreibund would be increased if the naval power of England should reinforce the Italo-Austrian position." Finally the article argues that the interest of the dreibund and England are so mutually independent that no quarrel over the Transvaal ought to be suffered to impel these interests. The semi-official newspapers in Austria-Hungary boasts of the success of Count Goluchowski in achieving a perfect understanding with the German emperor in regard to the relations between the dreibund and England and also upon other questions. The Pesther Lloyd says that the dreibund is safe and has corollary of the friendliness of England.

The Abyssinian Campaign.

As regards the prosecution of the Abyssinian campaign by Italy the Austro-German official view of the matter has undergone a change. Instead of advising a continuance of active operations in Africa until a signal victory shall vindicate the prowess of Italy it is now held that it would be best to limit the scope of Italian occupation in Africa to the triangle formed by Asmara, Keren and Massowah, hold the line to Kassala and make peace with King Menelek. This plan, it is expected here, will be the substance of the opening of communication of the Marquis di Rudini, the new Italian premier, to the Italian chambers upon their assembling this week. The past week has witnessed an incessant round of diplomatic and social festivities. Besides attending the banquets given in honor of Count Goluchowski by the Austrian ambassador and Prince von Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, the emperor gave a dinner in honor of the 64th birthday of Prince Luitpold, regent of Bavaria, and was also present at the wedding of his aide-de-camp, Major Count von Moltke, and dined with the officers of the pioneers and guards.

Disagreed with the Emperor.

Two of the leading aristocratic families of Berlin have bade farewell to Berlin society in consequence of court events which have rendered their contact with the imperial circle uncomfortable, to say the least. The first departure was that of Prince and Princess Frederick of Hohenzollern, who left the Anhalter station for Dresden, enroute for Munich. The platform of the station was crowded with their friends and Princess Reuss and Princess Hohenlohe, on behalf of the social circle of the departing prince and princess, presented them with superb bouquets. An entire compartment of the car in which the prince and princess sat, was filled with floral tokens of esteem. The leave-taking of the couple delayed the starting of the train several minutes. Later in the day a similar scene occurred at the Stettiner station upon the occasion of the departure of Prince and Princess Albert of Sachsen-Altenburg for their new residence, the castle of Kuchelnuss, in Mecklenburg. Bouquets were presented to the departing couple in profusion and the handshakings, embraces and tears gave the leave-taking the appearance of a life-long farewell.

Prince Bismarck's Birthday.

Hamburg, March 16.—Prince Bismarck has consented to receive on his birthday, April 1, the members of the Hamburg National union and deputations from Berlin, Leipsic, Bonn and other places. The ex-chancellor's son-in-law, Count von Rantzau, is authority for the statement that Prince Bismarck is in excellent health.

SHOT BROTHER SOLDIERS.

Terrible Mistake of a Company of Spanish Troops—Many Killed.

Havana, March 16.—An untoward military accident that occurred Saturday night, growing out of a misunderstanding of the reply to a challenge, resulted in the killing of twelve soldiers and the wounding of a number of others. A small band of insurgents had set fire to the cane and buildings on a sugar plantation near Mariano, province of Havana. The smoke attracted the attention of two columns of Spanish troops who were advancing in search of rebels. The column which first arrived on the estate entrenched themselves as a precaution against any sudden attack from the insurgents, who were supposed to be near. The second column, consisting of the San Quintin battalion, arrived at the scene after dark. As they approached the entrenchments of the first colnmn they were hailed by the usual "Alarta" from the picket and reponded by calling out the name of their battalion—San Quintin. The picket, confused by the sudden appearance of the column, misunderstood the reply, taking it from the similarity of sound to be Quintin Bandera, one of the rebel leaders. He at once concluded that the insurgents were moving to attack the column to which he belonged, and without further parley discharged his piece and fell back to the entrenchments, where the report of his rifle caused all the troops to sieze their arms and prepare to repel an attack.

Believed Many Were Killed.

The second column had in the meantime continued to advance, supposing that they had come upon the rebels for whom they were looking. They had not gone far before the first column poured a volley into their ranks. The second column returned the fire and then in response to an order, fixed their bayonets and rushed forward to take the intrenchment by storm. As they went over the intrenchments the first column poured another volley into them and then, when the troops came into close quarters, it was discovered, from the uniforms and flags, that a fatal blunder had been made. It is reported that the losses on both sides in killed and wounded was over thirty, but there is a strong suspicion that they were much larger. The mistake is greatly deplored, and, though it is generally held to have been unavoidable, it is pretty certain that the officers in command of the columns will be court-martialed.

BECAUSE SHE REJECTED HIM.

Thomas Pelkiton Kills Miss Mansell and Himself at Seneca Falls.

Seneca Falls, N. Y., March 16.—A terrible death tragedy occurred yesterday which caused great excitement in this village. Thomas Pelkiton, a coachman, shot Miss Minnie Mansell, a domestic, at the residence of Edward Mynderse, in the northern part of the town. Pelkiton has lately been paying attention to the young woman, who was highly respected, and she refused to receive them from him, as he was considered a disreputable character. Saturday morning she refused to ride in a cutter with him, and since then he had been drinking heavily. Yesterday he went to Mynderse's house and, after shooting Miss Mansell twice in the head, from which she died, blew his own brains out in the barn, situated near the dwelling.

MAY BE REMEDIED.

Roentgen Rays Reveal the Nature of Emperor William's Malformation.

New York, March 16.—A special cable dispatch to a New York paper from London says: The German emperor takes the keenest interest in Prof. Roentgen's discovery. The statement is made that the kaiser has had his left arm photographed by the new process. This arm, as every one knows, is quite useless, and the photograph revealed the nature of the malformation. The photograph has been submitted to eminent surgeons, who say that they believe that a simple operation may give the emperor partial, if not complete, use of his left hand and arm.

Celebrated Its Tenth Anniversary.

Springfield, Mass., March 16.—Hampden lodge 307 of Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen celebrated its tenth anniversary yesterday. The public exercises were held in the Court Square theatre building and addresses were made by ex-representative Henry C. Bliss of West Springfield, grand secretary F. W. Arnold, vice-grand master Charles A. Wilson and grand master Frank Sargent of Peoria, Ill.

Anglo-Egyptian Campaign.

Cairo, March 16.—The transportation of troops who will take part in the Anglo-Egyptain expedition to Dongola will begin on March 20. Lord Cromer, the British diplomatic agent in Egypt, announced yesterday to the Egyptian cabinet that 1,000 British troops to reinforce those already in Egypt would leave on March 18 for Cairo.

Salvation Army Rally.

New York, March 16.—The features of yesterday's all-day rally of the Salvation Army, held at their headquarters, Memorial hall, brought about the conversion of twenty persons and the accession to the army of Francis E. Clark, president of the United Societies of the Christian Endeavor union, who resides in Boston.

Will Probably Be a Total Loss.

Providence, March 16.—The schooner E. Clarissa Allen, from New York, with 172 tons of coal for Newport, ran ashore in a blinding snow storm a mile and three-quarters north of the Point Judith life saving station yesterday, and will probably be a total loss.

CUBAN DEBATE NEARING THE END

Dupont Case Laid Aside To Take Up the Arkansas Compromise Bill—Varied Character of Business Before the House.

Washington, March 16.—It is probable that the week opening to-day will witness the conclusion of Cuban debate in the senate, for Mr. Sherman, in charge of the conference report, has given notice that he intends to press the question to an early vote. Senator Morgan of Alabama, the ex-chairman of the committee, has the floor on the report whenever it is called up. It is not unlikely that he will reply to some of the strictures upon the members of the senate made by Minister de Lome. Others who intend to speak on the subject are Senators Platt of Connecticut, White of California and probably Butler of North Carolina. The chief objection to the conference report is the acceptance by the senate conference of the third clause of the house resolution relating to intervention. This identical proposition was submitted to the senate committee, and after mature deliberation, was rejected. One prominent senator who intends to speak on this subject says that if the senate committee had reported this clause in its own resolutions they would not have received one-third of the vote of the senate. The objection to this clause is so bitter that it is not impossible the report may be sent back to a conference although such a contingency is not seriously expected. One senator who has given the question careful consideration is authority for the statement that the report will be agreed to but that the vote against it will be at least twenty instead of six as against the original proposition.

Dupont Case Laid Aside.

The Dupont case has been temporarily laid aside to take up the senate Arkansas compromise bill agreed to last year by Secretaries Carlisle and Smith on the one side and Gov. Clarke of Arkansas on the other, whereby all indebtedness on the part of each is to be finally settled by the payment by the state of Arkansas to the United States of $572 in money and of one hundred and sixty $1,000 bonds of the state held by the United States. There is much opposition to the bill. Mr. Lodge will speak to-day on the immigration bill reported from his committee. Mr. Pugh of Alabama will address the senate upon the tariff bill, his remarks, it is understood, will relate more to the free coinage of silver than to the tariff. When the consideration of the Dupont case is resumed, Messrs. Gray of Delaware, Chandler, Burrows and George will speak. Mr. Butler of North Carolina will also during the week call up his resolution to prohibit the further issuance of bonds and make a speech thereon. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported Wednesday.

Programme in the House.

The programme of business in the house this week presents a varied character. To-day is committee suspension day, when chairmen of committees may call up measures for passage under suspension of the rules. Among measures thus brought up, it is expected, will be the bill relating to the location of homesteads in Oklahoma, and also two or three other bills approved by the committee on public lands. Chairman Dingley of the committee on ways and means will ask the house to-morrow to take up the bill, reported last week by Mr. Payne, to amend the customs administrative act. He is confident that it can be disposed of in that session. It will be followed by the naval appropriation bill. The debate on this bill will probably extend over several days, and in the course of it some remarks regarding our foreign relations are likely to be made. The report of election committee No. 2, declaring vacant the seat of Charles J. Boatner, dem., from the Fifth Louisiana district, is a privileged question which may be taken up, but the likelihood of reaching it is rather remote.

TO AID THE CUBANS.

An Expedition with Great Quantities of War Munitions Sails.

New York, March 16.—A special from St. Augustine, Fla., says: Loaded with arms and ammunition for the Cuban insurgents the steamer Three Friends has sailed from Jacksonville. The steamer carried 5,000 Remington rifles, 2,000 machetes, 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition, 1,500 pounds of dynamite, two Hotchkiss and two Gattling guns. There were also on board about twenty Cubans, who are said to be members of the most prominent families on the island, and who have been in this country some weeks fitting out the expedition. It is claimed that the Three Friends will not take the munitions and men to Cuba, but will transfer them to the steamer Commodore on the high seas.

FORCED CONVERSIONS

Over 40,000 Christians Compelled No Accept Islamism.

VILLAGERS THE GREATEST SUFFERERS

Orders Received at Harpoot Not To Use Any More Force in Conversions. The Terrible Plight of Women and Girls.

London, March 16.—The United Press correspondent at Constantinople sends the following: Later news from Harpoot show that in that vilayet at least some sort of orders have gone out to discountenance the forced conversions. When the authorities at Harpoot telegraphed to Constantinople for instructions the reply came: "Do not use force to convert." The local governor interpreted the orders liberally, and even announced that every one was to return. In one quarter many had been converted and circumcised, so that they feared to open their church. But the Ulema or religious leaders of the Moslems came in a body and begged them to renew their services to the church. This change, however, is only in the cities and large towns; in the villages and hamlets such orders will have no effect. The Mollahs and petty Mukhtars can easily see to it that no one returns. Only if some one of them is punished will these Mollahs understand that it is dangerous to intimidate. It seems hopeless to talk of punishment for religious oppressors, when countless murderers go unhung. In Itschmah, however, a certain well-known sheik, ten days after the heat of the outbreak, murdered forty persons in cold blood at the door of the church, and surely some recognition should be made of such a crime.

40,000 Forced Converts.

In regard to other murders, the excuse of the government has been that it will be impossible to bring home any single act to any one person. This sheik, however, ten days after quiet was restored, invited all the leading Christians to a conference. Some feared and bid; about sixty, however, assembled in the church, when the door was locked upon them, and then, under the lead of this sheik, the Moslems brought out these men one at a time. Forty refused to accept Islam and were killed. Here is certainly one clear case that ought to be taken up. In January Turkish officials in the country districts of Harpoot and Diarbekr occupied themselves with visiting the villages recently "converted," instructing the people on no account to admit, in case they were asked, that they had been forced to accept Islam. The people were informed that death would be the penalty for complaints of the compulsion used to convert them. There are 15,000 of these forced converts in the province of Harpoot alone, and 40,000 in the whole region devastated by the massacres.

Villages the Greater Sufferers.

Information from various points in the provinces of Sivas, Harpoot, Diarbekr, Bitlis and Van shows that the process of forcing Christians to become Moslems is still in active progress. While Christian worship is allowed to be held in most of the cities and towns in the villages throughout the six provinces of the reform scheme it is in practice prohibited. In twenty-eight villages in the district of Harpoot at last accounts (Jan. 30) there had been no Christian worship held since the first week in November. This abolition of Christian worship among a Christian people is at least connived at by the imperial authorities, for they do nothing to protect the worshippers from the attacks of the Mohammedans, who declare that it shall no more be allowed. The abolition of worship is simply a part of a scheme to abolish Christianity.

A Martyr to His Faith.

The name of the Rev. Hagop Abouhagatian, pastor of the Protestant church at Corfa, in the province of Aleppo, must be added to the long list of Protestant clergymen who have died as martyrs during the recent massacres. He was an able and devoted man, a graduate of a German university (Leipzig). His influence for Evangelical religion in all the region about Corfa was a power which would interfere with the plan to abolish Christianity in that place. So he was murdered on Dec. 29, when the second horrible massacre, this time of over 4,000 Christians, took place at Corfa.

The Degradation of Womanhood.

Another indirect method of destroying the Christian communities in these devastated provinces must now be referred to. The general character of the outrages and the uniformity of its method and the apathy of the officials when appealed to for redress, all give color to the impression that there is a fiendish purpose in the degradation of womanhood among the Christian communities. A systematic debauchery of Christian women is carried on in nearly all the devastated districts. It is as if the Turks wish to make sure that the women, always conservative in matters of religion, shall lose their self respect and the grounds of their religious hope. They therefore seize the Christian women day after day and week after week, and assault them with impunity. For instance, at Tamzara, in the province of Sivas, all the men were killed in the massacres early in November. From a well-to-do Armenian population of 1,500, all that now remain in this village are about 300 starving and half-naked women and children. Trustworthy information from that place, dated Jan. 24, says that the most horrible feature of the situation of these orphaned Armenian girls is that passing Turkish soldiers and Turkish travelers attack and assault them in their homes without hesitation and without restraint.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT.

Serious Trouble Feared in the Kentucky Legislature To-day.

Frankfort, Ky., March 16.—This morning's trains brought in a good sized crowd of visiting politicians of both parties who are here to witness to-day's struggle over the senatorship. It is conceded on all sides that the fifty-second ballot will be a true forecast of the final result and the excitement and suspense over it is painful in the extreme. In addition to the orders which Gov. Bradley has given Sheriff Armstrong for the swearing in of a large force of deputies who are expected to assist in preserving the peace, a detachment of the state militia was ordered out last night and arrived here early this morning. Senator Blackburn spent Sunday in his headquarters surrounded all day by his personal lieutenants. Populist Poor, it is conceded, holds the key to the situation to-day so far as the ballot is concerned.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

An Interesting Report by Charles W. Stone of Pennsylvania.

Washington, March 16.—An interesting report has been made by Charles W. Stone of Pennsylvania in favor of a bill for the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures, which has been for some weeks before the house committee on coinage, weights and measures. The Troy pound of the mint is resorted to as the only source from which to derive the avordupois pound for common use, and yet this Troy pound, while answering the purposes of comparison in the mint, is of uncertain accuracy. The primary standard of length, "the three barley corns, round plump and dry," which make an inch, proves but an indefinite guide. "The size of our quart, gallon, bushel and barrel is elastic or adjustable," the report says, "and depends on commodity to be measured, the place where it is measured, and formerly in Pennsylvania at least, the purpose and persons for whom measured. On the statute books of that state may be found an old law providing that all innkeepers 'shall sell beer and ale by wine measure to all persons as carry the same out of their houses.' Vermont, however, seems to have reached the climax of absurdity when she provides of comparatively recent legislation still in force, that in measuring certain specified commodities 'one bushel and three-quarters of a peck shall be deemed a bushel.'"

GREATER NEW YORK BILL.

To Be Handed Down in the Assembly To-night.

Albany, March 16.—Greater New York will be the next important subject to be finally considered by the legislature. The Lexow consolidation bill has passed the senate and will be handed down in the assembly to-night, and it will then take its regular course, and be substituted for Assemblyman Austin's similar bill, which is on the order of third reading. Speaker Fish says that the bill will pass the assembly with at least 100 votes in the affirmative. There will be but little opposition to the measure except from the Brooklyn members, the speaker says, and the debate upon it will not be an unusually lengthy one. Amendments will be offered similar to those presented to the senate, but after they have been voted down even some of the members who offered them are expected to vote for the bill as it passed the upper house.

AMERICANS WAITING FOR UHL.

Want the New Ambassador To Rent a Desirable Berlin Palace.

Berlin, March 16.—As the Hon. Edwin F. Uhl, the newly appointed ambassador of the United States to Germany will not arrive here before March 22, when the emperor will start for Italy, he will not be able to present his credentials until the end of May, the time of the annual reviews, which the emperor will return in season to attend. It is generally hoped in the American colony here that Mr. Uhl will rent the vacant residence of Prince Stolberg-Wernigerode, in Wilhelmstrasse, which is most adequate in every respect as a residence and altogether more suitable for receptions and other functions pertaining to the social duties of an ambassador than any other house obtainable in Berlin.

LOCATED BY X-RAYS.

A Piece of Glass Removed from a Waterbury Man's Finger.

Waterbury, Conn., March 16.—Marcus Helman, who has been suffering from a badly swollen hand, had Roentgen rays applied by Dr. Wolff and Prof. Robb in Hartford Saturday. He returned home this morning, the experiment having been eminently successful. A piece of glass the size of a pin head was discovered in Mr. Helman's little finger. The hand was exposed to the rays for seventy-five minutes and two negatives were secured. To-day Dr. Wolf, assisted by Dr. O'Hara of Waterbury, will open the finger and remove the glass.

Is She Bound for Cuba?

New York, March 16.—The British steamer Bermuda, which cleared for Santa Martha, U. S. C., on February 23, and was seized on that day and detained by the United States marshal, it being alleged that she was bound on a filibustering expedition to Cuba, and which was cleared for Vera Cruz, and passed out at Sandy Hook yesterday, is, it is said, really bound for Cuba, and will take on a cargo of arms and ammunition for the insurgents at some obscure point on the Atlantic coast.

Ex-Gov. Ireland Dead.

New York, March 16.—John Ireland, ex-governor of Texas and one of the most prominent members of the southern bar, died in San Antonio yesterday after an illness of two weeks.

PLATT ON RAINES BILL

The Republican Leader Defends the New Liquor Measure.

WILL GREATLY RELIEVE TAXPAYERS

Reduces the Number of Saloons and Purifies Those Remaining—Serves in Highest Interest of True Temperance Reform.

New York, March 16.—Ex-senator Thomas C. Platt last night announced his views on the Raines bill and the assaults upon it as follows: "There has been so much persistent and malicious misrepresentation of the Raines bill and so great an amount of wilful misstatement of its provisions and probable effects when it becomes the law of the state, that it is worth while to state a few incontrovertible facts showing the good results which are sure to follow after it has been placed among the statutes. New York has long preserved an uneviable notoriety among her sister states for the number of her saloons. We have staggered along with one drinking place to 150 people, while our more sensible neighbors in other states have made out to exist with only one saloon to 317 people. It is not denied that the places where liquor is sold will be reduced at least 40 per cent., or that between nine and ten thousand saloons will go out of existence at once. Is it necessary to point out the immediate great reduction of poverty and crime which is certain to follow such wise legislation?

Taxpayers Greatly Relieved.

"The bill furnishes instant relief to the taxpayers of the state. Everyone knows how hard it has been for the farmers and small property owners everywhere to get the money to pay their taxes during the past four years of hard times. The state's share of the income from the bill will not be less than $2,750,000, and the share of the different towns and counties will not be less than $5,500,000. There is no nonsense about these cold, methodical facts, and the taxpayers will rejoice at the lifting of their burdens, first by reduced state taxes, and second by lessened local taxation. The hard truth is the measure raises the money to pay one-third of the state's entire expenses every year, and it is believed by those who ought to know that its reduction of local taxes will be nearly the same, thus taking off two-thirds of the burden of the taxpayers in the different localities.

Purifies Politics.

"The bill does as much to take the liquor business out of politics as it is possible for legislation to do. It substitutes one responsible authority which covers the whole state for the hundreds of petty excise boards which have thus far existed. It wipes out forever in New York Tammany Hall's power over the liquor sellers and releases them from its control over their purses. It makes it impossible for any political organization to harass liquor interest and this does more to purify the politics of the great cities and large towns than any measure ever enacted in the state. And it does all this for about $150,000 a year, or much the same amount the board of excise costs New York city alone.

Charities Not Injured.

"It has been charged that the bill takes money from the various charitable institutions. There is not the slightest ground for this impudent falsehood. Charitable institutions do not receive support from moneys received by the excise board of the various cities. A fair example of what will occur under the new law as compared with the old one is furnished by a computation of what will happen in the up-the-state city of Rochester, for instance. Last year Rochester's income from licenses was $105,695. Under the Raines bill she will have 40 per cent. fewer drinking places to be sure, but the places left will pay $255,510 instead of $105,695, and Rochester's two-thirds of $255,510 is $170,340, or $64,647 more than the city obtained last year. How can her charities suffer? Every city and town is in the same situation and it is clear that their charities will be helped and not injured by this wholesome law.

True Temperance Reform.

"It has been charged that this bill is in the interests of the 'dives.' On the contrary, it will be impossible for a dive to exist under its provisions. The Raines bill makes the liquor dealer a self-respecting citizen. So long as he observes the law his vested rights cannot be infringed. It serves the very highest interests of true temperance reform, while it is no sense a sumptuary law. It interferes with no man's eating, and it does not strive to regulate any man's drinking. It is a bill to reduce the amount of poverty and crime throughout the state, and to greatly increase the sum of human happiness."

Tribute To Maryland Veterans.

Washington, March 16.—In reporting favorably upon a bill to aid in the erection of a monument to the memory of Gen. Wm. Smallwood and the soldiers of the Maryland line in the war for American independence, Mr. Cummings, dem., N. Y., from the committee on the library pays a glowing tribute to the services of these Maryland veterans.

New Chinese Cavalry Service.

Berlin, March 16.—German cavalry officers have been engaged to organize a new Chinese cavalry service modeled after the German system.

March is still lionlike.

Attention to most things these days means intention.

Ideas are the factors that lift civilization. They create revolutions. There is more dynamite in an idea than in many bombs.—Bishop Vincent.

The Perrine comet switched off before it struck Mother Earth, but the McKinley boom whisked into New York and brought up against the Morton adjunct with a dull thud that has stirred the political bones. The Ohio man is making a hot canvass.

Senator Hill is not a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, though he puts faith in the old axiom that "all things come to him who waits." The Senator will no doubt support William C. Whitney, with Senator Morrison as a second choice.

Contests will be made in nearly every Congressional district in the State by both Democratic and Republican politicians for the honor of serving as delegates to the National Conventions. It is an honor, however, that is followed up, if not preceded, by a liberal outlay of money.

The Democrats in Rahway are considering the approaching charter election on April 14th. Republicans are also debating what can and should be done to bring about a change in the management of local affairs. The indications are that whichever party puts up the better men will be successful regardless of party affiliations.

The New Jersey editor of The Tribune asserts that the trolley road magnates have a powerful lobby and unlimited purse at Trenton to influence legislation in their favor. writing with reference to Assemblyman Roll's bill, which empowers Boards of Freeholders to grant rights of way, The Tribune injects this ugly jab:

If the trolley companies succeed in their designs on the lawmakers, they can laugh at the united sentiment of a whole town or township, and "work" the Board of Freeholders To pass a law permitting such an outrageous invasion of the principle of home rule would be nothing short of a political crime. The trolley agents are hopeful, however, that in the excitement and hurly-burly of this, the last week of the session, they can smuggle through a bill giving them what they want. They are alert, energetic and resourceful, and it will require the utmost watchfulness to defeat their scheme.

Miss Mary F. Philbrook, who enjoys the distinction of being the first woman in law in the State of New Jersey, is making another important stride for her sex by urging the passage of an act to enable women to become Masters in Chancery, and it is quite probable that she will succeed. If she does, then she will have the powers of any attorney, being in turn not only an attorney at law, but a notary public, commissioner of deeds, and soon to be a master in chancery. In two more years she will present herself for examination as a counselor, and it is probable by that time she will have enacted a law to enable women to sit as Supreme Court Commissioners. Such a law would vest her with certain judicial powers.

FRACTURED HER LEG.

Mrs. Jacob S. Jones Slipped on the Ice and Sustains Serious Injury.

Mrs. Jacob S. Jones, of 123 West Second street, sustained a severe fracture of the left leg just above the ankle this morning about 10 o'clock. She was walking along East Third street, and when she reached the corner of Washington street, her feet slipped on the frozen snow, causing her to fall and fracture her leg. She was carried into Mrs. Waters' house 261 East Third street, and Dr. D. C. Adams, who happened to be across the street, was called. He at once set the broken member and made the patient as comfortable as possible.

As yet they have been unable to take her home. Her husband is ill at his home with pneumonia.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggists handed him a bottle of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St.

"I have used Cleveland's Baking Powder with entire satisfaction in the preparation of breads, biscuits and cakes." JULIET CORSON, Founder of New York Cooking School.

Here is Good News for Men Suffering From Nervous Debility Weakened Powers and Exhausted Vigor.

Weak men suffering from nervous debility, weakened power and exhausted vigor, can now take new hope. Here is something which will powerfully interest them. It is a fact that until now sufferers have been debarred from seeking a cure by the great specialists in these complaints owing to the cost of travel to the large cities and the high fees charged by these eminent physicians.

Here, therefore, is a chance for weak men in our community which should not be lost. Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St, New York City, who has the largest practice in the world and who is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing this class of diseases, offers to give free consultation by mail to all weakened, vigorless and nerve-exhausted men. You have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene by letter describing your complaint and he will, after carefully considering your condition, send you a letter fully explaining all your symptoms, telling you everything about your complaint so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails you. He will also give you his advice, based upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating and curing such cases, as to just what to do to get cured. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best known physician and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The Doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and he has discovered many other most valuable special remedies. Write to him now, for this is a chance of a lifetime to get cured which you may never have again.

SPORTS

WHIST.

The Park club whist four has again demonstrated their superiorityas scientific players against the best teams in New Jersey. The contests for the State trophy of the New Jersev Whist Association ended at Jersey City Saturday night with the Plainfield players in the lead. In the games Friday night, the Parks beat the Newarks by three points and the New Jersey Athletic club beat the Ridgewood team by seven points. This left the Parks and the New Jerseys to play off the finals, which was done Saturday night and the parks won by six points. The cup was put up at the first congress last year and was won by the Park club. It will become the property of the club when won at three congresses, or when won ten times in competitions as the holder is subject to challenges. In the contest for progressive fours, the second team of the Park club met the team of the Elizabeth Whist and Chess club and were tied, each side winning eight games. The honors were awarded to the Elizabeth team, as they had taken 287 tricks to 286. The senior team, who won the State trophy, is composed of Messrs. Rogers, McCutchen, Howell and Townsend. The second team is Charles and H. P. Reed, Peter Matthews and Charles Lyman. The trophy is a challengable one and the next contest for it will take place sometime in April. In addition to the trophy, each member of the winning team was presented with an individual prize in the form of a silver pocket match safe, suitably inscribed.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The New York Division, L. A. W., is to issue its new road book, "Fifty Miles Around New York," shortly. Advance sheets of the map show clearly all roads and other desirable data for short trips hereabouts. A copy of the book will be given to each member of the division.

There are very few among the cycling fraternity of Plainfield that do not remember A. M. Franklin, who spent last summer in this city. Last Monday, Mr. Franklin opened a bicycle store in Brooklyn, as an agent for the Cleveland wheel, and has met with remarkable success. He had charge of the Cleveland exhibit at the Brooklyn cycle show that closed Saturday.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Plainfield visitors at the Sportsmen's Exposition at Madison Square Garden this week, will see the familiar faces of Clarence E. Teel and T. H. Kellar at spaces 71 and 73, which will be occupied by the exhibit of W. Fred Quinley, agent for the Hunter Arms Company. Their Plainfield friends are invited to make this exhibit their headquarters during their stay at the exposition.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Potter and Scott bowling teams will roll a game on the Manhattan alleys next Friday.

On Thursday evening the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. bowling team will roll a game with the Westfield Y. M. C. A. team at the latter place.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. football team are planning to play the winners in the basket ball game between the regular Y. M. C. A. team and the team from the business men's class, which will probably be played some day this week.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

The Sportsmen's Game and Fish Protective and Propagative Society will meet on March 20th.

—Residents of Westervelt avenue are complaining about the condition of some of the walks which have not been cleaned off.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Just Elected President of the Daughters of the Revolution.

Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, the wife of Vice-President Stevenson, who has just been elected president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is fitted in every way for the signal honor that has been conferred upon her by her patriotic friends. The Daughters of the American Revolution was organized in Washington in 1890, and has a membership of 10,000 in 42 states. It is one of the most important women's patriotic societies in the country. Its conditions of eligibility to membership are as follows: "Any woman may be eligible for membership who is of the age of 18 years and who is descended from an ancestor who with unfailing loyality rendered material aid to the cause of independence as a recognized patriot, as a soldier or sailor, or as civil officer in one of the colonies or states or of the united colonies or states," provided the applicant be otherwise acceptable to the society. Mrs. Stevenson was married to Mr. Stevenson in 1866. She was Miss Letitia Green, of Danville, Ky., the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, who was the president of Center college, in Danville. At that time this was the principal educational institution in the state, and turned out such good men as T. W. Crittenden, John Young Brown and Senator Blackburn. Adlai E. Stevenson, then a young man in McLean county, Ill., decided he would go to Danville for his education, and at a reception in the house of President Green he met his future wife. Two years later Dr. Green died, and Miss Letitia came up to McLean county to live with a sister who had married Matthew T. Scott, and the acquaintanceship began in Kentucky was continued in Illinois, and resulted in marriage. Mr. Stevenson had won a prize, for his wife not only brought him great beauty and a sweet disposition, but a head that has helped him consistently through hard work to the very high position he now occupies. Mrs. Stevenson is one of the most popular women in Washington society, and new honors will add little to the high esteem in which she is already held.

WILL REMAIN LOYAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballington Booth Decline to Lead an Insurrection.

Ballington Booth and his wife have retired from the command of the Salvation army in America. Eva Booth has been placed in command temporarily. Mr. and Mrs. Booth accepted their dismissal very quietly. They were asked if they would go to England or remain in America. "We will remain here," said the ex-commander. "We are American citizens, our children are Americans, and we do not intend to go to England."

The New York World says that Ballington Booth was offered the leadership of an independent American Salvation Army. The brigadiers, adjutants and majors whom he had created in all parts of the country besought him to become their general. Ballington Booth retired for a short time to his private quarters, accompanied by his wife, who has been by his side during all the exciting scenes. They locked the door. They knelt down and prayed for strength. The emissaries came again with their tempting offer. He met them calmly and firmly. He listened to their address, the pictured glories of future independence and great results for the cause of religion.

"It cannot be," he said. "I thank you, dear friends, for the honor you have tendered me, the confidence and the trust you have shown me, but I must decline. Mrs. Booth and I will quietly retire from the army in which we have labored so long. Good-by and God's blessing rest upon you!"

Unquestionably a decided anti-English feeling has strongly manifested itself in the ranks of the Salvation Army.

It is claimed by many salvationists that if the commissioned officers of the army in America should decide to rebel against English domination, and summon to lead an American Salvation Army Ballington Booth and his wife, they will willingly respond.

Americans Pay Big Taxes.

The people of the United States pay more taxes than the people of any other nation on the globe.

REGISTERED MAIL.

Many Clerks Handle and Verify Each Package.

In the New York post office, when a letter is presented for registration it is inspected by the receiving clerk to ascertain whether it is in good condition, firmly sealed, properly addressed and sufficiently prepaid, and that the name of the sender has been indorsed on it. These requirements being met, the clerk records the letter in a book composed of alternate thin and thick leaves, a manifold copy of the entry being obtained by means of a sheet of carbon paper placed between the two.

The thin sheets are perforated in oblong sections for ready separation, and constitute the receipts issued to the public. Each receipt bears a distinct number in a series running from one to one hundred thousand, and every letter registered has the number of the receipt issued for it indorsed on its face.

The condition of the letter envelope is now inspected by another clerk, and if perfect, the imprint of a hand stamp is impressed across the edge of the flap to betray any tampering.

These preliminaries being completed, a card known as the return receipt is prepared and attached to the letter by means of a rubber band. On one side of the card appear the number, date of mailing, name of addressee, and destination of the letter; on the other, the name and full address of the sender, to whom the receipted card will be returned when the letter has been delivered.

In its numerical order the letter passes to a separating clerk, and with 99 others, composing an even 100, is distributed to one of the six cases, where it will be further treated. The separating clerk verifies the count of each 100 letters before separating another 100, and, as frequently as may be necessary, delivers each subdivision to the clerks in charge of the cases.

A case consists of a long table with a set of pigeon holes bearing the names of the large cities in the section of the country assigned to that case, and in these pigeon holes the clerk in charge boxes the letters, and from time to time parcels them out to his assistants.

The next step is the preparation of what is known as a registered package envelope. This consists of an ingeniously contrived envelope specially manufactured out of particularly tough paper for the use to which it is put, and also numbered in a series of 100,000.

On the face of each envelope appears its number and spaces for the name of the post office, county and state to which it will be sent, while the back is arranged for notations of its condition by every postal official through whose hands it subsequently passes. One of these envelopes having been addressed, entry of the letter to be inclosed in it is made on a registry bill, which shows the date of mailing, name of the post office using it, name of the post office to which it will be sent, number of the registered package envelope, and, finally, the registered number of the letter to be placed in it and the name of its addressee.

The bill and the letter are placed in this envelope, which then passes to a clerk, who removes its contents, compares the letter with the entry on the bill, and calls the registered letter and registered package envelope numbers, together with their destination, to an assistant, who records these particulars in the mailing book. The letter and bill are now replaced in the envelope, and it passes to another clerk for final verification of contents and sealing.

The sealing consists in an application of blue mucilage to the three flaps of the envelope, which when once closed cannot be reopened without mutilations, the blue mucilage exposing any attempt to open the envelope by any steaming process. The postmark showing the mailing office and the date is now affixed, and the envelope, with a lot of others from the same case, goes to the pouch room, where another separation is necessary in order that it may get to the registered pouch that will carry it to the distributing office nearest its final destination.

The contents of the registered package envelope can now only be ascertained by reference to the registered letter numbers charged against the envelope number in the mailing book, or the more full description of the letters on the registry bill, which is under seal, and, therefore, inaccessible.

The registered package envelope is entered by origin, number and destination on the book of the pouch in which it is to be dispatched, a carbon manifold record of the package inclosed in each pouch being preserved, the duplicate sheet of each pouch forming the bill of advice to the office to which the pouch is sent.

When as many packages as the pouch will hold have been entered on the proper book two clerks verify the entries, sign the last sheet of the bill, place it with the packages in the pouch, adjust the strap that secures it and finally attach that mechanical wonder called a rotary lock. This lock has a fixed serial number engraved on its side, which serves to identify it, and a rotary number, which unerringly advances one every time the lock is opened.

The pouch is then delivered to a railway postal clerk, who receipts for it by lock and rotary numbers, and it remains under constant guard until its destination is reached. Keys that open the rotary locks are issued only to post offices exchanging registered pouches, and a careful comparison of the rotary number of the lock with its entry on the pouch bill is the first duty of the clerks opening a registered pouch.

Any discrepancy between the rotary number advised on the bill and that shown by the lock received would indicate an irregularity to be at once investigated. At every transfer from one clerk to another of a registered letter, registered package envelope or registered pouch a receipt is taken, and by these means no difficulty is experienced in tracing a letter from the time it is first mailed until delivered to its addressee.

These rotary locks cost $15 each, and when the number 999 is turned they must be returned to the makers for readjustment.—Business.

The Pace That Kills.

"Every time I come to the United States," said Mr. Hugh Jamison, of London, England, "I find fresh cause for astonishment in the marvelous energy of the Yankee nation. It seems to me that the people work on this side for the sake of work, they appear to regard it not as a means to an end, but the end itself. This universal rush and hurry impresses itself very forcibly on Europeans. Some years ago I was visiting a friend in Russia, which is a very quiet country indeed, and, the conversation turning on London, some one remarked upon the unceasing activity and press in the British capital, and how the people hurried along the street during the busy hours of the day. An old Russian thereupon, with a grave shake of his head, observed that he had been in London once, and that nearly all its citizens were mad. I wonder what this old gentleman would have thought if he had ever made a pilgrimage to Chicago? Now, it is questionable in my mind whether this traffic pace is a healthy thing for a people. Isn't it the pace that kills? Why not leave something for succeeding generations to do? Your rich men, instead of settling on big country estates and helping to improve the rural districts, seem to all cluster in the cities, and to continue adding to their fortunes. The mania for work, for active endeavor, seems never to leave them, and their children inherit the same tendencies."—Washington Post.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of Calfornia, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

WATER SUPPLY CO.,

Incorporated 1869.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. NOSES OF FAMOUS WOMEN.

Characteristics Indicated by Their Various Humps and Depressions.

Lost, Strayed, Stolen Noses—They Hobnob with Eyes and Mouth of Opposite Significance—The Intellectual and the Aristocratic Nose.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

It is astonishing how seldom the contour of the nose, its beauty or meaning, enters into the criticism of a face. Women are nervously anxious that their eyes should be large and bright, their mouths small and a true cupid's bow. They mourn over the possession of "uninteresting" hair and prefer that their ears should end in pretty pear-shaped lobes rather than be fastened close to the head, in what Lombroso designates as "criminal fashion;" but beyond the mere fact that a nose is useful to complete the outline of a profile, it has little interest for them.

Yet it is really the most tell-tale feature of the face and actually a far more important index to character than either the eyes or lips.

It is not an invariable guide, to be sure; but something of its close relation to the brain can be gathered from the fact that it broadens or sharpens according to the strength or weakness of the lungs and thereby indicates the power of the physical system to supply nutrition to the brain.

What could be a truer index to a character than a splendid, well-proportioned nose of the "Divine Sarah?" It is the nose of a diplomat, a statesman, in fact. It shows the power of concentration; of will power potent enough to cut a swath through the strongest opposing influences. It is a nose greatly resembling that of William Pitt, the English orator, and expresses the same individuality and intensity of purpose; always intensity of purpose with Sarah Bernhardt—whether for good or evil.

1. Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller.
2. Beatrice Harraden.
3. Rosa Bonheur.
4. Maud Howe Elliott.
5. Margaret Bottome.
6. Sarah Bernhardt.
7. Queen Victoria.
8. George Eliot.
9. Florence Hollister Dangerfield.
10. Lily Devereaux Blake.
11. Mrs. Oliver P. Belmont.
12. Hetty Green

This nose also expresses the same keen insight into varying human emotion that is noticeable in any portrait of Pitt. It is this power that enables a great statesman to penetrate the policy of another nation and be ready for action, and qualifies a great actress to delve into the motives that actuate human existence and show them again to the public with unvarying accuracy.

Mrs. Oliver P. Belmont has a nose of an entirely different type. A shorter nose, less sharp in outline, displaying a slight tendency towards the retrousse order. It is straight and long enough, however, to show force of character and a determination to succeed in any undertaking, especially if opposed. Yet the upward finish of the nose would indicate a liking to succeed in spite of the world, rather than with its help.

Her ability to accomplish her wishes would be rather the result of self-will, the disposition that cannot brook interference, than that strength of purpose that leads men and women to do heroic deeds for others. The narrowness of the upper nose would give the impression that Mrs. Belmont would find it difficult to put herself in another's place; would see things from her own standpoint or not at all.

Beatrice Harraden has the well developed nose of a thinking person; yet not of the person who thinks cheerful thoughts. There is a distinct tendency to melancholy and a lack of ambition. Determination is not wanting, but it would need rousing by a sense of duty. She would dare a good deal for a principle, but not much for self. The nose reveals earnestness that might easily be excited into morbidness. There is no indication of sufficiency, rather of sensitiveness that anticipates disappointment in any undertaking. Beatrice Harraden's nose would indicate that she wrote her quaintly delicate stories from love of writing, without a thought of the public or publisher's checks.

Mrs. Lily Devereux Blake has essentially a warrior's nose, a nose strongly developed between the eyes and formed with the "Wellington hump" seen in the noses of men like Napoleon I., Nelson and Cardinal Newman.

In Rosa Bonheur's nose is seen that remarkable breadth between the eyes so noticeable in the artistic temperament, as in the faces of Beethoven and Goethe. It indicates a love of color and of sound, whether in music or languages—the nose of a woman who would not like to be pinned down to a "stupid fact," but would find imagination a more interesting guide than logic.

Mrs. Margaret Bottome, lecturer, organizer and a "friend of the friendless," has a nose which reveals the strong points in her character, as even an autobiographical sketch might fail to. It is a nose that reminds you of Milton, Dante, and even—but breathe it gently—of Voltaire. It tells of enormous concentration of purpose; of originality of thought; of self-sacrifice to a principle; of slight pessimistical tendencies, overcome by a natural inclination towards religion and its uplifting power; and of that executive ability that would marshal hosts and lead them on to victory.

England's much-loved queen has a most classic nose, calm and peaceful, as are all her features; a nose that would incline to arbitration rather than warfare. There is too much family affection indicated in the clean-cut proportions to leave room for pugilistic tendencies. It is the nose of a noble woman, capable of heroism, yet domestic at heart. A woman whose emotions are well under control and whose judgment is under fine cultivation.

Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller, with her strong, forceful face, has a nose indicating unusual intellectuality. It is the nose of an introspective person, one accustomed to thinking steadily, patiently and profoundly; rather a philosophical nose, showing a character not easily disturbed, not desirous of change, but just and true when once awakened.

Miss Florence Dangerfield, the successful young New York lawyer, shows no little of the tenacity of purpose and "stick-to-a-tiveness" that has dominated her professional career from the beginning, in the formation of her nose, which indicates a disposition at once self-reliant and incapable of recognizing defeat. Her nose, straight, well-set and rather large, would show an unusual power of following directly along a prescribed path. She would not be easily side-tracked by the opposing counsel and would plead her cause until she convinced, or exhausted, her jury.

Mrs. Maud Howe Eliot, the novelist, social leader and popular chaperon of wealthy debutantes, has a most distinguished nose, a nose that can, as it were, look back upon generations of culture. It is a nose that shows at a glance a pride of birth and ancestry, an appreciation of self that is scarcely conceit, and a powerful ambition to stand at the head, accompanied by a firm belief that such a stand could be made with grace and dignity.

George Eliot has the massive, somewhat roughly finished nose rarely seen except on the faces of men and women of marked strength and individuality of character. It is as strong and rudely modeled as Gladstone's nose, and yet has the length, and wide, open nostrils of Nelson's, which peculiarity indicates great strength of purpose, whether in love or war.

The peculiarities which have of late years distinguished the public career of Mrs. Hetty Green were all clearly foretold in the remarkable shape of her nose as a young woman. A glance at a profile portrait taken when she was 26 years old reveals to the practiced eye the possession of the very characteristics which have since made her name famous throughout the United States. It is a nose both warlike and timid; it shows a love for fighting's sake, and yet in the compressed nostrils there lurks a suggestion—not exactly of fear, but certainly of apprehension, a desire to be on the safe side. She would probably have enlisted in the war had she been a man; but she never would have been a great general. The fearlessness that creates and originates is but intimated in the close-pressed lower nose.

She would be more tenacious of an iden than of a principle and willing to fight to have her own way. Strange to say, her nose rather resembles that of Mozart, the musician, in whose profile the desire to excel and the desire to acquire are both strongly marked.

AT A LEAP-YEAR BALL.

He Was Only a Timid Flattering Thing, and He Knew It.

The "new man" made his initial bow and was launched on the restless social sea with all the pomp and ceremony worthy of such a truly great event. "Gladys'" as he is known among his friends, was taken to a leap year party and behaved just "too lovely for anything," or so the women said, at any rate.

This is a true story.

His escort called at 8.30 and was kept waiting a half hour in true feminine fashion by Gladys, who was putting the finishing touches to his toilet. Finally, just as his escort began to fret and fume under the delay, the tardy young man tripped lightly down the stairs into the drawing-room, exclaiming: "Oh, Miss Sorosis! I am afraid you will think I am an awful man to keep you waiting so long, won't you? It was dreadfully stupid of me, I am sure, and I am awfully sorry, really. Mamma mislaid my side combs, don't you know, and we have had such an exciting time hunting for them that I was in a terrible state of excitement when you rang. Mamma says I am a silly little goose to get agitated over such a small matter, but then I don't care—I know I shall outgrow it when I am older. (Gladys has been on speaking terms with Santa Claus for 35 years.) How do you like my new gown—don't you think it is just too sweet for anything?" gushed Gladys.

When his escort had gone into ecstasies over the bewildering display, the little man coyly remarked: "Oh, you girls are such fearful fibbers we poor men scarcely know how much to believe of what you tell us. You think we consider seriously all the nonsense you tell us—now don't you, honor bright? Well, I want to tell you we don't, so there, now. Oh, you naughty, naughty girls! But then I don't blame you—we men are so silly, aren't we? How thoughtful you were to send me these lovely flowers. I do so adore orchids. Do you know, papa thinks it a shameful waste to squander so much money on flowers for us men, and thinks it would be much more sensible to put the sum in the Homestead Aid association, where it would accumulate interest. Papa, you know, spent his early days on a farm and wasn't reared to the little niceties of social life. But then he is such a dear kind old soul, and keeps me so well supplied with pin money that I can't bear the thought of openly disagreeing with him. Poor, dear papa! I really don't know what I would do without him—I don't think the woman lives that I would marry and leave my papa. (Gladys starts for the carriage and gets as far as the door, when he calls out in alarm.) Oh, mamma, where is my fan and the door key? I am so thoroughly excited I nearly forgot them." (These necessary articles are produced. Gladys cuddles confidingly up to his escort in the carriage, and the party is fairly off for the party.)

Arriving at the ball Gladys devoted 15 minutes to rearranging his hair, and was ready to go downstairs at a quarter before ten.—Utica Observer.

A PRETTY MOUNTAIN MAID.

A Member of the House Thought She Was Trying to Bluff Him.

A somewhat gay and gallant member of the house, unusually handsome, even for a member, was telling to a small group of listeners, of which a Star reporter was one, some of his campaign experiences.

"On one trip in the mountains," he said, after narrating several good ones, "I was riding along a road up a picturesque valley with my campaign companion, when we met a buxom, pink-cheeked, good-looking country girl on foot. As I spoke to her after the custom of the country, she stopped us.

"'Have you seed anything of a red-headed, freckled-faced feller down the crick?' she inquired.

"'We have met three or four men in the last hour,' I replied, 'and one of them was red-headed. How old was he?'

"''Bout my age, I reckon.'

"'So young as that?' I asked with all my courtliness.

"'That ain't so powerful young,' she said, without the slightest apparent comprehension of my compliment. 'He's 21 and so'm I.'

"'The man we met with the red head was twice that old. He couldn't have been the one you were looking for, could he?'

"'I reckon not. The man I'm lookin' fer and me wuz to git married yistiddy, an' when the time come he wazn't thar. I'ap started up the road fer him with a gun this mornin' an' I come this way.'

"This made it interesting, and I at once felt it to be my duty to offer my assistance.

"'Tell me his name,' I said, 'and I'll make inquiries along the road.'

"'Sim Johnson, and I'd give a ten-acre farm to git holt uv him.'

"Her anger heightened her color, and put such a brightness in her eyes that she was positively handsome, and I just couldn't help trying another delicate compliment on her.

"'You must excuse me,' I smiled and bowed, and sent forth my softest glances, 'but with such a pretty girl as you are after me, I'd like to be Sim Johnson.'

"This time it was a ten-strike.

"'Wall,' she responded, as she looked me over critically, not to say admiringly; 'I hain't no objections.'

"It was the only time I ever laid down before a bluff," concluded the member, "but that one knocked me flat, and I never did know how I got away."—Washington Star.

FAILED TO CLEAN THEIR WALKS.

Street Commissioner Meeker Enters Complaint Against Many Property Owners.

Street Commissioner Meeker has begun a crusade against the property owners who do not clean off their sidewalks and gutters according to the city ordinance, which gives them four hours after the first sunrise following the storm, in which to remove the snow, slush or ice. The fine for such an offense according to the ordinance shall not be more than $5. The same ordinance also gives the Street Commissioner authority, twenty-four hours after the storm, to have the sidewalks cleaned at the expense of the property owners.

Thursday's storm left about four inches of snow on the sidewalks. In most cases it was cleaned off soon after it fell, but in front of some vacant lots and empty houses it was allowed to remain. Some residents also forgot about the ordinance and neglected to clean off the snow.

Street Commissioner Meeker has been on the lookout and this noon filed complaints against twenty-five residents of the city.

Shot a Winged Chicken Thief.

Dennis Gavin shot a large chicken hawk in the rear of his place on Greenbrook road a few days ago. The hawk measured three feet six inches from tip to tip. Mr. Gavin first saw the bird when it was attempting to carry off one of his chickens. The fowl was a large one and the hawk was forced to come to the ground, giving the indignant owner of the chicken a chance to give the intruder a taste of cold lead. Frank Hedden is now having the hawk stuffed and will add it to his collection.

THEATRICAL.

At Music Hall Wednesday night William Calders' excellent company will present the spectacular melodrama, "The Span of Life," which is one of the great melodramatic successes of the day, and is now playing in five countries, America, England, France, Germany and Holland. It is full of interest and abounds in powerful scenes, excellent sentiment, and thrilling situations and the plot fully enlists the sympathy of everyone. It contains matter enough to fill a whole volume of romance and poetry.

Mr. Martine a Prominent Speaker.

The first dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, which will be held in Queens hall, Elizabeth, tomorrow night, promises to be a brillrant affair. Money in Dreams.

Here is "a strange true tale," with the scene in Georgia, near the flourishing town of Covington: A few years ago a negro woman living near Covington lost a son, by death. A week or so ago the woman had a dream in which the son appeared to her and told her that if she would go to a certain corner of the house and dig she would find a flat rock, underneath which she would find a lot of silver money. The woman awoke and was so much wrought up over the vision that she aroused some of the family and went at once to the designated spot and began to dig. Soon the flat rock was reached and removed with trembling hands and high expectation. A small box was revealed; this was taken out and opened, and, to the wonder and astonishment of all present, it contained 30 silver dollars.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Jewish Wedding Feast.

There were a great many people coming and going that day at the house of the wise Rabbi Isaac Ben Nassur. They were not all Cana people, by any means. The bridal feast was spread in the large front room opening upon the porch, and all who had a right to enter were welcomed heartily. Food was plentifuily provided, but the merriest hour of each day would be after sunset, when, the day's work being done, all the invited guests would come. The bridegroom was continually present, to receive congratulations and good wishes. With him were several young men of his more intimate friends; but decidedly the most important figure in that room was Isaac himself. As master of the house and as ruler of the feast, he sat at the head of the long table provided for the occasion. His dress was as simple as ever, but it seemed to have undergone a change, he wore it with so grand an air. He appeared to be happy, and he received great respect from the throng of people who came to congratulate him upon the marriage of his son. So the marriage feast went on until the midday was past and the shadows began to lengthen in the streets of Cana. —W. O. Stoddard, in St. Nicholas.

FESTIVAL OF HOLIDAYS.

THEY ARE ALL REPRESENTED BY PRETTILY DECORATED BOOTHS.

The Festival is Given in the Sunday-school Rooms of the First Baptist Church By the Young Ladies Society.

All the holidays that are observed through this great land of ours were represented at the "Festival Days" that opened last evening in the Sunday-school rooms of the First Baptist church, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the church.

To the visitor that had braved the storm the room was a great contrast to the outer darkness from whence he came. Charming young women in pretty costumes, bright decorations and the warming rays of the many red-shaded lamps all appeared before the new-comer like a dream.

New Year's Day was recalled to the visitor by a charming tea room in which Mrs. Will Chapman, Miss Margaret Harold, Miss Ella Serrell and Mrs. George Chapman served cups of that pleasing beverage to all who entered.

A booth, decorated with red bunting, little red hearts and evergreen trimmings, was easy to distinguish as belonging to St. Valentine. Stationery, perfumery and the like were on sale, while Miss Grace Yerkes, Mrs. Warren Randolph, Jr., and Miss May Hull remained in charge.

The birthday of our first President was remembered by an old-fashioned booth where linen goods were sold. Pictures of George and Martha Washington adorned the walls and old style furniture and bric-a-brac added to the antique effect. Mrs. Harold Serrell was "Martha Washington" in a gown of a style a century old, while Miss Ida Yerkes acted as chairman of the committee in charge which consisted of Mrs. George Batchellor, Miss Lizzie Manning, Mrs. Fred Slater, Miss Laura Runyon and Mrs. Andrew Manning.

Miss Edna Smith, assisted by several of her friends, presided over a lemonade well decorated in green in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Each of the aides wore a green sash over their white dress.

One of the most tasteful of all the booths was a bower of white, with sprigs of evergreen arranged so as to give a very pretty effect. The Easter cards and ornaments that were to be be seen there told very plainly the holiday it represented. Easter lilies formed part of the decoration and were for sale as were also fresh eggs and egg dyes. Miss Hatttie Shreve, Miss May Shreve and Miss Elizabeth Hull were the committee at this booth.

An oblong enclosure with a railing around it, artistically draped with small American flags, was filled with palms, ferns and other potted plants, and was named after Decoration Day. Easy chairs, rugs and the like gave it the appearance of a parlor, and here Miss Susie Woodland, Miss Alice Needham, Miss Bertha Needham and Miss Nora Williams sold flowers to all who wished to buy.

A fair or festival without candy and ice cream would be like "Hamlet" with "Hamlet" left out and, in this case, the Fourth of July was supposed to be the correct time for those delicacies. One end of the room was devoted to this National holiday. A small candy booth, decorated with red and white bunting and tennis apparatus, occupied part of the space while the tables at which the frozen cream was served filled the rest. The waitresses were all similarly gowned in red and white tennis costumes and presented a pretty appearance as they flitted about the charmingly decorated room. Mrs. Frank Jones was in charge of this "Holiday" and was assisted by Mrs. Budd Vail, Mrs. M. S. Simpson, Miss Minnie Smalley, Miss Lena Smalley, Miss Lewis, Miss Belle Lewis, Miss Hattie Lewis, Miss May McLaughlin and Miss Jessie Coddington.

Useful articles were sold at the Labor day booth which presented a very appropriate appearance. This booth was looked after by Miss Emily Coriell, Mrs. King, Miss Fannie Gardner, Miss Bertha Thorn and Miss Mary Thorn. Miss Ethel King, as "Dame Durden," persuaded her friends to buy cookbooks.

The most novel and up-to-date of all, however, was the election day representation. It was very simple in appearance, looking something like a modern voting place. Here, Miss Lulu French, as the "New Woman," presided in bicycle costume. A sign on one of the walls of the polls informed all that for five cents the reader could vote for his or her favorite wheel, doctor, lady, booth, man or singer.

Thanksgiving and its famous dinners were of course remembered, and under this welcome holiday, the re-

MORNING OF RUNAWAYS.

Three Different People Have Exciting Times With Their Steeds.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Vail, of La-Grande avenue, were out sleighing this morning and in turning from Watchung avenue into East Front street the sleigh upset and threw them out into a snow bank. The horse struck his foot against the sleigh which frightened him and he started to run. Mr. Vail gave chase and caught the horse near Westervelt avenue where the animal fell down. Mrs. Vail was assisted to Leggett's pharmacy where it was learned that she had escaped with a slight abrasion of the skin above the left eye. Proper treatment was given and when Mr. Vail returned she was able to accompany him home. There was no other damage.

A runaway occured on East Front street this morning. A man in a cutter turned out for an electric car when the horse became frightened and upset the occupant of the sleigh into a snowdrift. The horse then started in the direction of Scotch Plains, but was finally caught on East Front street. The sleigh and harness were somewhat damaged.

The horse attached to Dennis Gavin's milk sleigh started to run away on Park avenue near Front street this morning. W. J. Hartpence, of the United States Expsess Company, stopped the horse before he went far.

A QUIET WEDDING.

The German Lutheran Church the Scene of a Marriage Last Night.

A quiet wedding took place in the German Lutheran church on Grove street last evening, when George W. Springer, of Pennsylvania, and Miss Agnes Eicke, of Brooklyn, were united in wedlock. Rev. E. Kionka performed the ceremony. John Wedemeyer acted as best man; Mrs. John Wedemeyer was the bridemaid. Richard Menzel played the organ. The bride and the bridemaid were both gowned in white silk.

After the wedding the newly-married couple and their friends went to the house where Mr. Springer boards on Central avenue, where the wedding dinner was served.

A Train of Misfortune.

There is an old saying that misfortunes never come singly and so it seems in the case of Boice, Runyon & Co. Yesterday, besides having their skylight to their large shed fall in, one of their horses attached to a coal wagon and driven by John Cox, slipped on the ice and fell, breaking the harness. William Young, a driver for the same firm, also came to grief. He stepped on the wheel of his wagon while the wagon was standing on the scales and slipped. He was thrown head first through one of the windows of the office and landed in a heap on the floor. He was not seriously injured however.

Gilbert S. Moffett's Son Dead.

Elmore M., the oldest son of Gilbert S. Moffett, died at the home of his parents in Flemington Sunday morning from consumption. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from his late home. This is the second son that Mr. Moffett has lost from this disease. Mr. Moffett was formerly a resident of this city, and has been in the employ of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for a number of years and is the baggagemaster on the express train leaving here in the morning at 7:58. His many friends in this city will regret to learn of his affliction.

Will Have Lots of Hearers.

Ballington Booth, Commander of God's American Volunteers, will address the Plainfield Post and their friends at Stillman Music Hall, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The commander will present to the post a national flag and also the colors of the new movement. He will be assisted by Major Glenn, Adjutant Hartwright and other staff officers.

Hibernians Dance Tonight.

The Hibernians will dance this evening away in the Gesang and Turn Verein Hall. The events of this society are always enjoyable ones, and this one will doubtless be of the same kind. O'Rielly will furnish the music.

MAYOR HEGEMAN'S SAY.

MAKES OBSERVATIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE BOROUGH.

He Says That He Will Soon Appoint a Special Committee to Look Into and Report About a Sewerage System.

The following is the annual message of Mayor Hegeman to the Borough Council:

To the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield:

Gentlemen:—At this time, the beginning of the Council year, I would call to your attention various matters of interest to you all, as pertaining to the welfare and progress of the borough.

During the past year the work done by the Council through its several committees has been of a very gratifying nature, especially is this so in the progress made in the direction of good sidewalks, there having been laid during the year over twelve thousand feet of stone walk on the streets and avenues of the borough, only a very small amount of this was laid by the authorities, as our citizens responded promptly when called upon to make these improvements. Our roads have had careful attention given them, and they are generally speaking in good order, with the exception of some of the macadamized streets which are in need of top dressing to bring them up to the high standard which we wish them to maintain. The macadamizing of Harrison street should be completed just as soon as the condition of the ground will permit. Greenbrook road from Grove to Somerset streets should be permanently paved, as it is the outlet from a populous portion of the borough, and its present condition is very bad.

The project of opening Watchung avenue, which I brought to the attention of the last Council, has been so far carried out that the Commissioners who were selected to handle the awarding of damages have so far prosecuted their work that they are about ready to report to your Honorable Body, and I would urge that you make every possible effort to push this most desirable improvement to a speedy and successful termination.

It has not seemed expedient for us during the past year to take any active steps toward the immediate introduction of a sewerage system, but let me impress upon you all the vital importance of this subject in its bearing upon the growth and prosperity of our town. Roselle, Cranford, Westfield and the City of Plainfield have all put in, or are now engaged in putting in sewers. We must do likewise, but when we do, let us have the best, at the least possible cost consistent with high-class work. I shall in the near future appoint a special committee to take this matter up with a view of placing the subject before our people for their sanction and support.

Our Fire Department is in good condition, but I feel the necessity of again bringing to your attention the urgent need of the formation of a hose company in the vicinity of Harrison street and Greenbrook road, two recent fires in that neighborhood have proven the necessity for prompt action, such a condition as exists in that neighborhood should not be tolerated as the safety of our citizens and their homes are at stake.

In consequence of the absorption of the North Plainfield Electric Light Company by the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, we have been forced to abandon our steam gong for fire alarm purposes, to take the place of this we are about entering into a contract for the erection of a fire tower, fifty-five feet high, and to be equipped with a twenty five hundred pound bell. We are convinced that this will prove more efficient as a fire alarm than the old gong of necessity abandoned.

The health of the borough during the year has been fully up to the average. Your Board of Health has accomplished much in the purification of Green brook, which has been a disgrace to our town and a constant menace to health.

The peace and quiet of our town has been well maintained. I would urge even greater care and watchfulness in this direction, and suggest the adoption of a system whereby our residents can communicate with the borough officers and secure prompt assistance in case of need.

Our finances at the present time are in excellent shape, it was possible to make a reduction in the appropriations for borough and stteet purposes of $3,000, and I hope to see other reductions made when the budget is made up for the year, in August next.

The interest of the taxpayer should be kept constantly in mind, and your expenditures made with a due regard to economy, consistent with efficient service in all branches of borough work.

I would bring to your attention the absence of suitable signs to mark our streets and avenues; a stranger coming to our town must be at an utter loss to know how to find the street he seeks, such a condition has no right to exist, and this most necessary improvement could be accomplished at a cost which the results would certainly warrant.

In closing, I would request and urge continued activity in the direction of good sidewalks. Much has been done, but much remains yet to do before our citizens can walk with comfort and safety the entire length of our principal streets. Until this end is achieved, do not rest in prosecuting this good work.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr.,
March 16th, 1896. Mayor.

A Moulder Burned.

Jacob R. King, a moulder in Scott's printing press works, was quite seriously burned by hot iron Saturday afternoon while at work on a casting in the factory. The moulten iron ran into his shoe top and settled in the toe. Before King could unlace the shoe, his foot was badly injured. He borrowed a pair of William Scribner's shoes and was able to walk to his home on Netherwood avenue, where he is now confined. Mr. King has just finished a four years' apprenticeship, and is unfortunate in his entry into the field of journeyman labor.

Judge De Meza Criticised.

The New York Journal this morning publishes a column story about the arrest and sentence of Mamie Clark, the seventeen-year-old girl, sent to the county jail for thirty days by Judge De Meza. The Journal says that Mrs. Opdyke and Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, are taking interest on Mamie's behalf. The Journal severely criticises Judge De Meza.

Brown Escapes Lightly.

Thomas Brown, the individual who was found drunk at the depot yesterday morning, was brought before Mayor Gilbert last evening and sentence was suspended on him.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

ONLY ONE TURN DOWN.

CHIEF MARSHAL VANHORN FAILS TO GET A RE-APPOINTMENT.

The First Meeting of the Borough Council for the Fiscal Year—The Borough Clerk's Salary Raised to $600.

It has been a long time since the residents of the borough have taken such a lively interest in Councilmanic matters as they did last night. The fact that the Mayor was to make his appointments brought out the full membership of both the upper and lower house of the borough, and the latter was not the least uninteresting. All the members of the Council, including Messrs. Woolston and McLoughlin, the new members, were present.

The first duty performed by the Mayor was the swearing in of the new members, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

E. S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, asked Council to place a crosswalk on the above avenue, near his residence. The matter was referred to the street committee later in the evening.

W. E. Mattison made application for the position of borough physician, for the salary of $150 a year, or he agreed to furnish medicine for the poor of the borough at a moderate sum. The application was received and filed and will be reported on at a subsequent meeting by the proper committee.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Schutt the by-laws and rules of order for 1895 were adopted to govern the Council for 1896. Mr. Schutt offered another resolution that Mr. Lounsbury be made president of the Council for 1896, which was so ordered. After he had been greeted by the Mayor the appointment of committees were made as follows:

Laws, Ordinances and Election—Messrs. Valiant, Woolston, Schutt.

Auditing and Finance—Messrs. Schutt, Valiant, McLoughlin.

Streets and Public Health—Messrs. Woolston, Peck and Schutt.

Fire Water and Lamps—Messrs. Peck, Lounsbury and Valiant.

Stationery and Printing—Messrs. McLoughlin, Lounsbury and Woolston.

License and Marshal—Messrs. Lounsbury, McLoughlin and Peck.

Mayor Hegeman then made the following appointments of borough officials:

Corporation Counsel, Charles A. Reed, two years; clerk of Council, James K. Arnold, two years; chief marshal, Wm. A. Wilson; night marshals, Mark J. Doud, James Lines; chief of fire department, George H. Fairchild; assistant chief, David Bodine; janitor, W. B. Krewson; chief engineer, Patrick Kellegher; street commissioner, Wm. Emmons; borough magistrate, T. R. Crosley; special marshals, John Emmons, John Goodwin, Peter Stram, J. Coley, P. Doeringer, P. Hansen, A. G. Perry, Wm. Barry, Israel Jones, Samuel Moore, Richard McDonald.

All of the above were appointed for one year with the exception of those otherwise designated, and the salaries remain the same with the exception of Clerk Arnold. The latter's salary was raised to $600. They were all confirmed by the Council.

Mr. Woolston thought it was rather hard to turn Chief Van Horn out on such short notice, and was in favor of keeping him till the 15th of next month. Mayor Hegeman stated that according to the new law his time was ont now, having been appointed for only one year.

On resolutions offered by Councilmen Lounsbury, Peck, Schutt, McLoughlin and Woolston the salaries of borough officials were fixed as follows:

Corporation Counsel, $500; Clerk of Council, $600; Chief of Fire Department, $100; Engineer, $75; Janitor $50; Chief Marshal, $60; Night Marshals, $50; Special Marshals, 25 cents per hour when on duty; Borough Magistrate, $200; Overseer of Poor, $150; Street Commissioner, $50. The above are all per year.

Mr. Peck offered a resolution that the election of E. J. Smith to membership in the engine company be confirmed, which was so ordered.

A resolution which was adopted, provided for the laying of a crosswalk at the corner of Grandview and Fairview avenues.

In regard to the fire tower and bell, Mr. Peck stated that after a decision was reached on the tower it was thought best to let that matter rest until a bell had been selected. After much careful consideration the committee recommended a 2,500 pound bell made by McNeely, of New York, inasmuch as W. T. Kirk had been given the contract for erecting the tower they thought it wise to give him the contract of furnishing the bell, the total cost of which will be $1,120. This would place the responsibility on one person. The striking apparatus would be a small additional cost. The report was received and filed.

Mayor Hegeman at this time brought up the matter referred to by Councilman Woolston, in regard to Chief Van Horn. He said it was not the intention to displace him without notice, but as the new law caused his term to expire at this time, another appointment would be necessary. As Mr. Wilson was now deprived of his former position he suggested that Chief Van Horn be offered the same, as watchman at the engine house, till the new arrangements are made. He had had a talk with Mr. Van Horn and the latter understood the situation perfectly.

Mr. Lounsbury offered a resolution that the committee on streets be authorized to secure sealed bids for furnishing crushed stone for the coming year. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Valiant wanted to know if property owners pay anything additional when the borough laid a walk in front of their property. The Mayor informed him that 10 per cent was added to the cost.

After Mr. Peck had offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the Mayor and Council be authorized to sign the contract with W. T. Kirk for the erection of a fire tower and the furnishing of a 2,500 pound bell, McNeely make, at the cost of $1,120, the Council adjourned.

PRINCETON ALUMNI ELECT.

Graduates of Jersey's Big School of Learning Met Last Night.

The annual business meeting of the Princeton Club, of this city, was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. building, and despite the inclement weather there was a good attendance of members.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. E. W. Hedges. The following officers were elected to serve one year:

President, Rowland Cox; first vice-president, Dr. W. H. Murray; second vice-president, Pliny Fisk; secretary, Leonidas Dennis; treasurer, Harry C. Munger. Mr. Dennis was re-elected.

Final preparations were made for the annual Princeton dinner. It was decided to hold it at the Union County Country Club on the evening of April 7th. The speakers will be Prof. Andrew West, of Princeton; Adrain Jolyne, president of Princeton Club, of New York city; William R. Wilder, and Jas. Joy, president of the Yale Club, of this city. The representative from the Harvard Club has not as yet been decided upon.

The business of appointing a committee to confer with a committee from the Yale Club regarding the continuance of lectures similar to those which have been recently delivered here by Prof. Riggs, came up and Leonidas Dennis, Rowland Cox and McCready Sykes were appointed the committee. The intention is to have a series of lectures on popular subjects with the price of admission within the reach of all.

HE YELLED MURDER

And Thereby Raised a Row and Landed in the Rookery.

A murder is not an everyday occurrence in Plainfield, and when a person was heard screaming "murder" at the top of his voice in Steiger's alley, last evening, those that heard it were justified in becoming excited. Sergeant Kiely and Patrolman McCue were sent for and arrived in a cab. They made an investigation, but no bleeding victim with a fractured skull or throat cut from ear to ear, could be found, but a man with a greater supply of liquor than he could really take care of, was seen wandering aimlessly about wishing to fight the inhabitants of the alley all together or on the installment plan. The representatives of the law hurried him to the the lock-up where he remained over night.

To City Judge DeMeza, this morning, he gave his name as Barney Tracey, and pleaded guilty to being drunk, disorderly and yelling "murder."

He was sentenced to pay a fine of $3 or take ten days in jail.

St. Patrick's Day Banquet.

St. Patrick will be the ruling spirit at the Casino tonight when the Sons of St. Patrick will give a banquet. A number of the distinguished members of the society will respond to toasts among whom will be: Mayor Alex. Gilbert, Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone, D. D., Clifford Wharton, Jr., and J. Parker Mason. S St. John McCutchen will act as toastmaster. Max Wiertz will be the caterer.

Generally Bad Men.

Mike McCarthy and Harrison Randolph was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the charge of quarrelling, fighting and using indecent language. They pleaded not guilty, and were remanded for trial at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

CRASH WENT THE ROOF.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO'S BUILDING DAMAGED $1,500 TO $2,000.

Immense Weight of Snow Caused the Deck of the Big Skylight to Collapse—No Other Damage About the City.

The record-breaking snowstorm that started Sunday afternoon had a most ignominious end. The snow turned to hail yesterday noon, and in the afternoon the rain poured down in a steady stream that turned the spotless covering of white snow into soft and watery slush that melted and packed down into all kinds of shapes. Yards and fields that had been smooth and level when the snow stopped, looked as if there had been a series of earthquakes under their surface, causing innumerable hummocks.

As was predicted in yesterday's Press, the rain and snow proved a dangerous combination for roofs. Through the afternoon and evening men were at work shoveling the heavy slush off the roofs of the larger buildings. Of course there were leaky roofs, but the most damage was done to the immense lumber yard shed of Boice, Runyon & Company, on Park avenue.

Soon after seven o'clock, pedestrians in the vicinity of North and Park avenues were startled by a loud crash, resembling the report of a cannon. It soon appeared that the top of the skylight in the large shed had given way under the weight of the snow, which, like a sponge, had absorbed all the water that had fallen. The sides remained intact. The skylight runs almost the entire length of the building and is 340 feet long and 20 feet wide. The top or deck that fell was made of wood with a tin covering, while the sides are of glass. Many thought that the deck was also of glass.

John D. Runyon, a member of the firm, estimated to a Daily Press reporter that the damage would be between $1,500 and $2,000, and that about 7,000 feet of the roof had fallen.

The skylight is directly over the trestle and the coal bins below it. On the single track that connects with the Jersey Central tracks outside, were ten coal cars on the Madison avenue end and one freight car on the other end. About half of the skylights, the part nearest Park avenue, broke the stringers in its fall and crashed down on the trestle, partially burying the freight car and several coal cars. The boards and timbers were broken and strewn about, while the tin roof lay in a heap.

The snow that caused the accident remained on top of the heap. The rest of the deck at the other end broke through the centre and fell in two long parts as far as the stringers and there remained, allowing the snow to slide on to the trestle beneath. Only one of the posts that support the main roof was broken. The lumber was all on the sides, but the cement, in bags and barrels, piled close to the track, received a layer of snow. The lime was under the trestle, but was luckily protected from the snow and water.

There was no watchman in the building, but the noise of the fall was heard as far as Mr. Runyon's house at the corner of Fifth street and Park avenue. He thought it was snow sliding off the roof and did not learn of the accident until this morning. Work was immediately begun in bracing the part that remained. The damage will be repaired at once, as Weather Observer Naegle has another storm in view.

The remarkable fact about the accident was that only one pane of glass was broken.

The streets were partially flooded last night as the snow and slush blocked the gutters but when the rain ceased late last night the water and slush froze and by the time it melted this morning, Street Commissioner Meeker's men had a chaanel prepared for it.

Not to be Trifled With.

(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

COST OF THE WAR

Spain's Expensive Struggle Against the Cuban Insurgents.

$50,000,000 EXPENDED LAST YEAR

Estimated by Spanish Officials That the War Will Last Two Years More and Cost $200,000,000—Mortality Among the Soldiers.

New York, March 17.—Mr. Baldesano, the consul general of Spain, has received the following information from Madrid. It is a summary of the number of men sent to Cuba, the expenses and the mortality for the first year of the Cuban rebellion: "When the rebellion commenced in Cuba in February, 1895, Spain had 15,000 men in the island. Nine expeditions have been sent from Spain to Cuba. They consisted of the following officers and men: Generals, 33; colonels, 520; majors, captains and other officers, 4,623; sergeants, 3,257; corporals and soldiers, 109,362; grand total, 117,795 of all ranks. The mortality for all ranks from March 1, 1895, to January 31, 1896, was as follows: Generals, 3; colonels, 4; lieutenant-colonels, 5; majors, 17; captains, 51; first lieutenants, 101; second lieutenants, 34; chaplains, 9; sergeants, 80; coporals, 161, and soldiers, 3,394. Total, 3,677. Causes of death: Killed in action, 286; died from wounds, 119; died from yellow fever 3,190; died of ordinary diseases, 282. Total, 3,677. The cost of the war in round figures is given as follows: February 24, 1895, to February 24, 1896, army in Cuba, $40,000,000; navy and war supplies, etc., $10,000,000. Total, $50,000,000. For four months past 100,000 men have been in Cuba; after March 31, 1896, 130,000 men will be in the island. The increase in the army will mean an increase in expenditures. The estimate for the current year is $75,000,000; the cost for this year and next, $150,000,000, with $50,000,000 already disbursed, means $200,000,000.

Spain's Resources.

"Gen. Weyler believes that the war will last two years more, that that time will be necessary for the absolute suppression of the rebellion. Available funds—Bank of Spain, $30,000,000; Paris, $10,000,000; Cuban bonds, $20,000,000; Cuban securities and concessions, $25,000,000; reserve fund, $15,000,000; Total, $100,000,000. Fifty million dollars having been expended, fifty million dollars remain. While Cuba is on a war footing her finances are on a gold basis. The Cuban custom house for ten years previous to the present trouble yielded $20,000,000 per annum. The past year its receipts were between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000. In case of necessity, say a three-year campaign, the Spanish and Cuban credits may be relied on to furnish the sinews of war. Up to date Spain has not made any new loan on Cuban account. While authorized to borrow $75,000,000 she has not availed herself of it. These figures show Spain's resources and vitality. They are the elements on which Spaniards of all classes rely for the suppression of the rebellion."

Towns Burned by Insurgents.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Havana, March 17.—The Espana battalion met 1,000 insurgents under Lacret or Zayas at Xenes, near El Palme, east of Havana, and an engagement took place that lasted two hours. It is reported that the rebels left seven dead on the field, and carried other dead and wounded off with them. The troops lost three wounded. The insurgents have entered the town of Guara, province of Havana, and sacked and burned a number of stores. Their presence caused a panic. There were no losses in the rebel attack on the town of Matabano Saturday. The insurgents burned police headquarters, the town hall, a church, a number of stores, two coffee houses, five residences and fifty-three frame buildings. They practically reduced the town to ashes. A gunboat in the harbor shelled the rebels during the attack. A rebel band has burned the buildings on Labrinto estate and a residence on La Vega estate near Colon. Some idea of the devastation already wrought in Cuba may be gleaned from the fact that thirty-five towns in the western provinces have been completely destroyed by the insurgents. Besides these, twenty-five other towns have been half burned. Very little of the destruction has been done wantonly by either side. Most of the towns have been destroyed to prevent their use as bases of operations by the enemy. When the insurgents entered the province of Pinar del Rio and found a welcome from the inhabitants, no property was destroyed. When they were dislodged by the Spaniards, the inhabitants burned their own towns, and now nearly the whole province is in ashes. The tobacco crop in this province is also practically destroyed. Thousands of people are destitute, and were it not for tropical fruits and the tropical climate they would starve to death.

J. FRANK CLARK.

For the Abyssinian Campaign.

Rome, March 17.—It is understood that the government will to-day ask parliament for a credit of upwards of 120,000,000 francs to meet the expenses of the Abyssinian campaign. This sum will include the expenditures of the Crispi government and cover the projected expenses up to the end of 1896.

Shipwrecked American Seamen Landed.

London, March 17.—The British steamer Scottish Prince, Capt. Nichols, from New Orleans, Feb. 28, for Genoa, at St. Michaels, landed the crew of the American schooner Elisha Gibbs, which was abandoned at sea in a sinking condition.

AFFAIRS IN CONGRESS.

Senator Morgan To Speak on Cuba—Bay ard Resolutions in the House.

Washington, March 17.—In the senate this afternoon Senator Morgan, dem., Ala., will resume his speech, interrupted yesterday at adjournment, on the acceptance of the conference report on the Cuban belligerency resolutions. Two other speeches on different subjects occupied the attention of the senate to the exclusion of all else. The first was by Mr. Lodge, rep., Mass., and was in favor of such a change in the immigration laws as will keep out illiterate and ignorant immigrants. The second was by Mr. Pugh, dem., Ala., and was in favor of the coinage of silver at the mints of the United States with the same rights as gold. The house this afternoon will take up the resolutions reported from the foreign affairs committee regarding the speeches delivered at Edinburgh and Boston, Eng., by Ambassador Bayard. Among the bills passed under suspension of the rules, the only one of general interest was that increasing the penalty for mutilating or defacing coins and making the passing of such coins a felony.

YALE BASEBALL DATES.

Manager Miller Announces His Official Schedule of Games for the Year.

New Haven, Conn., March 17.—Manager Miller of the Yale Baseball association has announced his official schedule of games for the year. In addition to those already given out, the following dates have been arranged: April 3, Hampton at Hampton, Va.; April 7, University of North Carolina, at Gainesboro, N. C.; April 8, Georgetown university, at Hampton, Va.; April 28, Amherst, at Yale field; May 1, Andover academy, at Andover, Mass.; May 13, Yale graduates, at Yale field; May 20, Oritani Field club, at Yale field; June 17, Amherst, at Amherst.

OLNEY'S TRIAL POSTPONED.

The ex-School Commissioner's Case Goes Over to the May Term.

Hartford, Conn., March 17.—The criminal case of the state against Jeremiah Olney, ex-commissioner of the school fund, which was assigned for trial at Willimantic on Thursday of this week, will go over to the May term of the court. State Attorney Hunter had a conference with Judge Prentice regarding the postponement of all the cases assigned for the week, owing to the dangerous illness of Mrs. Hunter. Judge Prentice decided to postpone all business, and telephoned to Putnam to discharge the jurors serving for the term.

WAR CRY'S EDITOR RESIGNS.

E. R. Mautz Will Have Charge of Ballington Booth's New Organ.

New York, March 17.—E. R. Mautz, who was in charge of the Salvation Army's War Cry, who resigned from the army Saturday, has joined Ballington Booth's God's American Volunteers. He will have charge of the new movement's newspaper organ, which will appear next week. The type, presses and other material for the printing plant are ready to move in whenever a location is secured. The printing office will be near the headquarters, in the Bible house.

MRS. MILANDER'S LUCK.

A New Haven Widow Falls Heir to Land Worth Over $100,000.

New Haven, Conn., March 17.—Mrs. Inezetta Milander, widow of a once prominent merchant here, has been notified that she is heir to a tract of land near the city of Galveston, Tex., the value of which is estimated at from one hunderd thousand to five hundred thousand dollars. The property comes to Mrs. Milander through her grandfather, Peter Grayson. The tract is said to be four and one half miles square.

Hartford Baseball Club Affairs.

Hartford, March 17.—Manager Barnie has signed two additional players for the Hartford baseball nine, as follows: D. Houle, who formerly played with the Scranton nine, and D. Duxs, formerly of the Sidneys of Brooklyn. Grounds have been secured on Wethersfield avenue, opposite Union Grove, eleven minutes' trolley ride from the city hall.

BLOODSHED FEARED

Great Excitement and Alarm at Frankfort, Ky., To-day.

LAST DAY OF PRESENT LEGISLATURE

Many Denounce the Governor for Calling Out the Troops, While Others Believe the Situation Justified His Action.

Frankfort, Ky., March 17.—The greatest excitement prevails here this morning as it is feared, despite the presence of troops, that the final session of the legislature this afternoon may not be brought to a close without blood being spilled. The streets were jammed as early as 8 o'clock and every incoming train was loaded down with Blackburne sympathizers and curious persons, who came to see the expected row. Every man's pocket looked heavy, and pistols were very much in evidence. The citizens are still very angry over the riot call and an indignation meeting was held at the court house last night. The resolution of censure against the governor adopted in the senate yesterday was approved by many, yet among the more cool headed the belief prevails that the governor was perfectly justified in calling out the troops as the situation was far from peaceful.

First Day of Martial Law.

Yesterday, the first day of martial law, was full of sensational incidents in the city and in the senate chamber. There was wrathful denunciation of the republican governor by the democratic senate for ordering the militia to the capitol. Senators Bronston and Fulton introduced resolutions accusing the governor of flagrant usurpation of power and the senate adopted that of Mr. Fulton, appointing him and five others a committee to investigate "such contempt and breach of privilege" and report for final action. In the house resolutions endorsing and condemning the governor's action were presented and withdrawn. Sergeant-at-Arms Sommers of the senate was allowed to pass the line of fixed bayonets, but Col. Jack Chinn and his other deputies were turned back. It is the intention to take another vote for United States senator to-day before final adjournment, but no election is probable.

NOT AN ACTIVE WORKER.

Dr. Clark Explains His Connection with Salvation Army.

Boston, March 17.—The announcement which came from New York that Dr. Francis E. Clark had become a leader in the Salvation army came like thunder from a clear sky to those who know his enthusiasm and unremitting labors for the United Society for Christian Endeavor. Dr. Clark, who was seen last evening, said: "I have not joined the army as an active worker, simply as an auxiliary member, as thousands of other Christian people have done. I simply paid a certain amount, which made me a member. I thoroughly believe in the work, as the army reaches a class of people which no other organization can. I believe in it because it is doing a Christain work, and I am always willing to lend my influence to any organization which is based on Christianity. I have attended their meetings and like their methods, their earnestness, their sincerity; but I shall not become a warrior."

Letter Carriers Receive Back Pay.

Waterbury, Conn., March 17.—The twelve carriers and ex-carriers of the Waterbury postoffice have received payment of back claims amounting to $2,423 for extra services in 1888 to 1893 inclusive.

Dr. Peters Resigns.

London, March 17.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that Dr. Peters has resigned the presidency of the Berlin Colonial society.

Too Tired to Smile

Weak, Weary and Worn

Dizziness, Impure Blood—Cured by Hood's.

Many weak and worn-out women know just what this means. In totally unfit condition for work, they force themselves through the daily routine of duties, almost too discouraged to even look for relief. But it is to be found in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes the blood pure, builds up the nerves, makes the weak strong and gives a cheerful spirit. Read this:

Mrs. Wm. Smith
New York City.

"I have suffered more than tongue can tell from dizziness and severe pains in my head. I also felt so low spirited that I often said I wished I was dead. A friend suggested that I try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I gave it a trial and was more than surprised to see what a great change came over me after I had taken the first bottle. I felt better right away. I have now taken nearly five bottles and am happy to say I am entirely cured. I would advise all suffering on account of impure blood to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will cure." MRS. WM. SMITH, 319 E. 88th St., N. Y. City.

Extreme Prostration From Fevers

of every description, especially typhoid, is the doctor's fear and the patient's danger; medicine is of but little avail, sufficient nourishment to create new strength to carry the patient over the crisis is what is necessary, a persuading of the great machinery of the body to go on with its work is the end sought after; hence physicians recommend that greatest of concentrated food preparations, that creator of strength, maker of flesh tissue, and blood enricher, which, putting the vital organs in their normal condition, enables them to dispel disease. Dr. G. Curson Young of Philipsburgh, N. J., says, "I have used Bovinine with great satisfaction. One case, an old lady of seventy years, convalescing from typhoid fever, but very slowly, gastric irritation complicated with extreme prostration gave but a faint hope of recovery. I gave her Bovinine,—a complete restoration to health followed."

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

THE RELAY CARNIVAL

Forty-three Colleges and Schools To Compete at Philadelphia.

WILL SURPASS ALL PREVIOUS EVENTS

Contest for the Relay Championship of America Arouses Great Interest—Exciting "Prep" School Races Expected—High School Events.

Philadelphia, March 17.—The Relay carnival to be held on Franklin field at the University of Pennsylvania on April 27 promises to surpass in magnitude all previous track events held in this city. Forty-three colleges and schools have already sent their entries and others are being heard from almost daily. The race in which the greatest interest will center is the contest for the Relay championship of America. Pennsylvania, Harvard and Georgetown have entered in this event, and the strength of all three teams will insure a race worth going far to see. As Harvard won a similar race last spring Pennsylvania will put forth every possible effort to win this year, while it is safe to predict that the race between Cornell, Lafayette, Lehigh and Columbia will be an exciting one. All of these colleges have entered except Columbia, whose entry is looked for at any time. The former teams are very evenly matched. Cornell expects to send a strong quartette, and Lafayette men are confident enough to consider entering their team in the American championship race. The college of the City of New York, the University of New York and Fordham college will all send teams, and with the addition of another college, not yet decided upon, this event will also be complete. Haverford college and Rutgers have signified their intention of sending teams down, and Swarthmore has virtually promised to run, although the formal entry has not yet been received. Stephens has not been heard from as yet, but this entry, when received, will insure four evenly matched contestants in this race.

"Prep" School Races.

Four Pennsylvania colleges will meet in the race between State college, Bucknell, Franklin & Marshall and Dickinson, and as each will send down a strong team a close finish is assured. Of the southern universities, Johns Hopkins will be on hand and the University of Virginia and Vanderbilt university wrote that they would send teams, although their formal entries have not as yet been received. The University of Western Pennsylvania has entered a strong team, but is as yet unclassified. Pennsylvania college and St. John's college and Westminster College of Maryland have sent entries, and the acceptance of Muhlenberg will complete the race. Of the "prep" school races the most exciting should be that between Germantown academy, Penn Charter school, Central high school and Manual Training school, each of which will be represented by a strong team. Four evenly matched teams are entered in the inter-academic races between Haverford Grammar school and Friends Central school. The Haverford boys will send a strong team, but the other three schools should give them a hard tussel for the coveted banner. Entries have been received from the Episcopal, Academy, De Lancey, Adelphi and the Hamilton school, and this also should prove to be an exciting event.

Many High Schools To Take Part.

The Inter-city High school race will be a pretty one, Camden High school, Wilmington High school, Norristown High school and Chester High school will each send four good runners for this event. Entries have been received from Drexel institute, and Temple college, and this contest will be completed by the acceptance of Ursinus and South Jersey institute. Eastburn's academy, Brown preparatory, the Catholic High school and Pennington seminary have all signified their intention of competing. It has been decided to send invitations to the most prominent New York schools, and a race between a number of these is being arranged.

ONLY FIVE SAVED.

The Explosion on the Steamer Matadi Cost Forty Lives.

London, March 17.—By the explosion of gunpowder on the steamer Matadi at Boma, Africa, only the captain and four others were saved. At least forty lives were lost.

Three Burned at a Fire.

New York, March 17.—At a fire in a building at 163 Greene street late yesterday afternoon, Morris Rosengardt and his partner, Samuel Cohen, manufacturing tailors, were severely burned while saving valuable papers. Their bookkeeper was scratched about the face and hands by broken glass. A dozen others were with difficulty rescued by the firemen, but no one else was injured. The damage amounts to several thousand dollars.

Passage Secured for Yale's Crew.

New Haven, Conn., March 17.—Passage has been engaged on the Berlin, sailing for Europe from New York on June 6, for fourteen Yale men who will go to Henley. This number includes the twelve crew men and substitutes, Bob Cook, coach, and the manager, De Sibour.

Albany, March 17.—The Lexow senate Greater New York bill was handed down in the assembly last night and was referred to the cities committee.

Bannon Signed by the Boston Club.

Boston, March 17.—James H. Bannon signed a Boston baseball contract yesterday, and will accompany the team on its southern trip.

RAINES BILL HEARING.

Gov. Morton Will Listen to the Arguments of Mayors To-morrow.

Albany, March 17.—Gov. Morton's decision to give all the mayors who desire a hearing on the Raines bill tomorrow temporarily postpones the decision of the question of sending the bill to the cities as a city bill and may be taken as an indication that it will not be decided to be a city bill. It is only an indication, however, as the matter is still under consideration, and no decision has been reached. In reference to the question as to whether other hearings than that to the mayors would be given on the Raines bill Gov. Morton issued a statement declaring that "the pressure of the governor's public duties is so great that he will be unable to afford time for general or special public hearings on the bill, but briefs or arguments in writing will be received up to the time of arrival of the first mail, 8 a. m., on Friday next." It is understood that a number of mayors who have been invited to attend the hearing have declined, among them Mayor Strong of New York city.

Memorial to Gov. Morton.

Albany, March 17.—Assemblyman Otto Kempner, democrat, New York city, has prepared a memorial to Gov. Morton asking that he return the Raines liquor tax bill to the assembly in order that it may have full and fair consideration in the lower branch of the assembly with open doors. The memorial is signed by the minority members and will be presented to the governor to-day by a committee to be agreed upon headed by John B Stanchfield, the minority leader.

THE PIPE LINE BILL.

Another Hearing Before the New Jersey Senate Committee at Trenton.

Trenton, March 17.—The senate committee having the Pipe line bill in charge gave another public hearing yesterday afternoon. J. Frankfort, counsel for the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company, made an argument against the bill, while Hugh King of the Columbia Oil company, ex-congressman Henry S. Harris of New Jersey, and Senators Lee and Emery of Pennsylvania spoke for the bill. They represented that they were willing to submit to any reasonable tax, provided the Standard Oil company was made to pay the same tax. Senator Emery said in his address that there was a criminal conspiracy between the railroad companies and the Standard Oil company, under which the railroads get 26 per cent. of the oil traffic, whether they actually carry it or not. It is part of the scheme of the railroads to block, as far as possible, all opposition arising to the Standard company. That was why, he said, the Pennsylvania and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad companies were now refusing permission to a competing oil company to lay a pipe across their lines.

WELCOMED GEN. BOOTH.

20,000 Persons Crowded Crystal Palace, London, To Greet Him Yesterday.

London, March 17.—Twenty thousand persons attended a meeting of the Salvation army held in the Crystal palace yesterday for the purpose of welcoming Gen. Booth, the commander of the army, who returned a few days ago from India, and bidding Godspeed to Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who will shortly sail for New York to assume command of the Salvation army in the United States. The principal feature of the meeting was an address delivered by Gen. Booth, after which Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker were called to the front of the platform. Two officers then lifted an American and Salvation army flag over their heads, which was followed by a remarkable outburst of cheering and clapping of hands which lasted a minute. Gen. Booth then clasped the hands of his son-in-law and daughter and in a few thrilling words dedicated them to their new work.

GOLD FOR THE TREASURY.

About $4,500,000 To Be Transferred from New York Banks.

New York, March 17.—An order from Washington directs that a call be made on the depositing banks for 20 per cent. of the gold held by them on account of the issue of the new government bonds. The banks had been consulted and they agreed that the order might be issued without affecting the money market. It will result in the transfer of about $4,500,000 from bank vaults to the sub-treasury. The transfer will not add to the gold reserve, because much of the bank gold, if not all of it, had already been credited in treasury statements. Bonds held by the treasury department as security for the gold will be released to the amount of the transfer.

Fourteen Inches of Snow.

New York, March 17.—Fourteen inches of snow on the level was the result of the storm which began in this city at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and turned to rain last night. The storm was the fifth of the kind of the winter, and the most severe. In part of the range covered by the storm there was snow, in the rest rain, so that while New York, Albany, Buffalo, Boston-Portland, Me., and Chicago were mantled in white, there was a drenching dounpour of rain at Philadelphia, Washington and Knoxville.

Walcott Knocks Out Collins.

Long Island City, L. I., March 17.—After twenty-six minutes and fifty-five seconds of the most desperate fighting Joe Walcott last night knocked out Scott Collins, better known as "Bright Eyes," at the Eureka Athletic club.

Ex-Gov. Campbell Endorsed.

Columbus, O., March 17.—The democratic convention yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution endorsing ex-Gov. James E. Campbell for the presidency.

VENEZUELAN AFFAIR

Believed That the Way Has Been Opened for Peaceful Settlement.

HENRY NORTHCOTE TO NEGOTIATE?

That Diplomatist's Visit to Washington So Interpreted—Good Reasons for Believing That Ambassador Pauncefote Has Received Instructions.

Washington, March 17.—While state department officials decline to divulge the nature of Secretary Olney's latest suggestion to Lord Salisbury in regard to a method of settling the Venezuelan dispute, it is understood that the way has been opened for negotiations which are expected to result in some plan of adjusting the boundary claims satisfactory to all concerned. The reply of Great Britain to Mr. Olney's proposal has not yet actually reached the state department, but it is on the way and there are good reasons for believing that Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, has within the past twenty-four hours received full instructions to enter into negotiations here on the subject.

Sir Henry Northcote's Visit.

The arrival in Washington just at this juncture of Sir Henry Stafford Northcote, M. P., for Exeter, and a diplomatic and treaty negotiator of wide experience, has been associated with the Venezuelan affair. Sir Stafford Northcote, however, asserts that his visit is purely personal. Sir Stafford Northcote accompanied the Marquis of Ripon to Washington to arrange the Alabama claims treaty of 1871, serving as secretary of the British claims commission, and he was Lord Salisbury's private secretary at Constantinople in 1876, during the important negotiations then in progress. He has always been considered an extremely valuable man in just such negotiations as are now about to take place in Washington.

HONORED BY THE POPE.

Salvatore Ciampa Created Chevalier of St. Gregory the Great.

New York, March 17.—A cablegram from Rome, Italy, announces that Signor Salvatore Ciampa, of T. S. Ciampa & Sons, fruit exporters of Italy, had been created by his holiness, Pope Leo XIII, a chevalier of the distinguished Order of Saint Gregory the Great. This title is seldom conferred, being rich in privileges. Mr. Ciampa is the son of the late Cisco Ciampa, ex-mayor of Sorrento, Italy, and a brother of Chev. Francesco Ciampa, consular agent of the United States at Sorrento, Italy.

PROHIBITION LAW A FAILURE.

Mayor Bibber of Bath, Me., Says Stronger Public Sentiment Is Necessary.

Bath, Me., March 17.—The city government was organized here yesterday. Mayor Bibber, in entering upon his second term, came out with a flat confession of the failure of the prohibition law. He said: "The lack of public sympathy with the law is responsible for its non-enforcement, a condition which all officials regret. Either a stronger public sentiment or a more popular law is required."

THE POND WILL CASE.

Counsel for the Appellees Will To-day Ask for a New Trial.

Hartford, March 17.—Counsel for the appellees in the Pond will suit will today make two motions before Judge Thayer. One will be that he set aside the verdict on the ground that it is contrary to the evidence, and the other that he take similar action because of improper conduct on the part of one of the jurymen. A new trial will be asked for on each ground.

Pennsylvania Directors Renominated.

Philadelphia, March 17.—The directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company were yesterday renominated to serve during the ensuing year. They will be formally elected on the 24th inst. The nominations were made by a committee of shareholders appointed by Gen. Louis Wagner, the chairman of the recent annual meeting of the company, this being the customary method.

Ninety-seven Criminal Cases.

Hartford, March 17.—The March term of the superior court, criminal side, will open at 2 o'clock this afternoon with judge F. B. Hall of Bridgeport on the bench. The case of Casper Hedlin, charged with killing Louisa Trebbe of South Manchester, on February 29, will go to the grand jury on Wednesday. There are ninety-seven cases on the criminal docket.

Will Sue the Bondsmen.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 17.—Walter McNally, the "green goods" man, arrested here last week, will sue the New York bondsmen who caused his detention. After his arrest it was learned that the notorious "Jimmy" McNally, a brother of the prisoner, was the man wanted. A bondsman of his in New York was anxious to save $1,500 which he had furnished.

Lloyd Held for Manslaughter.

New Haven, Conn., March 17.—W. A. Lloyd has been bound over to the superior court, charged with manslaughter in inflicting blows on the head of Richard Stanton, which resulted in death on February 24. Lloyd admits striking Stanton, but asserts that he was first attacked by the latter with a razor.

Secretary Lamont has approved the plans of the New York and New Jersey bridge, and the company has undisputed authority to span the North river.

The action of Judge VanSyckel in reducing the bail required for the release of Editor Reiner, of the Elizabeth Herald, justifies the stand taken by The Press that $13,000 was excessive and out of reason in fairness and justice. The amount is now a reasonable sum.

The resignation of Hon. E. F. C. Young as chairman of the Democratic State committee leaves vacant an important post in the Democratic politics of New Jersey. The Press ventures to suggest as a fit selection for that responsible position, Hon. W. J. Keyes, of Somerset county, a gentleman of character, dignity and personal honesty.

In his first annual message to the Borough Council, Mayor Hegeman evinces a close acquaintance with the needs of that municipality. During the year that he has been in office he has personally investigated the various departments over which he has control, and has acquired an insight into their workings that has especially enabled him to act intelligently and with discretion in the discharge of his duties to the taxpayers and residents of the borough. Perhaps the most noticeable improvement made in any department has been on the streets. Mr. Hegeman went into office pledged to see that the wretched condition of the roads and sidewalks should be remedied, and that he has kept these pledges is evidenced in many places where work of a practical nature has been done. Much has been done, but there is more still, and the plans which the Mayor entertains will probably be marked to a large degree by accomplishment before another year passes. His announcement that he will soon appoint a special committee to consider the question of a sewerage system shows that he realizes what the rapid growth of the municipality means in the way of modern improvements, and that it is nearing the time when some action must be taken for the disposal of sewage. While his suggestion with reference to the placing of signs on street corners is not of vital importance, yet it shows his careful attention to the details of government, and withal is a suggestion which the Council would do well to comply with at an early date, the needs of which has often been spoken of by the Daily Press.

At Music Hall Tonight.

Today is St. Patrick's Day and it is to be celebrated in Plainfield. There will be no parade but, in the evening, that successful dramatic association from the Plainfield Catholic Club will present the drama "Shamrock and Rose." The sale of tickets has been great and the amateur actors will do their best to present a good play in an excellent manner. That they will be successful this time their past efforts argue very favorably.

—Members of the Y. M. C. A. should understand that they are entitled to free admission to the concert by the Amphion Quartette tonight. To others the admission will be 25 cents.

Isaac R. Giles, of East Sixth street, is ill at his home.

Sick Headache.

"I regard your pills as a godsend to me. . . . I could not make a business engagement without the proviso, "unless I have sick headache." Now my health is excellent, and all from the use of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills." So writes Hon. W. H Beveridge, one of Richmond, Va.'s, prominent lawyers.

FESTIVAT OF HOLIDAYS.

freshment department took its stand. One end of the large room was devoted to that department and a dainty little dining room was arranged there in which a delicious Thanksgiving dinner was served. The refreshment committee consisted of Mrs. Dewitt C. Brokaw, chairman; Mrs. E. VanName, Mrs. C. Conover, Miss Mollie White, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Thorn. The first table was presided over by Mrs. Charles Smith and Miss Anna Boice. Mrs. Will Worth and Mrs. C. R. Thiers looked after another and the third table was under the supervision of Mrs. Oliver Leonard and Mrs. Clinton Randolph.

Last, but not least, came Christmas Day and its booth, where fancy articles were displayed. A Christmas tree and ordinary parlor decorations gave a pleasing appearance to this booth. The committee in charge was as follows: Miss May French, Miss Florence Marsh, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Phillip Macintrye, Miss May Clausen, Mrs. James Manning, Mrs. Margaret Ransome, Mrs. Charles Rocap and the Misses Rocap.

The unpleasant weather kept many away, both among the entertainers and those who came to be entertained, so the long and varied programme which had been arranged was cut down to vocal solos by W. N. Runyon and readings by James R. Joy. These two made up for a host of others however, and the programme was a very enjoyable one. This evening there will be vocal solos by Miss Hardenburg, some instrumental music and a series of tableaux entitled, "An Evening With Longfellow." The entertainment was arranged by Mrs. L. H. Bigelow, who also planned the decoration and arrangement of the room so successfully. The different committees were appointed by the president, Mrs. DeWitt Brokaw.

About thirty members of the Boys' Brigade were present in uniform to preserve order, and, incidently, to enjoy themselves. The cashier was William Chapman, while Charles Conover looked after the finances at the door.

The festival will be continued tonight and possibly Wednesday night. Supper will be served from 6 to 8:30 o'clock, after which the entertainment will begin.

ACME OF DESIGNER'S SKILL.

A Graceful and Appropriate Effect Shown in Boehm's Display Window.

The acme of graceful and appropriate effects in window trimming is today observed in the big display window of Boehm's dry goods store. This firm's spring opening of fine millinery and spring garments took place this morning, and the event was marked by an exhibition of the designer's skill in seeking to arrange an idea in unison with the calendar term that is the most strikingly unique and picturesque that has ever been shown in this city. The window was designed and arranged by H. P. Greenwood.

The fancy might be termed of the living picture type, and it conveys the impression of "Spring Opening" very clearly. On a raised platform, leading up to which are three steps, is an arch, from the sides of which doors swing open half way, and a magnificent doll, attired in a stunning gown, appears as if to step from retirement into sunshine, where pretty sisters, in the form of more dolls, extend a welcome to her and garlands of flowers make her path a fairyland to travel. On the top circle of the arch is the word "Spring" in letters made of red roses and the word "Opening" in letters of pink roses stretched across the half-opened doors, with 1896 in violets on the side supports, completes the descriptive terms. The picture is backed up by an attractive arrangement of colors, which completes the effect.

The millinery department is under the charge of Miss C. Kuhn, and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend the opening.

Most Remarkable Remedy in the World.

The True Medicine for Lost Nervous Strength.

Without an Equal in Purifying and Enriching the Blood.

Great Cures Effected by Paine's Celery Compound.

What Scientific Research Has Accomplished.

Proved By Success Where All Else Has Failed.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system, and that is the Paine's celery compound so generally prescribed by physicians. It is the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Sufferers from neuralgia, neuralgic headaches and rheumatism should stop short their morphine, quinine and such pain-killing drugs. No cure can be hoped for from these temporizers. There is one way of getting rid forever of the causes of all this suffering, that is by taking Paine's celery compound. In this great modern remedy the real means to health is attended to; sleep is made sound and refreshing, the appetite improves and the nerves stop complaining, because they get the nutriment that nature requires. This is the fundamental, rational way that Paine's celery compound takes to be able to cope successfully with diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach, and to guarantee a complete return of sound sleep, good digestion and a quiet, well regulated nervous system.

Are You Ever Annoyed

by a buzzing or a roaring sound in your head? Have you difficulty in hearing distinctly? Are you troubled with a continual dropping of mucus, irritating the throat and causing you to cough? THE LEGISLATURE.

A New Track Elevation Bill—The State Gives Up Aimee's Lands.

The Bullock bill, requiring manufacturers and corporations to pay their employees twice a month, has been referred by the Senate to the Attorney-General for an opinion as to its constitutionality. Samuel H. Grey, of Camden, told the Labor Committee yesterday afternoon that it was unconstitutional, as it sought to legislate for special classes.

Senator Voorhees last night introduced a bill providing for the abolition of railroad grade crossings in first class cities. It applies particularly to Jersey City, and was drawn by William H. Corbin. It provides that when the governing body of the municipality shall decide that grade crossings shall be abolished, it shall apply to the Supreme Court Justice of the district, who is to appoint three disinterested citizens as Commissioners, who shall decide on the plans for the work. The expense of depressing the streets is to be paid by the municipality, and the railroads are to pay for the work of elevating their roads.

The bill embodies a modification of of an agreement made between the Pennylvania and New Jersey Central companies and the city of Elizabeth for abolishing crossings in that town, and Senator Voorhees says he will devote his time during the remainder of the session to passing the bill.

The Senate last night passed the bill releasing the State's claim to title in the lands in Passaic county, bequeathed by Aimee, the actress, to a Paris orphan asylum. It was amended so as to protect any claim the State may have to the proceeds from the sale of the lands.

The constitutional amendments were reported to the Senate and ordered printed. They will be considered the latter part of the week. Tomorrow the Voorhees bill abolishing lay Judges in the county courts will be passed.

Dunellen.

Joel Giddis has returned home from his visit at Newark.

D. Aller will move his family to Plainfield about April 1st.

M. Monihan, of Bound Brook, has been visiting his brother, John Monihan, of North avenue.

John Lewis, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Jones, of Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Smalley, of Flemington, were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Smith, of Dunellen avenue.

Rev. F. S. Custard, who has been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, for over three weeks, was brought home on Friday and was able to be in the pulpit of the M. E. church but not able to preach.

New Market.

The collection next Sunday morning in the First Baptist church will be for the home mission.

The Schubert Musical Club will hold an entertainment in Friendship Hall on the evening of March 26th.

The G. E. Club will hold a leap year sociable Wednesday evening at the residence of Miss Cora Dayton.

The young ladies expect to give the young gentlemen a sleigh ride this evening if the sleighing is good.

—An excellent programme will be rendered by the African singers at the First Presbyterian church this evening.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

—The music to be rendered Easter Sunday by the Trinity Reformed church choir was rehearsed Saturday evening for the first. Mrs. Asa Collier will be the leading soprano and Mrs. E. H. Bird the leading contralto on this special occasion.

—Leggett's sarsaparilla, with beef, is a most excellent spring medicine, and 50 cents buys a large bottle. His new pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building is now in complete order and the public is invited to call and inspect his handsome place of business and purchase of his fresh, new stock.

—A couple of fellows broke into Jas. Moffit's carpenter shop, Westfield, a couple of nights ago and harnessing a horse to a sleigh drove it all night and then turned it loose in the street. Owing to their families, no prosecution will be entered against them if they carry themselves straight in the future.

One Minute Cough Cure touches the right spot. It also touches it at the right time if you take it when you have a cough or cold. See the point? Then don't cough.

THEATRICAL.

In "The Span of Life" that comes to Music Hall tomorrow night there is one scene that has never been equalled or attempted on the stage, and that is the bridge of human bodies. Not only is this act a novelty, but it is very dangerous, and if by any mischance the topmost of the three acrobats who form this living bridge, should fail to catch on the opposite side of the chasm, all three would fall to the stage fifteen feet below.

In his new play, "Fritz in Love," which J. K. Emmet will present at Music Hall next week Tuesday, is said to have greater opportunities than in any of the other versions of "Fritz" in which he has yet appeared. He will portray the same dear lovable boy, whose humor wins our smiles and whose sorrows draw our tears, and who retains all the unworldly simplicity that has always characterized him and won such a strong hold on our affections. Mr. Emmet will not only appear in a new dramatic garb, but will also sing several new songs, destined to become as popular as the famous melodies already known with the "Fritz" plays. An essential point in connection with the play, which can not be omitted is, that the children will be as pretty and sweet as in the former versions of "Fritz," and in this play will go even a step farther and play important roles. The company is one of well-known actors among whom are Miss Annie Mortland, Mrs. Hattie F. Neffien, Miss Grace Pierrepont, Miss Blanche Chatfield, William T. Doyle, James H. Griffith, C. B. Bradford, George Hernandez, Charles A. Prince, and Babies Lillie Sinnoot and Florie Loeber.

Baptized With River Jordan Water.

The recent baptism at the Crescent Avenue church of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yates' young son, was significant from the fact that the water used was from the River Jordan, brought to this country by Miss C. R. Yates, who some time ago made a tour of that country.

Interest at Revival Meetings.

Much interest is manifested in the revival meetings now being held at the First Church of Christ on Liberty street, Rev. Mr. Encell being a wonderfully effective minister. The meetings are being held every evening this week.

Took the Oath of Office.

After the borough Council meeting last evening, President Lounsbury, Marshal Wilson, Street Commissioner Wm. Emmons, took the oath of office before Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr.

MISS JOHANNA'S HAND.

Expert in Palmistry Studies the Chimpanzee's Lines.

She Is Intelligent, But Has a Murderous Disposition—Indications Are That She Would Not Hesitate to Kill with Cold Cruelty.

Since Johanna, the famous chimpanzee of the Central Park menagerie, drew a picture of herself and wrote letters to her friends she has become the object of study on the part of men of science not a few of whom have visited her quarters in the Arsenal to ascertain, by her appearance and conduct, what it might be possible for her to do next. The general deduction is that Johanna is capable of doing almost anything that is good, together with a great many things that are wicked. For instance, it is believed that Johanna would commit cold-blooded murder, or, in a spasm of uncontrollable passion, treacherously assault her best friend.

As a matter of fact, says the New York Herald, Johanna's best friend is her keeper, McKay, and he says that he will always trust Johanna with his life. While acknowledging this, the keeper will not allow you to go within four feet of Johanna's steel bars, because her reach is long and her mind, if she has one, is constantly bent on destruction. She will laugh, sing, dance—almost speak—but she will tear to shreds that which you will give her, no matter how friendly the motive. With McKay it is different. Johanna is obedient to his commands. She is willing at all times to do what he wishes and when yesterday it was sought to read Johanna's traits by the lines in her hand, she submitted. This was because McKay held her hand, and because she felt assured that no hostile intention was contemplated.

Behind McKay stood a palmister, Mlle. Eleonore Panurge. It was Mlle. Panurge's first experience in the reading of character in a being not of the human family. The palmister at first scouted the idea that she would find anything at all in the chimpanzee's hand that would denote traits of any kind, but before her examination was completed she confessed that there were many things that surprised her.

"I find things that amaze me," she said. "I look at the palm and I look at the face, and I say to myself, is there, then, something of humanity in this beast?"

"They are wonderful," she said. "I see the M and N, and both are in their proper places. These two letters, so clearly defined in the left hand, mean great things in the ordinary individual. In this wonderful beast they must mean more. I cannot say that I believe in the theory of evolution, but I am at a loss to understand why these lines should so closely resemble, in shape and position, the ones I have found in many highly intellectual persons. Below the ball of the thumb, and running directly across the hand, I find the M. Many persons think that this letter in the hand stands for marriage. That is an absurd and ridiculous fancy. To the contrary, I will say that the deeper set is the M, the less inclined the subject is to marry.

"Johanna lacks refinement. There is no question about that, but there is no question, at the same time, that she is extremely sensitive. Both of these properties are indicated in the lines which border on the side of the hand opposite the thumb. The width of the lines shows Johanna to be coarse and the brevity of them is evidence of her sensitiveness. She will insult, but will not be insulted.

"In those long fingers (almost twice as long as any others I have seen) I see power and originality, together with dangerous qualities. She has the fingers of a pickpocket and a tyrant. Imagine her shaking that long index at you; contemplate the alacrity with which those four fingers could fathom the depths of your pockets; think what a cruel and relentless grasp she would retain on an enemy!

"The formation of the ends of her fingers is in her favor, to a certain extent, because they taper. Unlike the tiger or the leopard, she would stop her mangling after being satisfied that she had conquered. I cannot say that I am in love with her thumb. It is too short and insignificant, and is set too far back on the hand. We look for principle in the thumb. Johanna has no principle. I think that little thumb is her weakest point. If the last joint were long in comparison to the other joints of her fingers I might forgive her, but such a contrast cannot be overlooked. I would advise her keeper to be careful.

"I have noticed that immense hollow in the palm of Johanna's hand. She cannot get rid of it, even if she were to try. It comes from a habit of keeping the hand almost constantly closed, and it shows that her nervous tension is great. It argues well for the activity of her brain."

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of Calfornia, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

SOMETHING NEW.

How Some People Follow Every New Fad.

But the Majority Prefer That Experiments Should Be Tried Upon Somebody Else.

Some persons are always so anxious for something new that it is astonishing they still continue to eat plain bread and butter. They have always thrived well on beef, eggs, and potatoes; but somebody writes an article for a scientific journal, and attempts to show that these foods are neither as cheap nor as nutritious as some other kind of food. Therefore, some persons drop this standard diet and take up whatever some young scientist directs. We cannot understand this. When anything has been thoroughly tried and tested, and found in every way satisfactory, why do some people persist in running after some new-fangled notion? Take cod-liver oil for instance. It has been used for two hundred years with most marvellous success, and in a large variety of complaints. Its success has been no greater in the past than it is to-day. More skillful methods of preparing it, and emulsifying it (for it is generally acknowledged that it should always be given in the form of an emulsion), gives assurance that its future use is bound to be even far greater than ever.

And yet some people talk about a "substitute for cod-liver oil"! Substitute? Why, it is almost laughable. It certainly would be so, were the question not such a serious one. There can be no substitute for cod-liver oil, for there is nothing at all like it known to medical science. When Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites has been used for over twenty years, and when thousands have testified to its curative properties, is it not strange that any one would think of trying an experiment with some new preparation of cod-liver oil? When you know you are safe in taking Scott's Emulsion, is it not too risky business to try something new? Do you think Scott's Emulsion could have stood these twenty years, and have a larger sale to-day than ever before, unless it had true, genuine merit. Where do you suppose these substitutes, which do not contain a particle of oil, will be twenty years from now? And where will all the fancy preparations, as the various wines of cod-liver oil, be at that time? It is perfectly safe to predict that before they are half as old as Scott's Emulsion is, they will be forgotten. Do not allow yourselves to be experimented upon; be satisfied with the best; and take advantage of twenty years of ever increasing prosperity.

Scott's Emulsion contains more pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil than any other emulsion in the world, that will stand the test of time as being a perfect inseparable emulsion. Ask your doctor

KATE GARDNER'S CHAT.

A Well-Fitting Tea Gown Is Indeed a Thing of Beauty.

Besides, During Lent, It Will Be the Most Popular of Costumes—The Blouse Still Reigns Supreme—Dainty Petticoats.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

To make lovely woman lovelier still seems to be the aim and object of the new tea gowns. They are the most charming creations of the season thus far, and some show many novel and conspicuous features which make them almost irresistible to the majority of women.

There is a tea gown for every type of womankind, from the pretty debutante to the stately society matron, and all milady has to do in making her selection is to bear in mind the wise behest of Dame Fashion that the gown be graceful and becoming; the rest will take care of itself.

It took the American woman a long time to learn from her wiser French sister that the loose gown stood for much else besides comfort and economy, but having once taken the lesson to heart it has no more enthusiastic supporter.

It is a great mistake to think the successful tea gown easily constructed. The best dressmakers claim it requires as much skill and attention in its making as the most elaborate ball gown. In their opinion there is no garment so entirely dependent for good results on its general effect as this. While the material and trimming should receive the most careful consideration they are really of minor importance when compared to the fit and finish which in the artistic gown shows the perfectly trained hand in every line and detail.

Tea gowns this season are divided into two classes—the loose flowing robe, made dainty and pretty by yards upon yards of lace arranged in soft fluffy frills, and the more regal-looking one of heavy brocade, with its rich trimmings of fine fur and velvet. As to the money they cost, that is another and different story.

In the matter of material, much latitude is allowed. Printed velveteens, that seemingly were made for this purpose, are much in vogue, and the lovely flowered cashmeres, seen for the first time this season, make up most effectively.

Wool challie is not to be scorned; and that it is inexpensive does not detract from its charm. The brocaded goods used show very large designs, which at first glance seem rather odd, not to say striking, when compared to those of last season, but in exquisite texture and harmony of color they are superior to anything of the kind yet seen, and, considering their use a showy pattern is not inappropriate

A tea gown may be fashioned in a variety of ways, but the newest and also the prettiest are made princess back, with the front cut to overhang a belt, and when properly managed this style will prove becoming even to the robust figure.

Much attention is paid to the sleeves, and every model is crowned by an enormous collar or Marie Antoinette fichu.

Many of the models show the full front made of chiffon or chine silk, and nothing could be daintier for this purpose. Not nearly so dressy, but yet very pretty, are those made with overhanging fronts of all-over embroidery on a colored foundation of silk or wool.

I want to chronicle the charms of three of the prettiest ones seen within the week, so that you may get a better idea of the present and coming styles in this direction; and if, perchance, the description seems rather elaborate, remember that often the handsomest garments can be copied in cheaper material with exceedingly good results.

One that seemed to me more than ordinarily pleasing was made of blue cloth of rather pale tone, the brocaded design being long stemmed American Beauty roses tied with bow knots in the coral pink. The soft full front was of snow-white [illegible] made to overhang a belt of silk [illegible] its lower edge was orna[illegible] row upon row of narrow [illegible]. As to all the new models the sleeves were the main feature. They were composed of five immense puffs, held in place by tiny plaitings of chiffon and ribbon, and over the hand fell a full frill of fine white lace.

Another, slightly different in design but just suited to the girlish figure of the debutante, was in material soft silk, in color gray—that delicate silvery gray ever becoming—cut a la princess back and falling in soft, slightly-draped folds in front, while over the shoulders came the quaintest collar-like cape lined with palest primerose satin, and edged all round with a double frill of closely-plaited chiffon. The girdle was of jeweled passementerie and the sleeves of chiffon, arranged in drooping puffs.

But the prettiest of all was one similar to that represented in the picture, made of the loveliest crepe-like silky material in cream-white. The monstrous fichu of lace had long, stole-like ends reaching to the hem of the gown and almost hiding the soft full front of chine silk. The loose sleeves, reaching only to the elbow, were trimmed with velvet which was so arranged as to show immensely full frills of plaited chiffon.

In looking around for something new in attire sacred to one's bedroom and boudoir, I came across some fascinating models in the way of dressing-gowns, tea-jackets and other like items. These dainty garments receive quite as much attention at the hands of the designers as the most elegant street gown, and vary in price from one dollar up to $50.

For instance, a handsome dressing-gown marked at the latter figure was composed of heavy pink silk and given the luxury of a quilted silk lining, pale blue in color, and edged all round with narrow bands of mink fur. Wide folds of pompadour ribbon coming from under the arm were crossed in front and tied at the back in an immense bow with long ends.

Exceedingly pretty was a little French coat or house jacket, in light green cashmere, with accordion plaited bishop sleeves and cascades of cream-tinted lace down the front, and forming the collar and trimming the cuffs.

Serviceable jackets made of fine French flannel are, after all, the kind to buy, and when made with a broad flaring collar, flounced with lace and ornamented by ribbon bows like some I have seen, it makes as dainty and pretty a neglige as one could desire.

Much is said and written about the reign of the blouse being on the wane, but I am loth to believe it, judging from the number of lovely stuffs turned out expressly for the making of this most cherished garment.

Taffeta and other fancy silks will be used quite as much as last season, and the fancy just now is to have them veiled under tulle when intended for evening wear. Tulle, however, should be used in the majority of cases with a very sparing hand, it being only suitable for the very young lady, and its days of usefulness are very few indeed.

There is a growing tendency towards plain bodices with long pointed fronts. This style of waist calls for the richest material; and only in the Pompadour silks and velvets of the genuine Louis XV. designs can they be successfully treated.

Something entirely new are the silk handkerchief waists. Many handkerchiefs are required for one waist and usually those with bright plain ground and fanciful border are chosen. When fashioned by an accomplished modiste they made up very effectively, the corners playing an important part as drapery and epaulettes.

Pretty petticoats are a positive comfort to the womanly woman, and I cannot imagine anyone worthy the name contemplating their banishment. There is something very attractive in the frou frou of the silken petticoat, and as they are made nowadays they certainly lose nothing of their charm. Some of the newest ones are made of soft, crinkly silk, lined with a thin wash silk, and trimmed with billowy cascades of lace. Another was in the most lovely shades of green satin, brocaded with small roses and trimmed with a full deep frill of the same covered with green chiffon.

The one in the illustration is prettily trimmed with lace made of a silk dress that had done much service as an evening frock. I quite approved of it, for waste an opportunity of utilizing an ancient garment is surely unworthy of any woman, especially in these days when economy is the watchword in many homes. KATE GARDNER.

An Emblematic Title.

Pharaoh is the Egyptian word for king. In the Old Testament Pharaoh is generally used without the addition of the individual name of the king. The title denoted that the king was an emblem of the god of light and derived his authority directly from Heaven. A tetrarch, such as Herod the Great was called, was a ruler of a fourth part of a country; and in the later years of the Roman republic and under the empire it denoted a petty tributary sovereign.—Chicago News.

MRS. RIKER BEFORE LEGISLATORS.

A Plainfield Woman Argues for a State Board of Embalmers.

The House Committee on Corporations in the Assembly yesterday afternoon gave a hearing on Mr. Robertson's bill, No. 281, which provides for the establishment of a State Board of Embalmers. the members of which shall be graduates, appointed by the Governor. Should the bill become a law no one could embalm bodies within the State without passing an examination before the board and paying $5 for a license.

The passage of the bill was advocated yesterday by A. J. Rooney, a Jersey City undertaker, and Mrs. Tillie Riker, a professional embalmer of this city. Mrs. Riker told a startling story of the abuses now practiced by incompetent persons who are permitted to embalm bodies. The first thing they do, she said,after viewing a body is to stick a long, sharp instrument into the heart, so that if the subject is yet alive death follows instantly. She said that many people believed to be dead are alive when the cruel weapon of the incompetent embalmer is thrust into their hearts. The professional embalmer, Mrs. Riker said, before embalming a body, severs an artery, and if the blood flows, immediately sends for a physician. By this precaution many lives, she said,had been saved. She argued that the law, if enacted, would not work injury to the business of undertakers and would raise the science of embalming to the elevation it deserved.

Undertaker Rooney endorsed Mrs. Riker's statements and said that New York undertakers were in the habit of sending their team drivers to Jersey City to embalm bodies when they had orders there.

Last night the committee reported the bill without recommendation.

LECTURE ON SAVONOROLA.

Miss Kate Thompson Talks Before the Monday Afternoon Club.

Miss Kate Thompson, of New York, delivered a lecture on Savonorola before the Monday Afternoon club yesterday afternoon at the Casino. Miss Thompson has clean cut ideas which she expresses clearly, and her lecture gave great pleasure to the audience who braved the storm to listen to her. Referring to the luxury, immoralty, and intensity of the fifteenth century period in Italian history, she spoke briefly of the youth of Savonorola, his entrance on the duties of a Dominican monk, his hatred of the vice and luxury of the times, his establishment of a Theocracy, the growth of his popularity, and later, the loss of his power when he was charged with heresy, his excommunication by the Pope, and the martyr death of this great reformer.

Some discussion followed as to whether he was ambitious for personal power or whether his convictions amounted to fanatacism.

FOR PEARL BRYAN'S MURDER.

Jackson and Walling Will be Taken to Kentucky for Trial.

Cincinnati, March 17.—The circuit court judges handed down their decision in the Jackson and Walling extradition case yesterday without granting a stay. THE EDITOR SAYS IT.

It Cannot Help Being Interesting to the People.

It is Certainly a Most Excellent and Opportune Idea.

We Copy the Editorial From the Commonwealth Magazine.

A recent issue of the Commonwealth Magazine contains an editorial which we believe to be of interest and importance to the people.

Most of us, says the editor of that magazine, have times when we are not feeling just right, when our head aches, or from weakness of the nerves or depression of vitality we feel nervous, weak, tired, languid and without our usual force or energies.

In the spring of the year scarcely anyone escapes these feelings, which arise from a lowered vitality of the nerves and an impure condition of the blood. In the spring the system attempts to throw off the old conditions—the cloggings, the impurities, the waste materials which debilitate and enervate the body, and in this effort the natural powers should always be assisted by the best of all spring medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

In other words, prepare yourself for spring by following the cleansing, purifying and invigorating process which is apparent throughout all nature. Expel the old conditions of weakness, take on those of renewed life, vitality and vigor; and to do this no medicine is so sure, so certain or so beneficial as this wonderful discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

We know personally of the cure of Mr. W. H. Warrington, of 3113 19th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn., who says:

"Recently my nervous system refused to work properly, with the result that I lost my temper of the slightest provocation, and little things, which as a rule I pass unnoticed, irritated me to a degree. I suffered from headaches and backache, and my digestion became impaired. This of course worked mischief with me, and I ran down terribly. My friends remarked it, and asked what had happened to me. I became alarmed, as my physician did not seem to know definitely what ailed me, or if he did, he failed to tell me.

"I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood aed nerve remedy and in a few months I picked up and am now well again. Permit me to commend this great nerve remedy to anyone who suffers from nervousness or exhaustion of any sort, for it will effect a lasting and sure cure."

Do not hesitate to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it is the discovery of the well-known successful specialist Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Kline Won the Case.

The case on contract of Samuel Kline against Isaac Kannowski came up before Justice Mosher and a six-men jury this morning. The plaintiff brought suit for $50 which he claims was due him for taking an inventory of stock belonging to J. Goldstein, of Park avenue, and otherwise assisting him. The defendant swore that he never hired Kline, nor did he receive any inventory of the stock. Lawyer W. L. Hetfield represented the plaintiff and Lawyer H. C. Runyon the defendant. The jury gave the plaintiff $15. Lawyer Runyon will appeal the case to the Circuit Court.

DON'T POISON YOURSELF.

Food is Poison if Allowed to Ferment in Your Stomach.

Putrid food contains poisons so dangerous that they cause effects equal to alkaloids which druggists are not allowed to sell to the public.

No wonder so many of us become dangerously sick from indigestion!

For what is indigestion?

It is putrid (undigested food in the stomach.

The poisons of undigested food are absorbed into the blood, and affect the liver, the nerves, the kidneys, the heart and all the organs of the body.

They cause weakness, lethargy, headache, dizziness, mental depression bad taste, stomach ache, fever flatulence, palpitation, nausea, constipation, loss of appetite, jaundice, prostration, anæmia, rheumatism, etc.

They can be got rid of only by helping the stomach to digest its food and this is done by the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

You will never be strong or healthy so long as you suffer from indigestion so long as you allow your stomach to taint your system with the poisons of putrid food.

And, as for a cure, nothing will cure you so quickly as Shaker Digestive Cordial, nothing so certainly relieve your pain and discomfort or give you new strength, energy and endurance.

SCHOOL SOLONS CHOSEN.

S. B. JOSEPH RETIRED FROM THE BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD.

A Lively Time at the Annual School Meeting.—Point Raised That a Vote on an Appropriation Was Illegal.

North Plainfield is at present passing through a most lively experience, in the way of municipal affairs. Fully awake to the duties of the hour the citizens turned out en masse last evening and attended the School Board election. Some had their own ideas, while others, coming without this necessary item, borrowed from their neighbors.

Hugh B. Reed was chosen chairman and Charles H. Lyman, secretary. The latter read the call of the meeting which was for the purpose of electing three school trustees and making the customary appropriations for school purposes.

President S. St. John McCutchen and District Clerk S. B. Joseph, of the School Board, presented their annual reports.

The President's report was in part as follows:

During the year there has been a natural increase in the membership of the school, which we may regard as a normal growth, the enrollment down to the first day of January, being 739, against an enrollment of 733 at the corresponding date of a year ago.

As many of you know, the course of the Plainfield High School, extends over four years; the first two years of which we cover in our own course, so that our graduates enter the third year of the High School, having done two years of High School work with us.

We found, however, that our graduates going over to the High School were at a disadvantage because Latin was taught in the High School, in the first two years, and that our pupils entering, after those two years, without having studied Latin were much handicapped.

At a very inconsiderable expense to the district we secured the services of William P. Henderson, and organized for him a class in Latin. This class is made up of pupils taken from our highest two classes; the study being voluntary on their part. The class started twenty-three in number, five have dropped from it, eighteen remain and are doing good work.

The school building is giving satisfaction. The time has come, however, when for the preservation of the property, the building and particularly the new part, should be painted, and the interior plastered walls pointed up. We have ascertained that the cost of this will amount to about $900.

The system of furnishing school books and supplies seems to be working well, the scholars generally take good care of the text books and they come back to us in as fair order as we can expect. To continue this system for the coming year we ask $750 which is about the amount that will be needed for this purpose from year to year.

It seems to be the judgment of the trustees, expressed in interview, but not in any official way, that the Board is unnecessarily large, and might wisely be reduced upon the theory that a small governing body, charged with full responsibility, can work to better purpose than a large body with divided responsibility. The system is as yet young, however, and a longer experience of it may show a merit which does not now appear for this reason, and for the further reason that legislative action is expected upon the general subject of the present school law, the trustees make no recommendation in the matter and present it, as we do, simply for your consideration.

The trustees have under the law, the legal right to compel the attendance of such young pupils, but hesitating to resort to a harsh compulsion, and prefer, for the present, to rely upon the interest and authority of parents and guardians to secure a proper attendance upon school duties.

The report of the district clerk showed that $9,957.50 had been expended for teachers' salaries, $647.82 for repairs, $974.75 for school supplies. The total expenditures for the year were $22,845.45.

The following were then nominated for school trustee, the first three being elected: E A. Overton, 107; A. V. D. Honeyman, 92; G. M. Fountain, 91; S.B. Joseph, 36; George T. Rogers, 25.

It was a surprise to some that S. B. Joseph was not re-elected, but to some others it was not.

Next came the appropriations, which were as follows:

Teachers' salaries, $10,750; janitor, $750; clerk, $150; fuel, $550; building repairs, $650; incidentals, $250; painting, etc., $900; expected from State, $6,500; text books and school supplies, $750; amount thought to be necessary, $8,250.

The result was that 42 votes were cast in favor of the above and 48 against it. The question then arose as to what should be done, and by a vote it was decided to vote a second time. One amount named was $7,500 and another $8,000. For the former 33 votes were cast and 13 for $8,000. There were two votes cast for no money.

The item of $900 for painting was explained in detail by S. B. Joseph, who said that he had obtained approximately the cost of painting the building and repairing it.

There is now a question as to whether the second vote on appropriations is legal, and is it possible that a special meeting will be called for that purpose.

Ex-Councilman W. C. Smith thought it was unfair to vote the second time on account of a number having gone home after the first ballot.

F. D. Long and J. D. Anderson served as tellers during the evening.

For Women as Delegates.

The New Jersey Methodist Episcopal Conference has voted in favor of the admission of women as lay delegates to the General conference. The vote was 68 to 59, four persons not voting. The proposition to decrease the representation of clerical delegates in the General Conference was adopted by a vote of 74 to 61.

FUN BY THEMSELVES.

A STAG DINNER INDULGED BY COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS.

Stories and Jokes Mixed With the Dinner, and Impromptu Remarks and Pithy Observations Topped it Off.

A number of the members of the Union County Country Club enjoyed a subscription dinner given at the Casino last evening. The dinner was a very successful one in every way and time flew by unheeded as stories, jokes and reminiscences passed around the board while Max Wiertz and his corps of waiters served the repast. When the last course was over and cigars and cigarettes had been passed around, Samuel St. John McCutchen, as toast master, addressed his fellow members. His humorous remarks and bright sayings prepared the way for the other speakers. As is usual with after dinner speeches the remarks were, like Gratianos', filled with "an infinite deal of nothing."

Ma or Gilbert was the first to speak. His quite manner made the bursts of humor that filled his talk all the more enjoyable. North Plainfield's ex-mayor, W. L. Saunders, defended his side of the brook with a witty speech, calling forth loud applause by his stories. Charles C. Burnett was next supposed to tell what he knew about bowling, but he didn't.

Instead he bowled his listeners over with funny stories and witticisms, but still managed to stick to his subject E. C. Perkins ended the informal speech-making by dwelling at length on the club of which they were all members, and recalling incidents of the past and suggesting ideas for the future.

Prof. Marsh, a Hungarian magician, was then introduced and began his share of the entertainment by removing a flask and pack of playing cards from Mayor Gilbert's coat. He then proceeded to mystify his audience and the men, from whose keen eyes nothing can escape on 'change, sat bewildered as cards deliberately changed in full view at the command of this master of sleight-of hand. His tricks were all excellent and his wonderful power of naming cards, even those that were thought of by his audience, was greatly enjoyed. He closed by breaking an egg into a borrowed hat and cooking it with a match until it became a pancake. He then drew from the hat a great quantity of narrow strips of paper from which he produced a live goose.

The committee in charge consisted of Clifton Wharton, Jr., and J. Parker Mason. Among those present were: Messrs. Streuli, Brown, De Witt, Reinhart, Wharton, Jackson, Burnett, Herring, Stelle, Mason, Perkins, Tracy, Dumont, McCutchen, Gilbert, Coe, Saunders, Waring, Endicott, Cock, Pope, Murray, Smith, Bushnell, Pond, Kirchoff, Schipper, Baker, Fleming, Sykes and Ivins.

MISSIONS NEEDED IN THE WEST.

Mrs. E. B. Horton Talks Interestingly at Trinity Church Last Night.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, of Cranford, secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church, addressed a fair-sized audience in Trinity Reformed church last evening on Home Missions. Rev. Cornelius Schenck conducted the devotional exercises, after which he introduced Mrs. Horton.

By the aid of a large map of the United States the speaker gave a highly interesting descriptive talk of her work in the west. During the past year she has traveled considerably in the west and was able to speak from experience. She exhibited a small American flag, which is her constant companion. She said Chicago is not considered west anymore. Omaha is called the Gateway City, and after passing that point one reaches the west. She spoke of the vast need of work in that section of the country, and related many pathetic incidents where people who are suffering from want of the Gospel and the necessities of life. She said there is a wonderful work to be done in almost every section of the west, and she urged all to do more in the future.

A very interesting formal discussion of the subject followed, and many questions on the work were answered by Mrs. Horton.

At the close of the lecture by Mrs. Horton, coffee and wafers were served by Mrs. J. Fred MacDonald and Mrs. Frank Church, during which a social time was passed.

—At the meeting of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., last evening, Wm. VanSickle, of East Third street, struck his head on the sharp point of a chandelier, causing the blood to flow freely, The injury is not a serious one.

POET AT THE FESTIVAL.

NOT IN BODY AND SOUL BUT AS REPRESENTED BY TABLEAUX.

Longfellow Was the Bard Portrayed and Many Pretty Pictures Were Presented.—Other Features of the Event.

Holidays are always welcome, especially if they come as they did at the First Baptist Church last night. The Sunday School room, where the "Festival of Holidays" was held, was crowded from an early hour until late at night. The gay throng with its many pretty faces and charming gowns enlivened the scene and made it more attractive than ever.

The booths were well patronized and then the procession of visitors stopped and everybody sat down to enjoy the entertainment.

The programme was an "Evening With Longfellow," and opened with the recitation of Longfellow's first poem by little Jerry Manning. A contralto solo by Miss Hardenberg followed and then the first of the tableaux was shown. Miss Rocap read portions of Longfellow's works describing the tableaux.

The first four were from Evangeline. Miss Elsie Brokaw made a very pretty "Evangeline," and was alone in the first tableau. "Evangeline" and "Gabriel," William Thiers, were shown in the next, and their parting was the scene of the third. "Evangeline" as a nun, was repsesented by Mrs. Harold Serrell. Lucius H. Bigelow, Jr., was the hero of the "Children's Hour," and his tiny invaders were the Misses Kathey Rocap, Carrie Moore and Gladys Bigelow. After a tenor solo by Elmer E. Runyon, "Hiawatha's Wooing" was illustrated. Howard Case represented that worthy brave, while his fair squaw, "Minnehaha," was Miss Elizabeth Allis. In the next tableau the wedding feast was shown and included, besides the former, the Misses Sussie Woodland, Alice Needham, Nora Williams, Margaret Harold and May Stelle.

Miss Hardenberg sang another delightful solo, after which came the "Village Blacksmith" in the shape of Robert Gorton. The choir, in which his daughters sang, was composed of Miss May Clawson, Miss Bertha Needham, W. O. Chapman and Lucius H. Bigelow, Jr. The programme closed with the "Armorer's Song from the opera "Robin Hood," which was sung by Robert Gorton with anvil accompaniment.

The festival will not be continued tonight.

AN UNPREMEDITATED BATH.

A Pondville Man's Uncertain Legs Carry Him to the Gutter.

Policeman Post, whose beat takes him through Pondville, saw a resident of that section making his way homeward Monday night in a manner which indicated that the latter had imbibed a trifle more than was good for him. The policeman followed him to see that he got home all right. The man was on the wrong side of the street for his house, and started to cross the street. When he struck the gutter he went down into a pool of water fully a foot deep. He plunged around in it for awhile and then regained his feet and walked a chalk line to his house, having been sobered up amazingly by his chilly bath.

Ladies' Aid Society Elect.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel was held yesterday afternoon in the chapel. The reports were very encouraging and showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. It was decided to send a box to a missionary in Michigan. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Sarah Randolph; first vice-president, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey: second vice-president, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; secretary, Miss Margaret Swain; treasurer, Mrs. M. B. Gilles.

SLUSH FOLLOWS SNOW.

IF AIR SHIPS WERE IN USE IT WOULD BE NICE OUT-OF-DOORS.

Gutters Turned Into Ponds of Nasty Water Through Which Pedestrains Wade—Aftermath of the Big Storm.

Another day of slush and water under foot and a clear blue sky overhead began this morning, but according to Farmer Dunn's predictions it will end with a storm that is now approaching from the southwest. Yesterday would have certainly been a delightful day if air ships were in general use, but at present the American people have to rely on other means of locomotion.

The streets were in bad condition despite the efforts of Street Commissioner Meeker's men to make them passable. The warm sun played havoc among the heaps of dirty snow along the streets and dirtier slush and water resulted. The slush blocked up the outlets and the gutters were turned into small ponds of which the pedestrain had to beware unless he cared to wade over his shoetop in cold muddy water. Some storekeepers placed boards over the crossings nearby. The sleighing, which was good yesterday morning, was rapidly spoilt and bare spots were visible all along the principal thoroughfares. It froze again last night and straw rides and sleighing parties were numerous. Several started from this city. A large hayrick with a load of twenty young people from the city and borough went to Springfield and partway to Summit. The sleighing was fairly good outside of the towns and the party had a gay time.

A crowd of students came over from the Rutgers Preparatory School at New Brunswick in a large sleigh, under the charge of a professor. They came by the way of New Market and sang, gave their various yells and tooted horns and bugles all the way over.

The professor needed fifteen different pairs of eyes to look after his charges, for there was a general scattering when they arrived here. After doing the town in fine style the party returned by the way of Metuchen. They attracted considerable attention by their uniforms and gay red sweaters.

No serious damage has resulted from the rapidly melting snow except that mentioned in yesterday's Press. The tinners and plumbers are trying to solve the difficult problem of being at seven places at once.

A two-seated sleigh upset in front of Edsall's yesterday afternoon, and the driver, who pluckily hung on to the reins, was dragged for some distance through slush and water. Bystanders stopped the frightened team before they ran very far, and no serious damage resulted. The driver refused to give his own name or that of his employer.

A sleigh belonging to Hummer, the Park avenue butcher, was upset on West Second street yesterday afternoon and the young driver was thrown out into the slush and snow. The horse was caught by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., before he ran far.

BAD PAIR SENT TO JAIL.

Mike McCarty and Harrison Randolph Have Justice Meted Out to Them.

Two offenders, Mike McCarty and Harrison Randolph, came up for trial before City Judge De Meza yesterday afternoon. They are the same men whose disorderly conduct in this city was spoken of in The Press some time ago, and the statements of the Press regarding their disreputable character were borne out by City Judge De Meza who reprimanded them severely, saying that they were a disgrace to the city.

The cause of their arrest was a scrap Monday night. Barney Tracy, the would-be murdered man, rushed the growler for McCarty and Randolph until he became tired and then they started after their own liquor. Randolph, the colored man, went to the bar and thought some one had insulted him. He came out and McCarty was the first man he noticed and McCarty received a stinging blow in the face. A lively time followed until Patrolmen Cooney and McCue marched the scrappers off to the lockup.

McCarty was sentenced to pay $5 or take twenty days in jail while his African companion was fined $8 or had to spend thirty days in jail.

Neither of the offenders were in the best of financial condition and both were sent to jail to serve out their well deserved sentence.

—By mistake the name of Mrs. Linderman was omitted as one of the committee having charge of the Labor Day booth at the First Baptist church. To her is due the decoration of the booth.

THIS PEERLESS DOMAIN.

JAMES E. MARTINE'S ADDRESS FULL OF HEARTY PATRIOTISM.

The Farmer Orator Thrills the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick With His Toast to the United States of America.

The banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at Elizabeth last night was largely attended and was an elaborate and pleasant affair all the way through. City Clerk James Manning, of Elizabeth, was toastmaster. Among those who responded to toasts were James E. Martine of this city, F. C. Marsh, Judge Gilhooly, John Matthews, Frank Dunn and Mayor John Rankin, of Elizabeth. Mr. Martine was the first to respond and spoke on the "United States of America." He spoke as follows:

No tongue can tell its glorious future nor sound for humanity too well its claims. Peerless domain of individual, independent States, integral parts of the greatest, grandest Republic and Government God's sun ever shone on. A Government that in the life of nations is but just merging into manhood. From a mere handful of weak colonies, almost within the life of man, we number to day 70,000,000 of people. A mixed race, blended in one, forming a people whose accomplishments and achievements in science, literature, art, mechanics, Aye! civilization, have made us the pride and admiration of the civilized globe.

A Government whose touch is so light as to be scarcely felt, and yet affording to the most humble citizen security in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Blessed land!

A Government for the people and of the people, where their will is supreme and their flat, as expressed through the ballot law, as has been fitly said: "Let fall your ballots thick as snowflakes on the sod, for they will wield a freeman's will as lightning wields the will of God."

A Government wherein is vouched safe to every citizen that boon and blessing of free religious thought and political liberty. With these broad beneficient blessings it becomes the prime duty of every citizen to take a lively interest in the affairs of State. I have no place for a man without opinions and convictions on public questions, and less for one who, having convictions, has not the courage to espouse and defend them. An adopted citizen who is recreant to his civic trust and self-imposed obligation as a citizen of the United States is a worse enemy to freedom's cause than a traitor on the field.

Rank, an arch-enemy, is he to this great and grand Republic, and to the cause of humanity and liberty, that would bring into politics religious hatred and race prejudice.

This glorious inheritance, the gift of our fathers, is ours—ours to enjoy, ours to preserve, and ours to transmit. This may be alone done through diffusion of public knowledge and official honesty. The commonwealth requires the education of the people, as the safeguard of order and liberty. To this end the newspaper is the great agency, and a potent aid is the printing press—Godspeed the revolutions of its cylinders, that their leaflets of knowledge and information may be multiplied as thick as leaves in autumn, and through this diffusion of knowledge may Kings, Queens, Emperors and Czars only be known in history. Selfish ends and individual aims must be set aside for the public weal and good. Special fostering—taxation of the masses for benefit of classes—will breed discontent, disaster, disruption, decay, and ultimate ruin.

Matchless land, stretching from the broad and turbulent Atlantic to the quiet Pacific, and from Niagara's mighty cataract on the north to the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Within this embrace has nature's God blessed us with soil and climate, that swell and bud into blossom flora of surpassing beauty. Our fields and granaries feed our own people, and save from starvation the hungry millions of the old world. Our mountains fairly groan with undeveloped resources, that rivals the wealth of the Orient. Across this peerless domain are belted and interlaced great bands of steel, forming the greatest railway system on the globe, over which literally pour a tide of trade and commerce, flooding fabulous wealth and riches into the lap of the world. With all this, what is our mission? While avoiding entangling alliances, it should be to extend and urge on through all proper and moral means home rule, and the broadest liberty to the citizen everywhere, consistent with good government.

And this much I feel I may say, without touching on politics, whether it be Grover Cleveland, Wm. McKin-

RUMPTY DUM SECURED.

A BASE DRUM TO BE PRESENTED TO LOCAL VOLUNTEERS TOMORROW.

Scott Press Works Employes Realize the Essentialness of Noise and Have Bought the Instrument to Make It.

Commander Booth in outlining the plan of campaign for God's American Volunteers said that an especial effort will be made to reach the wage-earning and artisan classes. When he visits Plainfield tomorrow night he will be welcomed by a large delegation of artisans. The employes of Scott's Press Works are all enthusiastic supporters of the new movement. The Volunteers made an appeal a few days ago for money with which to purchase a bass drum. The employes of the press works learned of it and volunteered to raise the necessary funds and buy the drum themselves. They have secured it and will present it to the Plainfield Post at the meeting in Music Hall tomorrow night. Seats have been reserved for them in the orchestra circle and parquette. This will be the first demonstration of the kind in the history of God's American Volunteers.

Captain Mimms has completed all arrangements for the big meeting. Five thousand circulars announcing the "Battle of Plainfield, to be Fought Thursday Night" have been distributed throughout the city.

All the local ministers have been invited to attend and several of them will accept the invitation. The soldiers have all secured souvenir badges bearing the pictures of Commander and Mrs. Booth, and will wear them tomorrow night. Permission has been secured of Mayor Gilbert to hold street parades and open air meetings, and the "Volunteers" will avail themselves of it not only tomorrow night but in the future also.

Commander Booth and Major Glen will formally accept the soldiers as a post in God's American Volunteers, and will present them with a handsome banner, the first in the new movement. In his address which will follow the presentation he will explain briefly the objects of God's American Volunteers and of the Defender's League, which is composed of friends and sympathizers. Two local ministers have already become Defenders.

MUSIC IN PERFECT HARMONY.

Delightful Entertainment Given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Night.

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast," but not beasts alone, for those who were present at Y. M. C. A. hall last night and heard the Amphion Ladies Mandolin and Vocal quartette perform, were charmed to a surprising degree by the excellent music rendered. Not a single tune, vocal or instrumental was rendered, but what the harmony was perfect. There was a good sized audience present and they frequently showed their appreciation of the efforts of the entertainers by frequent outbursts of applause.

The quartette was composed of Lavinia Sutcliffe, first soprano, guitar; Juliet L. Underhill, second soprano, mandolin; Isabelle F. Mundell, first alto, mandolin; M. Louise Mundell, second alto, mandolin. The programme consisted of eleven numbers and encores were given to nearly all of them.

Begging Impostors.

The Organized Aid Association desires to warn the people of Plainfield against persons begging from door to door. As many impostors are about it is best to take the names and, if possible, a description of the parties, and write Mrs. Woodruff, agent of the association, corner of Park and North avenues. At present there are two persons, a man and a young girl, going about soliciting aid, who have been investigated by this association and are proved to be unworthy.

—There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., tomorrow evening.

Not to be Trifled With.

(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

AN OUTLAW HANGED

Cherokee Bill Pays the Penalty for Many Crimes.

MOTHER AND SISTER SAW HIM DIE

They Stood on the Gallows Beside Him When the Trap Was Sprung and Displayed No Emotion—A Remarkable Family.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 18.—Crawford Coldsby (Cherokee Bill), who was hanged here yesterday afternoon in the presence of his mother and sister, who stood on the gallows beside him, and a large concourse of spectators, was a most remarkable character, and came from a remarkable family. He became an outlaw at the age of 14. He shot a man with whom he had quarreled, and from that time until his arrest he was on the scout, suspicious of everyone except his mother and sister, and counting no friend so dear as his trusty Winchester. He is credited with more than a dozen murders.

Came To Die; Not To Talk.

On the gallows in reply to the question if he had anything to say, he answered: "No, I came here to die, not talk." Turning, he kissed his mother and sister good-bye and with a smile on his face walked to his place on the trap. Father Pius said a prayer while the doomed man was being pinioned. Bill recognized friends inside the enclosure and calling them by name bade them good-bye, and was smiling when the cap was drawn over his head. The noose was adjusted and at 2:13 Turnkey Eoff sprang the lever and threw the trap. Bill got his wonderful nerve from his mother, who stood by him on the gallows without flinching or shedding a tear. She took the body to Fort Gibson for burial. One of the many murders charged to Bill was that of Agent Richards of Nowata. Bill strenuously denied this charge. On the afternoon of July 26 Cherokee Bill put all Fort Smith in an uproar. He had secured a pistol and coming out of his cell, as the prisoners were being locked in, he shot and killed Larry Keating. He also fired several shots at Turnkey Eoff and kept up a fusilade with the guards for half an hour. It was a bold plot of the prisoner to break jail, but it failed.

SEVERAL BIG FAILURES.

Philadelphia Merchants in the Cotton Trade Forced to the Wall.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Several big failures were announced here yesterday. Oliver N. Long and William H. Long, trading as James Long, Brother & Co., manufacturers of dress goods, made a general assignment for the benefit of their creditors to David Nimlet, who also is a manufacturer. The assignment, it is said, was partly precipitated by judgments on notes entered against the firm aggregating $89,949. Oliver N. Long secured judgment against William Rhodes on a note for $75,000, dated February 29, 1896, and payable in three days. In addition to the assignment of the firm, Oliver N. Long individually assigned to David C. Nimlet. William Rhodes, against whom Oliver Long obtained a judgement for $75,000, also assigned, naming Henry C. Loughlin as assignee. Frank H. Rhodes, against whom O. N. Long obtained judgment on a note for $100,000, and Wm. H. Long against the same for $50,000 also assigned, placing his affairs in the hands of Henry C. Loughlin. It is stated that the notes held by the Longs against the Rhodes were on money loaned the latter for building operations. The failure of the Longs is said to have been caused by dullness of trade and an over stock of goods. The Long Bros. are among the best known manufacturers of cotton and woolen cloths in the United States. It is estimated that the liabilities will not exceed $450,000, while the assets on a very conservative basis, it is estimated, will approximate over $500,000.

FEARS FOR A SCHOONER.

Nothing Has Been Heard of the John B. Manning Since March 2.

Boston, March 18.—On March 2, the same day that the schooner Jonathan Bourne, which is supposed to have sunk off Chatham, left Portland, there also sailed from that port the four-masted schooner John B. Manning of New York, loaded with 1,800 tons of ice, and bound for New York. The Manning has never been heard from since leaving Portland, and, as even with the most unfavorable weather she should have arrived at her destination. It is feared some serious disaster has befallen her. The Manning was commanded by Capt. F. C. Sprague, and her crew consisted of ten men.

St. Patrick's Banquet in New York.

New York, March 18.—The society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick held its 112 anniversary dinner at the Hotel Savoy last night. About 400 guests were present. The Stars and Stripes and the green flag of Erin were intertwined over the principal table, and a band played the Irish national melodies during the dinner. Among those present were President Theodore Roosevelt of the police board, Mayor Strong, Chauncey M. Depew, Bishop Potter, Austin G. Fox, Commodore Sicard, U. S. N., and Charles A. Dana.

Accident to the Dido.

London, March 18.—During the attempt yesterday to launch the cruiser Dido, a vessel of 5,600 tons, which was built on the Clyde, the vessel stuck at the foot of the ways, where she still remains, half in the water and half on land. She has a bad list to port.

Many Persons Frozen To Death.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—During the recent snowstorm in the province of Oro 130 persons were frozen to death.

ADJOURNED AMID BAYONETS.

Final Scenes of Kentucky's Turbulent Legislative Session.

Frankfort, Ky., March 18.—The struggle for United States senator from Kentucky, which has just closed, will go down in history as the most remarkable contest ever waged in any state in the Union. The contest really began and was waged at the same time the campaign for state officers was being conducted. The two houses were evenly divided on joint ballot. The republicans have a majority of six in the house of representatives and the democrats control the senate by six. From the first ballot to the last this remarkable contest has had the interest of the entire country. Replete from start to finish with sensational incidents, the final act in this great political drama was a fitting denouement. And the spectacle of a legislative body of a great commonwealth being guarded under martial law by the state troops will go down to posterity as a lasting stain upon Kentucky's escutcheon.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

Princeton Team's Condition Will Depend on Result of the Trip to Greece.

Princeton, N. J., March 18.—Two men who will represent Princeton in the Olympic games at Athens April 5 to 15 have been in training for the event for some time past, but the condition in which they will appear at Athens will depend very much on the effect the voyage will have on them, as but little time will be left after their arrival in Greece before the contests take place. Princeton will be the only American college to compete in these events, and all the men seem to feel the responsibility of their position. Prof. William Sloane of Princeton has been one of the chief agitators on this side of the water in bringing about the revival of the old games and it has been largely due to his efforts that Princeton has been able to send out a team. The suits which the contestants are to wear have arrived and were shown for the first time yesterday. They are of white material with a stripe of orange and black down the trousers, a band of the same colors about the waist and another running diagonally across the chest.

BICYCLES AS BAGGAGE.

New York Assembly Committee Decides To Report the Armstrong Bill.

Albany, March 18.—Legislation in the interest of 100,000 bicyclists in the state of New York received an impetus yesterday afternoon when the assembly committee on roads decided to report favorably the Armstrong bicycle bill which provides that steam railroads shall carry bicycles free. The wheelmen of the state have been petitioning the members of the legislature for weeks to favor the enactment of this bill, but action was delayed so long that several of the members of the L. A. W., who are pushing the measure, were afraid if its consideration were left until the close of the session it would be lost. The committee, however, determined that the time for action had come and decided to report the bill favorably with amendments. One of the amendments provides that bicycles carried as baggage need not be crated, covered or otherwise protected.

RENEWED THEIR EARLY LOVE

Royal Grant, Aged 81, and Martha Galpin, Aged 71, United in Matrimony.

Middletown, Conn., March 18.—Rev. Raymond Maplesden, the Baptist pastor, married yesterday afternoon Royal Grant, aged 81, and Mrs. Martha J. Warren, aged 71. Grant is an essence peddlar and years ago met Martha J. Galpin, but his suit was not successful. Since then he has drifted around the country and married twice, she once, and now after several years of loneliness, they have met and renewed their early love.

Philadelphia, May 18.—After having been foiled three times in his efforts to reach Cuba, Gen. Calixto Garcia made a fourth attempt on Sunday evening, when, with thirty-two compatriots, he started in a tug from here to intercept the steamship Bermuda, and it is believed that the entire party is now on board the steamer.

Dixon Defeats Marshall.

Boston, March 18.—It took champion George Dixon but seven rounds to get the decision over Jerry Marshall at the Music hall last night.

NICARAGUAN REVOLT

Wires Down and Communication with the Interior Difficult.

AMERICANS' RIGHTS IN DANGER

Torres, Who Connived To Kill an American, in Command of the Mosquito Reserve—Our Consul at Greytown Very Busy.

(Special Correspondence.)

Greytown, Nicaragua, March 4, via New Orleans, March 18.—The telegraph lines are cut and communication with the interior is only maintained with difficulty. Since the revolution broke out in Leon on February 24, when Francisco Baca "pronounced" against Zelsya and proclaimed himself provisional president with Gen. Ortoga as commander-in-chief of the revolutionary forces, reported to be 5,000 strong, we have heard of three engagements in which Zelaya claims to have been victorious, but which were clearly indecisive. In Bluefields business is utterly disorganized, according to reports received here. Gov. Reyes took the field March 1 for Zelaya with only 200 men, which were followed by 300 more from Rama under Col. Luis Mena. Gov. Torres, the man who was removed on the demand of United States Minister Baker for conniving at the escape of Aguillo, who murdered the American, Wilson, is in command of the Mosquito reserve, now known as the province of Zelaya. Martial law prevails.

Passports To Cross a Street.

Not more than five persons are allowed to assemble together. Torres police permit no one to more than cross the street without a special passport, which costs twenty-five cents each time. Mr. Hunt the United States consular agent, has his hands full protecting American rights. Nothing is heard from Minister Baker—"The old lady of Managua," as he is generally called. Official proclamation is made in the Boletin de Los Debates, the official journal, that a convention has been agreed upon between Lord Salisbury and Salvadore's minister in London, acting for Nicaragua, to "settle amicably the claims of divers British subjects for losses sustained by them on the Mosquito reserve." It was supposed that with the payment of the $75,000 "smart money" to the British consular agent, Hatch, all further claims for damages had been dropped, but this seems not to be the case. The new convention retains the words which were regarded as reflecting on the United States in the original demand. Article 1 provides for appointment of a commission, "which is to consist of a representative of England (well versed in Spanish), a representative of Nicaragua (who knows well the English language) and a jurist, not a citizen of any American state. This last shall be the president of the commission." The commission is to meet at Bluefields as early as possible. Both governments have ratified the convention.

THE LADIES IN POSSESSION.

Sons of the Revolution and Daughters of American Revolution Separate.

Philadelphia, March 18.—The many quarrels between the Pennsylvania society of the Sons of the Revolution and the Philadelphia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution have culminated in the withdrawal of the Sons from Independence hall. For nearly a year there have been frequent clashes and misunderstandings between the two organizations regarding the possession of the old city council chambers in the hall, all growing out of the desire of the Sons to have absolute control. Under an ordinance of the council the Daughters had equal rights. This was so objectionable to the Sons that, finally, they decided to have the conditions altered or quit. They did not have them altered to suit them, so they quit, and the keys of their rooms have been returned to the chief of the bureau of city property. The Daughters now have entire possession, and will endeavor to restore the rooms to their original condition, having $5,000 to spend for the purpose.

THE MATADI DISASTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey of Boston Were the Missionaries Killed.

Boston, March 18.—A cablegram received by Rev. F. L. Piper, of this city, secretary of the American Advent Mission society, confirms the news received of the loss of the steamer Matadi by an explosion of gunpowder on the Congo river March 7. The missionaries who lost their lives were Stanley S. Harvey and wife of Boston and members of the Advent Christian church, and both missionaries of the American Advent Mission society. They had just started on their way back to America for rest.

House Committee Will Recommend More War Vessels.

BATTLE SHIPS AND TORPEDO BOATS

The Construction of Four More of the Former and Fifteen of the Latter Believed To Be Advisable.

Washington, March 18.—At yesterday's meeting of the house naval committee it was decided to recommend in the naval appropriation bill the construction of four battleships and fifteen torpedo boats. The battleships will have a displacement of about eleven thousand tons and shall cost not to exceed $3,750,000 each, exclusive of armament. The appropriations to begin the work on the battleships will be in keeping with the amount which Secretary Herbert stated he could expend next year for that purpose. Five of the torpedo boats will be of large size and will cost in the aggregate $850,000, while the appropriation for the remaining ten, which will be of smaller dimensions, will be $800,000. In view of the expedition with which boats of this character can be built, $1,256,250 of the entire amount will be provided for in the present bill. The large boats will have a speed of twenty-six knots against twenty for the smaller vessels.

Wanted Six Battleships.

This conclusion was reached only after a two hours' discussion participated in by the thirteen members present. Mr. Hall of Missouri, an absentee, in a letter to the committee, requested his vote recorded in favor of the largest number of ships which it might be regarded necessary to recommend, but his request was not granted. Hibborn of California finally moved that the committee recommend four battleships. Hanley of Indiana offered an amendment fixing the number of battleships at six. The first vote was taken on the amendment. It was defeated—seven to six.

Details of the Vote.

The affirmative vote, cast by Messrs. Hanly of Indiana, Cummings of New York, Meyer of Louisiana, Money of Mississippi, Tate of Georgia and Hart of Pennsylvania. Those voting in the negative were Messrs. Boutelle of Maine, Hulick of Ohio, Hilborn of California, Bull of Rhode Island, Wilson of New York, Foss of Illinois and Dayton of West Virginia. The vote on the Hilborn proposition for four ships was carried unanimously. The principal items of the bill have been given heretofore in these dispatches and the measure as agreed to, without the allowance for the new ships, will carry an appropriation of $28,454,784.

FITZ ON HIS DIGNITY.

He Positively Refuses To Make a Match with Corbett at Present.

Buffalo, March 18.—A reporter called on Fitzsimmons last evening and asked him if he would sign the articles of agreement, now said to have arrived here, for a fight with Corbett before the National Sporting club of London. Corbett has already signed the agreement. Fitzsimmons declared emphatically that he would not agree to meet Corbett at present. "I have signed many articles to fight Corbett," said Fitzsimmons, "but he has always made me wait and put me off as much as possible. Now I will give him a dose of his own medicine." "Then I am to understand that you will not sign?" "Exactly; that's my position. Let Corbett whip Maher or somebody else and get a reputation." "He has whipped many men and his reputation is as good as yours, is it not?" said the reporter. At this the auborn-haired pugilist got excited and replied in an angry tone: "Who has he ever whipped? Only two old has-beens." At this point Fitzsimmons stood up as straight as the liberty pole, and, pointing his hand downward, said: "I've got that man Corbett under my foot and I'll keep him there."

FOR THE LEXOW TRIALS.

New York City Wants the State To Foot the Bills.

Albany, March 18.—Assemblyman O'Grady, chairman of the assembly ways and means committee, has received a communication from Corporation Counsel Scott of New York city, asking that an item of $37,511 be placed in the annual supply bill to reimburse the police department and district attorney's office of New York city for expenses in prosecuting officials of the New York city police force as the result of the Lexow police investigation. The corporation counsel contends that the state and not the city should stand this expense.

Government Will Not Enter Relief Work.

London, March 18.—In response to the proposal made to him by the Armenian relief committee that a national fund under the auspices of the government be started for the assistance of suffering Armenians, Lord Salisbury says that the relief of distress in foreign countries has invariably emanated from private liberality or local authority.

Raines Bill Hearing.

Albany, March 18.—Mayor J. B. Thacher of Albany received a telegram last night from Mayor Jewett of Buffalo in which the latter announced his intention to personally represent his city at the hearing before Gov. Morton this afternoon in opposition to the Raines bill. Mayor Jewett had at first intended to have Assemblyman Smith act as Buffalo's representative.

Dolphin Leaves Puerto Cortez.

Washington, March 18.—The Dolphin has sailed from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, for Tampico, Mexico.

FOR DETAINING LETTERS.

A Boston Carrier Held in $500 for the Circuit Court.

Boston, Mar h 18.—Joseph W. Nelson, a letter carrier connected with the Dorchester district, and who has for seven years been in the service of the United States, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of detaining letters. A portion of Dorchester avenue is on his route, and on Saturday he visited a fish market on that street. He had often visited the store before and was well acquainted with the clerks. He states that he was in a hurry to complete his work on Saturday, as he had an engagement he desired to keep, and that he had a very large amount of mail to deliver. He took thirty-one letters, all addressed to people living on his route, and, tieing them in a bundle, placed them beneath the counter in the store, with the idea of calling for them on Monday and then completing his delivery. Monday he did not report for duty, and a substitute carrier was placed on his route. During that day a clerk found the bundle of letters, and, after waiting for Nelson to return and take them, thought that if the United States authorities became aware of the fact that the letters were in the store he, himself, would be arrested. He then hurriedly reported the circumstances to Chief Inspector Boynton, and the latter caused the arrest of Nelson. Before United States Commissioner Fiske, Nelson pleaded guilty, waived examination, and was held in $500 for the May term of the circuit court.

ANNUAL STATE DINNER.

Ambassador and Mrs. Pauncefote Entertain Secretary of State Olney.

Washington, March 18.—The British ambassador and Lady Pauncefote gave the customary annual state dinner last evening to the secretary of state, which did not occur earlier in the season on account of the death of Prince Henry of Battenburg and the consequent period of court mourning. The guests included the Secretary of State and Mrs. Olney, the French ambassador and wife, the Baroness von Thielman, the Mexican minister and wife, the Netherlands minister, the Turkish minister, the Belgian minister, the minister of Norway and Sweden, the Brazilian minister and wife, the Chilian minister and wife, the Japanese minister, the Swiss minister and wife, the Spanish minister and wife, the Danish minister, the Russian minister, Viscount and Viscountess Gough, Hon. Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Bax-Ironside. A reception followed the dinner, which was attended by members of the diplomatic corps and leading members of congress and public officials.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION.

Bill Reported Requiring Consular Certificates and Educational Ability.

Washington, March 18.—The house committee on immigration has made a favorable report on the immigration bill of representative W. A. Stone, rep., Pa. The bill provides that no alien shall be admitted to the United States without a certificate from a United States consul to the country from which he hails that he is eligible. The bill also includes an educational test for persons between the ages of sixteen and sixty. Intending immigrants between these ages must be able to read and write in some language. Females, however, are excepted from this provision. The last amendment was insisted upon by Chairman Bertholdt, rep., Mo., who is a native of Germany, and throughout the discussion in committee has disapproved of anything at all sweeping in the way of restrictions.

RATE OF WAGES RESTORED.

Lehigh Valley Railroad Increases Salaries to the Scale Previous to 1893.

Philadelphia, March 18. — It is learned that the 10 per cent reduction in wages made by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company in 1893 has been restored. The change, which was made by the board of directors to take effect March 1, will affect all salaried employes from the president down receiving more than $1,000 per year. The original reduction of 10 per cent. in all salaries in excess of that figure was due to the reduction in the earnings of the company following its disastrous connection with the Reading and the return to the old salary rate is directly due to the present improvement in the earnings of the road.

Postmaster Attempts Suicide Upon the Discovery of His Crime.

Washington, March 18.—Col. Wheeler, chief postoffice inspector, has received a telegram from New Orleans saying that inspectors Hamilton and Fisher "checked up" the postoffice at Quinlan, Tex., and had found postmaster A. H. Cooke short over $5,000. The postmaster attempted to commit suicide with narcotics, but was resuscitated and is now under arrest.

Wilkesbarre Baseball Club Manager.

Rochester, N. Y., March 18.—It is stated on good authority to-day that Sandy Griffin will be manager of the Wilkesbarre Baseball club this season. As the owners of the club want a non-playing manager, it will retire Sandy from his position in left field, where he has served so faithfully.

HAS LEFT FOR CUBA

Gen. Garcia Put on Board the Bermuda at Sea.

HIS BAIL WILL BE FORFEITED

Other Filibusters Reported To Have Also Evaded the Revenue Officers at New York—Situation of the Struggle for Liberty.

New York, March 18.—A morning paper to-day says: "When the case of the Cuban filibusters implicated in the Bermuda, Laudara and Hawkins expeditions is called in the United States court next Monday Gen. Calixto Garcia will probably be missing, and his bail forfeited. It is now certain that he has left for Cuba. Gen. Garcia did not leave on board the Bermuda, as was generally thought. He left in a tug and was transferred to the Bermuda far out at sea. With him were other patriots bound for Cuba. Others went to Florida, and sailed from there to meet the Bermuda. Among those who went to Florida was Dr. Carlos Garcia, Gen. Garcia's son, and among those who left in a tug from New York with the general was Dr. Hernandez. He is going to be the chief of the surgeons' staff in the Cuban army, which is the only salaried body in the insurgent camp. Dr. Garcia left his home ten days ago for Florida. Friends of the Garcias say that the general will explain his action satisfactorily as soon as he lands and it is believed that he has left a document with one of his trusted friends which will be given out for publication as soon as he arrives at the Pearl of the Antillies. Gen. Garcia's wife told a reporter that her husband would come back to the United States and deliver himself to the authorities."

INSURGENT STRENGTH.

Their Army in Cuba Now Numbers About 48,000 Men.

Havana, March 14, via Tampa, Fla., March 18.—The present strength of the insurgent army is close to 43,000 men. Cubans themselves estimate the number of men in the field as high as 60,000 men, but even if unarmed camp followers, men in charge of provision trains, hospitals and camps were counted it is doubtful if that number could be found actually in service. There are thousands of Cubans who would willingly cast their lots with the patriot army, but lack of arms and ammunition prevents. The insurgent forces operate as a rule in zones or districts and are organized on military lines. The columns of Gomez, Maceo, Lacret and Banderas are, however, limited to no one province, but pass from one to another under direct orders of Gomez. The commander-in-chief is now in Matanzas and the others have re-invaded Havana province.

Distribution According to Provinces.

The distribution according to provinces is: Havana 16,800, Mantanzas 8,600, Santa Clara 6,500, Santiago 5,500, Pinar del Rio 3,900, Camaguay 1,500 Total, 42,800. In addition to the above there are innumerable local bands of from fifteen men to fifty, or even 100. These do not form part of the fighting force and should not be counted on as part of the army. Their main functions are to carry out the orders of Gomez prohibiting the grinding of cane, the movement of troops and supplies by rail, the shipment of provisions to cities, the suppression of "plateados" who rob, burn and commit other crimes. These small bands serve as recruiting agencies, and when they grow too large for local operation they are attached to one of the army columns. Of the army proper fully two-thirds are well mounted and about half are well armed. The others are armed with shotguns revolvers or only with the machete.

Armed with Antique Weapons.

Some of Maceo's men have old style muzzle-loading guns, and lead is so scarce that telegraph wire chopped into short lengths is used for the charge. Spanish surgeons have on several occasions reported soldiers wounded with bits of wire. The insurgents have a few pieces of mountain cannon captured from government troops. There are perhaps a dozen of these guns which have been used with disastrous effect against the small wooden forts which the Spanish troops have erected at various points. The Cuban "army of liberation" as it is called, has grown to its present size in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties. From the beginning it has been outnumbered by the army of Spain in the ratio of never less than 4 to 1. It has escaped annihilation in many encounters when ammunition ran out. It has lived on forage, been almost constantly under fire, and is to-day a reckless, daredevil army with but one idea in view, and that is to free Cuba. What comes after is not given a thought.

Affairs in Cuba.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Havana, March 18.—It is reported that Antonio Maceo, the second in command of the rebel forces, is near Candelaria, in the province of Pinar del Rio. At a meeting of the reformist party here it was decided to take no part in the election of members of the cortes, it being held impossible for the party to do so because of the disturbance caused by the war. This decision was cabled to Madrid. Replies have been received from the leaders there commending the action of the party, declaring that the elections in Cuba will only be simulated, and advising that the reformists only take part in elections when the provinces are pacified.

Religion is for the wide world. It is well and good to be patriotic, but there should be no such thing as American religion.

A New York paper essays to instruct how to get rich with $50 as capital to start on. The mission would be more complete if they would first tell how to get the $50.

Borough Clerk Arnold's salary was increased from $500 to $600 because the members of the Council believe that the responsibility and work attached to the position demand it. It was a case of where the Council recognized and appreciated the efficiency of a subordinate officer.

No man who has a whit of patriotism in him cannot but help to admire and enjoy the toast on "The United States of America," delivered by James E. Martine at the banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in Elizabeth last night, which is published in another column of The Daily Press today.

The Daily Press is glad to learn that Foster Voorhees has fallen into a good berth. During the past year the Senator has been a candidate for the two highest offices in the administrative department of the State—the Governorship and the Presidency of the Senate—but both times he was turned down by his colleagues. He is now secure, for a time at least, from the uncertainties of politics.

It has been practically settled that Senator Foster M. Voorhees, whose term in the upper house expires at the close of this session, will be the successor of Allen L. McDermott, Clerk in Chancery, says the New York Journal. The Governor offered it to him weeks ago, and although he knew it could be had by giving his assent, the Senator refused to move in the matter until the question of placing it and the Supreme Court clerkship on a salary basis, had been definately settled. This has been done and is now the law.

The Marriage License bill, as it has passed the Assembly, still contains the provision requiring people to take out the licenses to pay $1 fees to the City Clerks who perform the laborious service of recording the names of the candidates for matrimony. This may be a small matter, but it is not the less a contemptible piece of business for a State to lay tribute upon those seeking to be married, for the benefit of officials who are already getting from their offices at least all that they earn by their labor there.—Newark News.

SUCCESS FOR THE HIBERNIANS.

Their Dance in Saengerbund Hall Largely Attended Last Night.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, No. 4, of this city, gave a successful reception and dance last evening in Saengerbund Hall. It was attended by the largest crowd of the season and every portion of the floor was occupied. A programme consisting of twenty-eight select dances was presented. Eugene O'Reilly and his orchestra furnished the music and the following committees left no detail unattended to give everyone a thoroughly pleasant time: Reception committee, Frank Conley, Michael J. Regan, Wm. Casey, Daniel McDevatt; floor manager, Patrick O'Keefe; assistant floor manager, Dennis Regan. The reception committee also looked after the refreshments.

About 11 o'clock the grand march was held, which was led by Patrick O'Keefe and Miss Ellen Reagan.

The entire affair was a thorough success and a large sum will be realized from it.

Westfield's Common Scold Again.

Miss Jacques, of Westfield, who was convicted of being a common scold last fall, and who was let off with a reprimand on promise of keeping the peace, is again complained of by the neighbors. A few evenings ago Town Committeeman Endicott and Judge Conant were attracted by sounds of an affray at the Jacques place, and upon entering, it is said, found Miss Jacques and her sister engaged in a violent altercation, their aged parents trembling with fear, and the air "blue" with expletives. A warning was given. Miss Jacques is a woman of fine intellect and finished education, prominent in temperance and charitable work. Her friends look upon her as probably mentally deranged.

THEATRICAL.

Tonight at Music Hall that successful drama the "Span of Life," will again be seen in this city. Lovers of the realistic drama cannot forget the bridge of human bodies, and the lighthouse on the Coffin Rocks. It is interpreted by Mr. William Calders' sterling company, which was seen here last year. Since then the play has been produced in Paris, France, Germany and Australia, and has duplicated its American success. All the continental and Australian press speak of it as did the New York and the leading cities in this country as "The greatest and best realistic drama ever seen here." Its plot has been told again and again, of how three acrobats save the life of the heroine by forming a human bridge across a terrible chasm. This scene is no doubt one of the best climaxes ever used in modern drama, and when the curtain descends on this thrilling stage picture, the audience fairly rise from their seats and cheer.

"Fritz in Love," the name of the new play, which 'Our Fritz" produces at Music Hall next Wednesday night, is described as the most notable and ambitious effort of Mr. J. K. Emmet's career, affording this pleasing comedian ample scope for the display of his many talents. The author shows the serene and gentle "Fritz" in the usual lovable and kindly light, surrounded by that radiant bouquet of rosy faces—the children, those tiny ideals of this imaginative Teuton's happiness. "Fritz in Love" unfolds a very interesting and pretty story. It is interspersed with sparkling comedy, music and dances. The company supporting Mr. Emmet is an exceptionally good one, the members are Miss Annie Mortland, Mrs. Hattie F. Nefflen, Miss Grace Pierrepont, Miss Blanche Chatfield, William T. Doyle, Jas. H. Griffiith, C. B. Sinnott and Florie Loeber.

Manager Doris certainly could not have selected a better location than Broadway and Twenty-ninth street, New York, nor a prettier or cosier playhouse for his continuous vaudeville than the charming little Gaiety. Located right among the high-priced houses, in the midst of the residence portion of the Metropolis, and convenient as well to the various lines of cars and depots.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Addie Weaver, of Grove street, will ride an 18-pound Spalding wheel this year.

Miss Freeman, of Watchung avenue, has purchased a new Crescent wheel from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

John Keefe, formerly of this city, but now of the Keer & Martin Cycle Company, of Newark, has just received a full nickeled Crescent wheel for trick riding.

Chief Consul Gentle of the New Jersey State Division has decided to establish a Guide Post Day, when all clubs in the State will take runs in their respective neighborhoods and report the condition of the guide posts along the roads.

AT THE TRAPS.

On Saturday next, at Earl's grounds, Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, a match will be shot. Mr. Blodget and Mr. Lambert will be the competitors. The conditions will be 15 birds each, for $25 a side, Blodget to stand 34 yards rise, and Lambert, 28. Fritz Glaser is to shoot against an unknown for a nominal purse.

BASKET BALL.

A game of basket ball will be played at the Y. M. C. A. next Saturday night between the business men and the regular Y. M. C. A. team. Admission to full members free; to all others 10 cents.

A SUCCESSFUL PRESENTATION.

The Dramatic Society of the Catholic Club Please a Large Audience.

The Dramatic Society of the Plainfield Catholic Club could not have selected a more appropriate piece than "The Shamrock and the Rose" for presentation on St. Patrick's Day, as was evidenced last night by the large audience in Music Hall. The characters, plot, scene and action of the drama aroused the enthusiasm of many an auditor who had experienced on the Emerald Isle in their earlier days incidents which were typified on the stage, and when the villian was balked in his mercenary intentions or the hero scored a telling point, and right triumphed over wrong, their fervor took form in a vigorous clapping of the hands.

The cast of characters and plot of the drama have already been printed in The Daily Press. The company as a whole showed careful training, and had their lines memorized so that performance was not marred in effect of realism by the prompter. The leading role was impersonated by Matt. J. Cashin, who acted the part of the persecuted patriot, with earnest voice and easy stage presence. M. J. Winn was a gruff, scheming villian, who stopped not even for murder to accomplish his ends while W. J. O'Brien, as his tool, had the most despicable character of the drama, but it was a piece of character acting that reflected favorably on his histrionic ability. Charles J. Ward was the jolly Irish lad who always looked at the bright side of things, and with Irish wit, song and dance, carried the audience with him. Miss Etta Blatz, in the leading feminine role, played with sincerity, while Miss Doorey, as a colleen, was a counterpart of Mr. Ward's character, and played with the abandon necessary to make a success. Miss Alice Keeley was good in the emotional part. Other characters of the piece were taken by C. J. Guinee, T. J. Comerford and M. J. Higgins.

—The Westfield Township Committee has organized, with L. G. Endicott as chairman, and N. B. Gardiner as treasurer. This is Mr. Gardiners last year on the committee.

—A delegation from Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., will go to Raritan tomorrow evening to attend the dedicatory exercises in connection with the opening of Raritan Tribe's new hall.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FOR SELLING OLEOMARGARINE.

Two Elizabeth Dealers in Court and One Pays $100.

For some time Deputy Internal Revenue Collector John T. Brennan has been quietly waging war against the dealers in oleomargarine in Elizabeth and in Rahway. Yesterday Noble Beatty and John Orr, two Elizabeth grocers, were on trial in the district court for selling oleomargarine without a license. Beatty settled his case, it is said, by paying the $100 fee, and Judge Gilhooly reserved decision in the other case.

One Minute Cough Cure touches the right spot. It also touches it at the right time if you take it when you have a cough or cold. See the point? Then don't cough.

MORE MONEY NEEDED.

Young Christian Workers Meet and Talk of Ways and Means.

The executive committee of the local union of Christian Endeavors consisting of representatives from all of the societies, met at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening and discussed means and methods for securing more money for the work. Several suggestions were presented and the representatives were urged to tell their several societies of the needs and secure larger contributions The date of the annual meeting of the local union was set for Thursday, April 9th, and an effort will be made to secure State President Dr. French, of Newark and Dr. Brett, of Jersey City, as speakers for that occasion. The place of holding the meeting has not yet been decided.

ZEKE.

Awk'ardest gump you ever seen.
Slow an' clumsy an' raw an' green,
Lantern-jawed an' lank an' lean,
Eumly as sin;
Kerried a kind of an honest face,
Spite of his gineral lack o' grace,
But he never fitted in nary place
That he was in.

Never had nuthin' much ter say,
But whether he aimed ter work or play
He was alius gettin' in some un's way.
'N' his Granny Root,
She said 'twas so from the time he crep';
He'd sure fall outen the bed ef he slep',
An' when awake he couldn't be kep'
From under foot.

Went ter a soshybul one night,
Stumbled, of course, upsot the light,
Spiled the carpet an' skeered Mis Bright
Plumb sick a-bed;
Sot a spell on the parson's hat,
Trod on the foot of Widder Pratt,
An' spilt a sasser of hot tea pat
On Syke's bald head.

A queer cub allus. Did you uns hear
What he done when the squire's house burnt last year?
Wal, the crowd was watchin' it disappear
In smoke an' flame,
An' Zeke was a-trompin' on folkses' toes
An' a-swellin' the total of human woes
In his blunderin' way, when the cry arose:
"Where's little Mame?"

"I know whar she's at," said the squire's boy, Kit.
"For she done tol' me ter wait a bit
Till she went inter the house ter git
That cat o' hern."
My tellin' it, stranger, sounds mighty tame,
But our hearts jes' froze when the answer came,
An' the mother a-screamin': "My child, my Mame!
Don't let her burn!"

We hearn the red flames sizz an' crack,
An' seen 'em a-dancin' front an' back,
An' all turned skeery—the hull durned pack,
'Ceptin' Zeke Pool.
An' that yer 'Zekel, he rushed pell-mell
Inter the heart of that blazin' hell,
A-givin' no heed ter the gineral yell:
"Come back, you fool!"

That minute growed ter a full-sized hour
And we uns watted amid a shower
Of cinders, a-prayin' with all our power—
Then came a shout.
An' Zeke in a winder framed in flame
Stood thar a-holdin' of little Mame!
We spread a blanket, an' down she came
As he heaved her out.

The gal?—oh, yes, she was peart an' right,
But Zeke, with his face all drawn an' white,
Reeled for'ard an' back till he sunk from sight
In a helpless way.
Soon the building tottered from roof ter floor,
Then buckled an' fell, with a crash an' roar,
An' Zeke won't git in the way no more
Till jedgment day.

STOPPING A RUN.

BY ANTHONY HOPE.

HERE was a run on the Sandhill and District bank. It had lasted the whole of one day, and had shown no signs of abating in the evening. If it lasted another day! Old Mr. Bradshaw wiped his brow. It had come just at the most awkward time—just after the farmers had got their usual loans, just when securities were hard to realize; in fact, just at the moment when the bank, though in reality solvent, was emphatically not in a position to answer a long-continued demand for payment on the spot. Mr. Bradshaw groaned out all these distressing facts to his son Dick.

"We shall have to put the shutters up. One day's grace would save us, I believe; we could get the money then. But if they're at us again to-morrow morning, we can't last two hours."

Dick sympathized, but had nothing to suggest, except that it would not make matters worse if he carried out his engatement to go to the circus with the Flirtington girls.

"Oh, go to Halifax with the Flirtington girls, if you like," groaned Mr. Bradshaw.

So Dick went—to the circus (the other expedition, as he observed, would keep), and enjoyed the performance very much, especially the lion taming, which was magnificent, and so impressed Dick that he deserted his companions, went behind the scenes, and insisted on standing Sig. Philippini several glasses.

"IS HE CHAINED?"

"Is that big chap quite safe?" he asked, admiringly.

"I can do anything with 'im," said the signor (whose English was naturally defective); "but with anyone helse 'e's a roarer, 'e is, and no mistake."

After the performance Dick took the Flirtington girls home; then, with a thoughtful look on his face, he went and had some talk with his father, and came away, carefully placing a roll of notes in his breast pocket. Then he sought Sig. Philippini's society once more. And that's all that is really known about it—if, that is, we discard the obviously fanciful statement of Fanny Flirtington that as she was gazing at the moon at two a. m. she saw a heavy wagon, drawn by two horses and driven by Sig. Philippini, pass along the street in the direction of the bank.

However these things may be, this is what happened next morning: When the first of the depositors arrived at seven a. m., they found one of the windows of the bank smashed to pieces and the shutter hanging loose. A cry went up that there had been a robbery, and one or two men began to climb in. They did not get far before a fearful roar proceeded from the neighborhood of the counter. They looked at one another, and said it would be more regular to wait for the officials. The roars continued. They sent for Mr. Bradshaw. Hardly had he arrived (accompanied by Dick, breathless and in shirtsleeves) before the backmost rows of the now considerable crowd became agitated with a new sensation. The news spread rapidly. Frantic men ran to and fro; several ladies fainted; the circus proprietor was sent for. A lion had escaped from the menagerie, and was supposed to be at large through the town!

"Send for Philippini!" said the proprietor. They did so. Philippini had started early for a picnic in the country, and would not return till just before the performance in the evening. The proprietor was in despair.

"Where's the beast gone to?" he cried.

A roar from the bank answered his question.

"Well, I'm blowed if he's not in the bank!" exclaimed the proprietor.

It certainly appeared to be the fact that Atlas (that was the lion's name) had taken refuge in the bank, and was in full possession of the premises and assets. Under these circumstances there was, Mr. Bradshaw explained, a difficulty in resuming cash payments; but if his checks would be accepted—the crowd roared almost as loud as Atlas at such an idea. Something must be done. They sent for the mayor; he repudiated liability. They sent for the fire brigade and the lifeboat crew. Neither would come. They got guns, and peppered the furniture. Atlas retired behind the fireproof safe and roared worse than ever. Meanwhile, the precious hours were passing. Mr. Bradshaw's money was also on its way from London. At last Dick took a noble resolution.

"I will go in at any cost!" he cried, and, in spite of Fanny Flirtington's tears, he scaled the window and disappeared from view. The crowd waited to hear Atlas crunching; but he only roared. When Dick was inside, he asked: "Is he chained?"

"Yes," answered Sig. Philippini from behind the safe. "Is the Aunt Sally business over?" and he came out with a long pole in his hand. He used the pole to stir poor Atlas up when the roars became deficient in quantity and quality.

"The money ought to be here in three hours," said Dick. "Have you got the back door key?"

Philippini reassured him. Then Dick took a wild, running leap at the window; Philippini stirred up Atlas, who roared lustily. Dick escaped with his life, and landed, a breathless heap, at the mayor's feet. The mayor raised him, and said he should write to her majesty, and suggest that Dick would be a proper recipient of the Albert medal, and the vicar (who had no money in the bank) indignantly asked the crowd if they could not trust a family which produced scions like that. Several people cried: "Hear, hear!" and told Mr. Bradshaw that they never really meant to withdraw their deposits. Mr. Bradshaw thanked them and looked at his watch.

At half-past three Philippini ran up; he also was breathless, and his shoes were dusty from walking in the country. At once he effected an entry, amid a scene of great excitement. A moment later he appeared at the window and cried in terror:

"I can't 'old 'im! I can't 'old 'im! 'E's mad! Look out for yourselves!" and he leaped from the window.

The crowd fled in all directions, and two boys were all but run over by a cart which was being driven rapidly from the railroad station to the bank.

"All right," said Dick to the signor, "bring up the wagon." And then, with great difficulty and consummate courage, the signor and Dick brought an iron cage up to the window, and drove Atlas in. The operation took more than an hour, because they had to feed Atlas and drink a bottle of champagne themselves before they set about it. So that it was about six o'clock before Atlas was out, and the money was in, and the Sandhill bank opened its place for business.

"We gained just the time we needed," said Mr. Bradshaw. "It was dirt cheap at fifty pounds."

And Dick, although he did not get the Albert medal, was taken into partnership and married Fannie Flirtington. It was the only way of preventing her seeing things she was not meant to see out of the window at two a. m., and chattering about them in public.—From "Sport Royal."

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

UNITED STATES
Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be held by its local board in this city on Saturday, April 4th, 1896, commencing at 10:30 a. m., for the grade of carriers in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations for this examination are as follow: Not under 18 years. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned in complete form, on the proper blank, before the hour of closing business on March 30th, 1896. Applications should be filed promptly, therefore, in order that time may remain for correction if necessary.

The Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, without regard to race or to their political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded, and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to any consideration save their efficiency as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, apply to

The Plainfield

WATER SUPPLY CO.,

Incorporated 1869.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. Address the Company at 207 North ave. 2 27 3w

A LESSON.

When in my heart love first began,
So well I played my part,
Her father said I was a man
Right after his own heart.

Her sister said I was a dear.
Her brother thought me fine,
And to mamma did I appear
A creature half divine.

But when I asked her for her hand
She laughed a laugh most gay,
And told me in sweet accents bland
To call some other day.

Next time I find myself involved
By fate in love's mad whirl,
Upon one thing I am resolved:
I'm going to court the girl.
—Tom Masson, in Detroit Free Press.

A ROMANTIC TRAGEDY.

THE Little Tennessee river winds circuitously through these large mountains and finally finds its way into the Tennessee at Lenoir City, at a point near the state line between Tennessee and North Carolina. Yellow creek empties into the Little Tennessee. About five miles up this creek lived old man Burchfield and his family, composed of his wife and two children, one a boy of sixteen and the other a girl of eighteen. Their parents called them Lem and Lize. Lem did not amount to much, but Lize was known through all the mountain settlements. She had a pretty face and a beautiful figure. The arts of fashion were never known to her and nature was her only teacher. She could climb a mountain or shoot a rifle as good as anyone.

A few miles from the Burchfields there lived another old settler named Wilson. This old man was blessed with a large crop of boys, the oldest being known as "Bill."

Bill was not a handsome boy, neither was he extra smart, but, as old man Burchfield expressed it, "he was one of the evenest boys you ever seen." Bill was passionately fond of Lize, and more than one Sunday did he spend at the Burchfield cabin "a wooin' and a-cooin' of her." His affection was by no means reciprocated, for this fair maiden loved another. Lize had once attended a dance in Cade's Cove, and while there she met a young man named Zeb Simpson. They danced together several times, and before the festivities were over Zeb and Lize had told each other of their love.

Zeb was a little handsomer in the eyes of Lize than Bill, and besides he had traveled. He could sit and tell all about the big houses in Maryville and Sevierville, having visited both places.

On the following Sunday Zeb was also a visitor at the Burchfield cabin, much to the discomfiture of Bill. Zeb continued his visits, and it was not many months before there was a deadly enmity between the two mountain bucks. It was reported that Bill had said he would kill his rival before he should take his girl away from him. This greatly annoyed Lize and Zeb, because they had an idea that Bill would do just as he had said, so they put their heads together and fixed, as they thought, a great plan to get rid of Bill.

The plan agreed upon was this: Bill owned a small still way up the creek, where he made enough whisky for his own use and a little to sell. Zeb was to go to Maryville, where he could find Freshaur, a revenue man, and inform him of the still in the mountains. Freshaur was to go to Lize, and from her he was to get all the information needed. The revenue man started out on his mission, and after a tiresome journey reached old man Burchfield's on Yellow creek.

The girl, as soon as she had talked awhile with the stranger and found out who told him to come there, immediately sent word to Bill to meet her at his still soon the next morning, as she wanted to see him.

Bill received the message with feelings of great joy. He didn't sleep a wink that night. Many a vision passed through his mind. Air castles were built one after another.

Long before day the next morning found him at his still, cleaning it and fixing a nice little rustic seat for the idol of his heart. But he was soon to meet with disappointment in a manner which was least expected. While sitting at the foot of a large poplar tree partly dreaming, there suddenly sprang out from among the bushes a man with a Winchester directly leveled at Bill's face.

HE RECOGNIZED BILL WILSON.

"Throw up your hands!" the man with the Winchester exclaimed.

"All right, Mister Officer," said Bill. "Come on un git me; I am not er goin' to feel hard at you. I am er ready to go with yer, but please let me say a few words afore I leave my still."

"All right," said the officer, and as Bill knelt down he was heard to utter these words:

"Good-by, old still, I may never see yer again, but I swear afore God that if I live ter git outen this me or Zeb Simpson will die."

Bill had seen through the whole scheme, and had taken an oath to kill the man who had robbed him.

The revenue man destroyed the still and carried his prisoner to Maryville jail, where a number of other prisoners were incarcerated preparatory to attending the "big court" at Knoxville. There were several murderers confined in the jail, and a plan of escape was in progress when Bill was placed inside its walls. They found no trouble in getting the new man to help them, and for three weeks they worked all the time they could, and finally a night was set to make a break for freedom. Their plans were successful, and the next morning the town was all astir over a jail delivery. In the excitement which followed Bill was forgotten. There were more important ones to catch, and he found no trouble in making his way back to his old home.

He traveled over the mountains where no one would see him, and he slipped in home after dark one Saturday night. The old folks were glad to see him, but he was destined to receive bad news. Zeb was coming over to marry Lize the next day.

Bill never said a word, but went to his bed, after eating a snack, telling his folks that he would not be home on the following day.

Before daybreak Bill took his old trusty rifle and wended his way over to the foot of "Old Bald" mountain, where he knew Zeb would pass on his way to Burchfield's.

He sat down on the side of the path and waited. About two hours after sunup he saw some one coming down the mountain with a rifle on his shoulder. Upon closer examination it proved to be his old-time rival. Would he step back in the bushes and murder him? No. Face to face he would meet him and settle the grudge. Zeb plodded along with a light heart, not dreaming of the fate which awaited him. As he suddenly rounded a turn in the path he recognized not twenty feet in front of him his old enemy, Bill Wilson.

"Zeb," said Bill, "you beat me outen the gal, and you thought I was in jail, but I am here right now to kill you."

Hardly had he uttered these words when two rifles were quickly raised and two shots were quickly fired, but only one report could have been heard. Zeb was shot through the heart, while the deadly leaden missile wended its way through Bill's brain, and they both fell dead. At the Birchfield mansion all was astir. The neighbors had assembled to witness the marriage ceremony. Ten o'clock came and the groom had not put in his appearance; eleven and twelve o'clock came without any change, and the impatience of Lize knew no bounds. Without saying a word to anyone she slipped out of the cabin and wended her way in the direction her lover would come, hoping to meet him on the road.

On and she went until she nearly reached the foot of Bald mountain when she stumbled and fell. She got up and sat down at the foot of a tree and waited several hours for Zeb to come. Would she go to him? Yes.

With a sudden start she arose, and hardly had she gone ten steps before her eyes rested on the forms of two men lying prostrate on the ground. She started to run at first, but finally concluded to see what was the matter. When she got closer she saw who it was, and not being able to stand the shock she fell in a dead faint.

The Burchfields and neighbors waited for Lize to return, and at last they concluded to go in search of her. They found her at the foot of the mountain, lying on the ground, unconscious, and a little further on they found Bill and Zeb. The Burchfields soon restored Lize to her reason, but in no manner would she answer any questions applied to her. A consultation was held and it was agreed that they should all go home, as it would soon be dark, and the next morning they would return and bury the dead where they were found.

A great sensation was created, but it soon died away. The general belief was that Zeb and Bill had met and quarreled over Lize and their deaths were the result.

Five years had passed and Lize had grown into womanhood. During all this time she had never uttered one word in regard to the tragedy. One Sunday, when she was attending meeting, she became very much interested, and before the services were over she had professed her faith in God, and to that assemblage gathered there she related every detail from beginning to end of this noted case and asked forgiveness of everyone for the part she played.

Every year, as long as she lived, at a certain time she would go and gather wild flowers and place over these two graves.

Death finally called her away, and the two graves are grown over with grass, and the stranger who passes by never fails to wonder who is buried there.—Chattanooga Times.

RILEY'S POETIC TRIBUTE.

The Hoosier Poet Deplores the Death of Edgar Wilson Nye.

Edgar Wilson ("Bill") Nye, who died February 22, near Asheville, N. C., was born in Shirley, Piscataqua county, Me., the 25th of August, 1850. He was educated at an academy at River Falls, Wis., removed to Wyoming territory, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He began early to contribute humorous sketches to the newspapers, using the pen name of "Bill Nye," was connected with various western journals, and afterwards settled in New York city. He has published "Bill Nye and the Boomerang" (Chicago, 1881), "The Forty Liars" (1883), "Baled Hay" (1884), "Bill Nye's Blossom Rock" (1885), and "Remarks" (1886).

No one heard the news of "Bill" Nye's death with more sincere sorrow than

EDGAR WILSON ("BILL") NYE.

James Whitcomb Riley, who was Mr. Nye's close friend and business partner on the lecture platform for a number of years.

"We two have shared confidential sorrows and joys," said Mr. Riley when he received word of the death of his old friend. "My grief is that of a brother, so companionable had we become. I always found Mr. Nye wholly unselfish. He was most gentle at heart, with unfailing hope and cheer. His was a noble, heroic life, full of devotion to his home, his mother, brothers, wife, children, and friends. I cannot doubt that somehow, somewhere he continues cheerily on in the unbroken exercise of his spiritual capacity."

The following is his further tribute to the memory of his friend:

EDGAR WILSON NYE.

The saddest silence falls when laughter lays
Finger on lips, and falteringly breaks;
The glad voice into dying minor shakes
And quavers, lorn as airs the wind-harp plays
At wane of dearest winter's bleakest days—
A troubled hush, in which all hope forsakes
Us, and the yearning, upstrained vision aches,
With tears to drown e'en heaven from our gaze.

Such silence, after such glad merriment—
O, prince of the halest humor, wit, and cheer,
Could you speak yet again I doubt not we Should catch your voice, still blithely eloquent
Above all murmurings of sorrow here,
Calling your love back to us laughingly
James Whitcomb Riley

DILLON MADE LEADER.

The New Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary Party a Strong Man.

John Dillon, who has just been elected chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, is not only an able parliamentarian and politician, but a qualified physician and surgeon. His father was John Blake Dillon, of Dublin, a famous barrister. Mr. Dillon inherited his rare power of oratory from his father, who was likewise a patriotic M. P., sitting for Tipperary in 1865-66. Mr. Dillon's mother was Adelaide Hart. He was born in 1851, and was graduated from the Catholic university of Dublin. He is also a licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons, of Ireland. He was first sent to parliament in 1880, when he sat for Tipperary. In 1885 he was elected from East Mayo. He was reelected in 1892. He has a good face. An anecdote relates how a noted artist painted that face in a West End London church panel as the countenance of St. John, where it is admired to-day for its serene beauty. Mr. Dillon is a great lover of books. His house in North Great George's street, Dublin, has a library rich in rare Hiberniana and, indeed, in many valuable and interesting old volumes picked up by their owner through many years of patient search. The neighborhood in which he lives was a favorite one with the members of the Irish parliament. It would be hard to imagine a man of Mr. Dillon's imaginative nature living in any but an ancient house with historical associations. At his best Mr. Dillon is as fine a speaker as any man in his party. But he lacks constancy. He has neither the steadiness of Healy nor the readiness of Sexton. His sentences are sometimes broken and disjointed. But if his feelings are strongly moved there is a simple strength about what he says that, taken with his manner, makes him second to none in impressiveness. He has long been affectionately known as Honest John Dillon.

Henry C. Bowen's Will.

The will of the late Henry C. Bowen, the founder and owner of The Independent and father of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, this city, was filed for probate in Brooklyn yesterday. A trust fund of $30,000 for the widow is provided, and a like fund of $10,000 for each of the children. The Independent, including the plant connected with it, is left to the executors in trust, with directions not to sell during Mrs. Bowen's life, but with authority to organize a corporation, if that course be deemed desirable. The income from the paper is to be divided equally between the mother and children during her life, and at her death it, with all the residuary estate, is to be divided in equal shares among the children and their heirs.

Simply There as an Authority.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Will you kindly allow me to correct part of the statement in your issue of yesterday. I did not say that the first thing done was to "stick a sharp instrument into the heart," nor did I say that "many people believed to be dead were alive when the cruel instrument of the incompetent embalmer was thrust into their hearts." I was simply called before the committee to describe the methods in use by professional embalmers, which I did to the best of my ability.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Ira F. Riker.

The Dues Raised.

At the meeting of John Hand Camp No. 28, S. of V., last evening, the dues were raised from twenty-five to thirty cents per month, on account of the death benefit association. The camp will commence drilling on Monday evening next in their armory on Somerset street. An invitation was received and accepted from Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., to attend the reception to be given by the latter to the Department Commander and staff next Saturday evening in this city.

ANOTHER GRATEFUL FAMILY.

Mr. Miller Considers Paine's Celery Compound a National Blessing.

There is no spring remedy equal to Paine's celery compound.

Sufferers from debility who find their convalescence too slow, are joyously surprised by the brisk impetus toward recovery that comes from Paine's celery compound. Its healing, nerve-restoring, blood-making, nourishing powers go so directly to the root of the trouble that the progress toward health and strength is steady and uninterrupted.

No relapses come when Paine's celery compound has once fairly begun its healthful action.

With a strong appetite, sounder sleep, and better digestion (results that every one has experienced who has taken Paine's celery compound), the weak and sore kidneys and the tired stomach cease to trouble, and the nerves allow one to work unvexed by day and to sleep by night without disturbance. This is what physicians mean when they say that Paine's celery compound cures nervous diseases permanently.

For disordered liver, and for all blood diseases, physicians use this great formula of Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college—Paines celery compound. It has lifted thousands from beds of sickness. It does what nothing else ever did for the sleepless, the dyspeptic, and the despondent—it cures them once and for all.

Here is a testimonial from Mr. E. A. Miller, of Columbus, O., accompanying the photograph of his family.

"For two years past I have been a constant sufferer with severe headaches, ofttimes being compelled to go to bed, when my business necessated my personal attention. Last week my physician recommended Paine's celery compound. I have taken now four bottles, and have not suffered with headache since. This government, in my mind, should pay the discoverer of Paine's celery compound a sum of money sufficient to keep him and all his relatives in luxury during their natural life."

Mr. Miller is the son of Dr. J. D. Miller. His wife is the granddaughter of the late Governor Lucas of Ohio. Mr. Miller's praise of Paine's celery compound is equaled by that of thousands of others who owe their health and strength to this greatest of all remedies.

Married After the Groom's Death.

A remarkable instance of a marriage after the death of one of the contracting parties has (writes a St. Petersburg correspondent) just taken place at Nicolaieff, Russia, where the ceremony was actually performed in the Jewish cemetery. A young Jewess having died suddenly, her relatives decided that, as she was betrothed, she should be married according to the rites of the Jewish ritual, so that she should not incur the disgrace of entering the other life as a single woman. With this idea the parents of the deceased erected a baldachin over the newly made grave, and the dead and the living being brought together, the gruesome farce was duly performed. After the usual prayers had been said, and the body had been lowered into the grave, a document was placed on the latter, stating that the deceased had been duly married.

How Streams Rob One Another.

The Schoharie creek, which in many parts of the world would be called a river, rises in the heart of the Catskill mountains and flows northward until it joins the Mohawk. The Kaaterskill and Plaaterskill creeks also rise in the Catskills, but flow eastward into the Hudson. At a recent meeting of the Geological Society of America Mr. N. H. Darton showed how the two last-named creeks had robbed the Schoharie of some of its head-waters by gradually wearing away the mountain slopes behind them until the water-shed inclining toward the Hudson has encroached on that which supplies the Schoharie.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

MARRIAGE OF MISS JENNIE SMITH TO EDWARD S. WEAVER

The Event Solemnized at the Home of the Bride's Parents on John Street by Rev. Cornelius Schenck.

A pretty home wedding took place last evening at 7 o'clock, when Miss Jennie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, of 424 John street, was united in marriage to Edward S. Weaver, of West Second street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with lace, and carried white roses, while the bridemaid, Miss Anna H. Slater, of Phillipsburg, wore a gown of white India silk, trimmed with ribbons, and carried pink roses. The best man was Frank Jones, of 33 Chatham street.

Congratulations followed the ceremony, after which supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver received a large number of useful and ornamental presents, including a collection of silverware.

At a late hour they left the house amid a shower of rice, for their new home, 311 New street, which was ready to receive them. The guests present at the wedding were G. B. H. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Weaver and son, of Somerville; Miss Smith, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Merrill, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Titsworth, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hodge, Miss Carrie Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. John Poole, Miss Hattie Powelson, Miss May Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and son, Miss Webster, Miss Terry and Wm. Newman.

W. T. C. U. TO FIGHT NARCOTICS.

Propose a Law Prohibiting the Sale of Tobacco to Minors.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey is reported to be making arrangements for a crusade against narcotics of all kinds. The union is particularly anxious to prevent the sale of tobacco in any form to minors, and to this end a bill has been prepared for the next Legislature. Ex-Superintendent Mrs. J. B. Riddell, of Haddonfield, is at the head of the movement.

Mrs. Riddell said yesterday that she knew of numerous instances where children were incapacitated for any kind of occupation by the use of cigarettes. She mentioned the case of an academy in Haddonfield in which, she claimed, boys were given to the use of tobacco in some form. Many pupils are Spaniards and Cubans, and came to the institution, she said, with the habit formed. Mrs. Riddell also said she knew of cases where girls were given to the use of opium and morphine as well as cigarettes.

The old law of New Jersey on the subject provides that no person or persons shall knowingly sell cigarettes or tobacco in any form to a minor under the age of sixteen. The penalty is a fine of $20 for each offense. The suit must be made by the parent or guardian. The new bill will provide that the parents may have to pay a penalty of $5. This provision is to prevent parents sending their children to purchase tobacco. The age limit may be fixed at twenty-one.

Endeavor and Epworth League Relations.

"The question of the relations of the Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Societies has been assisted very much by the action of the joint committees of the two societies recommending that all members of the Epworth League who adopt the pledge and consecration meeting of the Endeavor Society be admitted to all unions without change of name; that all Endeavorers in the Methodist church become members of the Epworth League, and that all members of the Epworth League who desire affiliation be regarded as members of the Endeavor Society. In addition to this it is recommended that the two have common devotional topics. The report is signed by President Clark and several trustees of the Endeavor Society and by Bishop Fitzgerald and others on the part of the Epworth League."

ANOTHER FLOOD IN PROSPECT.

A Driving Rain Storm Melting the Snow and Streams are Rising.

The storm that was spoken of in yesterday's Press came on time and now the pedestrian has to consider the problem of how to keep dry from the flood above as well as from that underfoot. When the sun set and the new crescent moon appeared, there was a haze about it that promised a storm. Early in the morning the rain began to fall. It did not come steadily but one minute there was a torrent falling and the next only a few drops were to be seen.

The rain swelled the broad streams of melted snow and slush that filled the gutters and assisted in the rapid disappearance of the snow. The mercury scarcely fell below the freezing point during the night and the snow was soft so that it did not take long to change to slippery slush. Street Commissioner Meeker's men were kept busy trying to keep the street crossings in passable condition and clearing out the openings to the drains which were constantly becoming blocked with slush.

There was not much frost in the ground, and the mud, that always heralds in the spring, assisted in making traffic anything but easy.

The spring rains and the melting snow always combine to swell the streams to overflowing and a repetition of last month's flood appears probable if the rain continues to fall in such torrents. The ground is much softer and more porus than at the time of the other overflow and will absorb much more water than before.

When Monday's snow storm turned to rain, there was consternation among the dwellers on the low ground at Bound Brook. Many preferred to move at the first signs of a flood, while everyone watched anxiously to see if the town was again to be inundated. They were pleasantly disappointed, as the water rose but a few inches. Today the brooks in that vicinity have risen but little, but the heavy rain and the melting snow suggest the idea of another flood very strongly.

Here's a Sly Game.

A new bunco game, new at least in the neighborhood in which it has been successfully worked, is costing farmers and country storekeepers a good deal of money. The swindler claims to be a Treasury detective looking for counterfeit coin. He asks the farmers and storekeepers to submit their coin for his inspection. He puts on the silver dollars a chemical solution whick turns them black, declares them spurious, and takes them with him.

He also impressively warns his victims that they are liable to arrest for having counterfeit money in their possession, and causes them to keep very quiet about the matter, thus helping him along in his work of bunco.—Somerville Messenger.

Sylvester Cahill's Will Sustained.

Judge McCormick, in the Orphans' Court, yesterday rendered a decision sustaining the will of Sylvester Cahill, the founder of the town of Cranford. The contestants were Sylvester Cahill, a nephew, and other relatives in California. Testimony was taken by commissioners in California and Ireland. It was contended by the contestants that undue influence had been exercised over Mr. Cahill by Frank Berhen, a lawyer, who was named by the testator as executor.

Prayer Instead of Dancing.

A sleighing party of friends of Alexander Noe, of Oak Tree, near Rahway, surprised him Tuesday evening at his farm. Musicians were along for dancing. At Noe's farm the party was transferred into a prayer meeting, and several were converted. The party did not dance, but had a good time.

A Good Motto.

The March bulletin of the Missionary Department of the Christian Endeavor society, of which Miss Alice B. NO FOOD AND NO MONEY

PITABLE CIRCUMSTANCES OF HENRY PETERSON'S FAMILY EXPOSED.

His Wife Taken Ill and the Children Left in Their Father's Care, Who, Growing Despondent, Deserted Them.

A pitable case of a despondent husband, out of work, who deserted his children and sick wife, was brought to light in the city court this morning when a colored man, whose home is on Cottage place, appeared on the charge of not supporting his wife. He gave his name as Henry Peterson. He has been employed by one of the local truckmen and, as long as he worked, he gave his wife and children enough to live on. He lost his position and did not seem to be able to procure any other work. Circumstances grew worse. The wife was taken ill and the little children were left to the care of their father.

Last Friday morning Peterson started out and said that he was going to look for a job. He did not return that night and it was not until Sunday evening that he appeared at his home. In the meantime the coal had been entirely used up and food was not to be found. A benevolent society from one of the local churches provided the necessities of life for the starving wife and children while the city supplied the coal. Mrs. Peterson swore out a warrant for her husband, charging him with non-support, and yesterday afternoon Patrolman Vanderweg arrested Peterson. Judge DeMeza held him in $100 bail to support his wife.

WHAT AUNT ANNA SAYS.

Aunt Anna says:

I see Mr. Bullock's bread bill has passed the Senate. It should have been a meat bill. It seems to say how much bread shall weigh. We don't want heavy bread, do we?

I see House Bill 236 provides that all huckleberries shall be picked by hand. Goodness! let them try it.

I see by the Elizabeth Journal that Mr. Egenolf and young Ben. Campbell are spoken of as Democratic candidates for Mayor of Elizabeth. Well! they ought to be good fellows, but I don't know.

I see that in Quebec a Judge gave damages of $2 against a man for kissing a girl against her will. Patience! if I couldn't get more than that I would let him do it again and double the collection.

I heard Marshall P. Wilder the other night and they tell me he got one hundred dollars for the lecture as a humorist. Why my brother is better than him, but Col. Waring couldn't stand his wit. I wonder what the Colonel and Madam Carre would have done with Charlie Lyman.

Died in Africa.

The news has just reached this country of the death in South Africa of Rev. Giles Van Der Wall, D. D. He was the first pastor of the Reformed church at East Millstone, Somerset County, from 1856 to 1858. It was also his first charge, and during it the first house of worship was erected. In 1961 he was called to the Dutch church of Bloemfontein, South Africa. After serving them about nine years, he was called to a very large church at Paarl, of the same region, where he labored about twenty-five years, and died at the age of sixty-eight.

Verdict for the Plaintiff.

The contract case of Brooks, administrator, against Conklin, was tried in Justice Newcorn's court yesterday afternoon. Lawyer H. B. Reed represented Brooks, and Lawyer John Kirch the defendant. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant had purchased some furniture and had never paid for, while the latter says that he does not remember receiving it, and if he did it was paid for. The Justice finally gave the plaintiff the full amount, $50.38 and costs. The case will probably be appealed.

Thompson to W. C. Smith, $1.

Doubles Its Capital Stock.

The Citizens' Bank, of Elizabeth, has by a vote of its directors and with the uuanimous consent of the stockholders decided to increase the capital from $50,000 to $100,000. The new stock will be ready for delivery next month.

A DAY FIGHT AT NIGHT.

HUSBAND AND WIFE QUARREL, FIGHT AND ARE ARRESTED.

The Wife Tells One Story and the Husband Another, so Judge DeMeza Reserves Decision Until Saturday.

A quarrel between a husband and wife, that finally resulted in blows, was aired in the city court this morning. Last Tuesday night when Sergeant Kiely visited the lockup at about 11 o'clock he found a woman with her fifteen-months-old baby confined there. He released her on her own recognizance. It was Mrs. James Day, and she had been arrested by Patrolman Hartpence, at the complaint of her husband for being disorderly and fighting. Day, who keeps a saloon on West Third street, near Plainfield avenue, was also arrested at his wife's complaint on the same charge.

They appeared before City Judge DeMeza yesterday and Mrs. Day pleaded guilty. Sentence was suspended. Mr. Day pleaded not guilty and his trial was set down for this morning.

The stories of the two interested parties were rather contradictory. Mrs. Day told of her return from the ball on St. Patrick's night and how her husband abused her by calling her vile names and striking her, and showed the black and blue marks on her arms made by a cane in her husband's hands.

Day owned up that he had struck her, but claimed that he did it in self-defence. He showed a cut on his neck where a glass lamp, thrown by his wife, had struck him. Mr. Day, better known as "Buck" Day, has just recovered from the rheumatism and did not appear in the best fighting condition. His wife is rather stout.

Patrolman Hartpence was called in by Mrs. Day and testified that Mrs. Day struck her husband and appeared very much excited, while Day was apparently trying to prevent a scene.

The trouble occurred in the barroom and in the living apartments in the rear of the saloon.

Judge DeMeza reserved his decision until Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

A Ladies' Chorus to be Organized.

A ladies' chorus will be organized for the spring months, under the leadership of Edward J. Fitzhugh. The first rehearsal will be held March 26th in the large Y. M. C. A. hall and will continue to be held every other Thursday during the next two months. The chorus will have a deligtful programme in preparation, to be rendered at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Choral Society, held in the latter part of May.

A Letter From Mrs. Mair.

A very interesting letter from Miss Rachael Mair, written in Africa, was read by Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Richards to the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church at the prayer meeting last evening. The letter contained a pleasing account of her first experiences in Africa, en route to Cape Palmas, her new field of labor, which place Miss Mair has now reached. Miss Mair was formerly a resident of this city.

Sentenced For Manslaughter.

Theopolis Henderson, the young man who was convicted of manslaughter, in having killed John Miller, a farmer of Union, by hitting him on the head with a brick, was arraigned before Judge McCormick in the Union County Court, Elizabeth, yesterday and sentenced to five years in state's prison.

Italian Shot in Elizabeth.

There was a fight last night on John street, Elizabeth, between several Italians, and one of them, Mike Fawata, is now in the General Hospital having a large charge of buckshot extracted from his back. The man supposed to have done the shooting, Joseph Scutro, was arrested.

Two Days Late in Getting Home.

Bert Blake and Abbett Cain, of Grandview avenue, went to Adamsville Sunday to see friends. When they started for home Sunday night they found the snow too deep for them. They arrived in this city on Tuesday.

Fined for Smoking in a Street Car.

Robert Miller, a fireman, of East Orange, was fined $5 in Newark yesterday for insisting on smoking cigarettes in a street car.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

HE REELED AND ROLLED.

An Inebriated Individual Falls Into a North Avenue Store Window.

According to the best of William King's calculations, there was a continual earthquake in this section of the country last night, but the police thought that a too ample supply of liquor was the reason that King could not stand up straight. After indulging rather freely he wandered about until he reached North avenue, and then started to walk down that thoroughfare, when the sidewalk appeared to rock in a most surprising manner, while the telegraph poles and hitchieg posts made lunges at his head. Just as he passed Lusardi's fruit store, the window became very angry and rushed at King, breaking itself. Some of the witnesses of the accident thought that King fell into the window.

He was arrested and Judge DeMeza ordered him to pay $1.50 for the damage done to the glass, besides either paying a fine of $2 or going to jail for ten days.

OVER 120 YEARS OLD.

The Oldest Woman in the State of New Jersey Is Dead.

Aunt Judy Cummings, the oldest woman in New Jersey, died at her home in Red Bank Monday. She was born on October 12th, 1775, at Griggstown, and has lived in the State all her life. Her parents were slaves owned by William Vector, and for many years Aunt Judy was also a chattel of her master. She had retained her health to a remarkable degree, and until within a short time of her death smoked her pipe and moved about with wonderful activity for one so old.

Transferred to the Industrial School.

Nellie English, a ten year old girl who has been an inmate of the Children's Home for nearly three years past, was yesterday ordered sent to the Girls Industrial School, at Trenton, owing to the inability of the matrons of the Home to manage her. Nellie is possessed of a perverse disposition, and has caused the matrons of the institution where she has had a home, lots of trouble by her mischief making, which seems to be second nature with her. She has two other sisters in the Home, whose conduct is a source of pleasure and gratification to the managers.

DeVoe Not Through With Winter.

Prof. DeVoe, of Hackensack, yesterday made the following forecast: "During this month the storm belts of great storms are passing directly over our Atlantic coast. I expect a few spring-like days from the 23d to the 28th. But on the 29th there will be a cyclone along our Atlantic coast, causing floods south of New Jersey, and snow blocades over the New England States. The month will close with winter weather along the Atlantic coast."

A Worthy Case.

The Organized Aid Association reports a case of a wife who had made appeals to different individuals for aid to provide shelter for herself and children, and who was referred to the Association for investigation. Now she is taking advantage of their offer for work and is anxious to do anything to provide clothing for her children, while her husband asks work to provide rent and fuel. It is hoped that Plainfield citizens may aid the Association in this case.

Warren's School Election.

The annual school election of Warren Township was held Tuesday afternoon in the school house at that place. J. C. Cooper was chairman, and Howard Toms, secretary. Phil. Voorhees, Aug. Shoemaker and Henry Nuse, were elected trustees for three years. A careful estimate was made regarding the amount thought necessary to run the school for the coming year, and $400 was decided upon by a unanimous vote.

West End Improvements.

E. C. Mulford has purchased the house owned by W. L. Perrin, of Monroe avenue, for the Jersey Central Railroad, who will erect a new passenger station on the plot. With the other land which the company now owns it is intended to lay out a pretty park extending towards Front street. The purchase price for the new land was $6,000.

State Officers Coming.

Department Commander White, of Red Bank, and staff, of the G. A. R., will visit Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., Saturday evening in this city, at which time a campfire will be held. A number of visitors have been invited to attend.

Both Will Qualify.

Justice of the Peace-elect H. S. Thomas, of the borough, will qualify for the above office at the proper time. D. D. Smalley, the Democrat elected to the same position, will do the same.

ONCE IN TWO YEARS.

PROPOSED BIENNIAL SESSIONS FOR THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

But the Amendment is Framed So That the Present Republican Majority Would Hold Over—Other Legislation.

In the State Senate yesterday morning Senator Johnson offered an amendment to the Constitution providing for biennial sessions, which will be considered by the Senate today, or on Friday, with the other amendments. It makes the term of the Governor four years after the expiration of the term of the present Governor. The terms of the Senators are extended to four years, and of the Assemblymen to two years. The Senators in office when the amendment goes into effect are to serve out their terms. The amendment adopted last year ended the terms of all Senators in office in January following the ratification of the amendment, and as they were nearly all Republicans they were unwilling to take chances on regaining control.

Yesterday afternoon Senator Voorhees reported from the Judiciary Committee the amendments forbidding legislation legalizing lotteries, bookmaking, pool selling, or other gambling; forbidding the appointment to office during the recess of the Legislature of persons whom the Senate refused to confirm, and providing for dividing the larger counties into Assembly districts.

There is a coolness existing between the Senate and the House over the refusal of the former to return the bill repealing the Westchester Game Society charter and requiring nonresidents to procure a license to hunt game in the State. It passed the House yesterday without opposition, and was returned at once to the Senate. This morning Mr. Robertson, of Passaic, wanted it reconsidered, as he had discovered, he says, that it required a separate license fee for each county. When he discovered that it had gone back to the Senate he offered a resolution for its recall, but the Senate by unanimous vote refused to honor the request. Senator Stokes, who introduced the bill, says that the Game Warden of Passaic county is trying to kill the bill, which has been before the Legislature for the past ten years, and has always been defeated by lobbyists, who carried their opposition so far as to defeat for re election members who voted for it. The bill will go to the Governor and the opposition will try to head it off there.

The Senate passed bills making it a misdemeanor to steal electricity from the wires of electric light and power companies; making a general revision of the corporation laws, and requiring thread manufacturers to label or stamp upon spools or packages the quantity thread they contain, and imposing a penalty of $5 for each spool or package without such label or stamp, and a like penalty on dealers who sell unstamped or falsely marked spools or packages. The House passed bills fixing the second Tuesday in April as the date for municipal elections in Jersey City and Newark; the Jersey City Park bill; compelling trolley roads to maintain waiting rooms and transfer stations; fixing at two cents the toll on all ferries between Jersey City and New York.

At the evening session Speaker DeRousse announced that mistakes had been discovered in the vote in the Two Cent Ferriage bill, the assistant clerk having failed to correctly record the members. He ordered another roll call, when the bill was defeated by a vote of 27 to 25. A motion to reconsider was defeated. The vote announced in the afternoon was 32 to 20, and friends of the bill intimate that the Speaker's action last evening was unfair.

The Coddington bill, imposing a penalty of $20 fine on any one who gives or sells cigarettes to any person under the age of 21 years, passed the House last night.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal ilinesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

BIG BATTLE IN CUBA

Government Column Surrounded by Insurgents Under Maceo.

THE LOSSES REPORTED AS HEAVY

One Account Says Many Spaniards Were Killed and the Column Put To Flight. Report Via Madrid Says the Rebels Were the Losers.

Havana, March 19.—News has been received here of an important battle which was fought on Monday in the vicinity of Candelaria in the province of Pinar del Rio. The government troops were unable to drive the insurgents back and retired from their position with considerable loss. The Spanish forces were commanded by Gen. Linares and Cols. Inclan and Hernandez, and the rebels by Maceo and Bandera. The fight was begun on a line parallel with the roadway. The Spanish forces deployed, the Tarifa battalion, a section of the Victoria cavalry and a detachment of artillery forming the vanguard, and opening fire upon the enemy. The rebels returned this fire and at the same time made an attack upon the rear guard of the Spaniards, completely encircling their column. Having entirely surrounded the government troops, the insurgents advanced upon the artillerymen with machetes. The latter made a vigorous resistance, using muskets and grenades with such effect as to check for a time the enemy's advance, but with reinforcements a second charge was made by the insurgents and a hand to hand engagement ensued. The battle terminated with a bayonet charge. After a hot fight, lasting two hours, the Spaniards were defeated, losing many killed and wounded. It was the intention of the enemy to prevent Col. Inclan from proceeding to Candelaria. Gen. Linares arrived at Candelaria an hour after the conclusion of the engagement, when he reported his share in the battle. Heliographic communication was interrupted yesterday. The rebels have burned all but fifteen houses in San Antonio de las Vegas, in the province of Havana.

Says the Rebels Were Defeated.

Madrid, March 19.—A special dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says the fight near Candelaria, in the western province, was the most severe that has taken place for some time. The insurgents, four thousand strong, made a dashing attack upon the Spanish artillery, completely surrounding them and maintaining their positions until their lines were broken by volleys of grape shot. They were eventually dislodged at the point of the bayonet. The rebels, who were commanded by Maceo, suffered severe losses. The government troops lost eleven killed and sixty-two wounded. Spanish troops are pursuing the rebels.

Filibusters Landed.

Key West, Fla., March 19.—The steamer Three Friends, of Jacksonville, in command of Capt. Napoleon B. Broward, arrived here yesterday afternoon, having succeeded in landing in Cuba Gen. Enrique Collazo, Major Hernandez and Duke Estreda, besides fifty-four men taken off the schooner Amiel from Tampa, and the entire cargo of arms and ammunition of the schooner Mallory from Cedar Key. It was, by long odds, the most important expedition that has been sent out from this country to aid the Cubans. The unarmed men will now be armed and those without ammunition will be supplied, and Maceo, who has been wary and cautious, will now, it is said, be more aggressive.

INDOOR SPORTS.

Amherst's Class of '97 Defeats the Sophomores and Freshmen.

Amherst, Mass., March 19.—The thirty-second winter meeting of indoor sports and heavy gymnastics was held in Pratt gymnasium, Amherst college, yesterday afternoon. The greatest class rivalry of the year was shown at this exhibition and the galleries were filled by hundreds of Smith college girls. The class of '97 won, securing 48 points, the sophomores got 31 and the freshmen 16 points. H. H. Wright, '98, Northampton, secured the largest individual score—20 points—and will be the college gymnast for the coming year.

As to Prison Industries.

Albany, March 19.—The state prison commission at a meeting in this city yesterday began an investigation into a question as to the right of the Albany penitentiary to continue the making of shirts, collars and cuffs, despite the law passed in 1892 prohibiting their manufacture or laundering by penal institutions.

Floods Predicted for Mohawk Valley.

Albany, March 19.—A telegram was received here at midnight to the effect that heavy rains are indicated for this section during the next thirty-six hours, and it is advisable for all people who have interests in the low lying sections of the Mohawk and Hudson valleys to take precautions to guard against freshet conditions.

Open Civil Service Examination.

Albany, March 19.—An open competitive civil service examination for the position of assistant technological instructor in the state reformatory at Elmira will be held at that institution April 2. The salary of the position is fifty dollars per month and board allowance, twelve dollars per month.

Maryland Republicans.

Baltimore, March 19.—The republican state central committee has selected April 22 as the date and Baltimore as the place for holding the state convention for the election of delegates to the national republican convention.

MILLIKEN ON TRIAL.

The Sensational Case of Housebreaking Begun in Washington.

Washington, March 19.—In the criminal court of the District of Columbia the trial has just been commenced of Benj. H. Milliken, a young man, who at the time of his arrest held the position of private secretary to a prominent United States senator, and who is charged with housebreaking. On the night of July 4, last, he was discovered in the house of judge Samuel F. Phillips of North Carolina, formerly solicitor general of the United States, where, according to the charge, he had gone with unlawful intent toward Judge Phillips' daughter, to whom he had been at one time engaged, but the engagement had been broken off. He was captured on the roof with his coat turned inside out and his shoes tied round his neck. Milliken's defense at the time was that he was under the influence of liquor and was not responsible for his actions. The case has excited a good deal of interest and will probably last several days.

AGAINST THE RAINES BILL.

German-American Reform Union of New York Protests to Gov. Morton.

New York, March 19.—The German-American Reform union has sent to Gov. Morton a protest against the Raines bill. The protest says: "It is a demoralizing, corrupting law, inasmuch as it will drag the saloon more than ever into politics, and will make it a part of the republican machine, and will place the liquor business under the complete control of the politicians. If the law should receive your sanction the republican party will hereafter be deservedly styled the Rum and Ruin party. Its condemnation at the polls will be inevitable. No fairminded citizen who favors true temperance and believes in the principles of home rule will hereafter vote for a party which causes a revolution resulting in vice, intemperance and oppression."

THE RIFTON EXPLOSIONS.

Crowds Surround the Scene of the Powder Mill Disaster.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 19.—Crowds of curiosity-seekers as well as friends of the deceased this morning surround the scene of yesterday's disaster at the powder mills in Rifton in which five men were killed. The bodies of the dead men were blown to pieces, shreds of their flesh being found in trees more than a mile distant. It now develops that there were two explosions, the first in the drying room, immediately followed by one in the corning room. The explosions shook buildings in Kingston, six miles away, and windows for miles around were broken. The Rifton mills have been destroyed by explosions several times within a score of years, and on each occasion men were killed. On January 6, 1894, the glazing mill blew up and three men were killed.

CHUNG SING FAT TO TESTIFY.

He May Enter the Country To Prosecute the Man Who Robbed Him.

Washington, March 19.—The treasury department has directed that Chung Sing Fat, a Chinaman, may reenter the United States at Boston. In 1891, Joe Tye, a Chinaman, stole a sum of money from Mr. Fat, who pursued him out of the United States. Since then Tye has been arrested and the testimony of Mr. Fat is necessary for conviction of Tye. The law of 1888 interposes to prevent Fat's re-entrance, but under a ruling of Attorney General Harmon he permits Fat's return for the furtherance of the cause of justice on condition that he be deported after he testifies in the case.

More Claims Against the Ericsson.

New London, Conn., March 19.—Torpedo boat Ericsson was not launched from the marine railway yesterday as expected, a claim for $85,000 having been made against her by United States Marshal Morris, representing the government. The claim, it is understood, is for the amount paid by the government, and the attachment was made in order to protect the rights of the government. Claims for damages, wages, material and suits in admiralty are already pending, so the Ericsson's stay here is likely to be longer than was expected.

Price of Coal Raised.

Philadelphia, March 19.—The executive committee of the Bituminous Coal association has fixed upon the prices for the coming year, which will be put into effect April 1. The new prices are $2.35 per ton for Cumberland, Pocahontas and New river coal, free on board at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Newport News and Norfolk, with a differential price of fifteen cents a ton in favor of Clearfield and Beech Creek. The new prices agreed upon are a considerable advance upon those that have prevailed for several years.

Baltimore Mayor's Fight.

Baltimore, March 19.—Mayor Hooper has decided to make a general defense in his fight with the city council, using the Greager city collectorship case as a test. The mayor will urge as his reasons for refusing to swear in Capt. Greager that the council did not legally pass the Grab ordinance over his vetoes and that the original action of the councilmen was unconstitutional.

Car Builders Embarrassed.

Carlisle, Pa., March 19.—The Carlisle Manufacturing company has confessed judgments in the sum of $74,800.76 in favor of the holders of certain notes. The plant is in operation and employes a large number of hands in the building of freight cars. It is said that the embarrassment will be only temporary.

England's Campaign in Egypt.

Cairo, March 19.—The transportation of troops who will take part in the Anglo-Egyptain expedition to Dongola will begin to-morrow.

TO CENSURE BAYARD

Vote on the Resolutions Will Probably Be Taken To-morrow.

COUSINS' NOTED ORATORICAL EFFORT

Received an Ovation at the Close of His Address—The Ambassador Denounced and Defended in Several Speeches —Affairs in the Senate.

Washington, March 19.—The resolutions censuring Ambassador Bayard for his speeches in Edinburgh and Boston, Eng., will occupy the attention of the house to-day, but a vote is not likely to be reached until to-morrow. The speaker's list of applicants for recognition to speak on the subject to-day and to-morrow already includes the names of Taft, rep., Ohio; Newlands, pop., Nev.; Pearson, rep., N. C.; McCall and Barrett, reps., Mass., Wilson, rep., Ohio; Willis, Del., whose constituent Ambassador Bayard is; Fairchild, rep., N. Y.; Mahan, rep., Pa.; Tucker, dem., Va.; Turner, dem., Ga., and Bailey, dem., Tex. The announcement that the resolutions would be the special order failed to attract to the hall any unusual attendance, and thereby the absentees deprived themselves of the pleasure of listening to the most noted oratorical effort of this session—the speech of Mr. Cousins, rep., Ia., in support of the resolutions. When Mr. Hitt called up the Bayard resolutions about half the members of the house were in their seats, while the public galleries were only comfortably filled.

Bayard Denounced and Defended.

Mr. Hitt was not in good condition, physically, and after a few minutes, his voice gave out and he was compelled to close. In conclusion he expressed the hope that the resolutions would be adopted, saying that such speeches as those made by Mr. Bayard destroyed the respect which an ambassador ought to command, diminished his usefulness and was a wrong to the people he represented. Messrs. McCreary, dem., Ky., and Dinsmore, dem., Ark., in speeches of more than an hour's length each, defended the ambassador and opposed the passage of the resolutions. Mr. Draper, rep., Mass., a member of the committee on foreign affairs, deplored the severity of language in the resolutions of censure, and in accordance with his views of the duty of the house, gave notice that he would ask separate votes upon the two resolutions. Mr. Cousin's speech, advocating the adoption of the committee's report was by turns sarcastic and eloquent, filled with criticisms of Mr. Bayard and glowing with pictures of the greatness and glory of the country and of the individual under the system of protection which the ambassador had denounced. He spoke for nearly an hour, commanding throughout the attention of all hearers to a marked degree, and at the close was given an ovation that lasted several minutes.

Number of Private Bills Passed.

A number of private bills were passed, the only one of public importance being a senate joint resolution instructing the secretary of war to transmit an estimate of the cost of deepening the channel from Hampton roads to the Norfolk navy yard. The report of elections committee No. 2 confirming Mr. Rusk, dem., in his seat as representative from the Third Maryland was received and adopted.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what they say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and preclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which give it merit peculiar to itself. This is the secret of its wonderful power, of its wonderful sales, of its wonderful hold upon the confidence of the people. This is why it cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Rheumatism, all Humors, Kidney and Liver troubles, Dyspepsia, That Tired Feeling, builds up the nerves, creates an appetite and strengthens the whole system. Its merit, its sales, its

a failing altogether too common with Americans. Due generally to excesses of some sort, whether over-work or dissipation the result is the same. "The candle is being burnt at both ends." The man who begins the day in this way is living on vital forces that should be husbanded. If you can't eat in the morning as you should, take a glass of milk containing a tablespoonful of

Bovinine

The effect it marvelous. You will have taken a food stimulant that nourishes, makes new blood, new bone, new flesh and nerve tissue, and one that has no reaction. Every vital organ of the body will be kept in a normal condition and will be enabled to throw off disease. Bovinine is a powerful concentration of the life-maintaining elements of lean beef, all of which are preserved by the special cold process employed in its manufacture. Doctors everewhere will commend it, and druggists sell it.

M'KINLEY'S CAMPAIGN

Efforts To Secure His Endorsement by Illinois State Convention.

CULLOM FORCES UP IN ARMS

Ex-Senator Sawyer Captures the Wisconsin Republican Convention, and Is Now in Line to Succeed Vilas in the United States Senate.

Chicago, March 19.—The Illinois supporters of Major McKinley have perfected their plans to secure the endorsement of their candidate by the republican state convention which meets in Springfield, April 29, and thereby nullify the uninstructed delegates to the national convention in each congressional district. The Businessmen's McKinley club of Cook county has been chosen as the medium through which the plan is to be carried out if possible. Among Chicago republicans identified with the state organization or the city administration the news of the move was received as a direct and open effort to defeat the no-instruction policy of the party managers and undermine the candidacy of Senator Cullom. Open war is declared from now on by the Cullom forces against the McKinley adherents in Illinois.

VICTORY FOR SAWYER.

The Aged Ex-Senator Captures the Wisconsin Republican Convention.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19.—Ex-senator Philetus Sawyer won out in the republican state convention yesterday afternoon, and his victory demonstrated that notwithstanding the fact that he has nearly rounded his 80th year, he is still a master of the art of political manipulation. Against admitted odds the venerable statesman was pitted with ex-Gov. Heard, the recognized leader of the younger and more aggressive element of the republican party in the state for the honor of heading the delegation-at-large at St. Louis, and after a bitter struggle won by a majority of 99 in a total vote of 573. To-day his supporters are enthusiastic over the outcome and insist that the victory makes him the logical candidate of the party to return to the United states senate as the suceessor of Wm. F. Vilas. The remaining significant feature of the convention was the voting of McKinley instructions, despite the action of the committee on resolutions in deciding to remain silent upon this point.

CONTESTS HER FATHER'S WILL.

Mrs. Hill Wants More Than $5 of Nixon Hazlett's Fortune.

Boston, March 19.—Judge McKim, in the Suffolk probate court yesterday, opened the hearing on the objection which Mrs. Hill makes to her allowance in the will of the late Nixon Hazlett, who died last Jannary, leaving an estate of the value of about $40,000. She was his only child, but he gave her only $5 by his will. He gives the bulk of his estate to his nephews and nieces, who live in Scotland and San Francisco. He was 72 years old when he died, and the claim is made by the contestant that he was suffering from affection of the brain when he made the will. The hearing was continued until next week.

Pioneer Oil Operator Dead.

Erie, Pa., March 19.—Wesley Chambers, a pioneer oil operator in northwestern Pennsylvania, is dead at his home in Oil City, aged 70 years. He was worth a million several times and had his ups and downs in the oil country, but died very wealthy. The deceased was a prominent greenbacker but refused the nomination for lieutenant governor on that ticket.

Her Murder Still a Mystery.

Paterson, N. J., March 19.—The jury in the case of the murdered music teacher, Mary E. Sullivan, rendered a verdict last evening that she had come to her death at the hands of a person or persons unknown. The testimony presented threw no light upon the case, and the jury was out only a few minutes.

Massachusetts Trial Trip.

Lewes, Del., March 19.—The battleship Massachusetts was spurted at sea on her builders' trial trip for a couple of hours and then steamed within the capes again and came to anchor for the night at the Brown. The trial will probably take place to-day between the two lightships about twenty miles off shore.

To Aid Jewish Prisoners.

Albany, March 19.—The Ladies' auxiliary to the Society for the Aid of Jewish prisoners was incorporated yesterday, to aid Jewish females and children, inmates of penal institutions; to provide for them morally and financially, and to render assistance to families of Jewish prisoners.

For Using "Knock-Out" Drops.

Boston, March 19.—A sentence of three years in the house of correction was yesterday imposed in the superior criminal court by Judge Richardson upon Georgie Helyea, alias Adams, the notorious user of "knock-out" drops to commit larceny.

Bicycles as Free Baggage.

Albany, March 19.—The senate railroad committee gave a hearing yesterday afternoon on Senator Ellsworth's bill requiring railroads to carry bicycles as baggage, but did not act on the bill.

Pattison Endorsed.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 19.—The democrats of the Sixth legislative district (Luzerne county) met yesterday and nominated delegates to the state convention and endorsed Pattison for the presidency.

GAMBLERS IN PHILADELPHIA.

Police Superintendent Linden Startles the Officers of That City.

Philadelphia, March 19.—Superintendent of Police Linden startled the police lieutenants of this city yesterday evening by summoning them before him and announcing that gamblers were operating in Philadelphia unmolested. "I have information," said the superintendent, "that a lot of New York gamblers, who have been driven from that city by the activity of the police, have located here. The information comes from a proper source, and with it comes the positive statement that the police here have been 'fixed,' and that the gamblers have nothing to fear. About that I know nothing, but I have this to say. You are all warned. You know just what these people intend to do, and I want it prevented. The expression has been made that you are 'fixed,' so I will hold you and your special officers responsible. You are to keep a sharp lookout for any pool rooms or other gambling places and report them to me. I mean to see that no gambling is done, that my orders are carried out in this, as well as all other respects." The order caused a surprise to the lieutenants, and to-day their districts are being thoroughly gone over in search of gambling places.

PATRIOTS OF AMERICA.

Incorporated To Teach Reverend Regard for Revolutionary Heroes.

Albany, March 19—The New York Society of the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, with principal office in New York city, was incorporated yesterday. The objects stated are: To bring together and associate congenial men whose ancestors struggled together for life and liberty, home and happiness in the land when it was a new and unknown country, and whose line of descent from them comes through patriots, who sustained the colonies in the struggle for independence in the revolutionary war; to teach reverend regard for the names and history, character and perseverance, deeds and heroism of the founders of this country and their patriot descendants; to teach that the purpose of the founders could have had no lasting result, but for their patriot sons to inculcate patriotism, to discover, collect and preserve records, documents, manuscripts, monuments and history relating to the first colonists and their ancestors and their descendants and to commemorate and celebrate events in the history of the colonies and the republic.

PAYING THE GIRLS' EXPENSES.

Waltham Watch Factory Employes Voluntarily Assess Themselves.

Waltham, Mass., March 19.—One of the striking girls at the watch factory says that a number of employes of the factory are voluntarily assessing themselves an amount sufficient to pay the girls' living expenses while they are out, and that contributions have also been received from others not employed in the factory. There is no labor union in the factory, as it always has been impossible to induce the employes to join any organization, but the contributors to the relief fund say they will hold out as long as the girls wish them to do so. The finishers, who are all men, had been expected to go on a sympathetic strike in return for what the girls did for them on another occasion, but as a body the men have declined to take any action, though a number went out individually.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

Collections for the Past Eight Months Show a Decrease of $1,651,090.

Washington, March 19.—Collections of internal revenue for the eight months of the current fiscal year have aggregated $98,881,370, a decrease as compared with the corresponding months of 1895 of $1,651,090. The principal decrease was in spirits, $3,987,940, while tobacco and fermented liquors show an increase of $2,600,000. The other items show a slight decrease.

NICARAGUAN CANAL

Commerce Sub-Committee's Bill Favors Government Control.

IT WILL BE REPORTED TO-MORROW

United States Guarantees the Principal and Interest on $100,000,000 of Bonds To Be Issued by the Company. Other Provisions.

Washington, March 19.—The subcommittee of the house commerce committee, which has been engaged for several weeks in the preparation of a Nicaragua canal bill, finished its labors yesterday and will report to the full committee to-morrow. The bill agreed upon is substantially the Mahon bill with certain amendments. It provides for a reorganization of the Maritime Canal company. It permits the company to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000,000, of which seven millions shall be held by the company to reimburse it for the monies actually expended in Nicaragua for the franchise. The United States guarantees the principal and interest of the bonds, which latter shall be sold as needed to complete the waterway. The United States is protected in its liabilities by an issue of $100,000,000 of stock which is to be the sole property of the government and which is to be deposited in the United States treasury at Washington. Ten of the fifteen directors shall represent the government, the remaining five representing the company and the republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The bill requires the company to call in and cancel all its outstanding obligations except the bonds issued to the two republics which aggregate four millions and two millions each, and which, under the new bill, they will be permitted to retain. All the bonds will bear interest at 3 per cent. per annum, the net earnings of the canal to be placed in the sinking fund for their extinguishment from time to time. Additional security is given to the government by a first mortgage on the canal. The work will be constructed under the supervision of the war department. The bill reserves the right to the government to purchase at its pleasure the $7,000 000 of bonds held by the corporation. A hearing will be given by the committee to ex-senator Warner Miller of New York to-morrow.

SENSATIONAL INCIDENT.

New Jersey Legislator's Desk Opened and a Bill Taken Therefrom.

Trenton, March 19.—In the house yesterday afternoon Mr. Tice of the committee on railroads and canals offored a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that the members of the committee be allowed to take from the locked desk of Mr. Lower, chairman of the committee, senate bill 151 and report the same favorably to the house. The bill consents to the lease of the New York & Greenwood Lake railway to the Erie railway, and Mr. Tice said that at a meeting of the committee it was agreed to so support the bill. Chairman Lower, he said, promised to submit the report, but failed to do so. He further said he knew of no good or sufficient reason why the chairman was absent (this in reply to a query of Leader Robertson). "I understand," he said, "that the chairman has left the city." The speaker directed Custodian Bonnell to open Mr. Lower's desk. This was done and the bill was handed over to Mr. Tice, who reported it immediately. The incident was of a sensational nature and gave rise to a good deal of gossip concerning Mr. Lower's action.

TO AID THE ARMENIANS.

National Relief Committee Sends $10,000 by Cable to Constantinople.

New York, March 19.—Spencer Trask, chairman of the executive committee of the National Relief committee, has given out the following: "The International Armenian Relief committee at Constantinople has cabled the following: 'All our available funds exhausted. Thirteen distributing centers calling for help. People perishing. What shall we answer?' In reply the National Armenian Relief committee has forwarded by cable $10,000. The needs and facilities for immediate and safe distribution are greater now than ever. Every dollar goes to the survivors of the massacres, whose supplies are exhausted, and who are weakened by starvation, exposure and sickness. Thousands of them will perish unless foreign aid is continued until the new crops."

JONES WINS HIS SUIT.

$25,000 Verdict Against a Railroad for Loss of Eye and Other Injuries.

New York, March 19.—The suit of William J. Jones against the Union Railway company which has been on trial before Judge Gildersleeve and the jury in the supreme court for eight days past was concluded yesterday, the plaintiff receiving a verdict of $25,000. The action was brought for $100,000 damages for injuries sustained by Jones on June 4, 1895, at the corner of Southern Boulevard and Third avenue, by the falling of a wire used to support the trolley of the Union Railway company at that point. The wire struck Jones in the right eye, tearing it out, and injuring his brain. In consequence he became partially paralyzed and has, it is said, been suffering with spasms ever since.

Waylaid and Robbed.

Toms River, N. J., March 19.—Harry Sapp of Tuckerton, N. J., was waylaid and robbed of $80 at Sloop Creek, by two highwaymen, just a little after dark. He was nearly dead from his injuries and exposure to the cold when found. No clue to the perpetrators of the crime has yet been found.

The total cost of running the State government for the ensuing year will be $2,237,284.

Whether or not oleomargerine makes money for its producers, it makes talk for Legislators.

There is a probability that the eighth district Republican convention for the election of delegates to the National convention will be held at Elizabeth, April 17th.

Of the twenty-five counties that have held Republican conventions in South Dakota, twenty-one have declared for sound money. All of them have advocated the nomination of McKinley for President.

There was a refreshing originality and recognition of the eternal fitness of things in the case of Cherokee Bill when he was having the noose adjusted around his neck, and he said "I came here to die, not to talk."

When John Kean hears of the selection of Senator Voorhees as Clerk in Chancery he will more thoroughly understand how and why he was beaten for the nomination in Union county, and thereby in the State, remarks the Trenton True American.

James E. Martine is being urged to go to the National Democratic convention at Chicago, as a delegate from this Congressional district, but the Farmer Orator has not yet decided one way or the other. But he is a Whitney man all the way through.

It is a significent fact that a number of important pieces of legislation proposed at Trenton this winter have already been adopted by the local authorities, notably the one prohibiting trolley roads from carrying freight and the restrictions surrounding the applications for liquor licenses.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders are faithful to their constituents, even unto details. They have adopted a resolution recommending the Prosecutor of Pleas to offer a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any thief who shall hereafter steal any horse or mule in the county.

The Assembly bill prohibiting the sale or gift of cigarettes to any person under the age of twenty-one years, enlisted the active support and voice of Assemblyman Codington yesterday, who pointed out the evils of cigarette smoking. Along the same line of discussion Assemblyman Reed assumed the role of the little joker and said the cigarette habit was responsible for the defeat of a popular Union county man (Senator Voorhees) for the Gubernatorial nomination and had landed him in the Senate of New Jersey.

What will Cleveland do after his retirement? Why, bless you, the great friend of the poor and foe of the monopolists has become so "well fixed" that he doesn't need to do anything.—Hunterdon Republican.

The habit which prevails among certain newspapers, Democratic as well as Republican, of speaking in a derogatory and slighting manner of public officials, is one that needs correction. Those whom the people select to fill offices of trust and responsibility are entitled to public respect until some overt or secret act makes clearly manifest the fact that they no longer merit the public confidence. When this condition is reached such a traitor should be removed by law from the office which he has disgraced and dishonored.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

THEATRICAL.

The "Fritz" plays are among the best matinee pieces on the road. People are almost invaribly turned away on Saturday afternoons, such is Mr. Emmet's popularity with women and children and when the actor adds to his strong personality a play which almost any child can comprehend and anyone may be pleased to witness, then the secret of the J. K. Emmet matinee craze is explained. In "Fritz" the attraction is heightened by the fact that even small children will enjoy the performance and thus mothers have the double pleasure of being entertained and seeing their children pleased with a joyfullness that calls for no maternal anxiety or watchfulness to break in upon her own enjoyment. It requires no set lines of the playwright to interpret for the small children the touching relations between "Fritz," the light hearted emigrant and his little friends. Besides, the "Fritz" plays appeal to the finer sentiments, the softer human emotions, which are possessed by women in a more marked degree than by men. Next Wednesday at Music Hall "Our Fritz" will produce "Fritz in "Love," cast to an excellent company.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Dr. Pocock, of North avenue, will ride an Appolo wheel this year.

Mrs. James Voorhees, of Clinton avenue, will probably ride an 18 pound special built wheel this year.

Mr. McInernery, of South Second street, has purchased a Crescent, No. 9, from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

William Stewart, of the West End, is now employed at the Park avenue salesrooms of the Eldridge Bicycle Company.

Anyone in search of a good bicycle to ride this year should not fail to visit Martin & Zimmer, of Somerset street. They handle high grade goods.

T. J. Carey, of West Front street, will ride a Spalding wheel this year. Last year Mr. Carey used twenty-one pair of tires, add he holds the medal for this vicinity.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company received the first of the Crescent road racers, yesterday afternoon. In the langvage of the day it is a "peach." It weighs 17 pounds, is geared to 77, and is equipped with 1¾ inch tires.

The New Jersey State Division will build a cycle path, to be completed before summer, from Asbury Park to Trenton, and has asked the Cycle Beard of Trade to assist in building another from Jersey City to Newark; it is probable they will consent.

The road book of the New Jersey division this year will contain maps slightly reduced in size, but arranged as in previous years, and will contain 125 pages of the popular routes in every section of the State. Many of the tours arranged will run into the adjoining States. Whenever a road is not covered by the tabulated form of routes reference to the maps will surely find it and give the grade and condition.

INS AND OUTS.

The New Jersey Interscholastic League has decided to have a series of baseball games to decide the championship of the organization. While no places have been selected, yet the following scedule of dates has been arranged: Rutgers-Stevens and Montclair-Plainfield, April 11th; Plainfield-Rutgers and Pingry-Newark, April 18th; Montclair-Stevens and Pingry-Plainfield, April 25th; Newark-Stevens and Montclair-Rutgers, May 2d; Rutgers-Pingry and Newark-Plainfield, May 9th; Montclair-Pingry and Plainfield-Stevens, May 16th; Pingry-Stevens and Newark-Rutgers, May 23rd; Montclair-Newark, May 30th.

As spring time is nearly here, every base ball loving crank is wondering whether or not Plainfield is going to be represented on the diamond this year with a team worthy of this city. It is to be hoped that arrangements can be made to give the cranks of this city a good game of base ball every Saturday afternoon and on holidays, without having to go out of town to see one. Why cannot Plainfield have a team when such places as Cranford, Westfield and Dunellen, and even little Scotch Plains can have a team, and why cannot the good old enthusiastic days of a few years ago come back again, when base ball talk was rampart on every tongue? The Press earnestly hopes that some energetic steps may be taken in this respect, and not allow our neighboring towns to outdo us. There is no reason why a team properly managed cannot succeed. There are hundreds of fol lowers of the game who would support a good team. Now is the time to start the ball a rolling before it is too late.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Laurens VanBuren broke the Park Club individual bowling record for March Tuesday night by rolling 267.

The Y. M. C. A. bowling team which will go to Westfield this evening to meet the Y. M. C. A. team of that place will consist of Lederer, Carroll, M. Sutphen, C. Sutphen and Laing.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball game between the regular Y. M. C. A. team and the team from the business men's gymnasium class will be played Saturday evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The basket ball team from the business men's class at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium took the floor yesterday afternoon against a picked team and defeated the latter by a score of five to four. The team is showing up very well and promises to give the regular team a surprise when they meet them next Saturday night. The game will be free to members while others will be charged ten cents. A number of the gentler sex are expected. There will be exercises on the horizontal and parallel bars before and after the game and during the intermission.

GOLF.

The nominating committee of the Hillside Tennis and Golf club has nominated the following officers, to be voted on at the annual election next month: President, Dexter O. Tiffany; vice-president, George P. Mellick; secretary, John Doul Miller; treasurer, Josiah Broune; members of the governing committee, Harry D. West, E. H. Ladd, Jr., S. St. John McCutchen; secretary and treasurer of golf, James S. Anthony. The nominating committee consists of C. P. Bull and Frederick K. Fish, J.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Stillman Randolph, of South Plainfield, caught eight muskrats at New Brooklyn pond last night.

Jay Eaton and William Mack ran a five-mile foot-race in Elizabeth, Tuesday. Eaton was a favorite, but was easily beaten. The winner's time was 27 minutes. A large crowd saw the race.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—After April 1st Randolph's pharmacy will be open all night to facilitate the increasing demands of its large business.

—The Ladies' Chorus of the Plainfield Choral Society will meet for organization at the Y. M. C. A. building this afternoon.

—A party of New Market young people will enjoy a straw ride this evening. They will go to a farm house and hold a dance.

—A farmer from near Oak Tree was driving down Park avenue yesterday morning when his horse slipped on the ice, breaking one of the shafts.

—The city has purchased from J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, a handsome oak clock, which will be placed in the police station.

—Previous to arranging his stock in the Jackson building, G. Q. Packer has placed some of his furniture in the old engine house on Madison avenue.

—Geo. Saums and Elsworth Cuff, of Packer's furniture store, removed thirty loads of furniture to the new store in the Jackson building yesterday.

—The sale of tickets for the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrel show, commenced at Mallinson's drug store this moning. The tickets are going rapidly.

—The Rathbone Sisters will meet tomorrow at the rooms of La Maneka, 224½ Market street, Newark, and will be received by Supreme D. C. L. E. Palmer.

—Tomorrow evening several well-known Plainfielders will give an entertainment in the Union Village M. E. church. The proceeds will be given to the church to aid in carrying on the work.

—Ex-Chief VanHorn desires The Press to state that he did not refuse the position of watchman at the engine house, from the fact, he says, that it was not offered to him, a man having already been put in that place.

—Powlison & Jones are moving into their new building on East Front street and expect to take complete possession next week. It is a strange coincidence that the first article to be sold in the new store is the same kind, a sideboard, as was first sold in the old store.

—Mrs. Charles Bilyeau, of the Jerry McAll Mission, New York, who will address the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church next Monday evening, is a bright, entertaining speaker and she will relate many incidents in connection with her work that will interest all.

Don't invite disappointment by experimenting. Depend upon One Minute Cough Cure and you have immediate relief. It cures croup. The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, will meet tonight.

—There was no session in the Parochial School Tuesday on account of its being St. Patrick's Day.

—A telephone was placed in the home of Councilman G. H. Frost yesterday. The number is 78 I.

—A long-distance telephone will replace the old style instrument at L. W. Randolph's drug store in a few days.

—Richard Warneck, the East Front street butcher, has been making some big improvements in his shop.

—The officials of the City National Bank have signed a contract for a telephone which will be put in soon.

—Tomorrow evening the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a meeting of importance.

—The Young People's Progressive Euchre Club, of Dunellen and North Plainfield, will meet at the home of Miss Jessie Haynes, of Dunellen, this evening.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

One Minute Cough Cure touches the right spot. It also touches it at the right time if you take it when you have a cough or cold. See the point? Then don't cough.

PRETTY CHIP CARVING.

Fascinating Fancy Work for the Ladies.

Sharp Tool and a Piece of Soft White Wood the Only Material Needed—The Carver Can Chip in the Drawing-Room, So Clean Is the Work.

The maiden of this end of the century has added a new accomplishment to her repertoire of arts and sciences.

It is chip-carving, the most delightful and "ladylike" work imaginable; a veritable fancy work, which one can take up as easily as a bit of knitting or embroidery. It has the advantage of wood carving, which requires such a vast paraphernalia before one can begin operations, and is so noisy in the doing that one's companions must be long suffering—or deaf.

English girls are devoted to chip carving, but the art originated in Germany. In the neighborhood of the Black forest one can pick up delightful specimens of the work. Table tops, book-racks, picture frames, footstools, in fact, anything fashioned of wood is eligible for carving. White wood is the best for the purpose, and afterward it can be stained in any color—a black walnut tone brings out the carving to perfection, or white enamel paint is pretty.

A novice might begin with a book-rack, one of the miniature kind which holds half a dozen or so volumes and stands on the library table. This, made of white wood, can be bought for exactly 90 cents. The two ends are all that require carving.

The pattern, which is usually one of geometrical design for chip carving, is drawn or traced with lead pencil. Then, with tool in hand, one sits down at one's ease in the corner of the drawing-room, for the litter of chips is nothing to speak of and can easily be kept in the lap.

Only one tool is required for the work an amateur will do. It is a "straight" tool, and costs about 25 cents. It can be purchased at any hardware-shop, and must be fitted with a wooden handle and extremely sharp. Indeed, it is the sharp tool which makes the successful carver.

The design is left in relief and the superfluous wood carved away. If by chance a bit of the design is chipped off it can be glued on and will never show. However, the carver after some practice is not apt to make mistakes of this sort.

As the design develops under one's hand the work becomes quite as fascinating as embroidery of the most seductive description. It is rapid work, too, and two evenings ought to suffice to carve at least one end of the book-rack. When the other end is finished the whole should be colored. A bottle of black walnut stain will be the next investment, and two coats are usually required. Then, behold! Your book-rack finished and a thing of beauty, ready to present to a friend or to appropriate to one's own use.

It must be born in mind that geometrical designs are the best for chip carving. They are very easily transferred to the surface of the wood by means of tracing paper.—Chicago News.

AN ANCIENT LOVER.

Went Courting When He Was 123 and Got the Mitten.

Two remarkable cases of longevity were recalled recently by a conversation between several gentlemen in this city. They were discussing the death of Rev. George McCall, the veteran Baptist preacher, when it was authentically stated that Mr. McCall's great-grandfather lived to the ripe old age of 127 years. He was a bachelor at 100 and took a notion to get married. He carried out this idea and was married. Three sons were born to him, and he lived to see the oldest son old enough to vote.

This was considered remarkable, but a gentleman in the crowd, whose character and standing religiously and socially are above reproach, told an authentic account of the life of his great-uncle, who was one of Georgia's pioneer citizen. This old gentleman lived to be 130 years old. He lived in a log cabin, in the northern end of which was cut a square hole. The old man turned the head of his bed to that hole, and slept that way in the warmest and coldest of weather. His wife died when he was about 90 years old, and for many years he lived as a widower. At the age of 115 he cut an entirely new set of teeth, and at the age of 123 one morning he saddled his own horse, sprang into the saddle, and rode 30 miles to address a widow and ask her to be his wife. He evidently was rejected, for he rode back that day and lived seven years longer.—Shelbyville Gazette.

Esquimau Astronomy.

The polar inhabitants of the northern regions visited by Lieut. Peary have definite but limited ideas of astronomy. In writing of them Peary says that they recognize the "Great Dipper" as a herd of reindeer; the three triangular stars of Cassiopea are the three stones supporting a celestial stone lamp; the Pleiades are teams of dogs in pursuit of a bear; the three glittering brilliants in the belt of Orion are the steps, cut by some celestial Esquimau in the steep snow-bank, to enable him to climb to the top. Gemini are two stones in the entrance to an igloo; Arcturus and Aldebaran are personifications, and the moon and sun are a maiden and her pursuing lover. These Esquimaux estimate time by the movements of the stars as well as by the position of the sun, and yet, less observant than were the Arab shepherds, they have not noticed that one star is the center about which all the others move, nor have they set apart the planets, which to them are simply large stars. Whether this is due to the fact that the movements of stars can be observed during only about three months in the year, it is impossible to say.—Youth's Companion

FINISHING THE SENTENCE.

"Look, my dear sir, everything you see here, as far as your eye can reach, belongs to—"

"Your creditors?"—Fliegende Blaetter.

"A Woman with a History."

Fingle—There goes a woman with a history.

Fangle—That female who just left your office? How do you know?

Fingle—She worked for an hour trying to sell it to me.—Buffalo Courier.

Slightly Egotistical.

He—Now that you have rejected me, may I say one word to you as a friend?

She—Certainly.

He—Well, I think you're making the greatest mistake of your life.—Texas Siftings.

Edible Snails.

Daughter—The paper says that edible snails are advertised in English restaurants.

Old Lady—Land sakes! Who'd ever 'a' thought that edible snails were fit to eat.—N. Y. Weekly.

Little Brother in Misery.

Hostess—I wonder why your little brother seems so restless and uncomfortable?

Little Ethel—I guess it's cause his hands is clean.—Good News.

Looked It.

Mrs. Hicks—I have been shopping all day and came home completely worn out.

Hicks—You do look just a bit shop-worn.—N. Y. World.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. GERMS.

They Exist Everywhere Now-a-Days.

In the Air and in Our Food and Drink. No One is Free From Them for a Moment.

One reads so much about germs, these days, that he becomes almost afraid to drink a glass of milk or wash his face in a basin of water. Yet those who are most competent to judge tell us that there are many diseases now known to be caused by germs; and probably other diseases will be discovered to be due to germs also.

If you sow wheat in dry dust and keep the soil in that condition, the kernels will not sprout and grow. And if you should sow the grain in very wet soil it will not grow then, but would mould or rot. Therefore we must not only have proper seed, but the soil must also be exactly right for the growth of the seed, if we expect results. Take consumption germs, for instance, you may inhale these germs and yet no harm follow; because the soil in your lungs was in such a healthy condition these disease-germs cannot grow there. Then, again, you may have exactly the right kind of soil in your lungs for the germs of consumption, and yet not have the disease because you have not inhaled the germs. It is certainly true that thousands of persons inhale the germs of consumption, and yet do not have the disease. The fact that this soil must be suitable to germ-life, explains the reason why some children have severe stomach and bowel trouble, and yet others in the same house be unaffected.

There are a number of complaints which may not be due to germs; and yet the principle we wish to establish is the same. Some take cold more easily than others; have frequent attacks of indigestion; become easily exhausted; and show in every way that the body is not strong. What is the best weapon with which to fight germs? A strong constitution. How can you prevent many of the ailments of everyday life? By keeping the body well nourished and the nervous system substantially re-inforced.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites will do all this. It feeds. It nourishes. It builds up. It invigorates. It fortifies. It shields the body from the enemy, and brings victory even in the face of defeat.

It is pleasant to know that such a remedy can be prepared in a form agreeable to the palate and the stomach. It does not nauseate. It does not cause diarrhœa. It does not produce those disagreeable eructations of gas. It does not necessitate bribing or threatening the children. Best of all, it does not have that fishy taste.

Scott's Emulsion contains more pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil than any other emulsion in the world, that will stand the test of time as being a perfect inseparable emulsion. Ask your doctor

NOT TO BE MENDED AGAIN.

You can take a pie e of chin that's been broken by the m id.
And can put the thing together if you know the mender's tr .de
You can mend the thing so neatly that no one will ever know
That it has e'er been shattered by an unconsidered blow.

You can take a heart that's broken by some small flirtatious girl,
And can mend the fractured pieces till they're smooth as any pearl
Av. say that that heart's possessor feels as sturdy as an oak,
And forgets that e'er it happened that his heart was ever "broke."

You can fall from a bicycle and make pieces of your nose;
You can break your collar-bone, or you can fracture all your toes;
You can crush your arm in splinters; you can smash your either leg,
And a doctor he will fix it till it's whole as any egg.

You can smash an ocean record, but that record still is there.
You may break a trotting record with a rapid little mare,
And leave the old one standing just as whole, quite as complete,
As when it sent the jockeys a-huzzaing through the street.

But, alas! if you are angry, and have angry words to say,
Beware a broken silence, or you'll surely rue the day.
For a silence that is broken, by the women or the men,
Is a thing that can't be mended, can't be rendered whole again.

—Harper's Bazar.

PLAYED A NEW HAMLET.

BY L. FRANK BAUM.

"O," said the actor, as he put his feet on the opposite seat, threw his ulster over the head of the harmless old gentleman in front of us, and proceeded to light his corncob pipe, "life with a cross-roads aggregation ain't no snap. You traveling men think you lead hard lives, but as a matter of fact you don't know what trouble is. Why, I've worked for five companies since the first of October, and played every part you can think of except a bronze statue, and where am I now? On my way to join an Uncle Tom's Cabin company of the deepest dye! Wouldn't expect it in an artist and a gentleman, I know; but three meals a day are indispensable to my health and happiness, and I must do what I can till Henderson offers me the comedy part in his new extravaganza.

"Comedian? Not on your birthday; I'm a tragedian by instinct and education; but it so happened that I always have to play the comedy role wherever I go—fate, I suppose, or what those theosophist Indiamaniacs call Karma. I never remember playing a part to my liking but once, and that was under adverse circumstances. I did the ghost in 'Hamlet,' and it was this way: I'd joined a party of barnstormers who were playing week stands through the mining towns in Pennsylvania. We sported a brass band at one time, but they had skipped out and left us with nothing but a bass drum, that was of little use as an attraction; still we lugged it around with us. Well, one week we were at a coal town way up on the hills above the Two Lick, where the natives were as green as grass. The first night's performance was a great success, but at its close a committee of miners waited on us with a request that we play 'Hamlet' the next night. Our manager replied that 'Hamlet' was not a part of our repertory, but that we'd give 'em a much better show. The miners were evidently disappointed, and the leader said:

"'See here, boss, we've got to have this Hamlet show or the folks'll git mad. None of us ever seen it, but there was a digger here last year as could talk of nothin' else but Hamlet, as was the greatest show ever played an' had a ghost to it. Now, you say as you're actors, but can't play Hamlet; we've talked with the boys, an' that's the play they all want. You give us that an' we'll pack the house for you.'

"The manager looked puzzled and undecided, and another miner noticed it and exclaimed:

"'See here, cap'n, if you can't give us Hamlet why leave that out, but give us the ghost anyway.'

"The manager put on his sweetest smile.

"'My friends,' he said, 'you shall have the ghost, and Hamlet, too.'

"'To-morrow night?'

"'To-morrow night.'

"The delegates thanked us earnestly and withdrew, while the members of the company turned upon their betrayer in anger and amazement.

"'Who knows anything about Hamlet?' I asked.

"'Who's got a copy of the play?' inquired the heavy man.

"'Where's the costumes coming from?' screamed the leading lady.

"But the manager silenced us all.

"'Look here,' he said; 'if they are bound to have Hamlet they shall have him. It'll fill the house. I never saw Hamlet myself, but I know a few quotations from it, and the most they want is the ghost, anyhow. We'll go on and do anything we like—fake the thing through—and when it gets dull we'll ring in the ghost for excitement.'

"That settled it, but I own I had misgivings when I looked at the stage. We were playing in a schoolhouse, and, as there was no stage, we had been obliged to build one, from some lumber a miner had bought to add a wing to his house. He wouldn't let us cut the boards or nail them, so we laid them across some trusses, meeting the ends in the middle, and during the performance we had to exercise great care where we stepped or the end of a plank would fly up and give us an exit not down in the play.

"When the evening came there was a very nervous lot of actors behind the improvised curtain, and even the manager lost a part of his assurance and would have backed out had he dared. But the miners were packed in the house like sardines in a box, and there wasn't standing room for a fly, so we knew it would not be safe to change the bill on them.

"That performance of 'Hamlet' was the rankest parody on a play ever presented to a suffering public. The miners looked on critically and tried to make out what it was all about. The manager, who was chief actor as well, stayed on the stage most of the time himself, getting off time-honored gags and trying to put a little go into his embarrassed and indignant company. I was to play the ghost, but not having seen 'Hamlet' at that time and having no idea how to dress the part I had covered myself with a sheet and swung the bass drum in front of me. As I'm rather short, my eyes just ranged across the top of the instrument. My cue was to be 'Who art thou?' but I was busily engaged in watching the antics of the company.

"They had been a little reckless in their movements and some of the boards near the center of the stage had slipped back, leaving a hole about two feet across. Owing to the drum I never saw this hole. I stood waiting for my cue in the wings, but I was thinking intently of something else when I became conscious that the manager was standing at the other side of the stage glaring angrily at me and shouting: 'Who art thou?' at the top of his voice.

"Instantly I stepped out, gave the drum a solemn beat at each stride and exclaimed: 'I am thy father's ghost!' At the same time I unconsciously walked into the gaping hole in the stage and disappeared like a shot; but the drum remained on top while I was struggling in the darkness to gain a footing and the crowd was shouting in intense delight at this magnificent denouement. The manager rang down the curtain and act first was concluded. They drew me out all covered with bumps and bruises, and, while the company roared with laughter and the manager thanked me with tears in his eyes for saving the piece, I tried to collect my wits and discover what had happened.

"But this wasn't the worst of it. Those cussed miners thought the accident was part of the piece, and during the next act shouted so energetically for the ghost that I was forced to go on and repeat the whole business. The third act was the same way, and when it was over my legs and arms were skinned, one eye was swelled shut, two of my front teeth were missing and every inch of my anatomy was sore. The crowd waited outside to escort me to the boarding house, where they gave me three rousing cheers. 'Tell you what,' said one of them to me the next day, as I sat propped up in bed, 'that air Hamlet is a great show. We sorter wondered why you didn't want to play it for us, but we understand now, and are grateful to you for givin' in. If ever your troupe comes here again, an' you give us Hamlet an' the ghost, you can have every dollar the town holds!'

"And that," concluded the actor, with a sigh, as he picked his grip out of the rack and put on his ulster, "is the only time I remember playing a tragic part, and yet my soul yearns for tragedy. Good-by, old man, I get out here. To-night, if you'll stop off, you'll see me once more in the grasp of relentless fate, and playing the fascinating part of Marks, the lawyer—for which sin may Heaven forgive me!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Charge to Keep.

Mrs. Poorman—It has been a hard winter, ma'am. My three grown girls have been very little help to me. The poor things are not strong enough to do washing, and they haven't clothes good enough to apply for any other work.

District Visitor—But you say they have rich relatives; don't they look after them?

Mrs. Poorman (sadly)—Only their morals, ma'am—only their morals.—Puck.

One Sensible Thing.

Second Husband—Did you put a monument over your first husband's grave?

Wife—Yes, poor dear; I erected a marble slab twenty feet high above his sacred dust.

Second Husband—What did you inscribe on it?

Wife—At rest.

Second Husband—Well, I'm glad to hear of one sensible thing that you have done.—Atlanta Journal.

To Be Sure.

Gaggs — What's the matter? You look glum.

Waggs—Well, that's the way I feel. I've just lost a thousand dollars in a business deal.

Gaggs—Oh, cheer up, old fellow, and take things as they come.

Waggs—Great Scott, man! any fool can take things as they come. What I find it hard to do is to part with things as they go.—Judge.

Conditional Forgiveness.

Young Mr. Hunker had stolen a kiss from Miss Kittish, and she scolded him very properly.

"You'll forgive me, won't you?" asked he.

"Will you promise never to do it again?"

"No."

"Then I forgive you."—Harper's Bazar.

A Triumph of Genius.

"Mamie has stolen a march on all us girls," said Mabel, angrily.

"Why, what's she done?" inquired one of Mabel's sweet friends.

I kissed the cook. You see her head
Came 'twixt me and the baker's bread.
And though I don't, in spite of looks,
Kiss, indiscriminately, cooks,
The cheeks of this one were so red,
Her eyes so soft a luster shed,
Into temptation I was led,
And quicker than the lamb tail crooks
I kissed the cook!

How It Strikes Her.

Mr. Rondo—An author requires complete abstraction. You can't have anything on your mind when you write poetry.

Mr. and Mrs. Grote.

In Mrs. Grote nature had combined a very kind heart with the most masculine vigor of mind and body—and, I might add, occasionally of expression. After Mr. Grote's death she came to see my father, and said: "It is, perhaps, just as well that he is gone first, as I shall be able to write his life." The "popular" edition of the "History of Greece" was brought out at a time when the early strikes had somewhat disturbed the printing trade in England, and this work was printed, as an experiment, in Germany. Its appearance was not all that could be desired, and it has now for some time been superseded. This edition was always called by Mrs. Grote "my Scrubby Edition."—John Murray, in Good Words.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Walter Scott has been granted another patent on a printing press.

—Prof. O'Rielly, of this city, furnished the music for a leap year party given at Plasant Plains last evening.

—Justice Newcorn has issued a summons in the landlord and tenant case of Carney against Thompson, which is returnable March 23d.

—Rev. L. B. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, has been made a member of the church extension committee of Northern New Jersey.

—Out of weakness comes strength when the blood has been purified, enriched and vitalized, the appetite restored and the system built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—Ernest Barrett, the expert plumber, has removed his shop from 325 Watchung avenue to 148 East Fifth street, where he has better facilities for handling his increasing business.

—Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, has leased the rooms in the Salvation Army building formerly occupied by the Odd Fellows, and will furnish them in a very attractive manner.

—At the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., to be held tomorrow evening important business will be transacted, and the chief's degree will be worked on two candidates.

—Yesterday morning at Allentown, Pa., a Russian-Jew named David Sigee, with his two sons, was run down by a Jersey Central Railroad train. The father was killed instantly while the sons were severely injured.

—An unknown lady got off a B. & O. train at Philadelphia, yesterday, leaving a pocket-book containing $20 in money, a gold watch and cluster diamond ring. It was found by an honest brakeman and given to the conductor of the train which she transferred to, and by him returned to her.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Louis Coombs, of Trenton, spent Tuesday with his family on West Third street.

Mrs. William Townley, of West Second street, is confined at home by an attack of measles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ferguson's children, of Kensington avenue, are ill with measles.

Mrs. Henry Giles, of West Front street, has gone to Jersey City to visit her daughter, Mrs. Huff.

Chief of Police Grant is ill at his home on West Fifth street, while Sergeat Kiely is now in charge of the department.

Great Snap Peterson, of the I. O. R. M., returned to his home at Camden this morning, after being the guest of William Newcorn.

Horace J. Martin, L. A. Hummer, Charles Hummer and Ezra Loomis, will sing at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Washingtonville, this evening, when the seventh dedicatory exercises will be held.

Coming Art Exhibition.

The loan exhibition which the Camera Club are arranging for will far exceed anything of the kind ever given in this part of the country. Works of art from all parts of the world have been loaned for exhibition. Their large exhibition room in the Babcock building will be filled to its utmost capacity with this grand collection, coming almost entirely from the homes of Plainfield people. This enterprise on the part of the Camera Club should be encouraged, as it will no doubt open a way for further exhibitions of this order which are educational as well as entertaining.

Saw a New Wigwam Opened.

N. C. Magué, D. C. Allen and Wm. Newcorn, of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., went to Raritan last night and attended the dedicatory exercises of the latter tribe's new wigwam. Upon their arrival they found assembled several delegations from various tribes, including the board of great chiefs. The ceremony of the order was used and William Newcorn acted as chief. After the ceremonies they were short and long talks, a programme of music, and a collation. The Plainfield delegation were obliged to leave early to catch their train.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggists handed him a bottle of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St

BATTLE OF PLAINFIELD.

Commander Booth to Speak at Music Hall This Evening.

"The Battle of Plainfield," as God's American Volunteers term their big rally meeting, will be fought out at Music Hall Hall this evening, with Ballington Booth in command, and Major Glenn and staff assisting. Capt. Mimms, who is in charge of the seceding members from the regular army corps in this city, will be in charge of the meeting. The intention was to precede the meeting by a big street parade of the supporters of the army, but this arrangement has been abandoned on account of the storm. Besides delivering an address explaining the new movement, Commander Booth will formally receive his Plainfield followers into the organization and present them with the colors of the order and an American flag. An immense crowd will probably attend the meeting.

BURGLARS IN A POSTOFFICE.

They Bored a Hole in the Safe, But Were Frightened Away.

When Allen C. Fitch, one of the clerks employed in the postoffice at Westfield, arrived at the office this morning he found that burglars had forced the door of the office with two large wrenches, such as are used by railroad men in tightening bolts on the track.

The burglars had bored a hole in the safe close to the combination lock with the intention probably of blowing it open, but it is thought that they were frightened away before they could accomplish their purpose. There was nothing of any value in the safe at the time, as the money and postage stamps are not kept in it, but in the safe of the National Bank, which is next to the postoffice. The men then stole a horse and wagon and drove to Rahway, where they left the team in a yard.

A PHILOSOPHER'S HINT.

Thomas Carlyle Gave Sound Advice to People.

If the People Could Only Philosophize Like This.

The Vanderbilts and Rothschilds Would Have Many Rivals.

That great philosopher, Thomas Carlyle, says: "The block of stone which is an obstacle in the pathway of the weak, becomes a stepping stone in the pathway of the strong." He who wrote that knew human nature. It means that the weak are easily discouraged and give up at the slightest obstacle.

What a differance with the strong who overcome every obstacle and go straight on to success. What makes the difference? It is simply and entirely a question of nerve force, energy and the strength of perfect health.

Which are you reader? Are you the weak-nerved individual to whom every trial results in the trembling weakness of nervous exhaustion? Does a day's work seem to you like a mountain in your path, and tire you in the doing? Is it hard for you to get up in the morning from weariness, or to concentrate your mind, or to control your unsteady nerves.

You can get over it. You can have nerves like steel and be as strong and vigorous as ever.

The way to accomplish this change and gain that physical and nerve strength is to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will make new nerves for you, invigorate your blood and so strengthen and build you up that you will feel like a new person. You will be ready for any work and do it with a will and without fatigue.

It did this for Hon. John R. Prescott, of Rome, Me. Mr. Prescott is widely known, having been a prominent member of the Maine Legislature.

"My nerves were terribly affected," he says, "and I grew weak and feeble. I had liver and kidney trouble, my bowels were much constipated and I suffered severe neuralgic pains at times. I was so weak and nervous that I was forced to drop down and rest me, and would cry like a child and ask why I could not die. Eminent physicians said I could not be cured, and I had about given up in despair when my wife insisted on my using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"When I had taken it about two weeks the pain left me entirely, I gained in weight steadily and can now work every day, while before taking Dr. Greene's Nervura I could not do any labor.

"I hope that anyone who is suffering from any trouble with the nerves, or the liver and kidneys, will give Dr Greene's Nervura a fair trial. I know that they will get relief."

Don't wait another moment, but take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy now and regain your lost nerve vigor, physical strength and power. It strikes the weak spot and makes people well and strong. It is what you need, and now in the spring is when you need it most and when it will do you most good.

Remember that it is the prescription of the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, hence of necessity, is perfectly adapted to cure these chronic complaints. Its discoverer, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, can be consulted free personally or by letter.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

LENTEN SERMON.

St. Mary's Church Filled Last Night to Hear Rev. Father Brothers.

The fifth sermon in the Lenten series was delivered last evening in St. Mary's church before a large congregation. The speaker was Rev. W. A. Brothers, of St. John's church, Paterson. His subject was "The Justice of God." The subject, he said, admitted of a very wide scope, but he would confine himself to the justice of God as dealt out to people in this world. He started from the time of Noah when God, in his justice, deluged the earth because of the wickedness of the people, and no one saved but Noah and his family. The speaker also told of the justice of God as exercised in the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, which He said He would save if ten just people could be found. A search was made, but it proved fruitless, and the destruction of the two cities followed. The spot is marked today by the Dead Sea, a living monument of the justice of God. The speaker then went on and told of the destruction of Jerusalem, another instance of the justice of God, because of the ingratitude of its people. Father Brothers is a forcible speaker, and handled his subject in a masterly manner. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament followed the sermon.

Rolla Heikes, the champion "smasher" of clay pigeon records, who was a visitor in this city Sunday as the guest of T. H. Enthusiastic Meeting of American Volunteers Addressed by Ballington Booth—What the Great Sin-Slayer Said.

The Battle of Plainfield was begun last night at Music Hall under the most auspicious circumstances. Despite the rain that poured down steadily just before the hour of assembling, the lower floor of the hall was completely filled while the gallery had its quota of visitors. The audience was a truly representative one, for all classes were there. It was an enthusiastic one, also, for at every good opportunity, hearty applause burst forth while the speaker of the evening, Commander Booth, of the American Volunteers, as the movement was rechristened yesterday, was received with long and loud hand clapping that showed what a favorite the tall commander of the new army is with Plainfield people.

At about 8:15 the members of the Plainfield seceeding post marched on the stage and took their seats, after which Commander Booth, Lieutenant Laing, of Orange, Adjutant Hartwright, of Orange, and several others of the auxiliary board seated themselves in front. Captain Mimms, of the local post, acted as leader of the meeting. The uniform of the regular Salvation Army was not to be seen; instead the male members were dressed in ordinary citizens clothes, while the female members were simply gowned in black and wore no particular style of hat. All the members of the band wore a red, white and blue ribbon, with a picture of the new commander and his wife on a celliloid heart, fastened to the ribbon.

The head of this new movement is a very tall man, rather slim and with a distinguished looking face. He had a moustache and his black hair was brushed back from off his broad forehead. He wore a long, black Prince Albert coat and the only color to his uniform was a pair of General's shoulder straps on his shoulders.

The battle opened with a musical bombardment from all the audience, led by Captain Mimms. The well-known hymn "At the Cross" was sung, after which Fred H. Andrews led in an earnest prayer. While the heads of the audience were still bowed, "The Love of Jesus" was softly sung. Adjutant Blackhurst, private secretary to Commander Booth, who presided at the piano, next made a prayer in devout and heartfelt language. After another hymn, "We Fight in the Strength of our King," Captain Mimms opened the action by introducing Commander Booth in a few well chosen words. That officer then stepped to the desk and in clear, strong tones spoke to his audience. For three-quarters of an hour he held their attention with hardly a break. His language was of the best and the vein of humor that appeared at intervals through his talk was enough to keep his audience in good humor.

"I am very much pleased to be in your midst," he said in starting, and followed with a witty excuse for not appearing in Plainfield before. "I am expected to say something," he said, "of the the new movement which my darling little devoted wife and myself are inaugurating. In all my twenty-two years of service, this recent period has been the darkest. When we were forced from the Salvation Army we expected to retire to private life, but we received a great number of letters asking and begging us to continue in the good work at which we had been so long."

At this point in his address he was put in a very trying position. The fire alarm sounded, and as there were a number of firemen in his audience there was a sudden break for the door. A word from Captain Mimms explained the situation, and the Commander then started up one of those rousing marching songs, and those who desired to go then left, and then the Commander continued his address by saying: "The letters assured us that we would have the practical support and aid of the American people, and I then said to my wife that we might not have very much money at the start, but that we would have what is infinitely greater, the support of the American people, which will be more to us than $100,000,000.

"We will call this new organization of ours, 'God's American Volunteers.' Many think that Volunteers is not the right word in this place. The heroes that left home, factory and workshop at the call of their President to defend their nation's honor and rescue her from peril were the volunteers, not the regulars. In our work, we call for those who will freely volunteer to follow in the footsteps of Jesus of Nazerath and rescue their brothers and sisters from lives of shame and degredation.

"The word 'American' has also caused some questions. There is one thing that this audience may be assured of namely, is that our organization, though a spiritual one, will be distinctively 'American.'

"There are three classes that we will reach, the denzens of slumdom, among whom the Salvation Army has been so signally successful, the lower classes of society, and the great army of wage earners and artisans.

"I am very sorry that I could not bring one of our new standards, but the flag-makers have not completed them. It is a white flag, typical of purity. At the corner of the top nearest the staff are white stars on a blue ground, the same number as there are States in the Union. In the centre is a blue star, typical of hope, while imbedded in it is a white cross, typical of sacrifice. This banner will be carried in all our parades, never before, but always side by side with the American flag. Our buildings will be called armories instead of barracks, and our local organizations posts instead of corps. Our ranks will be arranged similar to those of the United States army, and our ensignias will be much the same.

"We are resolved that we will stand together. We will not be at war with the Salvation Army, for there is room for fifty Salvation Armies in this country. We are like the Democratic brother that prayed that the Democrats might hang together. The Republican brother replied 'amen.' 'I do not mean it in the sense that our Republican brother takes it, but pray that they may hang together with one accord.' 'I say amen to that also,' cried the Republican. 'I don't care whether they hang by one cord or not so long as they hang together.'

"We are going to stand by each other to the end. If we are going to sink we are going to sink together, and if we float—"

The loud applause that followed drowned the rest of his sentence.

"We are not going to see the fortresses of Satan stand without attacking them. The same hand, that shall be clenched against vice, shall be lowered to help up the weak and suffering."

Commander Booth next told some of his personal experiences, especially among the prisoners in the jails. He also told the circumstances under which his wife gave up her high position in society and devoted her life to the Lord. He spoke of testimony for the Lord as an easy way to work for Him and said it did not make any difference how one was dressed—a good deed was always the same.

"There is a great diversity of opinion in regard to the methods that we should use. We are asked if we will have the drum, the cornet, the street parade and striking uniforms. Let us have the loudest drum we can, the shrillest cornet we can and the most striking uniform we can, if it will bring into the church those that have not been there. We will have sweet music and singing, and our soldiers will wear becoming uniforms. There will be new bonnets for the women that will make every one of them look five years younger. We want everything to be becoming, decorus and striking. We shall also introduce the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, but we will not have anything that will be a stumbling block.

"We are going forward with a straight doctrine and a sincere faith and with what we believe is necessary for all workers, the love of Christ."

He then closed with a few words of farewell and a wish that the city might help and be helped by the new movement.

The soldiers of the local post then passed among the audience with tambourines and hats and received the contributions. Commander Booth asked all those who wished the new work success to raise their right hand. There was a unanimous response. He then asked all of those to contribute $5 and become members of the Defender's League, the auxiliary body of the Volunteers. He then announced the following appointments for the Plainfield Defender's League: Edwin H. Frost as secretary, and Col. John Hull as traveling or field secretary.

A good start was made in the formation of the Plainfield auxilliary and the following subscribed and became members at once: Dr. Carman, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Stewart, Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, Edwin H. Frost, Mrs. Charles Beebe, Edward Carter, Fred H. Andrews, Rev. Hobart Clark and James McGee.

D. C. Allen then spoke in behalf of a number of workman at Scott's Press works and presented the local post with a bass drum. Captain Mimms replied with a few words of thanks and Commander Booth remarked that it was a good drum and WATER WAY UP AGAIN.

BOUND BROOK AGAIN VISITED BY A SMALL-SIZED FLOOD.

The Heavy Rains and Melting Snow Filled Streams to Overflowing—Bound Brook People Prepared for Another Flood.

The heavy rains and melting snow sent another flood of water into Bound Brook last night, but the anticipation was worse than the realization for the water did not reach the height of last month's flood by several feet and the business portion of the town escaped without much loss.

All yesterday the citizens watched the slowly-rising water in the Raritan river and the small adjoining brooks. Middle brook was, at the time of the previous flood, the first to overflow its banks and flood the flatland to the west of the borough. The water did not rise as rapidly as on the last occasion, but when the tributaries of the Raritan river sent their increased volume of water into the main stream the Bound Brookites grew alarmed.

Shortly before midnight the water began to advance into the town, and the sonorous tones of the large whistle on the woollen mill awakened the town to the realization that another flood was at hand. The mill is located on the low ground to the west of the town and the whistle was blown to call the employes to assist in putting the machinery and goods in a safe place.

Even before that many of the storekeepers on Main street were busily preparing to evacuate the lower floors of their buildings. The night was an exciting one and the whole town seemed awake. A small army of men were busy in the now brightly-lighted stores preparing for another flood.

The rising water soon appeared in the streets in the eastern and western end of the town and invaded the Italian quarters in the west end. The foreigners were greatly excited as they remembered with terror their previous experiences, and many deserted their homes and hurried to higher ground. Those living on the flats also took refuge on the high ground.

Every storskeeper on Main street removed all his perishable goods to the second floor or some other safe place. Mundy Brothers, the feed and grain dealers, who lost so heavily in the other flood, decided that an ounce of prevention was worth more than a pound of cure, so they carted their stock in their trucks to the railroad where it was loaded into freight cars. William Schure, the confectioner, had a quantity of salt in his cellar for use in freezing ice cream. The water flooded his cellar and dissolved the salt.

The water rose about twelve feet above its normal heighth. The eastern and western ends were flooded, in some places, to the depth of several feet, while at the highest part of Main street the gutters were full of water, but the street was not completely flooded.

Near the freight house, which is west of the station, the water came within an inch of flooding the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad. The water reached its highest at an early hour in the morning and it had receded but little at 9 o'clock this morning. The damage by the water was not great but the cost of all the labor needed in preparing for it will reach a good amount, but exactly how large it is difficult to estimate.

As the morning advanced the water began to recede and at noon it had fallen considerably. Thus far no reports of serious damage have been received and the storekeepers are beginning to move back to the first floor of their stores.

The freshet made itself felt in the vicinity of Dunellen. Green brook rose at the rate of 15 inches an hour for several hours until those living nearby expected to see it overflow its banks. It did in places and made travel on the country roads almost impossible.

At Bound Brook the water is said to have risen at the rate of 18 inches an hour.

Plainfield also saw something of the unusual amount of water in streams. Green brook was much larger than it usually is, and the water again poured over Tier's dam in a broad sheet. Little Cedar brook roared along, and in several places overflowed its banks.

The Passaic valley enjoyed its share of the freshet, and the Passaic river flooded the lowlands over either side.

What Organized Aid Does.

Smalley Brothers' Place Entered and $4 in Cash and a Quantity of Meat Taken—Entrance Through a Window.

The meat market of W. L. & J. M. Smalley, on Somerset street, was entered by thieves some time during last night, and the money drawer broken open and robbed of about $4 in cash. A quantity of meat was also taken. The thieves entered the yard in the rear from Race street, and made a small hole in a pane of glass in the window, thereby being able to push back the catch which fastens the window. Then they had a very easy time in getting what they wanted.

When W. L. Smalley opened the shop this morning the first intimation he had of the theft was when he saw the money drawer lying on the floor with the contents removed. The firm is not able to tell how much meat was taken as it was all placed in the ice-box when the store was closed last night.

W. L. Smalley lives in the same building on an upper floor, but he heard no noise during the night. The case has been placed in Chief Marshal Wilson's hands, and it is thought that the thieves are known.

CHEAPER TRANSPORTATION.

A Proposition That Would, it is Said, Reduce Local Freight Bills.

Many of the merchants about the city who receive large shipments of goods have been approached by parties who are desirous of establishing a transportation express line between Plainfield and South Plainfield, to connect with the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and to haul freight from that station to this city, the goods being shipped by the Lehigh road. The freight rate over the Lehigh road to South Plainfield is nine cents on a hundred, while the rate between New York and this city on the Jersey Central is seventeen cents.

It is proposed by the promoters of the transportation company to haul the goods from South Plainfield at a price that would be a saving to the local merchant between the difference in rates of the two roads

Lecture on Spring Birds.

Complimentary tickets have been sent out by the Plainfield Seminary to the pupils and young friends for a lecture to be given by Mrs. Olive Thorn Miller on "Spring Birds" at Seminary Hall Thursday, March 26th. Mrs. Miller's "Talks on Birds" at the Waldorf in New York for several seasons, have attracted much attention, and they are fortunate who have this opportunity to hear so notable an authority on the subject.

Death of a Young Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mimford, of 517 East Front street, have the deep sympathy of the entire community in the loss of their daughter, Miss Mary T. Mimford, aged 14 years, which occured this morning. She has been ill for several years, and the best medical aid was employed in the hopes that she might be restored to health. The funeral services will be held from the house, 517 East Front street, Monday morning at 10:30.

Judgment Entered.

Judgment for $85 and costs was given by Justice Newcorn this morning in the case on contract of Holmes against Ohl. In the contract case of Boone against Sauermilk, judgment was given the plaintiff and an execution issued.

In Their New Store.

G. Q. Packer and J. W. Gavett are settled in their new store in the Jackson building on West Front street, where they make an elaborate display in their respective lines of business of furniture and crockery and glassware.

—The will contest of the late Peter Wooden case will come up next Monday in Somerville.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

AN ACT OF HEROISM.

Dr. Shaw Risks His Life to Extinguish a Dangerous Fire.

At the risk of his own life Dr. Shaw was last night the means of extinguishing a fire in the home of Mrs. Whitney, at 310 East Sixth street, which, if it had gained much headway, would have proved a difficult one for the fire department to cope with. Dr. Shaw called on Mrs. Whitney and her daughter shortly after 8 o'clock, and after he had been there for a few minutes was asked to extinguish an extra lamp that was burning in the sitting room. This he did, and for ten minutes after Mrs. Whitney, her daughter and Dr. Shaw conversed pleasantly, when suddenly the lamp-shade, which was of a flimsy material, burst into flames.

Realizing that a serious fire might result if the flames were not suppressed immediately, the Doctor started to take off his coat to smother the flames, but on second thought grabbed a small mat and caught the burning lamp and shade. The mat however, was not large enough to completely envelope the flames and they severely burned the Doctor's hands and face before he got to the door. But he pluckily held on and pitched the burning material into the snow in the front yard. In carrying it he set fire to the portierres between the rooms and a rug on the floor. As soon as he had disposed of the lamp he rushed back into the house and extinguished the other flames.

John Brooks, superintendent of the Potter Press Works, who resides at 517 Watchung avenue, was notified of the trouble, and turned in an alarm from box 25, but by the time the fire department had arrived the fire was out.

Dr. Shaw dressed his own wounds immediately, and though they will not leave permanent scars, it will be some time before they heal.

The loss by the fire was about $50. The house is owned by W. R. Codington and insured for $2,000.

ABOUT NIAGARA FALLS.

A Warren Chapel Audience Listens to an Entertaining Talk.

"Niagara in Winter and Summer" was the subject of a highly interesting illustrated lecture given by Dr. McClellan, of Brooklyn, in Warren chapel last evening. The attendance was excellent, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the lecture. The views were remarkably fine, showing scenery in this favored spot, which is perhaps unequalled anywhere. Among the views were some rare ones, showing the Falls in winter, with the large cakes of ice which block the river, affording navigation on foot possible. The explanatory remarks by the speaker were not the least uninteresting. Dr. McClellan regretted exceedingly that owing to the weather he was unable to bring his large lantern with him, and, in consequence a small one was used. By a rising vote all expressed their appreciation of the lecture, after which a collection was taken. The proceeds will be devoted to the work in the chapel. An adjournment was made at the close to Music Hall.

SLIPS OUT WITH HOBOES.

Joseph Scutro Easily Escapes, But is Soon Recaptured.

Joseph Scutro, held for shooting and badly injuring one of his countrymen, walked out of Police Headquarters yesterday with a lot of vagrants who had been given a night's lodging. Scutro had been gone two hours before he was caught.

Scutro went to his boarding-house in Peterstown, an Elizabeth suburb, where Detectives Decker and McGrael found him. He had changed his clothes and was preparing to leave the city.

His Eye Filled With Powder.

James Voorhees, of Clinton avenue, sustained a very severe and painful injury to his left eye, yesterday, while at his home. He thought he would take a look at his gun, which has been lying idle all winter, and see if it was in good condition. To do so, he discharged the gun. The shell exploded and a quantity of powder entered his left eye, causing a burn across the sight. He suffers considerable pain but it is not likely that he will lose his eye sight.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

CAMDEN MINISTERS ARGUE AGAINST A MARRIAGE LICENSE BILL.

The Preachers Say That a License Would Impose Inconvenience on People Without Imposing Additional Restrictions.

Senator Voorhees' bill providing for the elevation of the railroad tracks and a portion of grade crossings in Jersey City and Newark passed both Houses of the Legislature yesterday by unanimous vote, and without discussion beyond brief explanations in each House. It is said that the Governor will sign it.

Chairman Skinner of the Judiciary Committee introduced an anti-trust bill which makes it a misdemeanor on the part of any person, corporation, or officer thereof to make any contract or to enter into any combination for the purpose of preventing competition in the supply or price of any commodity, or to in any way assist in such restraint. The Attorney-General is authorized to institute proceedings in Chancery against such persons or corporations to restrain them from carrying out such contract or agreement when threatened, or when there is good reason to apprehend that the same may be made. The Attorney-General is authorized to state the case as he shall deem proper, and the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor is authorized to, at any time, amend the pleadings in such a way as seems best calculated to attain the results sought by the suit. This is aimed at the coal trust, and it was advanced to a third reading at once.

The annual appropriation bill was introduced in the Senate. It carries appropriations amounting to $2,478,291.32 for the expenses of the State Government for the fiscal year beginning November 1 next. Included in this is $200,000 to the public school fund and large amounts for permanent improvements to State institutions, which leave the amount for ordinary expenses, $1,870,891. For 1896, the ordinary expenses were $1,898,019; in 1895, $2,057,794; in 1894, $1,917,354, and in 1893, $1,765,523.

The Attorney-General sent to the Senate an opinion that the Bullock bill, requiring all corporations and establishments, except railroad companies, to pay their employes at least every two weeks in lawful money of the United States, is exceptional. The opinion concludes that "if the comfort and happiness of the great body of wage earners are sufficiently involved in this measure to warrant the Legislature in exercising the power in their behalf, there will be, as there has been, grave hesitation before denying to the Legislature a discretion which the Constitution commits to it in the broadest and most comprehensive terms."

The House passed the Senate bill releasing the State's title to lands in Passaic county bequeathed by Aimee, the actress, to a French orphan asylum, and which have been purchased by Charles E. O'Connor, of New York; also the amended Wilde's Hand-picking Huckleberry bill.

The only important bills now pending before the Legislature are the proposed constitutional amendments, the annual and the supplemental appropriation bills, the bills for the relief of both Houses, and to prevent the foundation of trusts.

Rev. E. Hewitt and Rev. Mr. Herr, representing the New Jersey M. E. Conference and the Camden Preachers' meeting, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee to oppose the Lloyd Marriage License bill. The Camden ministers collect a large revenue by marrying couples who come from Philadelphia to escape the Pennsylvania license law. Last year, out of 4,500 marriages performed in Camden, 4,000 were of non-residents and nearly all of those from Pennsylvania.

The ministers argued that a license law would impose inconvenience on people who wished to marry without imposing any additional restrictions, working men would be compelled to lose half a day to procure a license. Under the present law ministers are liable to a fine of $300 for marrying a minor without the consent of the parents, but no suit in such a case had ever been brought in Camden.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

A MASS OF EVIDENCE

Venezuelan Commission Wading Through a Flood of Documents.

AID FREELY AFFORDED THEM

Holland and Spain Express Willingness To Assist in the Investigation of the Royal Archives—Friendly Comment of a London Paper.

Washington, March 20.—Having been in possession of the British Blue Book since Monday and of the Venezuelan documents for over a week, the Venezuelan commissioners have made copious notes in their reading, and last evening they took up the discussion of various conflicting and inharmonious points in the two cases as presented, referring also to the great accumulation of evidence the commission had already made bearing upon the different phases of the question. A complete bibliography of the books and maps in the Lenox library, New York, was presented to the commission, naming some 300 works, covering the period from the years 1500 to 1799, to which access is offered; also a catalogue of 167 manuscripts relating to Spanish-American missions, settlements and similar matters which are held ready for the commission's inspection. A report was also received upon the Tank collection of the Wisconsin Historical Society's library consisting of Dutch records, some of them of great value. The commission was informed by the state department that the governments of Holland and Spain had expressed willingness to assist in the investigation of their archives. The question of sending some one to make an investigation in Europe was deferred for the present.

Press Should Now Keep Quiet.

London, March 20.—The Daily News to-day says that the letter of Justice Brewer of the American Venezuelan commission, to the Arbitration society is peculiarly welcome as evidence of the spirit in which the commission will conduct its labors. It ought to be suitably recognized. It could not be done more fittingly than by leaving the work wholly in the hands of those officially engaged on both sides in effecting a settlement—to put it plainly, by leaving them alone. The press had done useful work in the initiatory discussion, but its occupation in this direction was gone now they had settled down to their task.

NEW BANKRUPTCY LAW.

Judiciary Sub-Committee To Report the Bill To-day.

Washington, March 20.—The subcommittee of the house judiciary committee which have been engaged in the preparation of a bankruptcy bill, have finished their labors and the bill will be laid before the full committee to-day. The original Torrey bill, as amended in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, serves as the basis of the new measure, which provides for voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy. The only ground of involuntary bankruptcy in the new bill is fraud, actual or implied, on the part of the bankrupt. The involuntary features of the new bill do not apply to laborers or farmers engaged in tilling the soil.

AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS IN COURT

Judgement Awarded Mrs. Preble for Money Lost by Her Son in Speculation.

Boston, March 20—Judgment has been entered in the U. S. circuit court by Judge Colt in favor of Sarah H. Preble and against Bates & Walley, brokers, of this city, for the sum of $36,671. The case has been in the U. S. courts for nearly fifteen years. Mrs. Preble's son Edward, it is claimed, invested her fortune, something like $80,000, and it was all lost, it is said. Of this sum, it is alleged, that $35,000 was invested with the above firm. The mother sought to recover the money.

Steamer Damara Overdue.

Halifax, March 20.—The Furness line steamer Damara is now eighteen days out from London, about the longest passage she ever made. The Hibernian, which left Liverpool six days after the Damara left London, arrived yesterday. It is supposed the latter has been detained by bad weather and has probably met with heavy ice.

May Get Off at High Tide.

Juno, Fla., March 20.—The Munson line steamer Craigmore, Capt. Crosbie, which lost her entire steering gear opposite Jupiter life saving station yesterday afternoon and came ashore eight miles south, is lying easy in the sand this morning repairing gear and discharging coal. She will float off, it is believed, at high tide.

Another Freshet Feared.

Biddeford, Me., March 20.—Conditions are favorable for another freshet. The heavy rain is carrying off the snow and as the ground is frozen the water is all finding its way to the river. Large fields of ice remain in the river, threatening disaster in the event of any great rise of the water.

Shipwrecked Sailors in Port.

Liverpool, March 20.—The British steamer Historian, just in port here, from New Orleans, landed the crew of the British bark Janet Court, from Valparaiso for New York. The crew of the bark had abandoned her at sea.

Bills Killed by Jersey House.

Trenton, March 20.—The house last night killed the bill to legislate Dairy Commissioner McGuire out of office and also the bill fixing the fee for official searches in Jersey City at one dollar.

Coronation of the Czar.

St. Petersburg, March 20.—The ceremony of the coronation of the Czar has been finally fixed for May 26.

OFF FOR ATHENS.

Princeton Team Will Sail from New York To-morrow.

Princeton, N. J., March 20.—The team which will represent Princeton in the Olympic games at Athens, Greece, left here this morning for New York from whence they will sail to-morrow for Naples on the steamship Fulda. J. H. Colfelt, '99, who was to have been one of the team was unable to go owing to the objection of his parents. In his place was sent H. B. Jamison, '97, of Peoria, Ill., to compete in the 400 metre race. The latter's time for the 440-yard dash is 53 seconds.

Records of the Men.

Robert Garret, jr., '97, of Baltimore, who is captain of the Princeton track team for this year, will compete in the following events: Putting the shot, in which he has a record of 40 feet 2 inches; broad jump, having made 20 feet; throwing the discus, and horizontal bar vault. Francis A. Lane, '97, of Franklin, O., is entered for the 100 meter run. He has a record of 10 seconds for 100 yards. Albert G. Tyler, '97, of Wyoming, O., will compete in the pole vault. He is 24 and has been vaulting for three years past. His best record is 10 feet 9 inches. It is feared by some that it is unwise to send so many of the best athletes in college away at the time when they should be in hard training for the spring events. Besides this there is considerable uncertainty felt as to the showing that will be made by the men after so long a voyage. So far as the men are concerned, however, they are in the best of spirits and determined to make the best possible showing. The expenses of the trip will aggregate about $1,200. The games are to be held under the patronage of the heir apparent to the throne of Greece, and Prince George, Duke of Sparta, will be the prisident of the occasion.

NOVEL FOOD EXPERIMENT.

Efforts To Discover Best Bone, Blood and Flesh Producers.

Middletown, Conn., March 20.—Professors Atwater, Rosa and Wood are conducting a series of experiments to learn the value of food products under the direction of the United States government. They have constructed an air-tight room, ten feet square, in which a student is confined. Fresh air is pumped in and food, cooked under the direction of the professors, is conveyed through an air-tight tube. His room is divided into a living room, sleeping room and labratory, is lighted by electricity and equipped with electricity. His temperature is taken and condition noticed at frequent intervals. All food and all waste are weighed, the object being to learn the exact kinds of food that make bone, flesh and blood. The student will remain six days. So far he is doing well, eating heartily, sleeping well and devoting much time to study. The results of the experiment will be sent to Washington.

COLORED PREACHER IN JAIL.

Accused of Threatening His Wife, He Can't Secure $200 Bail.

Boston, March 20.—A Malden clergyman is to-day in the Cambridge jail because he cannot furnish $200 bonds, and also because so far no one sees fit to become his surety for such an amount. The clergyman is Rev. John B. Williams, colored, and a native of Virginia. About a year ago he sauntered into Malden, and four months ago he became a benedict. His wife was a widow and has a son and daughter. A few days ago Mrs. Williams complained to the police that her husband had threatened to shoot her and himself and that he flourished a revolver in front of her face to substantiate his statement. The two children corroborated her claim. Rev. Mr. Williams denies the charges preferred against him.

Armenian Relief Work.

New York, March 20.—Spencer Trask, chairman of the executive committee of the national Armenian relief committee, has received the following cablegram from Miss Clara Barton of the Red Cross society, who is now at Constantinople: "Caravan started en route for Marash and Zeitoun in Aleppo province; very cold in mountains, snows deep; have sent funds and supplies forward."

B.G REBEL VICTORY

Spaniards Admit a Most Serious Defeat at Cayajabos.

TROOPS SUFFERED LAMENTABLE LOSS

Maceo Led the Victorious Cubans Against Frances' Troops—Military Circles in Spain Disappointed with Weyler's Attitude.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Havana, March 20.—News has been received here of an encounter Wednesday amid the ruins of Cayajabos, province of Pinar del Rio, between the forces of Maceo and a column of troops under Col. Frances. The enemy were entrenched behind walls. The troops fought valiantly. The official report of the fight says that the troops sustained lamentable losses. The details have not been made public. Col. Hernandez also had an engagement on the Mercedes estate. The column of Linares, Echevarria and Inclan are in pursuit of Maceo's forces. Gomez, who was in the province of Matanzas during the past two weeks, is now said to have moved west and entered the province of Havana.

J. FRANK CLARK.

Spain's Difficult Task.

London, March 20.—A dispatch from Madrid to the Pall Mall Gazette says there is a feeling there, which finds widespread expression, that a pacification of Cuba will be impossible unless a supreme effort is made involving the sending of large bodies of reinforcements to Cuba and establishing a complete blockade of the island.

Displeased with Weyler.

London, March 20.—The Standard to-day publishes a dispatch from Madrid saying that official and military circles are displeased with Captain-General Weyler's attitude. His complaints about the excessive prudence he is compelled to observe during the discussion by the American congress of the Cuban belligerency resolutions have also created a bad impression on the public. The war office denies that Gen. Weley intends to resign, and says that he has in no way hinted that he proposed to take such action. The government expresses itself satisfied with his conduct.

FOR AIDING FILIBUSTERS.

Spanish Representatives Will Prosecute the Atlantic City's Owners.

Philadelphia, March 20.—It is said that the Spanish representatives here will proceed against the owners of the steamboat Atlantic City for the alleged part that craft took in putting Garcia aboard the Bermuda off Somers Point, N. J., Wednesday. A well known lawyer has been retained in the case and he said that the Atlantic City had violated the maritime laws by going to Tuckahoe as the vessel has only a commission to ply in the waters in the immediate vicinity of Atlantic City. Some effort is also being made to keep Capt. Wiborg and the mates of the Horsa in jail pending the argument of their appeal to the United States supreme court. The men were released on bail Wednesday and yesterday afternoon the lawyer representing Spain called upon the United States commissioner and asked for a copy of the bail piece, intimating that the men were to be fought to the bitter end.

ANTI-COAL TRUST BILLS.

New York Senate Will Report the Assembly Measures Favorably.

Albany, March 20.—The senate judiciary committee has agreed to report favorably to-day the Robbins anti-coal trust bills which have already passed the assembly. The bills are reported with the recommendation by the committee that they be ordered to a third reading and be placed at the head of the third reading calendar, provided, however, that if anyone interested appeared in good faith and demanded a hearing that the bills should be recommitted to the committee for a hearing.

WILL BENEFIT ITALY.

Views of Italian Press on Great Britain's Advance to Dongola.

Rome, March 20.—The Italia, commenting on the attitude of Great Britain toward the Soudan, dwells upon the long friendship which has existed between Great Britain and Italy and says: "The British advance to Dongola will be of great advantage to Italy, but of rather a moral than material character, while Italy renders a great service to Great Britain in affording her a pretext for showing Europe that the time has not yet come to speak of evacuating Egypt."

A Murderer Caught Among Tramps.

Raleigh, N. C., March 20.—R. L. Douglass, a man of good family connections, was arrested at a camp of tramps near Salisbury late Wednesday night. For over a month two detectives had been pursuing him. He is wanted for murder of an unknown peddler February 1 in Tasewell county, Va. Another man had been killed and robbed a few nights previous, and Douglass is suspected of this crime also.

DON'T POISON YOURSELF.

Food is Poison if Allowed to Ferment in Your Stomach.

Putrid food contains poisons so dangerous that they cause effects equal to alkaloids which druggists are not allowed to sell to the public.

No wonder so many of us become dangerously sick from indigestion!

For what is indigestion?

It is putrid (undigested) food in the stomach.

The poisons of undigested food are absorbed into the blood, and affect the liver, the nerves, the kidneys, the heart and all the organs of the body.

They cause weakness, lethargy, headache, dizziness, mental depression, bad taste, stomach ache, fever flatulence, palpitation, nausea, constipation, loss of appetite, jaundice, prostration, anæmia, rheumatism, etc.

They can be got rid of only by helping the stomach to digest its food and this is done by the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

You will never be strong or healthy so long as you suffer from indigestion so long as you allow your stomach to taint your system with the poisons of putrid food.

And, as for a cure, nothing will cure you so quickly as Shaker Digestive Cordial, nothing so certainly relieve your pain and discomfort or give you new strength, energy and endurance.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

IT WAS INTENTIONAL.

Consul Hall Positive an Attempt Was Made on His Life.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S LAME EXCUSE

Says the Shot Was Fired at a Woman Who Was Looking Over the Prison Wall.

Plots Against Americans in Porto Rica.

New York, March 20.—Regarding the attempt to assassinate United States Consul J. D. Hall by a Spanish soldier at St. John, Porto Rico, news of which was brought to this country by the steamship South Cambria, just in port here, Mr. Taussig, who represents a large importing coffee house in this city and was a passenger on the steamer, said to a United Press reporter this morning: "On the evening of the 4th inst. Consul Hall was sitting on his veranda, overlooking the prison yard, which lays two terraces below him, and on a level at least thirty feet beneath, so that from his porch the consul could command the interior of the Spanish prison. The prison was in charge of Gov.-Gen. Marin and a force of Spanish soldiers. About ten minutes before the shooting he saw an officer leave his post and cross over to talk to a guard upon the roof. The island of Porto Rico had been thrown into excitement by the news which reached it the day before that the American house of representatives had passed resolutions recognizing the belligerency of Cuba. In Spanish circles, especially within St. John, bitter resentment was aroused although the sentiment of the natives was strongly in favor of the insurgents.

Americans Threatened.

The following morning anonymous circulars were distributed in the island calling for demonstrations against resident Americans, especially the consuls at Mayaguez, Ponce and St. John. Mr. Taussig was at Ponce at the time, where Consular Agent Preston told him that he had learned that his house was to be assailed that night. Word of what was being planned reached Consul Hall, who at once visited the governor-general and demanded that precautions should be taken to suppress any rioting and protect American interests. This request was acceded to and no disorder occurred.

The Governor-General's Lame Excuse.

It was shortly before 5 o'clock on the evening of March 4 and just before the consultation between the officer and the guard when the latter levelled his musket and fired. The bullet lodged in the veranda wall back of the consul and within three feet of his head. The consul at once brought the affair to the attention of the governor-general, who smilingly assured him that it was all a mistake. The excuse was offered that a woman passing along the street at the edge of the declivity below the consular residence, but overlooking the prison, had leaned on the wall which ran along the edge and gazed down into the prison. This was against the rules and the sentinel had shot at her. Mr. Hall was not satisfied with this story. He told Mr. Taussig that every day he had seen people passing along the street, which is a public highway, and gazing over the wall into the prison, and that this was the first time he had heard of the rule or of shooting on so flimsy a pretext. It was quite evident, he intimated, that the shot was intentional.

Porto Ricans in Sympathy with Cubans.

Mr. Hall is a native of Norwich, Conn. He has no family with him. Mr. Taussig said that while the Porto Ricans sympathized with the Cubans they had neither the energy or opportunity to attempt to secure their own independence.

TO ANNUL THEIR ELECTIONS.

Parliamentary Move Against De Felice, Barbata and Bosco.

Rome, March 20.—The parliamentary commission on deputies' mandates propose to annul the elections of De Felice, Barbata and Bosco, the socialists who were elected while undergoing imprisonment for their connection with the recent riots in Sicily. The ground taken by the commission is that the three men were inelegible for election since they were condemned. There is scarcely a doubt if they are unseated that they will be again elected.

Clearwater Wins the First Game.

Pittsburg, March 20.—The first game of the pool match for the championship of the world and $1,000 ($250 a side and a purse of $500) between world's champion William H. Clearwater of this city and Pennsylvania state champion Jerome R. Keogh of Scranton was played here in the Great Nortnern Billiard hall last night, and resulted in a score of 210 for Clearwater and 128 for Keogh.

Surprises for Waltham Watch Workers.

Waltham, Mass., March 20.—Two new surprises were given the employes of the American Watch company yesterday afternoon. One was the return to work of as many of the girl strikers as the company would permit to come back. The second surprise was a notice posted in the factory saying that the works would be closed on Saturday, March 21, indefinately.

Counterfeiters Convicted.

New York, March 20.—In the United States criminal court, late last evening, Nicolo Torento, Antonio Langone, John Ross and Thomas Russo, were convicted of selling and passing counterfeit money.

King Alexander Betrothed.

Athens, March 20.—It is reported here that King Alexander of Servia has been betrothed to Princess Marie of Greece.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

Ohio's Strength in Indiana as Shown by the Congressional Elections.

Chicago, March 20.—In the republican congressional elections in Indiana yesterday McKinley's name appeared received in all of the districts and most of them either endorsed the Ohio man for president or adopted the stronger course of instructing their delegates to vote for him to the last.

York County, Pa., for the Ohio Man.

York, Pa., March 20.—In compliance with the county rules of the party, the republicans of York county at the primaries on Saturday cast their votes for the presidential candidate. Returns from the fifteen districts in this city and forty districts covering the leading towns and townships show how the voters balloted. There are still thirty-five districts to hear from, but these will not change the ratio. The figures for the thirty-five districts received are as follows: McKinley, 4,217; Quay, 593; Reed, 134; Allison, 40; Morton, 35.

McKinley Faction Leave the Convention.

New Brighton, S. I., March 20.—The republican convention in the Seventh congressional district was held here last night. There was a row from the start and the McKinley faction, numbering fourteen of the fifty-three delegates, left the hall before the vote for chairman was taken. Delegates to the state convention were chosen, but no choice for president was made.

Democratic Split in Tennessee.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 20.—What was probably the crisis in the Tennessee gubernatorial campaign, was reached last night when nearly 2,000 democrats split into two conventions, one of which endorsed R. L. Taylor for governor. This is Harris' home, and his friends were confident of carrying the county for him. The disaffection in his own county, it is thought, will assure the nomination of Taylor.

Morton Endorsed.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., March 20.—At the twenty-second district republican convention, held at Potsdam, Tuesday, Hon. William Proctor of Ogdensburg and Hon. William W. Worden of Saratoga were elected delegates to the national republican convention at St. Louis, and resolutions endorsing Gov. Morton for the republican nomination for president were unanimously adopted by the convention.

Quay Endorsed for President.

Media, Pa., March 20.—The republicans of Delaware county met in convention here yesterday and passed resolutions endorsing Senator Quay for the presidency and Congressman Robinson for the United States senate to succeed Senator Cameron.

EXHAUSTED WHEN RESCUED.

Man and Dog from a Wrecked Barge Saved with Great Peril.

Stamford, Conn., March 20.—Barge F. B. Morris, owned by J. W. Hughes of New Brunswick, N. J., which left New York Monday night with 400 tons of coal for Stamford, reached here Wednesday night in tow and was anchored near the light house. The furious gale yesterday caused the waves to wash over the barge, aboard of which were Michael Fitzgerald and a dog. Fearing disaster he had made a raft by lashing together pieces of the hatch, and last evening the barge capsized. The man and dog took to the raft and were in the water two hours and exhausted when Henry Irving, Frank Cook and Matthew Mungarrin, seeing the wreck from the shore, put out in a rowboat and with great risk and much difficulty rescued them. The barge may be saved, but the cargo was lost.

PENN. RELAY MEETING.

Twenty-five Entries from Colleges Received So Far.

Philadelphia, March 20.—The Columbian university of Washington and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have sent entries for Pennsylvania relay meeting of April 25. This will be the first appearance of "Techs" in Philadelphia, they having formerly competed in New England almost exclusively. They now hold the championship of the New England Intercollegiate A. A., and will undoubtedly be represented by a strong team. Twenty-five entries from colleges have been received to date.

Discharged from Custody.

Floral Park, L. I., March 20.—Peter Anderson, who has been confined in the Queens county jail for a week on suspicion of having caused the death of Mary Fox, the young woman who was found dead on the beach at Lloyd's Neck, March 2, has been discharged from custody, there being no evidence against him.

Floods at Waterbury.

Waterbury, Conn., March 20.—The floods in Waterbury of Feb. 6 and 20 were repeated last night with probably a loss of $10,000 to the city and town streets and to the stocks of merchants along North Main, Main and South Main streets.

To Increase New York Police Force.

Albany, March 20.—Theodore Roosevelt made his first appearance as a police commissioner before the assembly cities committee yesterday afternoon and argued in favor of the Austin bill, increasing the police force of New York by 800 members.

The Lathrop Investigation

Albany, March 20.—By agreement of counsel the summing up of the testimony taken on the investigation of the charges preferred against Gen. Austin Lathrop, superintendent of state prisons, has been postponed for one week

Heavy Storm at Vineyard Haven.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 20.—A heavy northeast storm prevailed here all last night. Several vessels put in here for shelter.

BAYARD RESOLUTION

House Expected To Vote on It This Afternoon.

BOATNER ELECTION CONTEST NEXT

Interesting Addresses in the Senate on the Cuban Resolutions—Mr. Caffrey To Speak To-day Against Their Adoption.

Washington, March 20.—It is expected that a vote will be taken in the house this afternoon on the resolutions censuring Ambassador Bayard for his speeches at Edinburgh and Boston, Eng., after which the report of election committee No. 2 declaring vacant the seat now occupied by Mr. Boatner, dem., La., will be taken up and voted on without debate. During the debate on the resolutions there was quite a little heat developed by an interchange of personalities between Messrs. Sulzer, dem., N. Y., and Gibson, rep., Tenn. The display of a circular letter written by Mr. Gibson to his constituents and the charge that it was being circulated under a frank elicited an angry outbreak from the Tennesseean, who denied that he was using a frank upon the document, and declared that the person who said so was the author of a vile slander. Later the New Yorker withdrew the assertion and also apologized to the gentleman for anything he had said which might have given him offense, but this did not wholly satisfy the Tennesseean, who, in the course of a personal explanation, said that the circular had been stolen, being still, so far as he knew, in the hands of the printer, and asserted that if there were no receivers there would be no thieves. Mr. Grosvenor, rep., Ohio, defended the reputation of Gen. Schenck from the inference arising from the statement made by Mr. McCreary, dem., Ky., about his connection with the Emma mine and the publication of his rules of poker while he was minister to England.

In the Senate.

Senator Caffery, dem., La., whose speech in the senate against the adoption of the conference report on the Cuban belligerency resolutions was interrupted at adjournment yesterday afternoon, is continuing his remarks to-day. He said the proposition had no better basis than stories in the Arabian Nights. The United States, he declared, was bound by international law not to interfere in the affairs of Cuba. If the United States did not cling to that law it would be outlawed from the circle of civilized nations. Senator Mills, dem., Tex., who was to have spoken on the subject, was too ill to appear, but the other speeches were of a character to maintain the intense public interest in the question. The debate was opened by Senator Stewart, pop., Nev., who declared himself anxious for action; that the facts were too notorious to need further statement; favored the adoption of the conference report, and said that if a concurrent resolution did not produce the desired result congress ought to pass a joint resolution and place the responsibility on the president of the United States. Senator Gray, dem., Del., a member of the committee on foreign relations, rose, in order, as he expressed it, to state briefly the reasons which compelled him to withhold his assent from the conference report, but he was subjected to so many interruptions that his brief statement occupied over an hour. It closed with the expression of the hope that "Spain, without rupture of friendly relations, shall sit down with us at the council board of nations and consider whether there may not be some other issue of this sorry controversy than the extermination of a whole people fighting for their liberties." Senator Gray was interrupted all through his speech by Senator Hale, rep., Me., in the course of which Senator Hale flatly contradicted a statement repeatedly made by Senator Sherman, rep., O., chairman of the foreign relations committee, as to Spain having violated all the promises and reforms stipulated in the capitulation of 1878, when the insurgents of that day laid down their arms. Senator Sherman had said, among other things, that, although representation in the Spanish cortes was then promised, the Cubans had only one delegate there; but Senator Hale affirmed that he had a list of forty-five members in the house of deputies and fourteen or fifteen members in the senate from the two islands of Cuba and Porto Rico. Senator Hale declared with warmth that he was laboring under a sense of indignation at the suppression of the facts in the case by the committee on foreign relations. Senator Gray made a mock apology to Senator Hale for interrupting his speech so much, and spoke of him, by an intentional slip of the tongue, as "the senator from Spain." The junior senator from Texas, Mr. Chilton, advocated the passage of a joint resolution rather than of a concurrent one, and declared his belief that intervention by the United States meant the ultimate annexation of Cuba—to which he was opposed.

To Admit New Mexico.

Washington, March 20.—The senate committee on territories has favorably reported the bill for the admission of the territory of New Mexico to statehood. One or two of those who voted for the measure are not, however, committed to it. Several minor amendments are made to the bill.

Celebrated Her 100th Birthday.

Rochester, N. Y., March 20.—Mrs. Nancy Ray gave a reception last evening in celebration of her 100th birthday at her home on Joslyn park. About 400 guests were present. Many letters of congratulations were received from all parts of the country.

The Ohio man seems to have a fascination for New Yorkers in a political way.

Someone must be twisting the lion's tail, because he is certainly blustering around in good style today.

It seems to be a principle of legislation now to make new laws each year to enforce the ones made in previous years.

Who can doubt that the time will come when it will be thought right to exclude immigrants who cannot read and write English?—Tribune.

Never!

The lie is being served up to the readers of metropolitan papers as frequently as hash in a $3-a-week boarding house.

It is understood that Justice-elect H. S. Thomas was a candidate for Borough Magistrate, but Justice Crosley was reappointed.

City and borough consolidation has not bobbed up in the State Legislature as was anticipated. It may be sleeping, but it is not dead.

McKinley swept the delegates of Indiana into his Presidential basket yesterday, there being only two districts in the Hoosier State that declared against him.

The repetition of last month's flood, only on a smaller scale, at Bound Brook, last night, seems to indicate that that town needs to provide in some manner against these overflows. Otherwise the town will be retarded in its growth and progress.

There seems to be no reason why there should be more hogs on the ferryboats crossing the North River than in the elevated trains, the cable cars and the other public conveyances of this city. Yet, from the number of complaints, it is fair to conclude that there are, says The Evening Sun.

While you are wondering at the enthusiasm of the Ballington Booth meeting last night, it might not be amiss to acknowledge the fact that the regular Salvationists pounded their drum just as hard, sang their hallelujahs with just as much fervor, and continued on their mission of sin fighting last night as though there was no competition in their particular field of labor.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue and Eighth street, sail for Bermuda on Saturday.

Miss VanNest, of Edsall's Commercial Palace, is detained at her home on Jackson avenue with illness.

Winners at Euchre.

The Young People's Progressive Euchre Club, of Dunellen and North Plainfield, met last evening at the home of Miss Jessie Haynes, of Dunellen. Euchre occupied the attention of the young people for the first part of the evening. Miss Emma Marlow and William Terry were the successful ones, winning the first prizes, while Miss Gray and Charles Coriell took the prizes for second best. The rest of the time passed very pleasantly with dancing, conversation and refreshments.

Died in a New York Hospital.

Mrs. Emily Wilson, of Somerville, who went to the Women's Hospital, New York, recently, to have an operation performed, died at the latter place yesterday from pneumonia. The body has been removed to Somerville and the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at that place at 1:30. Mrs. Wilson had many friends in this city who will learn of her death with deep sorrow.

To Tell How to Earn Money.

The Advance Circle, King's Daughters, of the First Presbyterian church, are arranging for an event to be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Pope, West Fifth street, Thursday evening, April 2d. The members are expected to earn a dollar, and at that time they will tell in verse how they secured it. A programme will also be arranged for the occasion.

It not only is so, it must be so, One Minute Cough Cure acts quickly, and that's what makes it go. L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front S

Surely Most Welcome News to Sufferers From Female Complaints.

It is a fact that our women who suffer from female complaints and are consequently weak, tired, nervous dragged-out and full of pains and aches, do not have the same opportunity to be cured as do the residents of the great cities where the most successful specialists in female diseases reside. In other words, our women are debarred from seeking a cure by the great and skilled physicians owing to the cost of travel to the large city and the high fees charged by such specialists.

Here, therefore, is a chance for the sick and suffering women of our community which should not be lost. Dr Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, who has the largest practice in the world and who is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing female complaints, offers to give free consultation by mail to all women suffering from these distressing weaknesses, discharges, pains and irregularities. You have the priviledge of consulting Dr. Greene by letter describing your complaints and he will after carefully considering your condition, send a letter carefully explaining all your symptoms, telling you everything about your complaints so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails you. He will also give you his advice, based upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating such cases, as to just what to do to get cured. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best known and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of all known medicines. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and he has discovered many other most valuable remedies. Write to him now about your case, for this is a chance to get cured which you may never have again.

Dunellen.

THEATRICAL.

On Wednesday night Manager Daly will present at Music Hall J. K. Emmet in an entirely new play, a comedy drama in three acts, by A. D. Hall, entitled "Fritz in Love." The story is that of a poor German lad, who from a struggling miner, becomes heir to the large estate of an uncle, among whose possessions are vast coal mines in Pennsylvania. "Fritz," the heir-in-law, is entirely ignorant of business, and takes in as a partner, Blandford, an unscrupulous lawyer to whom he leaves the entire supervision of his affairs. In order to force up the price of coal, Blandford shuts down the mines, which course causes great destitution among the miners, who appeal to Blandford to give them work, but to which he gives no heed. By accident Fritz learns of this state of affairs and orders the mines reopened, after which the miners look upon him as their benefactor and idolize him accordingly. Several pathetic incidents are introduced in this interesting story, but they are so quickly followed by some amusing or rediculous situation, due to the young German's mistaken interp etation of matters foreign to him, that the audience is left with the impression that the play is the unfolding of a very amusing stage story.

Herrmann the Napolean of Necromancers, will undoubtedly pack Music Hall, Wednesday March 25th and from all reports it will be well deserved, as Herrmann is understood to present this season, the most brilliant entertainment he has ever offered to the public. Herrmann's present organization is a very elaborate one, as he carries a special leader of the orchestra, an electician, carpenters and mechanics, who, under the direction of the magician, are incessantly contriving new surprises, special scenery and an entire calcium lighting plant, so theatre-goers can look forward to a veritable spectacular production. In "The Artist's Dream," gorgeous electrical effects and surprises are introduced, and in it the magician appears in the character of Mephisto and Adelaide Herrmann in the role of a handsome young artist, who, having painted the picture of his ideal is overjoyed at its coming to life miraculously before his very eyes. In this beautiful idyll songs and dances, together with accompanying music are introduced, making it the most highly embellished act Herrmann has ever contrived "Trilby," the latest and greatest sensation yet introduced by Herrmann the Great, will be seen here for the first time.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Buy and read the Penny Magazine at Rand's. Five cents a copy.

—Corsets is the subject of VanEmburgh's new ad in today's Press.

—Smalley Brothers have purchased a new steam drill to be used at their stone quarry.

—Hood's Pills are purely vegetable and do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists, 25c.

—The condition of some of the streets in the city necessitated the use of stilts yesterday.

—The Gospel Story, chapter 3, "Clouds in the Sky," at the Liberty Street mission tonight.

—The "specials" mentioned in Edsall's new ad in today's Press are well worth your attention.

—Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, will meet tonight and initiate one candidate in the third rank.

—Rebekah Degree Lodge, U. O. of O. L., will hold a dime social at the home of Mrs. P. A. VanFleet this evening.

—The Epworth Leagues of Westfield, Dunellen and Plainfield will hold a rally at the Grace P. E. church this evening.

—Rev. J. L. Huffman will speak and a chorus of forty mixed voices will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday at 4:15 p. m.

—Ed Campbell has seen several otters in the neighborhood of his home on Park avenue and has set traps to catch them.

—A dance will be given this evening at the home of Charles Brantingham, of New Durham. A number from this city are invited.

—A district meeting of Knights of Pythias will be held at Somerville on Monday night. A number of Knights from this city will attend.

—Ninety per cent of all the people need to take a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season to prevent that run-down condition of the system which invites disease.

—Those wishing to attend the concert at Union Village this evening can make arrangements to do so by seeing J. E. Townsend at his office on Somerset street before 6 o'clock this evening. A stageload is being arranged.

—The poor roof drainage of the principal buildings about town is the cause of much adverse comment. It is about time they were arranged so the water would run in some other direction and not cause pedestrians so much inconvenience.

—Doane & Edsall are showing something new in a gymnasium and tennis shoe. They think that it will supercede to a great extent the heavy unhealthy rubber sole shoe now used. The new shoe weighs less than five ounces to the pair and will outwear the rubber sole shoe.

—Remember the date of the Syracuse University Mandolin and Glee Club concert at Monroe Avenue chapel, Friday evening, March 27th, for the benefit of the Young Men's Association. This concert promises to be one of the finest every given by the club. Price of admission, 35 cents.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

when it breaks they would come to them to have it repaired. Captain Mimms invited all to attend the meetings at Reform Hall and the meeting closed with the doxology and the benediction by Commander Booth. The collection amounted to about $35.

Mrs. Ballington Booth has yielded to the popular cry against the use of brown cloth for uniforms for the American Volunteers, and returned to the cadet blue which is worn by the Salvation Army lassies. Fred Lindsay, manager of the trade department, has returned the bolts of brown cloth which he had in stock to the wholesalers, and spent a portion of yesterday in examining samples in blues. The uniform of the men is still undecided upon. Commander Booth will endeavor to have it as nearly like that of the regular army as possible, but is experiencing great difficulty in finding a light cloth for summer wear of the proper color.

The name of the new organization has been severely criticised. The principal complaint is that to preface it with the title of the Deity is irreverent. Commander Booth will for the present shorten the name to "American Volunteers" and will decide in the near future upon some other word to substitute for "God's."

LUCETTA COUNCIL DANCES.

A Pleasant Affair Given in Central Hall Last Night.

Another one of the series of dances of the American Social Club, the initiating team of Lucetta Council, No. 28, Daughters of Liberty, of this city, was given last evening in Central Hall at the corner of North and Park avenues. The event, like its predecessors, proved a most enjoyable affair in every respect. The grand march, led by W. W. Stratton and Miss Emma Stram, and assisted by G. S. Martin and Miss Bertha Rockfellow, was participated in by about 100 couples. The music was directed by Prof. N. H. Guttman. W. W. Stratton was floor manager, assisted by G. S. Martin.

The club received a large number of requests to give another dance, and it is most likely they will be given another at a date not very far off.

THE PRODIGAL RETURNED.

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Who Knows What Home is After He Left It.

Frank Marsh, aged nineteen years, son of Randolph Marsh, of 310 Plainfield avenue, returned home last evening after a week's absence. He ran away several days ago and intended going to Florida, but owing to the heavy weather he only reached Philadelphia, where he managed to stay a few days. When he returned he was very penitent and was glad to get back to a comfortable home. He promised to do better and his father agreed to keep him as long as he keeps his word. This is the second time the boy has left home, and his last experience no doubt taught him that a good home, with comforts, was more to be desired than a shiftless life, roaming about aimlessly without good parents and a home.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A two-year-old heifer belonging to Chas. Willis, of Washingtonville, gave birth to two calves this morning. This is an exceedingly rare case.

—Keep up with the times, and in order to do so visit H. M. Jaquett's store, 129 East Front street. He always has the latest styles in gent's furnishings.

—The United States civil service examination for clerks and carriers of the postoffice department will be held in the postoffice on April 4th at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

—The Paugh Caugh-Naugh Sinque Tribe of Red Men met Wednesday night and made further arrangements for their ball which will be held at the Columbia Cycle Academy, April 16th.

—The store on the corner of Park avenue and Second street, now occupied by Garret Q. Packer, the furniture dealer, will be taken possession of by the carpenters on Monday, when it will be arranged so that Marsh, Ayres & Co., can take possession of it on April 1. Horace Huff now has charge of the store and is closing out the odds and ends of the old stock while the new store in the Jackson building is being arranged.

A PLEASANT SOCIABLE.

Despite the Storm Quite a Number Attend the M. E. Church Event.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church held a very pleasant social last evening in Vincent chapel. Owing to the weather the attendance was small, but those present were very sociable and the event was productive of much good.

The programme consisted of a vocal solo by L. S. Bond, a recitation in song by Miss Lucy Palmer Davis, and a piano solo by Miss Maude French. The three numbers were finely rendered and won hearty anplause. Geo. Cornwell, who acted as master of ceremonies, invited all to partake of the refreshments provided, consisting of lemonade and wafers. Mrs. L. M. French presided, assisted by Miss Hattie French.

Sweetheart Dead and Didn't Know It.

A man residing in Missouri wrote to some Plainfield friends a few days ago inquiring about his sweetheart, who, he wrote, was working for a family in this city. At first it was thought that she was not known here, but investigation proved that she had died some time ago. The man was notified, but seemed unwilling to believe such a statement. He wrote again, but as it is almost certain that the woman to whom he referred is dead, there is nothing left to do in the way of assisting the man to find his sweetheart.

WHITE HOUSE DINNERS.

They Are Elaborate and Expensive State Affairs.

An Apocryphal Story About Mrs. Morton and an Ignorant Guest — How a Western Man Got Along Swimmingly.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The state dinners which are given by the president of the United States, at the white house, are elaborate and costly affairs. The president on such occasions invites all members of his cabinet, with their wives and daughters, to dine with him. The president and his wife, with their guests, enter the state dining-room at eight o'clock in the evening, and they usually remain at the table for an hour or more. The time is occupied not alone in eating, but in gossiping and nibbling at the numerous dainties which are brought in by courses and removed from time to time by quiet, expert, experienced waiters. The great dining-room is decorated with flowers from the white house conservatory, the table is adorned with floral designs, and everything that wealth can procure for adornment and pleasure is skillfully arranged by artistic fingers.

The president similarly entertains the members of the diplomatic corps in the state dining-room once every year. These gentlemen are ambassadors, envoys and ministers from all of the nations of the world, and they are accompanied by the ladies of their families. These state dinners are so named on account of their official character; but affairs of state are never discussed on such occasions. It would be bad form to "talk shop" at such a distinguished social gathering.

From time to time the president also gives state dinners to members of the senate, members of the house, the supreme court, and the leading bureau officials who rank next to the members of his cabinet. He also gives public receptions to the army and navy officers, and to citizens of the United States who desire to pay their respects to their chief magistrate.

During the winter and spring until the Lenten season begins there is a continual round of dinner parties given in Washington by men and women who are leaders in the social swim. The vice president entertains the same functionaries who are banqueted at the white house. The senators, representatives and justices of the supreme court give elaborate dinners; and all of them take place at night under the gas and electric lights in the palaces of the the patricians of our republic. It never costs less than $500 for the flowers which are used upon each occasion, while sometimes more than $1,000 has been expended solely for floral decorations for one evening.

One evening when the wife of Vice President Morton was giving a select entertainment she was horrified by the action of one of her guests, who, though a man of political prominence, was not acquainted with the use of modern doilies, which are intended for decoration, and not for utility. She had just imported a set from Paris, and each of them was hand painted in water colors. On the evening in question they were displayed for the first time at dessert under the finger bowls. Imagine the surprise of Mrs. Morton at seeing her guest, so famous as a legislator, and yet so ignorant of social amenities, coolly dip his fingers deep in the water and wipe them with the greatest nonchalance upon one of her precious new works of art on filmy bolting cloth. The costly little doily was a wreck, and the entire set was spoiled; but Mrs. Morton was so polite and well bred that she took her own doily and used it in the same manner. Her other guests knew better; but they followed the example of Mrs. Morton, in order to save the misguided statesman from the mortification of realizing the grave error which he had committed. His wife soon heard of the [illegible] and it is presumed that she [illegible] a severe curtain lecture; for, [illegible] weeks later, a handsome [illegible] orted doilies was sent to [illegible] with the card of the states- [illegible] upon the package. No word [illegible] son was ever said or written, [illegible] ncident was thus closed.

A similar story is related of an incident which occurred when William C. Whitney was secretary of the navy. His wife was a philosophical woman, and when a guest of hers smashed a most precious teacup, she calmly picked up another and fractured it, saying: "Aren't they absurdly brittle?" But, of course, she was too well bred to make any other remark, and was obliged to content herself with mournfully describing the melancholy incident to sympathetic lady friends who realized what an embarrassing situation the lady was in when her [illegible] dainty teacup was clumsily [illegible] people who are not familiar [illegible] of the world of society [illegible] errors at dinner and supper tables; but well-bred men and women would almost allow their houses to be torn down over their heads, rather than to say or do anything to show their resentment or annoyance.

The man who used Mrs. Morton's doily for a napkin had his counterpart in the almost mythical fellow who drank the water from his finger bowl and afterwards remarked that he thought it was "very weak lemonade." Or in the Irish parliamentarian who saw people in London nibbling their celery, and whispered to his wife: "Luk at the people atin' the white bokays."

A western senator gave a "stag" party to the gentlemen in congress from his own state. Among other things he had Rochefort and other imported cheeses; and after the party adjourned one of the congressmen remarked to a colleague: "I s'pose the senator must have been mortified if he noticed that all of his cheese was spoiled. I ate some of it just for appearances, but it nearly made me sick It was awful stuff, and the smell was very rank."

At big dinner parties it is well for a novice to watch what other people do, and follow their example. In that way mistakes may be avoided. There are so many new things being invented constantly for adornment and use by the social leaders that one must be going into society all the time in order to keep the run of them. A paper published here recently printed what was claimed to be a true story concerning a new member of congress who had been a farmer all his life, but who managed to get through a state dinner without making any blunders, because he carefully watched the others, and did exactly what they did with every utensil and with every edible. From the outset he was very much interested in a tiny silver hay fork at the side of his plate, the likeness of which he saw the other people use for their raw oysters. He did the same and was so far all right, helping himself to salt with a very small gold spade provided for the purpose. It reminded him of the tool he had employed many a time to dig potatoes with, save for the metal. Of potatoes themselves, mashed, he was presently helped to a portion, and he found that his fellow-guests utilized an instrument, the like of which he was also supplied with, to push the vegetable upon their fork. Subsequently he learned that the instrument was called a "pusher," but at the time it seemed to him nothing more or less than a diminutive hoe, in the exact shape of which it was undeniably constructed.

HE CLAIMED THE CHEESE WAS SPOILED.

But there was one utensil that made him extremely nervous, inasmuch as he could not imagine for what purpose it was intended, and he was carefully guarding himself against a possible error. For course after course he watched his fellow guests to see when they would bring the curious tool into play. It was not, however, until the asparagus came on that he saw an eminent diplomat who sat opposite him, pick up the silver hay rake from beside his plate and employ it to convey the vegetable to his mouth. It is said that he afterwards remarked to a friend: "If we're going into farming for a dinner table, why don't we have a threshing machine to make the beefsteak tender and a mowing machine to clear off the crumbs?"

That man was new to all of the pomp and dazzle of society at the national capital, but it is safe to assume that he will never destroy a doily nor shatter any costly chinaware, nor mistake a napkin for a handkerchief and carry it away from the table in his pocket. He keeps his eyes open and keenly observes others. When a boy he probably learned the aphorism to "do as Romans do, when in Rome."

Although affairs of state are never considered at state dinners, very many important national matters are discussed and settled at private dinner parties, where three or more leading members of a great political party gather around a table in the dining-room of a senator or cabinet minister and discuss subjects of grave moment while they eat and drink and smoke their cigars. It was in Senator Gorman's dining-room one night in June, 1893, that the fate of the original Wilson bill was determined. And, in 1890, Senator Evarts, of New York, quietly invited "just a few senators" to dinner one evening, cautioning each one to say nothing about it, as it was to be "a strictly private and select affair." It was a genuine surprise party to every senator, for, when all were assembled, every republican member of the senate was present. The newspaper men knew nothing of it. And it was then and there that the republican senatorial programme was agreed upon with relation to the McKinley bill. SMITH D FRY.

As He Pronounced It.

"How do you pronounce the last syl[illegible] of that word 'butterine?'" asked [illegible]

"[illegible] is silent," stiffly [illegible]rk. — Chicago

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

WATER SUPPLY CO.,

Incorporated 1869.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

THE ERRATIC BICYCLE.

BY LUKE SHARP.

I HAVE, at various periods of my life, endeavored to teach a two-wheeled machine to carry a man with something like dignity and stability; to act, in fact, as if it did not wish to wobble over the whole earth in the space of ten seconds. My first efforts were made more years ago than I care to estimate, on the ordinary bone-shaker of commerce, a two-wheeled vehicle with hickory spokes in the wheels. If I remember rightly, I broke up the machine, and abandoned the attempt.

Never shall I forget my amazement when I saw a human being for the first time on one of those wheels which we now call the ordinary bicycle. It seemed to me then anything but ordinary. In due time I tackled one of these machines at a riding school, and the result of this wonderful conflict I wrote up years and years ago. The result was that in a certain number of rounds the machine floored me every time, drawing first, second and third blood. As I had some work to do in this world I again abandoned the attempt, not wishing to break myself into little pieces. On various occasions since then I have endeavored to train up a bicycle in the way it should go, but always without success.

It is an amazing thing, then, that a sedate, middle-aged man should try to do what he had invariably failed to accomplish in his youth. In looking back to see who is really responsible for this amazing outbreak on my part, I think the man most to blame is that celebrated dramatic author, Mr. Bronson Howard. Yet Mr. Howard has always been exceedingly kind and gentle with me, as, indeed, he is with everyone, and I have often wondered why he endeavored to lure me on to the top of a bicycle. Perhaps it is that Providence does not intend any man to be entirely good, and as anyone who is acquainted with Mr. Howard has never any fault to find with him, it may be that his goading of a man toward feats of bicycular eccentricity takes the place in Mr. Howard's nature that revenge, envy and all uncharitableness occupy in the souls of the rest of us.

Mr. Howard at first practiced on a tricycle, and used to cover amazing distances on that remarkably sane machine. Once when in Honolulu, with nothing to occupy his mind or his muscles but a bicycle that happened to be unemployed at that particular time, Mr. Howard tumbled about the land of the Sandwich islands, and nearly got himself flung into the Pacific on two or three occasions, but he persevered and finally conquered the two-wheeler. Since then he has been bragging about it and inviting me to take trips with him to various interesting portions of the earth.

So I said to myself that if a mere dramatic author had brains enough to ride a bicycle, surely a talented newspaper man could do the same.

A friend of mine in England said that the real way to acquire the bicycle habit was to get a machine of my own.

"As long," said he, "as you simply depend on hired machines you won't learn, because you have nothing at stake, but once you spend your money for a first-class bicycle you are then compelled to learn, or else there is so much cash thrown away."

This seemed very reasonable, so I pondered upon it and then bought the biggest book on cycling that is published, a very expensive book, one of the volumes of the Badmington Library, edited by a real lord, and illustrated by a prince—a prince of the brush—named Joseph Pennell, who is a cycler himself, and he draws very alluring pictures of the machine. I studied up this volume and was amazed to see how easy it was to ride a bicycle. I then took the advice of the book as to which particular machine to buy. It gives several pages in a description of a particular safety, and I learned that that machine had none of the vices which were so prominent in those bicycles with which I had heretofore been brought into contact. On this one it was impossible to take a header. The machine also would not slip sideways in the mud. It has numerous other advantages, for a list of which I refer all inquirers to the cycling volume of the Badmington library.

So I had a wheel made to measure—for they measure you for a bicycle in England just as if you were getting a pair of trousers made—and the other day the machine was delivered in good shape wrapped up in brown paper.

At the back part of my house there is a somewhat large lawn that costs me ever so much a year for having a lazy man with a lawn mower go over it two or three times a month. I thought I would make things interesting for this man the next time he came with his lawn mower by practicing over the grass with my new bicycle.

The machine was a beautiful one, nickel-plated everywhere that nickel would stick on it, and so light that you could easily pick it up in one hand, grasping it by the backbone. It seemed almost too pretty for a rough and tumble fight, even on the velvety lawn, and I had some thought of putting it back in its brown paper again and hiring a second-hand machine to learn on, but as it was guaranteed to hang together under almost any circumstances I concluded to go ahead with it. I put my left foot on the step that extends out from the hub of the hind wheel, and hopping with my right foot pushed it ahead of me. The machine behaved beautifully, but perhaps that was because I hopped the whole length of the lawn and had not the courage to jump up into the saddle. On the next round my natural bravery returned to me, and I raised myself above the machine and sat down somewhat emphatically and not too comfortably. The wheel seemed to be amazed at this, for with a large space of lawn to wander over, it promptly dashed over the border to the left, then, with a wild swoop to the right, fell and landed me in a rose bush. Nothing seemed to be broken except the bush, so I tackled it again and again and again. The result of the first morning's work was that I could place myself in the saddle and trundle along the lawn hanging on like grim death to the handle bar, but without daring to put my feet on the pedals.

I discovered more different muscles in my own body than I had any idea I possessed. Every bone and sinew ached, not with the falls, for I had been singularly lucky in that respect, but with the exertion of hopping along after the machine, and springing into the saddle and straining every nerve to keep the combination from going over.

Not to make too long a story of it, I may say that for three days the machine and I discussed this matter, and every morning when I led it out on to the lawn I seemed at first to know less about balancing myself than I had done when I quitted the business the day before. Perhaps during the night the machine had thought up some new tricks.

At last I rose up very early one morning, long before the season-ticket man began to pass my house to go to the railway station, for his London train. I felt that the lawn was getting too small for me. I could now work the pedals reasonably well, and stagger about the place from one end to the other of the grass plot, but I could not turn around, for when I attempted to do so the machine would swoop like a hawk into one of the flower beds or into a convenient piece of shrubbery.

Our neighborhood is a quiet one, and the street, at most times, is not so busy as the Strand. I expected to have it all to myself in the early morning out, but in this I reckoned without the milkman. I had no idea before that the multitudinal milkman was such a fiend in human shape. He drives a vehicle modeled after the old Roman chariots, and he drives at a rate of speed that is something appalling. The moment I got on my bicycle in the road some accursed milkman would come tearing up, and taking it for granted that I knew all about bicycle steering he never paid the slightest attention to me. Consequently I came within an ace of being smashed up into pieces on several occasions, and after steering my machine up on the sidewalk and into the fence to get out of his way I used language that I knew must have turned most of the milk in that neighborhood sour.

One morning, thoroughly discouraged with the business, I got out on the street a little later than usual, so as to be rid of the milkman. One peculiarity of the bicycle seems to be that although you are reasonably successful on your last interview with it, the next you seem to have to begin all over again. This particular morning I was more than usually discouraged and had practically made up my mind to sell the machine. All at once I found myself in the saddle and realized that I had run along several rods without any serious wobbling. On and on we went with a beautiful sense of smoothness, ease and exhilaration. I turned in to the main coaching road with my heart in my mouth but my feet still on the pedals, and I executed a turn without disaster. There was now a straight stretch ahead of me for miles on a smooth and excellent road.

"Surely," said I to myself, "the time is come when my neck is to be broken. This docility on the part of the wheel can lead to nothing but disaster." Nevertheless on and on we went, and after traveling for about a mile and coming to a wide part in the thoroughfare, I took a sweep around with amazing success and traveled back again. It seemed to be an unbelievable thing, but actually I had succeeded in teaching that bicycle how to carry a man as a man should be carried.

OF UNKNOWN DEPTH.

A Pond in New York State That Has No Bottom.

Many Efforts to Fathom the Pool Have Been Fruitless. It Is Thought to Have an Underground Outlet.

In the northern part of the town of Napoli, Cattaraugus county, there is what is known in that vicinity as a "bottomless pond." It is situated in a tamarack swamp in that part of the town called Owlenburg, and for many years it has created great local interest on account of its unknown depth, the peculiarity of its location and the character of the land surrounding it.

About midway between the villages of Little Valley and Napoli on the Pigeon Valley road, high up on a ridge several hundred feet above either village, the pond is to be found. On this eminence a natural basin has been formed which comprises many hundred acres of swamp and which is grown up with spruce and tamarack trees, huckleberry bushes and like vegetation; on the east, north and west hills surround the swamp and but for the fact that to the south the swamp slopes gradually down to a lower level it would seem that this swamp was at one time entirely covered by a large pond or lake.

About the center of this swamp is the "bottomless pond." It is circular in shape and about 500 feet across. It is probably fed by springs from below and its outlet breaks forth from the earth some distance away and flows south, finally finding its way to the Allegheny river. The water which flows from the pond is black in appearance from its contact with the roots of the swamp.

In approaching the pond one feels the ground springing beneath the feet even at a considerable distance away, and when standing on its bank the ground feels so unstable that a person's inclination is to quickly turn back and seek more solid ground. It is apparent that the pond was at one time much larger than at present and that it has been slowly growing over, in fact a perceptible change can be seen in its size from year to year. It is certain that the water extends a considerable distance under the banks, but how far is uncertain. Several rods back from the pond a pole can be easily run down through the thin crust of earth into the water beneath. Numerous efforts have been made to ascertain the depth of the pond, but without success. Long lines with weights have been lowered, but the bottom has never been found, and its depth remains unfathomed. And from these unsuccessful efforts to find the bottom it has received the name of the "bottomless pond." Beautiful pond lilies grow near its banks, but efforts to secure them are attended with great difficulty and danger.

In the same swamp about a half mile away is another pond, round like the first, but smaller, being about 350 acres across. The formation of the ground around this pond is similar to that around the larger one. Between the two there is a high ridge of solid ground which forms a divide so that the water from the smaller pond flows east, while that from the large one flows south. Whether they are two parts of what was once a large pond, or whether there is now any subterranean connection between them can only be conjectured.

The small pond is only 40 or 50 feet deep; in the middle of it, submerged, there stands a tall spruce tree, its top reaching to the surface of the pond. This would indicate that the land at the bottom of the pond had from some cause sunk from the level of the surrounding land some time during the lifetime of the tree and that this pond was thus formed. The tree being under water has been preserved, perhaps, for ages to tell the story of the earth's changes.—Rochester Democrat.

The Orator's Inspiration.

Our orator gazes with far-searching eye. He is the poet in prose, the musician who plays on men, the painter, in words, of thoughts, sentiments, passions, ideas. His colors live and burn, for they are drawn from men's hearts. To him the glory that beckons on from height to height and then again on and on till the eye wearies, is the ideal—that which men pray for, struggle for, travail for, yet never grasp; but are the nobler for having aspired to. As the eye follows hill after hill that the falling sun gilds, and then rests unrested because the gold has turned to black, so the orator must follow hard after the ideal even till the night cometh. For him the breath of the pine is wine, and the strength of the forest makes strong his heart. The broad, clear ranges of space widen his mind, the pure azure clarifies his vision, and the distant rim of earth and sky makes far-sighted and keen the eyes of his soul.—William F. Seward, in New Bohemian.

Good Enough for Her, Too.

The resources of a properly trained Biddy are practically inexhaustible. A short time ago I bought some very expensive hothouse grapes for a member of the family who had been sick, but they were not fancied at the time, and I asked the maid to take them away. The next morning I went to her and told her to take the fruit to the sick room.

"Sure, ma'am, Oi can't. 'Tis meself thought ye wanted them throw'd away!" with the peculiarly stupid look an Irish girl puts on and takes off with ease.

"Thrown away, Bridget!" I exclaimed angrily. "How could you be so stupid? Don't you know that kind of grapes is awfully expensive?"

"Don't be put out, ma'am," Bridget said, soothingly. "Sure, not one was wasted. Oi ate ivery good grape meself!"—N. Y. Herald.

THE ELEVATOR STRUCK HER.

A Girl Attempting to Run an Elevator Narrowly Escapes Serious Injury.

What might have been a serious accident, but which fortunately for the parties concerned was not, occurred in the Babcock building on West Front street a few minutes after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Misses Blanch Briziard and Bessie Trembath, employees of Chapot & Son's glove factory, were returning to work, and as there was no one around the elevator, they determined to run it themselves. They went up all right and landed safely on the top floor. Miss Briziard then proceeded to run the elevotor back to the ground floor. She forgot for a moment that the top of the elevator had not gone down yet and stuck her head in the shaft.

The car came down and struck her on top of the head. She quickly stopped it and moved out of danger. Had she fallen, her head would have been crushed between the elevator and floor. As it was her head was badly bruised.

Wanted in Detail.

A borough resident possessing good sound judgment, has made a suggestion in regard to school affairs. He says there are a great many people in the borough who are absolutely ignorant as to the detail items of expense necessary to run the school; in fact some of them do not know how many teachers are employed. To obviate this he suggests that a pamphlet be published each year giving in detail everything in regard to the school, and thus assist the residents to vote intelligently on the various matters that come up.

BE A WELL WOMAN!

Only One Remedy that Will Make You So ---Paine's Celery Compound!

Why not be a well woman this spring?

There are women who cannot tolerate the smallest neglect about the house who too often take no care of their health.

They should use these precious March days for getting strong and well by taking Paine's celery compound—the greatest of all spring remedies.

Miss Elsie M. Brown, of 2 Leeds st., Dorchester, Mass., whose picture is given above, wrote the 5th of this month as follows:

"Four or five years ago I suffered with dreadful pains in my back (owing to my kidneys) so much so that night after night I could not close my eyes, and what few hours sleep I did get, I could be heard moaning and tossing, showing that even in my sleep, I suffered pain. At times I would have more pain than usual over my left hip and when walking in the morning it would be all I could do to stretch my limb down staight, as there would be a drawing and trembling of the cords. Besides such torture, I began to bloat a great deal.

"After suffering for some time, a friend advised me to try Paine's celery compound. I can truthfully say that after using four bottles I was cured; not helped, but cured."

If you have any doubt at all these spring days about your health—if neuralgic twinges, kidney troubles, dizzy spells, indigestion or heart palpitation show themselves, don't wait for plainer warnings. Make a clean sweep of all these ailments from the system.

It is easiest to do this now, as spring is approaching. Take Paine's celery compound when the system is most responsive to its cleansing, strengthening influence.

An improved appetite, sound digestion, uninterrupted sleep and an energetic condition are the result of taking Paine's celery compound.

WOMEN OF THE TIME.

STATE FEDERATION OF CLUBS MET AT TRENTON YESTERDAY.

Addresses Were Made by Two Plainfield Club Women on Topics of Great Interest—Principal Incidents of the Meeting.

The Assembly room of the State House in Trenton was invaded yesterday by a band of women who felt themselves as competent to make all the good and repeal all the bad laws as the men; a band of women who took possession of the legislators' chairs with sighs of satisfaction, determined that for one day, at least, they would do their best to pretend themselves Assemblymen says the Herald.

Club women from all over the State and from sister States flocked to the State House to attend the literary meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs. All the clubs of the State Federation were represented, and a large delegation from Sorosis, the mother club, was present.

Mrs. Roebling, who represented the Trenton Club element, escorted Mrs. Margaret Yardley, the president of the State Federation to the Speaker's chair.

Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, first vice-president of the State Federation, opened the convention by prayer. Mrs. Yardley then announced that Governor Griggs had sent her a mild warning that he would be unable to be present, and his fears had evidently overcome him, for at present he was not to deliver his address of welcome. She then presented Mrs. Roebling who, she said, was the nearest approach to a club woman Trenton boasted.

In response to the address of welcome Mrs. Yardley, after thanking Mrs. Roebling, extended hearty greeting to the members of the Federation and said:

"There are many privileges, as well as much responsibility, connected with the work of the State Federation. Seven clubs have joined the Federation since October, making fifty eight clubs in all, representing about twenty-five hundred women."

In opening the discussion of "The Scope of the State Federation," Mrs. Lleyellyn H. Johnson, of East Orange, said the Federation should interest the women of New Jersey in traveling libraries, in Evelyn College, the school question, economics, household science, town improvements, the Forestry Association, public parks and social science. She continued:

"The greatest work our Federation will accomplish in New Jersey is forming women's clubs in every nook and corner of the State. Just as soon as the woman's club movement is started will home, town, State and National improvements follow."

The paper was discussed by Mrs. Isaac Miller, of Plainfield, who said that it seemed to her that women's clubs were likely to have too much machinery. In regard to the State Federation, she thought that organization rather prone to interfere too much with the individual rights of the various clubs which composed it.

Mrs. Edith W. McCarthy, of Plainfield, began the afternoon session with a paper on "Forestry interests of New Jersey." She told of the destruction of forests in Europe and America and the consequent loss, and referred to the forming of reservations in the west. She said:

We of the East hope soon to hear of a Palisades Reservation of 2,000 acres on the Hudson (a modest petition it would seem.) These bluffs and slopes contain some of the noblest scenery in the world, scenery which, meantime, as you know, is being ruthlessly and rapidly desecrated by the quarrymen's attacks.

In forest policies everywhere the most urgent need is for effective fire laws, and nowhere is this need more urgent than in New Jersey. A geological map of New Jersey, which shows in shaded greens that nearly one-half of the State is still a forest area, is nevertheless most misleading, for the area is not really worthy to be called a forest. The forest has largely either degenerated into a worthless scrub growth or it has been converted first into charcoal and then into smoke. This green domain on the map really only indicates the areas unfit, or nearly so, for agriculture. If unfit for agriculture, then they are fit for silviculture, for trees as a crop.

We have three aspects of forestry confronting us in New Jersey. First, we have the northern hilly section, a country of lakes and sparkling brooks and wooded slopes, the region of water sources and watersheds, those precious reservoirs of moisture which are absolutely essential to health and prosperity. These water sources and watersheds should be held inviolable. Here the state should lay its hand and forever preserve and protect from greed and ruin.

In the second place, we have the great southern body of our State, the coastal plain, the region of the pine and the region of fire—devastation amounting to $1,000,000 in one year. Destruction not only of timber tracts and of millions of seedlings, but of the very soil itself, thus destroying forests and the hope of forests, and creating regions accursed where man does not dwell. Decaying stumps and refuse breed pestiferous insects, which are a menace to the former, so that even now the Legislature is asked for an appropriation to fight the insects. Why not fight the fire? It has been demonstrated that fire as well as crime can be reduced to a minimum. I will only add here that but for the perpetual danger of these fires, South Jersey would be open to settlement for thousands of families. The industries of fruit growing, of cranberry bogs and many by-products of the forest would thrive and develop. Meantime fire is the scourge, and bids fair to create for us a very desert at our door.

In the third place, we have our sea coast region, and here another sort of forestry must prevail, but still we shall find the same principle applies. There is a wood crop to be raised for economic ends. Conditions here are similar to those on Cape Cod, where recent experiments may furnish for us a valuable precedent. Various grasses, brooms, and heaths, as well as willow slips, pine seedlings and other trees have been set out in the shifting dunes, to resist the sandstorms and thus gradually reclaim these worthless barrens. A system of nurseries is established in connection with the planting where the young seedlings are started close to their final home and set out when able to hold their own against the elements.

We may look forward to adopting these interesting measures in New Jersey, but we may safely wait until the great fire question has been disposed of.

I should have said that there was a fourth aspect of forestry for us to consider. I mean the educational aspect of the subject, and upon this I lay the greatest stress. I have said that the propaganda was in the air, but it has not taken root. It needs a nursery in every town, in every village. We can start a cult and reinforce the propaganda with all the ingenuity of woman. We can work through the schools and libraries by keeping the subject under discussion, by offering prizes to school children, and by having exhibits of maps and photographs, figures, accessible to all. We can, as clubs or classes, take up the systematic study of our forest and economic conditions, and we would surely find it a most fruitful and engrossing topic.

It is not too much to hope that ere another Legislature adjourns we may have a Forestry Commission appointed and a radical, practical fire policy enforced, which shall save for us the remnants of our forests, and courses of instruction founded which shall teach us to value them and use them aright.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, of Cranford, was the next speaker. Her subject was "Travelling Libraries."

Mrs. Marguerite Lindley, of New York, spoke of "Health Culture in the Home." She said:—"In no other country is woman's mental power felt as in America. They have but one lack, and that is a grave one—health. Women's clubs are destined to liberate not only women from narrowness of ideas and mistaken comprehension of duty, but the race from the curse of invalidism. We need, of course, to restore the diseased forms of the present generation. As long as we women countenance and encourage a lack of physical education, have we any right to censure the moral wrongs that degrade society? Immorality is the outgrowth of curiosity, ignorance and disease; let the mother remember this when sighing over her fallen boy."

Several other papers were also read on topics interesting to women.

The clubs of this city were represented as follows: Monday Afternoon Club, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. E. D. McCarthy, Mrs. D. W. Pond and Mrs. Charles Ryder; Parliamentary Club, Mrs. S. R. Krom, Dr. Mary D. Hussey and Miss Ruth Dalziel; Current Events Club, Miss Day.

A WELL KNOWN HOST.

George Moulton to Take Charge of Moutain Park Inn.

The people of Plainfield and vicinity scarcely realize that one of the best summer resorts in this section of the country is located on Johnstone's drive, easy of access to this city. Mountain Park Inn is rapidly assuming completion under the direction of its owners, French, Vail & French. Yesterday this firm engaged for 1896, the services of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moulton, who have had charge of "The Laurel in the Pines," at Lakewood, for a long time, and they will act in a similar capacity at Mountain Park Inn. They come with the highest recommendations and are accustomed to catering to the wants and needs of a first class hotel, having had nine years experience. They will bring their own retinue of servants from Lakewood, who are American women. Mrs. Moulton will be housekeeper and Mr. Moulton will look after the other part of the business. They will take charge June 1st. To facilitate matters, an additional story has been placed over the kitchen.

Baron Roetgen.

Prince Ludwig, of Bavaria, has made Professor Roetgen Baron of Waerzburg, for his discovery of the X rays. In striking contrast to this, if your rays of vision become ex-rays, you will become barren of sight. A realization of this contrast ought to warn you to go at once to Collier's, and avert all danger of such a climax by learning what treatment, if any, your eyes require.

Frank A. Magowan Arrested.

Frank A. Magowan, millionaire, politician and ex-Mayor of Trenton, was arrested Thursday while in his room at the Victoria Hotel in Chicago, on a capias sworn out in a civil suit by J. A. Barnes, of Indianapolis. The complainant charges alienation of his wife's affections.

Lost By One Letter.

In the New York Journal contest for the best name for the baby hippopotamus, which was recently born at Central Park, Miss L. R. Simmonds, of Watchung avenue, came very near winning the prize. The name chosen was "Iris," and her suggestion was "Isis."

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale at Armstrong,'s Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

WASN'T THE RIGHT ONE.

YOUNG LAD CHARGED WITH STEALING COAL PROVES HIS INNOCENCE.

But Willie Was Suspicioned Because He Ran When He Saw an Officer—What His Mother Had to Say About It.

A number of arrests have been made lately of trespassers on the railroad property, and this morning Willie Drake was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza on the charge of trespassing and stealing coal.

Detective Blackford testified that he saw young Drake on a coal car shoveling off coal on March 13th, and that the lad ran when he saw him. Blackford produced the shovel and a bag in which to carry the coal that he said Drake left behind. Mrs. Drake and the prisoner both swore that the latter had not been there at the time mentioned. Mrs. Drake, in her anxiety to secure the release of her son, told who she thought the real offenders were.

Drake was arrested by Blackford on Somerset street after an exciting chase.

"Why did you run away?" asked the Judge.

"I didn't know what he wanted me for," pleaded the small prisoner.

"Why were you afraid," interposed Sergeant Kiely, "when you had not done anything?"

"Oh," exclaimed his mother, "you know Willie is always afraid of a policeman."

The Judge did not think that the evidence was sufficient to hold the lad and so dismissed the complaint with a warning.

As the lad and his parents passed out of the court room Mrs. Drake turned with a smile to Detective Blackford and remarked "Thank you", while the detective continued writing in his note book.

CENTRAL RATES JUST AS CHEAP.

Local Merchants Cannot Get Freight Rates Any Cheaper Than Now.

Speaking with reference to the talk of establishing a transportation company between this city and South Plainfield to haul freight from the Lehigh Valley Railroad, an official of the Central freight department in this city this morning said to a Press reporter that the comparison made was misleading. The Central has a varying rate for freight between New York and this city, which is as follows: First-class, seventeen cents; second-class, fifteen cents; third-class, thirteen cents; fourth class, nine cents; fifth-class, eight cents; sixth-class, seven cents. The great portion of bulky and heavy freight, such as groceries, dry goods, etc., is carried under the fourth-class rates, which are nine cents. Under these conditions it would not be a saving for merchants to enter into the proposed arrangement, and, in fact, would necessitate an increased expenditure for transportation, with far poorer facilities.

TO BUILD A NEW TOWN.

One to Be Established Just Outside of Elizabeth, It is Said.

The Board of Trade, of Elizabeth, held its first meeting in its new rooms in the Opera House Thursday night. Twenty-two new members were reported. There was also a report made of a new town soon to be established within two miles of Elizabeth, where fifty manufacturies will, will it is said, be located. The town will be known as New Orange, and trolley lines will be built from it to Cranford and Newark.

Plainfield Talent Entertains.

The entertainment given in the Union Village M. E. church last evening was a great success in every respect, and a large audience was present. The programme was a select one and each number received hearty applause. Those who furnished the entertainment were Miss Etta Krymer, the Misses Kline, Mrs. Chas. Steiner, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Townsend, Horace Martin, J. E. Townsend, of Plainfield, and Miss Bramberg, of Union Village.

New Spring Hats.

The first real opening of spring millinery will take place at White's on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week under the direction of Miss Daly, who has been busy during the past month preparing for this event. And it is safe to say that the styles that will be displayed will far excell all past openings.

Death of Mrs. Line.

The death of Mrs. A. M. Line, aged 33 years, of 248 East Front street, occurred yesterday after a month's illness with the grip. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the house, and will be private. Interment will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

—The German Beneficial Society of North Plainfield will hold a meeting Monday evening.

MUST SHOVEL OR SUFFER

INDIGNANT PROPERTY OWNERS IN THE CITY COURT THIS MORNING.

Arraigned on the Charge of Violating a City Ordinance in Not Cleaning Their Walks of Snow—The Sentences.

The strict enforcement of the city ordinance regarding the cleaning of the snow and ice off the sidewalks under the penalty of a fine for not doing so, is making lively times for the Street Commissioner and the city court. Several days ago Street Commissioner Meeker filed complaints against twenty-five different people for not cleaning off their sidewalks. The offenders were ordered to appear before City Judge DeMeza this morning and most of them did, either personally or by representatives.

There seemed to be a general ignorance regarding the fact that a fine was required, most of them thinking that if they did not clean off the sidewalk the Street Commissioner would do so and send them the bill. All those who appeared personally pleaded guilty, some at once and others after considerable argument. Eight prominent Plainfielders were given a choice between paying a fine of $3 or spending ten days in jail. They all paid their fines at once. Several of the names had been taken off the list as they had proved to the Street Commissioner's satisfaction that they had received no notification. Three other prominent offenders who were unavoidably absent were ordered to appear for trial on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The trials were held in the city court room in the Serrell building. Most of those that were arraigned for the offence were highly indignant at the entire proceedings, and the much-abused Street Commissioner had to take most of the blame.

"I hope he knows his business," exclaimed one particularly indignant individual, "but I don't believe he does. I wanted the Street Commissioner to have his men clean off my sidewalks, they are all prepared, and then I would pay him for it."

The Judge explained that the city's employes would clean off his sidewalks, but he would have to pay a fine. The reading of the ordinance changed the indignant individual's opinion and he wanted to know what the fine was before he pleaded. The Judge refused to tell and remarked that it depended on the merits of the case. The man finally said "guilty," and his fine was $3.

Perhaps the complaint fell hardest on Hamilton Probasco, a colored man. He evidently believed that it was an outrage, and that no free and lawful citizen should stand it so he objected vehemently. His ire rose higher as he realized that his objections were of no use, and he admitted that he did not shovel the snow off his own property, but, because he removed it for others, he thought that he should be excused.

"I cleaned it off for the city, you know," he remarked.

"Three dollars or ten days," said the Judge. "Are you going to pay the fine?"

But Probasco thought that he was being unfairly treated and said so, and refused to tell whether he would pay or not. The Court motioned to a policeman to remove the objector. The thoughts of ten days in the county jail made him turn pale as the muscular hand of the officer was felt on his shoulder, and he was glad to sink into silence. After a time he concluded to pay the fine, and while he was handing it over to the Judge he remarked. "Where's your town squire? I want to protest this case, I'll carry it to the Mayor's Court and then to the Supreme Court."

Another citizen remarked after he paid his fine: "If I go out there to shovel snow and catch cold, I'll send you the bill." He did not say what the bill would be for, however.

John Delaney asked the Judge whose duty it was to clean off the street crossings. The reply was that the city should clean them. Then, asked Mr. Delaney, why can't we make a complaint against Street Commissioner Meeker for not cleaning them? Judge De Meza said that one might be made to the street committee of the Common Council.

Drilling Sisters.

Mrs. Bateman Thatcher, Mrs. Benjamin Moore, Mrs. John Stevens, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Bowman, and Mrs. McComas, of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, went to Newark yesterday, for the purpose of holding a drill with representatives from other lodges. They drilled the largest portion of the afternoon. On the evening of April 28th, they will all meet in Newark and give an exhibition drill before the Knights of Pythias of this State. Each member is privileged to invite a member of the Knights of Pythias.

AN ENORMOUS OFFENSE.

A Fifty-Nine-Year-Old Man Charged With Attempted Rape on Young Girls.

Nathan V. Culver, a man fifty-nine years of age, was arrested on the farm of his nephew near Flemington, Hunterdon County, yesterday afternoon by Police Sergeant Kiely, on the charge of attempting to ravage two twelve year old girls of this city near Campbell's club house on Park avenue, a short time ago. The prisoner was arranged before Justice Storms, at New Market, who after hearing of the enormity of the offense, committed the man to the county jail in New Brunswick, the crime having been commited in Middlesex county, to await further action of the court.

Culler claims to own a farm in Oklohoma, where his wife is, but has been residing with relatives in this city for the past year. It is alleged that he attempted to commit an assault on several young girls in this city, but has never accomplished his purpose. The young girls whom he attempted to overcome a few days ago were out bicycle riding with him.

Culler had already left town when the warrant for his arrest was put in Sergeant Kiely's hands, and it was only by clever detective work that the Sergeant was able to locate his man. When Bound Brook was reached and the time came for the officer and his prisoner to change cars from the Central to the Lehigh Valley, Culler grew nervous with fear, and asked the Sergeant if there was any possibility of his being mobbed by indignant citizens who had heard of his conduct. Of course no one in Bound Brook knew of the case and but very in this city, and his fears were without grounds.

A FREEHOLDER WITH A GRIEVANCE.

He Has Attended Only One Meeting Since the Board Organized.

Next month Elizabeth will elect four chosen Freeholders for a term of two years. One of the Republican Freeholders, who was chosen two years ago, George M. Morrell, has never attended a meeting of the Board since the first one. So far as he is concerned, Elizabeth was practically without any representative on the Board. Mr. Morrel's singular and unprecedented action was due to the fact that he became disgruntled with his colleagues because three candidates whom he favored for county offices were defeated in the first meeting after the board had organized for business. Freeholder Morrell then made up his mind that he wanted nothing more to do with the Board of Freeholders. What annoyed him most, was the fact that one of the men he championed was beaten by a Democrat.

ON TRACK OF THE THIEF.

Man Held at White Plains Who is Thought to Have Taken Roberts' Rig.

Some few days ago a man was arrested at White Plains, N. Y., on the charge of horse stealing. He confessed to the charges, and told of nine different horses that he had stolen and where he had disposed of them. The facts of his arrest and confession was printed in the newspapers and read by Uncle Dan Roberts. Uncle Dan had a horse and buggy stolen last summer and he immediately concluded to find out if this man was the one who took his rig. He wrote to the authorities at White Plains, and the description they send of the man's features tallies with those of the individual who rented the rig last summer and never returned it. Harry Roberts will probably go to White Plains the first of next week to see if he can identify the thief in custody.

Bound Brook on Dry Land Again.

The overflowing waters at Bound Brook rapidly receded yesterday afternoon, and householders and storekeepers returned to the quarters they had hurriedly evacuated during the night, when it was feared that the inundation of Feb. 8th would be repeated. No further danger is anticipated this year, as it is not likely that there will be enough snow and rain combined to cause another overflow.

Reiner Has Hopes of Liberty.

Editor John Max Reiner, of the New Jersey Herald, still languishes in the Union County Jail, and no one has volunteered to go his bail. Nevertheless the imprisoned editor says he will be out of bondage by next Tuesday night, but on what grounds he bases this prediction the jail authorities are unable to guess.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

The landlord and tenant case of Mundy against Neal was tried before Justice Newcorn. The amount due for rent was $15.60 and Mr. Mundy desired to get Mr. Neal out of the house. Assemblyman W. R. Codington appeared for the former and secured a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount.

A STRONG RIGHT ARM.

WORTH OF THE EPWORTH LEAGUE TO THE CHURCH TALKED OF.

A Number of Societies in This Vicinity Rally in Grace M. E. Church—The Speakers and What Was Said

The Epworth League is undoubtedly the right arm of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the frequent social gatherings held under the auspices of the league are productive of much good. Those who attended the rally in Grace M. E. church last evening were convinced of one fact, namely, that in union there is strength. There was a large number of Epworthians present, including members from Dunellen, Scotch Plains, First M. E. church and Monroe Avenue chapel. Owing to the fact that many of the visitors did not arrive till late, it was 8:45 when the exercises commenced. Charles Hummer, president of the league, was in charge, and most ably did he look after his part of the affair. After the singing of a hymn, Dr. C. R. Barnes offered prayer. Rev. Herbert Randolph was then introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"I am not going to weary you with a long speech, neither am I going to verify Tennyson's poem 'Men may come, and men may go, but I go on forever.' A man once addressed a Sunday-school. He started in at the Garden of Eden and never stopped till he reached Revelations. In the meantime every scholar was sleeping soundly, and at the close of his lengthy discourse he exclaimed 'What shall I say next?' He repeated the sentence, whereupon a little girl in the rear of the room called out 'Please sir, won't you say Amen?'

"The great motto today is 'get there.' It is used by business men and everybody. A great feature in our church is sociability, and we will make it warm for you if we have to do so."

The speaker related several amusing incidents which were well received. After an excellent violin solo by Dyckman Winckler, accompanied by Miss Alice Carroll, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of Monroe Avenue chapel, responded to Mr. Randolph's remarks, an abstract of which follows:

"There are people who are too pious to enjoy a rally, but I doubt if they live in Plainfield. We are here with a spirit of rallyship. I came to have a good time. If you want to witness true fellowship you should see two persons suffering with the same kind of rheumatism. If we expect to associate with people in the next world, we should be willing to do so here. I am glad to be here and I believe that we want the kind of religion that will make us enjoy living better. May God bless the receiving chapter. We are with you and will stand side by side."

W. J. Tallamy, the favorite tenor soloist, followed with a choice selection and was obliged to respond to an encore.

Mr. Hummer announced that owing to the absence of the banjo players, who were to have been present, that number on the programme would be omitted.

"A recitation, "The Inventor's Wife," was most admirably rendered by Miss Lizzie Hoagland. In response to an encore she gave "A Woman's Pocket."

Another very pleasing number was a contralto solo and violin obligato by Miss Grace Carroll and Dyckman Winckler. They were also obliged to acknowledge an encore.

Another tenor solo by Mr. Tallamy was heartily appreciated and he very kindly favored the audience with a second selection.

A recitation by Miss Emma Stevens and another violin solo by Dyckman Winckler closed the programme, after which cake and lemonade was served by the young ladies of the church. A very pleasant social time followed which brought to an end an evening of genuine pleasure.

Thrown Out Of a Carriage.

Two men named Darling and Emmons, from South Plainfield, drove to this city yesterday afternoon. While on East Front street near Park avenue, their horse became frightened at a trolley car and upset the buggy, throwing the occupants out. The only damage was a dished wheel.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

Inactivity of Congress Partly Responsible for Poor Business.

FAILURES CREATE ESPECIAL CAUTION

Some Merchants Still in Hopeful Anticipation of Renewed Demand—Decrease in Imports and Increase of Exports. Boots, Shoes, Clothing, Wool.

New York, March 21.—Dun's review of the condition of trade to-day will say: Movement toward better things is still the exception. There is better business in shoes and small industries, and there has been a squeezing of short sellers in cotton. But the general tendency of industries and prices is not encouraging, and those who were most hopeful a month ago are still waiting, not so hopefully, for the expected recovery. Causes of continued depression are not wanting. Bad weather has cut off much business, especially in country districts. Some failures of consequence have caused especial caution. Foreign controversies are accepted as the explanation of some selling in London of American securities. Congress still does nothing, as before. But the root of the business is that in many departments men bought more and produced more, when prices were mounting and everybody was rushing to buy last year, than they have been able to sell. That the buying was of a nature to anticipate actual consumption many months, they were fully warned, but they had more hope than observation, and went on piling up goods. Some are engaged to-day in the same hopeful anticipation of a demand which has not yet appeared.

Imports and Exports.

The anxieties about the currency have gone out of sight, and though treasury receipts do not equal its expenditures, there is no loss of gold by export, and not much loss of reserve. Merchandise exports in two weeks of March have been 9 per cent. larger than last year, while imports were unusually small last week, and for two weeks 14 per cent. less than last year. Commercial loans are greatly restricted by apprehension regarding important failures, especially in groceries at the west, and in clothing and textile manufactures at the east, but are on the whole sufficient for legitimate needs which are limited. Stocks have declined an average of 80 cents per share for railroads, and 64 for trusts, although earnings reported for March thus far show a gain over last year, and for the second week were relatively better than for the first. Obstructions to recovery are not to be sought primarily in the investment or the money market, but in the industrial reaction after the unnatural expansion of demand and prices last year.

Boots and Shoes, Clothing and Wool.

There are too many who are not willing to let last year's prices and hopes be buried with 1895. It is a striking fact that the only great industry which is now rapidly gaining in business is the one in which prices have been generally cut down to last year's lowest figures, and the boot and shoe makers had a reason for hesitation in the price of leather, which still averages 6 per cent. higher than a year ago, though hides are 13 per cent. lower, having again declined the past week about 3 per cent. If the manufacturers get narrow profits or none, they are at least doing a business which will keep most of the works in operation, though since January 1 shipments from the east have been the lowest in ten years except in 1894. The woolen mills have different conditions, and with prices already reduced below last year's lowest average, and wool 5.3 per cent. higher than it was then, they are not getting business enough to keep works in operation. Clothiers have taken many foreign goods; they have failed to market all they produced last fall; and they have to carry a host of retailers whose stocks are not yet sold. Sales of wool were the smallest in any week for years, and in three weeks of March have been 9,897,400 pounds, of which 4,751,000 were domestic, against 17,105,876 in the same weeks of 1892, of which 11,886,626 were domestic. The demand for women's dress goods is still quite fair.

Failures in Two Weeks.

A troublesome feature of the situation is the stringency in commercial loans, not because of scarcity of money, but because banks are disturbed by failures of some importance. The classified returns for two months separately, which are given this week, will cast much light on the condition of different branches of trade. Failures for two weeks of March cover liabilities of $6,799,397 against $7,372,471 last year, and $4,835,140 in 1894. Manufacturing were $2,599,638 against $4,672,554 last year, and $2,230,257 in 1894, while trading were $4,053,959 against $2,674,917 last year, and $2,446,008 in 1894. Manufacturing and trading liabilities have changed places, it will be seen. Failures for the week were 261 in the United States against 278 last year, and 49 in Canada against 35 last year.

Ex-Mayor of Portland Dead.

Portland, Me., March 21.—Hon. G. W. True died yesterday, aged 72. He was a native of Maine, but lived in Mount Vernon, O., many years. He served in the Ohio legislature in 1856-57, and returned to Portland in 1866, entering the grain business. He was surveyor of the port of Portland in Grant's administration and was mayor of Portland in 1891-92.

Flat Burglar Held.

Boston, March 21.—Charles S. Stozelecki, alias Lecky, alias Walsh, the flat burglar, was yesterday held in $2,500 bail for the grand jury.

FOR GOETZE'S EXTRADITION.

U. S. Commissioner Edwards To Hear Testimony and Pass Upon the Question.

Philadelphia, March 21.—A petition was presented in the United States district court yesterday by Charles H. Meyer, the German consul in this city, asking for the extradition of Ernest Goetze to Germany to answer accusations of forgery. Goetze, who was a clerk in a great German banking house, is alleged in August last to have forged the name of Carl Wahl to an order directing a banking house in Berlin to send Wahl's Prussian bonds, valued at 100,500 marks, to E. Glasse, in Hamburg. The accused is said to have forged the name of Glasse to a receipt and to have fled to this country with the securities. Judge Butler referred the case to United States Commissioner Edmunds who will hear testimony and pass upon the question. Goetze was arrested several days ago in Bethlehem, Pa., and is now in jail here.

CONVICTED OF ARSON.

Abraham Altman Sentenced at Hartford to Ten Years in Prison.

Hartford, Conn., March 21.—The trial of Abraham Altman for arson was finished in the superior court last evening, the arguments were made and the case given to the jury. The jury was out about an hour and came back for instructions, asking if they could find Altman guilty if he was not actually present when the fire broke out. They were informed that they could under the theory of aiding and abetting. In an hour the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and Judge Hall sentenced Altman to state prison for ten years, the maximum penalty. Altman is a Russian Hebrew about 50 years old.

WILL NOT BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Wife-Slayer Milo Gray To Plead Guilty to a Lesser Crime.

Concord, N. H., March 21.—The trial of the case of Milo Gray, indicted for murder in the first degree for killing his wife at Landaff, in June, 1891, which was to have been begun in Woodsville on Monday next before justices of the supreme court, will not go on, and the matter will be disposed of without a jury. There was a conference here between counsel for the state and respondent, and it is understood that arrangements were entered into by which Gray will not contend or will plead guilty to a lesser crime than wilful murder and will receive a long term in prison.

LOCK-OUT PROBABLE.

Bridgeton, Me., Weavers, Dissatisfied with Existing Conditions, Go on Strike.

Bridgeton, Me., March 21.—On account of some dissatisfaction as to the nature of the work and the compensation received, the weavers' local union yesterday ordered their operatives out of the woolen mills, leaving but a few looms running in three mills. One hundred and fifty operatives are affected. They held a meeting and discussed the situation. No overtures have yet been been made by the managers of the mills and a lock-out is probable.

SHOT HIS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Frank Creagle Dead and the Woman in a Serious Condition.

Scranton, Pa., March 21.—At Forest City, six miles north of Carbondale, yesterday Frank Creagle went to the house where his wife, from whom he had been separated, was staying. When Mrs. Creagle refused to return to him Creagle fired at her four times with a revolver, one of the bullets going completely through the woman's body. Creagle then shot and killed himself. Mrs. Creagle is in a serious condition.

Superintendent of J. O. A. M. Home.

Philadelphia, March 21.—The executive committee of the Junior Order of American Mechanics met here yesterday and appointed J. B. Zimmerman of Plain City, O., as superintendent of the National Orphans' home of the order, which will be established at Tiffin, O.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

Felt Weak and Dizzy. Had Indigestion. Stomach Bloated, Pain and Distress in Stomach.

Joseph E. Hood, of 129 Front Street, Woonsocket, R. I., speaks as follows in regard to his recent illness:—

"I felt weak and dizzy in the morning, and my stomach would not digest well, and made me feel so it would burst. I had excruciating pain in the pit of my stomach at times. I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and every dose gave me relief the moment I took it. The pain is all gone and I feel strong all day—in fact, I feel like a new man. I would not be without Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the house."

Perfectly Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy. It will cure you.

Weak, Tired and Nervous.

MRS. J. W. BEALE.

Mrs. J. W. Beale, who resides at 52 Eastern Avenue, Worcester, Mass., makes the following statement:—

"I was sick for more than seven years, not able to do my housework for five years. I employed more than sixteen different doctors without benefit. The whole length of my spine was very bad, which went to my head, being so bad that it was about impossible for me to stoop to the floor, or turn my head to the right or left, my neck was so stiff.

"I was unable to comb my hair, the nerves of my head were so sore. I also had convulsions and kidney trouble.

"After a time I was persuaded to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Words cannot express my wonderful cure! Now all is changed, and I am strong and well, and able to do all my work. I have gained 26 pounds in weight, and where before all was gloom and despondency, there is now light and hope.

"Words cannot express my feelings! Thanks to God, and the wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I am cured. I write this with the desire that others may be influenced to use this wonderful medicine as I did and be cured.

Liver and Bowels out of order. Nerves weak. Could not sleep.

Mr. James Meehan, who resides at 57 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass., says:—

"I was taken sick with liver disease and ulceration of the bowels. My heart was also affected. I was confined to my bed three months.

"A consultation of physicians was held, and I was pronounced incurable.

"After that I stopped taking their remedies, and began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

MR. JAMES MEEHAN.

"Previous to this I could not sleep, my nerves were excitable and spasmodic, my stomach would not bear food, vomiting almost constantly. Soon after beginning this remedy I slept better, and my stomach would bear light food.

"I continued to gain until I could get out. I now work all the time, and feel that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy saved my life."

He was made well by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

FOUGHT THEIR WAY IN

Filibusters Successfully Landed at Vavadero, Cuba.

PART OF THEIR SUPPLIES CAPTURED

Only About 140 Cases of Ammunition Fall into the Hands of the Spaniards. The Government Sends Out an Ambulance Train.

Havana, March 21.—A government launch has arrived at Cardenas having in tow three rowboats that had been used in landing a filibustering expedition on Vavadero beach. A fight between troops and insurgents followed the landing of the expedition. No accurate account of the result of the fight it obtainable, but it is known the filibusters and a large amount of war material was successfully landed. Additional troops have been sent in pursuit of the rebels. There is no news of Maceo's operations in the province of Pinar del Rio. Eight train loads of troops and one ambulance train have been sent to reinforce the columns operating against him.

Weyler Satisfied with His Forces.

Madrid, March 21.—Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo has received a telegram from Capt.-Gen. Weyler declaring that he is satisfied with the course of the military operations in Cuba, and nothing has hitherto occurred to induce him to resign.

Explosion on Spanish Warship.

Madrid, March 21.—While the warship Maria Teresa was testing her guns off Ferrol yesterday one of them exploded, injuring three officers and six seamen.

NOT AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

The Arkell Had Landed Most of Her Supplies Before the Spaniards Appeared.

Philadelphia, March 21.—From information received here the seizure of arms and ammunition by the Spanish in Cuba is not so important as the official dispatches from Havana would indicate. The munitions seized were not those taken out on the Mallory, but were from the schooner Arkell. The Arkell was at anchor at a place called El Vavadero. All the arms aboard had been landed save 140 cases of ammunition when the gunboat Caradad hove in sight. The men on the Arkell abandoned the schooner and hastily escaped to the shore. The Caradad seized the Arkell and 140 cases of ammunition.

HE IS A SPANIARD.

Agramonte Declared Not an American Citizen by Consul Williams.

Washington, March 21.—A dispatch to the state department from Consul General Williams at Havana reported that he had investigated the arrest and imprisonment of Oliverio Agramonte, an alleged American citizen charged with complicity in the Cuban insurrection, and had ascertained that Agramonte was a Spanish subject. This disposes of the case so far as the interference of this government is concerned. Agramonte has friends in New York city who reported his arrest to the department. He is the manager of a plantation in Cuba.

WAS AN ACCIDENTAL SHOT.

Consul Hall Denies That an Attempt Was Made on His Life.

Washington, March 21.—A report received through the mail at the state department from John D. Hall of Connecticut, U. S. consul at San Juan, Porto Rico, shows that the story told in New York by a passenger of the steamer South Camoria about an alleged attempt on Mr. Hall's life by a Spanish soldier on March 4, is erroneous. Mr. Hall says he has no reason to believe that the bullet fired was intended for him. On the contrary he believes the shooting was accidental. The consul's house is opposite the Spanish prison at San Juan, as previously stated in these dispatches.

WEYLER BURNED IN EFFIGY.

Trenton Model Students Display Their Sympathy for the Cause of Cuba.

Trenton, March 21.—Gen. Weyler, captain-general of Cuba, was burned in effigy last night by fifty students of the State Model school. They met on the banks of the Assanpink, near the school, and held a mock trial of the general. He was charged with a long list of crimes, and no one spoke for him. The boys displayed several Cuban flags and cheered themselves hoarse for Cuba.

Must Stand Trial for Murder.

Northfield, Vt., March 21.—After a four days' trial of the Marsh case, justice E. H. Thayer has decided to hold William Buzzell and Mrs. George Marsh, charged with causing the death of George Marsh by poisoning with arsenic, and the prisoners have been taken to Montpelier jail to await trial at the September term of court at Montpelier.

Gloucester Fishing Arrivals.

Gloucester, Mass., March 21.—Fishing arrivals for the past twenty-four hours are as follows: Miranda, Banquereau, 30,000 pounds of halibut; schooner Mabel Leighton, Banquereau, 25,000 pounds cod, 400 pounds halibut; schooner Gardner W. Tarr, Georges, 20,000 pounds cod, 600 pounds halibut; schooner Boyd Leeds, Georges, 15,000 pounds cod.

Captain Murdered at Sea.

San Francisco, March 21.—A cablegram has been received in this city from Shanghai stating that Capt Philip Dryer of the schooner Lyman D. Foster of this city had been murdered at sea on February 25 by the cook, who had suddenly become violently insane.

...MENT WORKERS' VICTORY.

Chicago Bosses Forced To Yield to Every Point Demanded.

Chicago, March 21.—Six hundred garment workers, who went on strike several days ago, have returned to their machines, working for an advance of 25 per cent. in wages, a weekly pay day, recognition of the union and a bond of $200 to bind the bosses to live up to their agreement. Fifty of the tailor contractors called at the garment workers' headquartes and signed the contract, but permission was not given for the workers to return to the shops until the bond had been given. The contractors were compelled to yield to the garment workers' terms because the owners of the custom tailor establishments demanded that orders be filled. The practical surrender of the contractors has not changed the condition of the cutters' strike. The garment workers, who went out to help them win, are helping themselves.

NO FURTHER CONTEST.

Davenport Will Case Compromised—The Estate Valued at $843,000.

Greenfield, Mass., March 21.—Henry F. Nash and William Watson Davenport, executors of the will of the late Oliver Davenport of Leyden have compromised with Stephen T. Davenport of Brattleboro, Vt., and Martin V. Davenport of Bernardston who had appealed from the decision of Judge Conant of the probate court, allowing the will, to the supreme court. There will be no further contest. Henry F. Nash asks to be excused from serving as executor longer, and asks for $10,000 for his services. Action will be taken at the April probate court and the beneficiaries will be paid. William Watson Davenport is the largest beneficiary and will receive half a million. The total estate is $843,000, the largest individual estate ever passed upon by the local probate court.

DAVIS WILL CASE.

A New Contest Instituted at Butte, Mont., by a Sister of the Deceased.

Butte, Mont., March 21.—Elizabeth S. Bowdoin of Springfield, Mass., sister of the late Andrew J. Davis, has instituted a new contest in the famous Davis will case, by filing a petition to revoke the probate of the will which was admitted to probate about a year ago. She sets up the charge that the will was a forgery, and if genuine, was expressly revoked by a subsequent will which was afterwards destroyed by Mr. Davis. When the old disputed will was admitted to probate, it was by a stipulation which was though to recognize all heirs and claimants in a settlement. The petition will reopen the entire case.

BOSTON ATHLETIC CLUB.

A New Association for Indoor Sports To Be Formed.

Boston, March 21.—The new athletic club which is to be formed by members of the Boston Athletic association and others who prefer indoor games to public athletics, is now an assured fact, and although the promoters of the movement did not intend to make their plans public until they were more fully matured, enough has been done to insure the success of the new club. About 500 members will probably be secured at the start and the assessments will be $100. The clubhouse and plant will represent an investment of about $300,000.

REVENUE CUTTER SERVICE.

Competitive Examination To Be Held in May for Cadetships.

Washington, March 21.—A competitive examination will be held here early in May for candidates desiring to enter the revenue cutter service as cadets. There are twelve vacancies to be filled. Candidates must be not less than 18 nor more than 25 years of age and unmarried. The successful candidates will be required to serve two years on the practice ship "Chase," a bark-rigged sailing vessel, handsomely appointed and having accommodations for twenty-four cadets.

No Room for Spinner's Statue.

Washington, March 21.—Secretary Carlisle has made an adverse report on the senate bill to erect a statue of Gen. Spinner, late United States treasurer, in the grounds about the treasury department. He says to erect such monuments has not been customary and there is no place in the treasury department for it. The monument was donated by the Ladies' Spinner Monument association.

Mechanics in Navy Yards.

Washington, March 21.—O. Otey of Virginia offered in the house yesterday a resolution directing the committee on naval affairs to investigate the charge that members of the International Association of Mechanics do not receive fair treatment in the United States navy yards and arsenals, and especially at New York and Brooklyn. The charge is made by the association.

Arrest of a Diamond Thief.

Newark, N. J., March 21.—H. A. Brickner, also known by several other names, who is under arrest here, is believed to be a transatlantic diamond thief and customs swindler. He was negotiating a swindle on London jewelers to the extent of several thousand dollars with a jeweler here when arrested.

Italy's Campaign in Abyssinia.

Rome, March 21.—A dispatch to the Tribuna from Massowah states that Gen. Baldissera, the Italian commander in Africa, has sent two battalions of infantry and a battery of artillery to Keren to operate against the Mahdists.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, March 21.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $127,292,859.

Heart Failure.

Often first manifested by extreme general debility, with sudden reactions for the better; a general dying out of the fires of life, that brighten up at intervals, giving hope of returning health, but eventually subside, go out on the spot, and another "dropped dead on the street" is reported. A general collapse of the great vital centres, due to a lack of sufficient nourishment is the cause. In such cases take and live to join the great army who today sing its praise. Dr. P. B. Carpenter, of 430 Friendship St., Providence, says, "I have never seen a case of general debility which Bovinine failed to cure, when taken as I directed." It cures in every instance where mal-nutrition is experienced. It is not a medicine, but a powerful condensed food that makes blood, flesh and bone, and by invigorating the life-generating organs dispels disease.

March 21—Basket ball at Y. M. C. A.
March 24—H. M. Maxson's lecture on "Switzerland and Its People" at the Y. M. C. A.

The Daily Press was the only paper in New Jersey yesterday afternoon to give a detailed and correct account of the second Bound Brook flood.

Owing to the low price of gas in Milwaukee, 80 cents per 1,000 for fuel purposes, that city uses more artificial fuel gas, in proportion to its size, than any city in the United States. When will come the time that the people of this city will be thus blessed?

The majority of Plainfield clergymen are in favor of the marriage license bill now before the Legislature. One prominent minister this morning stated that the opposition of the Camden ministers was based solely on the fact that the enactment of the bill would cut off the large fees which they make from Philadelphia couples who cross the river to escape the Pennsylvania license law.

The suggestion of a borough resident that a pamphlet be issued each year by the Board of Education giving in detail the expenses of the schools, is good so far as it goes. But the pamphlet usually goes into the waste basket in the ordinary household. A pamphlet, of course, would relieve the Board of Education from any charge of neglect in not providing the public with the exact condition of the department over which they exercise control, but the publication of these same facts in the two newspapers of Plainfield would be the most practical and efficacious method of disseminating the knowledge. Newspapers are read by the people, while pamphlets are simply received by them. There is some difference between receiving and reading.

One of the bills passed by both Houses of the Legislature imposes a fine on any one throwing in the streets broken glass, bottles, metal, loose stones, earthenware or other substance likely to cause injuries to travellers, carriages or bicycles. The fine is to be $5 if a bicycle tire is punctured and $10 if any person is injured. The purpose of this bill is an entirely commendable one. People who throw into the streets objects that might puncture bicycle tires, or injure the feet of horses, ought to be punished for it. But they ought to be punished even if no tire is punctured, no horse lamed, no person injured. The penalty should go with the act. As the bill stands it will bring assured punishment to the person who throws tacks or broken glass on a street and leaves his card with it, or stands around waiting to give his name and address to the first bicycle rider whose tire is punctured.—Newark News.

THE PETERSON CASE.

Organized Aid Association Say That the Husband is a Worthless Fellow

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The facts in the Peterson case, cited in your columns Thursday, are these: During the past eighteen months Mrs. Peterson has been on several occasions to the Organized Aid Association for help in supporting her family of four little children. Peterson is intemperate and often unfit for work; further, when he has had money he has many times used it in gambling, leaving his family destitute. This has compelled Mrs. Peterson to apply for assistance. She was, at such times, placed under the care of the Relief Association, they providing food and fuel, for which she always willingly paid in sewing for the association. The employment committee of the Organized Aid Association had aided her by placing her in homes where extra help was needed, and this has enabled her to provide for her family. Having been their sole dependence, her health has failed, and physicians have urged her to go to the hospital. The Relief Association has offered to pay board for the children while the mother was under treatment, but she cannot be induced to leave them. On the occasion of her last visit to the Organized Aid Association the same sad story of desertion and want had to be repeated, made even more sad by the fact of her husband leaving the home at a time when her children were recovering from an illness, making it impossible for her to leave them to work for their support.

Disheartened at the helplessness of the situation she appealed for aid, as she could not work. Recognizing the fact that steps towards making the husband responsible for their maintenance must be taken, she was directed to confer with G. E. Marx, overseer of the poor, who, after hearing her story, caused his arrest. Work has been offered him in the past, which he has refused. Efforts will be again made to insure him employment which will enable him to support those dependent on him.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Wm. J. Dodd will ride a Crescent road racing wheel this year.

Edward Laing, of East Front street, has taken the agency for the Horsman bicycle.

The clear weather of yesterday brought out many cyclers, who are anxious to ride.

The Crescent Wheelmen will have a run to Springfield Easter Sunday. They will leave the club-house at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Lister, the North avenue cycle dealer, has everything in his well-equipped store that a wheelman needs, and he has but one price. It will pay one to stop in and examine his goods.

George P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue, and D. Schoonmaker, of West Eighth street, have recently purchased model 22 Cleveland wheels, from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Among the wheels recently purchased from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company are a Crescent No. 6, by W. E. Lowe; a Crescent No. 10, by Frank McInerney; a Crescent No. 1, by Henry Bohl; two Clevelands, by J. G. Dovall, of Westfield; a Crescent racer by L. Rosenstiehl.

Chairman George D. Gideon, of the L. A. W. Racing Board, has announced in a bulletin that Eddie Bald, the Class B star rider, has been suspended for selling prizes during last season's campaign. Bald intended to ride as a professional this year, but this action will keep him competing in any races held under the sanction of the League of American Whee'men.

BASKET BALL.

In a practice game last night, the first basket ball team of the business men's class defeated the scrub team by a score of five to one.

During the basket ball game tonight in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, George P. Smith will attempt to break the High School record of 34 feet, 6 inches, for putting the shot.

The basket ball contest between the business men and the regular Y. M. C. A. team, at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, promises to be a close game. Admission to full members free; to others, ten cents.

The basket ball game tonight between the regular Y. M. C. A. team and the team from the business men's gymnasium class, will begin at 8 o'clock. The regular team will consist of H. Jessup, E. Morraller, M. Morraller, C. Colthar, Arthur Lederer and George P. Smith. V. Christofferson, referee.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Harry Finch, of this city, is one of the candidates for the Andover track team. He is entered in the running events.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The prospects of the Scott and Potter bowling teams rolling a game is rather poor. Scott's team did not show up last night.

A Card.

To the Editor of The Daily Press: In your issue of March 19th last you allowed a local ad to appear in your paper making use of my name in connection with the purchase of the Perren property (for the Central Railroad) at Grant avenue station. That news was printed without my consent or knowledge, and the matter of that sale will be ventilated later on. Hereafter please consult me before publication, except you get it through regular public proceedings of a reliable character. Yours respectfully,

Edward C. Mulford.

—Next Wednesday evening Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, will give a birthday social in Red Men's Hall. Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Mattis compose the committee in charge.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THEATRICAL.

There is no quality which theatregoers appreciate so much in their stage favorires as the evident purpose to please by constant and ambitious efforts in newer and higher directions. No more desirable instance of this kind can be furnished than that of Mr. J. K. Emmet. He might have gone on for years with his old versions of "Fritz," always retaining a clientele of admirers, willing to do him a favor, thus having an assurance of rich financial harvest at his command; but Mr. Emmet is made of more progressive material, or we might say has the fire of poetical genius, which emboldens its possessor to produce something better than the previous effort. And so it is that on Tuesday night at Music Hall, Mr. Emmet will appear in an entirely new play, entitled "Fritz in Love," written by Mr. A. D. Hall, and said to be his best.

At Music Hall, Wednesday, March 25th, Herrmann will give theatregoers of this city an opportunity of seeing his new sensations and marvel, which have created such sensations this season wherever produced. The claim is made for Herrmann's intertainment, which he will produce here, that it is the most elaborate one that he has ever given. The programme which he presents is briefly as follows: The entertainment will commence with his marvelous sleight-of hand performance, concluding with the bewildering national spectacle, "The Columbian Transformation," with Adelaide Herrmann's Columbia. This will be followed by the Persian marvel, "The Trunk Mystery," in which a woman is tied in a sack, locked in a trunk, which is bound, and then placed in another trunk, at the end of a few seconds this woman is seen standing without the trunk and another woman totally different from her in size and appearance is found in her place. Next will follow Herrmann's "Trilby," "The Artist's Dream," an idyllic sketch in which a young artist falls in love with a picture painted by himself, and which comes to life.

—The New Jersey Naval Reserve held a smoker at Newark on Thursday evening that was attended by a number from this city.

It is not a miracle. It wont cure everything, but it will cure piles. That's what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will do, because it has done it in hundreds of cases. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

EXPRESS NO OPINION

Government Officials Will Not Talk on the Censuring of Bayard.

THE AMBASSADOR NOT TO RESIGN

Neither Will He Be Recalled—Details of the Vote—Pobr Prospect of the Passage of the Cuban Resolutions in the Senate.

Washington, March 21.—It is impossible to-day to get any expression of opinion from anyone in administration circles concerning the vote of censure yesterday passed in the house upon Ambassador Bayard for his recent speeches at Edinburgh and Boston, England. Some democratic congressmen who were seen regarding the assertion recently made by friends of Ambassador Bayard that he would resign if the vote of censure was passed scouted the idea that he would do so, saying that the passage of the resolutions would not influence our representative in England to take any such course. The vote was almost a solidly partisan one, they pointed out, and, as such, would not cause the ambassador to leave his post of duty, nor would it cause the president to recall him. The house is not in session to-day, having adjourned over after the night session, at which several private pension bills were considered, until Monday. The resolution censuring the ambassador for his speeches stood 180 yeas to 71 nays, and the second resolution, expressing the sense of the house that no partisan speeches should be made by diplomatic officers, was agreed to by a vote of 191 to 59. The resolution of censure received the affirmative votes of six democrats—Bailey, Cockrell, Cummings, Latimer, Layton and Sorg and five republicans voted against it—Baker, Md.; Cooke, Ill.; Draper, Pitney and Willis. The resolution declared the sense of the house on such speeches received the votes of eight democrats—Allen, Miss.; Bailey, Cummings, Hutcheson, Layton, Pendleton, Sorg, Stokes. The negative vote was solidly democratic. The closing speeches were made by Messrs. Adams, rep., Pa.; Fairchild, rep., New York; Newlands, pop., Nev., and Bailey, dem., Tex., in favor of the resolution, and by Messrs. Wheeler, dem., Ala.; Hutcheson, dem., Tex., and Turner, dem., Ga., in opposition.

The Benoit-Boatner Case.

This matter having been disposed of the house took up the contested election case of Benoit vs. Boatner, dem., from the Fifth district of Louisiana and adopted the resolution of the majority of elections committee No. 2 declaring Boatner's seat vacant on account of fraud in the election. The vote was 131 to 59, three republicans—Messrs. Fletcher, Johnson, Cal., and Ray—voting with the democrats in favor of the report of the minority of the committee confirming Boatner's right to his seat. Mr. Benoit, the contestant, was given ten minutes in which to address the house in support of the committee's resolution. The case was decided without the usual arguments because it was necessary to dispose of it in order that a special election to fill the seat might be held at the general state election on April 21.

In the Senate.

The vote in the senate on the motion to adjourn over from last night until Monday, which was carried by a majority of twenty, is taken as an indication in some quarters that the senate will refuse to act favorably on the concurrent resolutions in favor of granting beiligerent rights to the Cuban insurgents. Senator Gorman, dem., Md., made the motion. It was resisted by Senators Sherman, rep., Ohio, and Lode, rep., Mass., on the ground that the Cuban resolutions should be passed to a vote without unnecessay delay, but the motion to adjourn was carried by a vote of 42 to 22.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT.

The Censure of Mr. Bayard Regretted in England.

London, March 21.—The Standard, commenting on the action of the house of representatives in adopting the resolutions censuring Ambassador Bayard, says to-day that, while there is some reason for the complaint against Mr. Bayard, it thinks his opponents ridiculous to exaggerate the grievance. They have taken an ungenerous advantage. The Standard says it is of the opinion that a strong motive to induce Mr. Bayard to ignore the vote of censure and to remain at his post is found in the fact that the friendly tone which succeeded the initial bitterness of the Venezuelan question was largely due to his personal exertions. Englishmen, the paper says, would genuinely regret his abrupt departure.

For Towing a Schooner Into Port.

Boston, March 21.—A settlement has been effected between the agents of the Furness line steamer Georgian and the owner of the schooner Van Name and King for services rendered by the Georgian in picking up the schooner off Sable island in a leaky condition and towing her into this port. The amount received by the owners of the steamer was $3,000.

Final Formalities in Waller's Release.

Paris, March 21.—The final formalities for the release of John J. Waller, formerly American consul in Madagascar, who was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment for conveying information to the Hovas regarding the French, were completed yesterday afternoon and Waller is now free.

Carlisle to Laborers.

Chicago, March 21.—John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury, will deliver a non-partisan address before the laboring people of Chicago on April 15.

Just for Fun.

When you arise at dawn of day
To labor on the same old way,
Don't count the battle half begun
Till you have smiled once—just for fun

If you sit down when work is o'er
To count the knocks which make you sore,
Just crown the day a perfect one—
Keep right on smiling—just for fun.

Thus in your soul, from hour to hour,
Store up a fount of peace and power;
Though cares and troubles weigh a ton
Keep right on smiling—just for fun.

When Love Fled.

Love built a cottage. "Come live with me."
He said; "there is room enough for three."

Love brought the food and swept the floor
And watched when either was out of door

When sickness came Love hovered nigh;
And the sick recovered by and by

When Poverty took up his quarters there
Love never deserted the luckless pair.

But when Jealousy one day forced the door
Love spread his wings and was seen no more.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

WATER SUPPLY CO.,

Incorporated 1869.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. WORK AND WEAR.

Repairs to Machinery While in Motion.

How Waste May Be Prevented and Energy Maintained.

If a machine works, it must wear out. It matters not whether it is the common plow of the field or the most complicated printing press. Work means waste. It is certain that these machines would last much longer if they did not wear out. Then only some accident would necessitate the purchase of new parts.

The human body is a complicated piece of machinery which is constantly at work. There is not an activity of the body, from the movement of a muscle to the digestion of food, which does not cause waste. Physiology teaches that we are constantly being supplied with new material to take the place of that which is worn out.

When the body is debilitated by disease, how quickly it could be built up, provided we could only allow all the parts complete rest. But, of course, this is impossible, for the changing of the foods into the various organs and tissues of the body means work, and this work means waste. However, we can aid the body in its work and save it much labor.

We can take especial care to use only those foods which are easily digested, and yet are highly nourishing. When it is necessary to add some valuable food which is also a medicine, as cod-liver oil, then we can save the body an immense amount of work by digesting the oil before giving it. How can an oil be digested? If you will consult some work on physiology you will learn that an oil is digested when it is broken up into minute globules, so small that high powers of the microscope are necessary to see the little drops of fat. When the oil has been digested in this way it is called an "emulsion."

This is why Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is so easily borne by delicate stomachs, does not cause diarrhœa, and never produces gas in the stomach. When persons are ill, the digestion is also weak. But Scott's Emulsion is already digested, hence the body is not obliged to expend strength in preparing it for absorption. You at once see the advantage of Scott's Emulsion over raw cod-liver oil. It also contains the hypophosphites which every one recognizes as such strong tonics to the nervous system.

Scott's Emulsion has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. Ask your doctor. Because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Insist on Scott's Emulsion with trademark of man and fish. Put up in 50c. and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

M'KINLEY'S WORKERS ARE BUSY

The Ohio Man Makes Inroads Upon the Preserves of Senator Davis in Minnesota—Missouri State Committee Also for McKinley.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—Returns from the county conventions held throughout Minnesota yesterday to select delegates for the state and congressional district conventions indicate that McKinley has made considerable inroads upon the preserves of Senator Davis. Figures from the seventh district showed that McKinley carried everything before him and will have the delegation from that district. A similar state of things is reported in the second district, and the delegates from the fifth Minneapolis district are outspoken for McKinley. In St. Paul, the fourth district, the McKinleyites gracefully withdrew and left Senator Davis the field, as this is his home. The state convention will be for Davis by a small majority. This will give Davis eleven and McKinley seven delegates from this state. The state convention will assemble next Tuesday.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS.

State Central Committee for McKinley and Sound Money.

St. Louis, March 21.—The republican state central committee of Missouri met here yesterday and fixed the dates and locations of the two state conventions. One other matter of importance was settled, and that is that Chauncey I. Filley is in control of the state organization. The thirty-four members of the committee were polled on presidential preferences, with the following result: McKinley, 29; no choice, 5; Allison, second choice, 6. Their views of the duties of the national convention toward a monetary plank were: Sound money, 15; bimetallism, 4; friendly to silver, 2; non-commital, 13.

Guthrie Solid for Reed.

Guthrie, O. T., March 21.—The republican county convention, after a hot contest last evening, voted to send a solid Reed delegation to the territorial convention, and instructed for Henry Ash, Reed's territorial manager, for national delegate.

Morton Endorsed.

Schenectady, N. Y., March 21.—At the twenty-first congressional district convention here resolutions recommending Governor Morton for president were adopted.

Choctaw Republicans for McKinley.

South McAlester, I. T., March 21.—The republicans of the Choctaw nation yesterday at Moskogee elected J. P. Grady delegate to the St. Louis convention and instructed for McKinley.

Defeat for the A. P. A.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 21.—The fight in the republican primaries last night over the election of delegates to the town convention was a hot one, but the regular ticket routed the A. P. A. ticket in all of the twelve districts of the city. Out of fifty-six delegates the A. P. A.'s elected one delegate in the ninth district.

UPROAR IN ITALIAN CHAMBER.

A Radical Member Denounces the Government for the Defeat in Africa.

Rome, March 21.—During the discussion last evening by the chamber of deputies of the credits asked for by the government Signor Paolo Taroni, radical, member for Lugo, demanded the recall of the Italian troops from Africa. He held that the military, the court and the king were answerable for Italy's fatal colonial policy. Signor Taroni was repeatedly called to order and his arraignment of the government was greeted with shouts of "Enough!" "Sit down!" The hubbub finally became so great that the sitting was suspended for a time.

Cecil Rhodes Returning to Africa.

London, March 21.—Cecil Rhodes, formerly prime minister of Cape Colony, who visited London in connection with the raid of Dr. Jameson into the Transvaal and also in connection with the affairs of the British South Africa company, of which he is practically the head and front, arrived at Beira yesterday and at once proceeded for Mashonaland.

To Protect State Anti-Gambling Laws.

Washington, March 21.—Mr. Gillett of Massachusetts offered in the house yesterday a bill to protect state anti-gambling laws from nullification through interstate gambling by telegraph, telephone or otherwise, by extending to such gambling the penalties provided for interstate gambling by mail or express.

Destructive Hurricane.

Huntington, W. Va., March 21.—Reports from Hart's creek region, fifty miles south, in Lincoln country, the scene of Thursday night's cyclone, indicate that it was one of the most destructive hurricanes ever known in that section. No lives were lost, but the property loss will be heavy.

Yellow Fever at Rio Janeiro.

Baltimore, March 21.—The British steam bark Severn, Capt. Reid, from Rio Janeiro, January 31, in port here, reports that during the week prior to her sailing 420 persons died from yellow fever and many more from smallpox.

Keogh Wins the Second Game.

Pittsburg, March 21.—Keogh won the second game in the pool match for the world's championship and $1,000, scoring 199 to Clearwater's 194. Each man has won a game.

LOOKS VERY SUSPICIOUS.

She—I'm not going to invite Mr. Oakley here again. I am very suspicious of him.

He—Why? I never heard anything against him.

She—Nor I, but his wife says he has no faults.—Truth.

Game Was Too Rich for Him.

I took my country friend into the restaurant. "What will you eat for supper?" I asked.

"I don't know," he replied, looking dubiously at the bill of fare. "What are you going to have?"

"Well I think I'll take a Welsh rabbit. Have one?"

"No-o, I don't think I'll take it. I never did care much for game, anyway."—Truth.

Cause for Congratulation.

"This man Lobbs is one of the luckiest fellows I know of. You heard of his arm being blown off last week in that explosion?"

"Yes, but there is nothing lucky about that."

"It was his right arm, you know."

"Well, what of that?"

"Why, he is left-handed."—Boston Globe.

Underhanded.

"I thought you didn't like Cadsby?" said the friend of the literary critic.

"I don't like him."

"But you said his novel was remarkable for its lofty moral tone; for its lack of anything that could be construed as indelicate."

"Yes. I did that to spoil the sale of it."—Washington Star.

Simply Heroic.

"Do you think, sir," said the girl's mother, "that you have the patience and forbearance to be a kind husband?"

"Madam," replied the young man in earnest tones, "I can put a 14½ stand-up collar on a No. 15 shirt without saying a single strong word."

And she consented to the match at once.—Chicago Record.

MUNYON

Thousands Declare They Have Been Cured.

Druggists Say They Sell More of Munyon's Improved Homoeopathic Remedies Than All Others Combined.

READ THE TESTIMONIALS.

John Waldron, 726 South Warren street, Trenton, N. J., says: "I suffered with rheumatism in my left foot for some time, but two doses of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure entirely eliminated it from my system."

Mr. E. B. Wilson, Dover, N. J., says: "My wife has been troubled for six or eight weeks with indigestion, being at times scarcely able to breathe She has been under the treatment of a resident physician for a month, but his medicines have not given satisfactory results. Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure was recommended by a lady who said it had cured her. I purchased a bottle, and after four doses my wife was herself again. Heretofore, I have never been a friend to Homoeopathic Remedies, but the results in this case have about converted me."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure seldom fails to relieve it in 1 to 3 hours, and cures in a few days. Price, 25c.

Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure positively cures all forms of indigestion and stomach troubles. Price, 25c.

Munyon's Cold Cure prevents pneumonia and breaks up a cold in a few hours. Price 25 cents.

Munyon's Cough Cure stops coughs, night sweats, allays soreness, and speedily heals the lungs. Price 25.

Munyon's Kidney Cure speedily cures pains in the back, loins or groins, and all forms of kidney disease. Price, 25c.

Munyon's Headache Cure stops headache in 3 minutes. Price 25c.

A MODEL STORE.

G. Q. Packer's and J. W. Gavett's Store Looks Metropolitan Like.

A store has just been opened in this city that offers all the advantages of the metropolitan stores of a similar character. It is the large store in the Jackson building, at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue, now occupied by Garret Q. Packer, the furniture dealer, and Joseph W. Gavett, dealer in china, glassware and lamps.

The first floor and the basement of this recently completed building are each divided into six sections, all of which will be occupied by the two firms.

On the right of the first section Gavett will display his beautiful specimens of china and glassware. An art display of Packer's stock will be on the left. The second section will be divided similarly, while sections three, four, five and six will be devoted to Packer's display of furniture.

In the basement five sections will be occupied by Packer and one by Gavett. There will be a ladies parlor, suitably furnished and with writing materials handy, under the charge of a competent woman, similar to those in large metropolitan stores. One of the largest steam heating plants will be found in the basement, which will heat the flats above as well as the stores. The goods will be received at the rear door and a freight elevator will carry them to the basement.

AFTER DELINQUENT MEMBERS.

Young Men's Association Hold a Meeting Last Night.

A regular meeting of the Young Men's Association of Monroe Avenue chapel, was held last evening at 7:30, with Rev. W. C. O'Donnell in the chair. The journal of the previous meeting was read and approved. The entertainment committee reported progress in regard to the concert to be given by the Syracuse University Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Club.

The secretary was appointed a committee of one to look after delinquent members. The latter will be given until the next meeting to report to the association, thus signifying a desire to still remain as members.

The meeting then adjourned, and the members attended the rally held at Grace M. E. church.

Last Sunday Before Conference.

Tomorrow in the Methodist churches will be the last Sunday before conference. All who wish to contribute to the support of missions and other benevolences of the church, should hand in their offering some time during the day. The annual Conference will be held next Wednesday morning in St. Paul's M. E. church, Newark.

High School Graduates Meet.

The class of '96, of the Plainfield High School, held a meeting at the home of Edgar I. Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, last evening. After a short business meeting the rest of the evening was spent in a social manner. A very pleasant time was spent by all.

The Days Fined.

Sentence was pronounced this morning by City Judge DeMeza in the case of James and Mary Day for disorderly conduct and fighting, and both paid $3 fine in preference to ten days in jail.

—The statement in The News last night that L. W. Randolph is the only all night drug store in this city is erroneous. J. Howard Leggett established an all-night service two months ago and still continues it.

—Five dollars was added to the city treasury this morning by James McCann, who was arrested on Plainfield avenue last night for being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and the Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $5 or spend fifteen days in jail.

Letter carrier E. E. Hann has been troubled for sometime with a distressing pain in his side, and not knowing its cause decided to go to Muhlenberg Hospital for an examination. In his absence Carrier P. Reville is doing his work.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Sectetary Chicago Exchange

Col. R. M. Littler Recommends That Best of Remedies, Paine's Celery Compound.

For 10 years Secretary of the National Butter and Egg Association, and since 1882 Secretary of the Chicago Produce Exchange, Col. Robert M. Littler has been in constant demand as a bureau of information by correspondents who recognize Chicago as the commercial centre of the country.

When such people as Col. Littler, State Treasurer Colvin of New York, Modjeska, the actress, ex-Minister to Austria John M. Francis, and hosts of other equally responsible persons volunteer testimonials as to the wonderful virtue of Paine's celery compound, no sick or suffering person can with any show of reason hesitate to make use of the great remedy that has made so many people well. Col. Littler says:

"I have used with great benefit several bottles of Paine's celery compound and I have recommended it to my friends. It is a wonderful spring remedy."

Go to the busiest lawyer, editor or business man of your acquaintance who has taken Paine's celery compound. There are hosts of such professional men in every city who would hardly spare you a moment's time for strictly business matters. Ask one of them in his busiest hours whether he can recommend Paine's celery compound and ten chances to one he'll say, "Sit down; no matter about my being busy; always glad to praise Paine's celery compound."

That is the feeling among people who have been made strong and well by Paine's celery compound. They never feel happier than when they can persuade some man or woman who is out of health to try Paine's celery compound. Next to doing good to one's self there is a delight in doing good to others. There is no more enthusiastic body of intelligent men and women throughout the country than the great army of those who have recovered health by the use of Paine's celery compound.

The vast majority of diseases that end disastrously might be quickly and permanently cured if sick persons could only be induced to take Paine's celery compound. If women, burdened beyond their strength with household cares, would only take Paine's celery compound, when they feel that dispirited, enervated condition coming on, they would escape the martyrdom of backache, headache, disordered liver and heart trouble.

Instead of being thin, nervous and unhappy they would experience the joy of perfect health, sound digestion and quiet nerves.

Paine's celery compound is just the remedy needed by women who are in continual ill-health and spirits, seemingly well one day and almost sick abed the next. Their trouble lies plainly in the want of good rich blood, and plenty of it, and in the consequent famished state of the nerves. Paine's celery compound should be taken without delay. It will restore the health and stop every tendency toward a debilitated condition.

Good, Even If it Isn't True.

Apropos of the "new woman," somebody resurrected an old story the other day about Mrs. Julia Ward Howe that may or may not be true. At all events, it was worth resurrecting. The story goes that Mrs. Howe was one fine morning walking down Beacon street, Boston, when she met a friend who asked her how Dr. Howe was. "Dr. Howe?" repeated Mrs. Howe, vaguely, then, as if suddenly recollecting herself, "Oh, he's quiet well, I'm sure. I remember seeing in the morning paper that he presided at some meeting or other last evening.—Evening Sun.

Taken From the Street.

The Organized Aid Association has recently had in hand an interesting case in which two young girls between twelve and fifteen have been taken from a life on the street. One of them has been placed in the Trenton Industrial Home. The other is receiving treatment at our own hospital where she is given light employment. The Relief Association has provided her with clothing and the hospital authorities promise to keep her as long as she makes herself useful. Both are very happy in their new homes.

JOLLY TIME HAD THEY.

A CHRISTENING PARTY GETS TOO GAY AND TWO OF THEM ARRESTED.

Warned Twice by Roundsman Frederickson to be Quiet, but They Took No Heed of It, and Were Finally Raided.

Paradise Alley, as the police rather unappropriately term Cottage place, was the scene of a christening yesterday and the gay time finally ended in an encounter with the police and a scene in the city court.

The house where this joyful event took place was occupied by Joseph Damuski and family. All yesterday afternoon the guests gathered from far and near. Beer flowed while one of the company furnished music on an accordion and everybody took their hand at dancing. The foreigners forgot for the time that the American continent was the scene of their actions, but had a good "old country" time.

Roundsman Frederickson heard the noise down on Washington street and went up to discover the cause. He dispersed a crowd of curious onlookers who had been attracted by the racket, and then cautioned the host and his guests to make less noise.

Roundsman Mattox also visited the scene and found that it more than equalled the famous christening of "McSorley's most beautiful twins," handed down to fame in that well-known ballad.

At about 7 o'clock Mattox heard the disturbance from afar and gave the disturbers another warning. It did not do any good, however, and the roundsman reported to Sergeant Kiely at headquarters. The sergeant, accompanied by Roundsman Mattox and Special Officer Carney, visited Paradise Alley at about 8 o'clock.

The feasters evidently expected an official visit for they locked all the doors and barricaded the windows. Sergeant Kiely demanded an entrance and was finally admitted. When inside the house, he ordered the disturbers to cease their noise. He was informed, however, that they would do as they pleased inside the house and it was suggested that the officer might be assisted in leaving the house. The beer was just enough to excite everybody and the owner of the house, Michael Ettinger, was particularly worried. The inmates tried to shut the door on the officers, but without success. Sergeant Kiely then ordered Ettinger to leave the house and that man did not think the occasion merited such a remark. At last, after considerable forcible expostulation, Kiely and Mattox removed him and also arrested the excited host. They were locked up over night.

This morning Ettinger and Damuski were arraigned before City Judge De Meza on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and resisting an officer. Ettinger was the first to be tried. He has the appearance of a typical German Socialist, with his long beard and shrewd face. When asked what he had been doing, he exclaimed: "I don't know what I be doing! I was not drunk. I am not guilty, but I will plead guilty so that I can go back to my work."

He then told his story in a dramatic manner.

"He pulled me along like a horse," he said excitedly, as he told of how Kiely arrested him. According to his story he had been very quiet and had tried to go after his wife and children to take them home. The policemen gave their testimony as did several of the neighbors and the case appeared a very strange one against Ettenger.

"Ten dollars or thirty days" said the Judge.

Ettenger stood still for a short time and then jumped forward and began peeking under the desk of the judge and of the Chief of Police.

"What's the matter," asked Sergeant Kiely, "do you see a mouse?"

"No," exclaimed the prisoner striking a dramatic attitude, "I am looking for justice."

The Judge called him to order with a warning to behave himself in court. Then Damuski was brought to the bar but he looked blankly at both the Judge and Sergeant Kiely when they tried to question him.

He was a Slav and a Mrs. Williamson, who was in the audience, agreed to act as interpreter. Damuski laid all the blame on Ettenger and declared he had done nothing. The evidence was too strong and he was given his choice between a fine of $10 and thirty days in jail.

Ettenger paid his fine while Mrs. Damuski hurried out of court to see if she could raise the money in any way for her husband.

A PASTORAL SURPRISE.

Queen Esther Band Make Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Randolph a Present.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Randolph, of Grace M. E. church, were tendered a dinner by Mrs John H. Carney, of Craig place, Saturday evening, after which a most complete surprise was tendered them by the members of the Queen Esther Band, who had gathered at the residence of Mrs. Jacob Voehl, of Somerset street, and in a body marched to 40 Craig place, and were silently admitted by one of their members. They were escorted upstairs unbeknown to Mr. and Mrs. Randolph who were being entertained in the parlor below. The young ladies each grasping the efforts of their labors for many days, headed by their president, cautiously marched down the stairs and into the parlor, when Carrie Pangborn most gracefully presented the following well chosen remarks:

"Mrs. Randolph, before you stands the members of the Queen Esther Band, and as you are about to leave us will you accept the efforts of our little Band as a fond remembrance of the high esteem in which you are held by our members."

She presented to her a handsome patched quilt, beautifully arranged by their little hands. In the centre could be seen many little hearts, around them entwined the names of the following members worked in the centre patch:

Carrie Pangborn, Nellie Vermeule, Jennie DeCamp, Nellie Valiant, Tina Voehl, Winifred Carroll, Sadie Winckler, Ada VanHorn, Edith Conover, Anna Kirch, Mabel Wright, Addie Carney, Agnes Morse, Mabel Stevens, Mary Hoagland.

To Mr. Randolph they presented an elegant autograph album with each of their autographs therein. To say that they were surprised would but faintly express it. The balance of the evening was delightfully spent in playing games, after which light refreshments were served, and all returned to their various homes with well wishes for Rev. and Mrs. Randolph.

AFTER THE POULTRY SHOW.

Plainfielders Want to Bring a Big Exhibit to This City in December.

An effort is being made by a number of Plainfielders to influence the officials of the Garden State Poultry and Pigeon Society to hold their annual show in this city next December. The event continues for six days, at which time the best bred fowls of the State are entered for exhibition and prizes, and also brings to the show a large number of enthusiasts from all over the country. The show was held at Hackensack last December, but the facilities were so poor for holding it there that the officials were dissatisfied with the town. It is calculated to hold the event in the Columbia Cycling Academy, where there is ample space for the exhibition and the crowds that attend. In order to bring the show here it will be necessary for the citizens to subscribe $200, which should be easily secured. Orange is also after the show for this year, but the Plainfielders who are interested in the affair will make an earnest effort to bring it here. The officials of the society are said to be in favor of Plainfield if they will offer reasonable inducements.

A Birthday Surprise.

A birthday party was tendered little Gracie Gaddis, of 8 Regent street, Saturday afternoon, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock. A most pleasant time was had by the little ones.

The following little people were present as guests: Misses Carrie Eagel, Carrie Wiess, Minnie Eagel, Hattie Voehl, Eliza Voehl, Tina Voehl, Tillie Uhrhahn, Lillie Van Winckle, Hattie McLoughlin, Maggie Gaddas, Addie Carney; Masters George Eagel, Davis Wiess, Georfie Gaddas, Harry Gaddas, Andrew Flemming, John Carney.

Funeral of Mrs. Line.

A large number of friends attended the funeral services of the late Mrs. Alfred Line, which were held yesterday afternoon from the house, 248 East Front street, at 2:30. Rev. Dr. Yerkes officiated and gave loving testimony of the life of the departed. He pointed out the path of life in all its realities and gave helpful advice and wisdom to all. The pall-bearers were Poole Voorhees, Alex. Thorn, Joseph Allen, James Line, of Plainfield; Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Halfpenny, of Elizabeth. Interment was in North Plainfield cemetery.

—Rev. W. C. O'Donnell goes to Newark tomorrow to attend the New Jersey Methodist Conference at that place.

—The Young Men's Association of Monroe Avenue chapel will hold a special meeting on Thnrsday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

BATTLE AGAINST SATAN.

AMERICAN VOLUNTEERS CARRYING ON THEIR WORK WITH VIGOR.

Capt. Mimms Expresses Herself as Pleased With Her Work in This City—Salvation Army Captain Farewells.

Captain Mimms conducted five meetings yesterday in the interests of the American Volunteers. "Knee drill" at 7 o'clock in the morning was held at the home of William Sharkey, 19 Emily street, at 11 o'clock there was a holiness meeting in Reform Hall, at 3 o'clock a Christian's praise meeting, and in the evening a salvation meeting. An "open air," on the steps of the hall preceding the evening meeting attracted, a crowd. One convert was the result of the day's work. Captain Mimms, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, said:

"We feel fully satisfied that God's hand is in the new movement. The best evidence we can possibly have of this is practical results for our labor. God has wonderfully blessed our meetings this week and we have had the privilege of seeing three precious souls at the penitent form. The people of Plainfield are standing by us nobly and not only attend our meetings in large numbers but also give us the financial assistance we need to carry on the war."

Commander Booth was gratified at the enthusiastic reception he received Thursday night. Reform Hall was taxed to its utmost capacity last night, every seat being taken. If the attendance continues as good as it has been in the last week Captain Mimms will be obliged to secure a larger hall on Sunday nights in future.

The Plainfield post is arranging for another big demonstration, when it will be presented with its standards. The first street parade will be held tonight if it does not rain.

Capt. Deighton, who has been in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army for the last two weeks, farewelled last night. She has been appointed a "special," and will travel throughout the central division. Her successor will be Capt. Bryant, a California girl, who has been in charge of Corps No. 1 in Jersey City for several months.

VOLUNTEER STAFF OFFICER.

Major Patty Watkins Will Oversee the Post in This City.

General orders No. 1 were issued from the headquarters of the American Volunteers Saturday. The most important section to Plainfield was as follows:

"Major Patty Watkins will assume command of the New York city and New Jersey battalion, comprising eleven posts or companies. Major Watkins will visit the respective posts and will at once arrange for the presentation of the colors of the Volunteers and the National colors."

Within a week most of the officers will appear in their new uniforms. A crest, which will appear upon the collars of staff officers and the brass buttons on the new uniforms and will also be worn as a badge, has been chosen.

It is a shield surmounted by a spread eagle and surrounded with a ribbon. On the shield is a five-pointed star and the inscription "For God and Country." On the ribbon beneath the shield is "The Volunteers."

Commander Ballington Booth, through Lieutenant-Colonel Glen, declared positively that he will never accede to any proposition which may be made him by Gen. William Booth or any representative of the Salvation Army. All negotiations with London are forever closed. The troops who were mobilized two weeks ago are now formally organized and tonight will be in the thick of battle. Eleven companies, commanded by competent officers, have already secured armories in as many towns, and thirteen more posts will be formed as soon as suitable headquarters can be secured.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

DARE NOT TACKLE THEM.

POWER OF THE LIQUOR FORCES OVER THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Rev. W. F. Cooley Says That People Who Want to See Reform Should Have the Spirit of the Puritans of Early Days.

A very interesting and stirring good government address was delivered last night before the Young Ladies' Society of Christian Endeavor, of the Congregational church, by Rev. William Forbes Cooley, of Chatam, Secretary of the New Jersey Congregational Association.

Mr. Cooley read as his text Matthew 6:10; "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in heaven;" and said, in part:

"What do we pray for in these words? God may show himself as king of the earth? Yes. That men may become his subjects? Yes. But especially that his law may prevail in the world. This puts a double duty upon us: to do God's will ourselves, and to have it done in the world. As Christians we pray, and therefore strive, to have God's will done by men, as individuals, in business, in society, in the state. My theme comes under the last head. This is not something outside of the province of religion; whether God or Beelzebub rules in the states affects Christian vitally.

"To put a corrupt man in office is to undo the work we are trying to do in Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor societies. The dram-shop is something that hinders the church in its work of saving souls. So it is a religious question we take up to-night and one in which we ought to be deeply interested.

"The Northern New Jersey Conferance appointed a committee to see what could be done to mitigate the dram-shop evil. A county option bill was presented to the Legislature, but it was reported to be impossible to pass it. Ten years ago a bill had been passed, and the following year the liquor forces rallied, and wiped the Republican party out of existence, and they staid out for several years. I cannot altogether blame them for being afraid to try it again. The situation, then, is that the liquor power has such a hold in New Jersey that the Legislature does not dare to beard it.

"Why have the liquor forces such power? Through the division of the righteous forces, entirely. The task which is before us is to arouse the people, and unify public sentiment, until each county, etc., has the choice to keep or to abolish this open sewer and centre of moral disease. Most of the politicians, I think, would be glad to turn the whole matter over to the people. Righteousness will prevail when the people ask for it.

"What can you do about it? The men can vote, of course. Watch your representatives, and sustain them when they do well. Write to them in behalf of the bills you want passed. Agitate for moral advance; talk and distribute reform literature. In this last the ladies can help. They can also join the W. C. T. U., to help in the good it is doing, and to keep it out of ruts.

"I have spoken tonight to the children of the Puritans, on a Puritan topic. We need that the spirit of the Puritans should prevail more in our State. The old Puritans made mistakes, to be sure, but let us try to catch their earnest and devoted spirit, and do our duty as well as they did theirs."

Mission Worker to Talk.

Mrs. Charles Bilyeau, superintendent of the Jerry McAll Mission, New York, will be present at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, this evening, and relate some of her wonderful experiences in mission work. A coworker will accompany her and assist in the service. The meeting commences at 8 o'clock and a hearty invitation is extended to everyone to be present.

Changed Their Quarters.

The Plainfield Relief Association, which had its quarters temporarily in Reform Hall, has removed to 544 West Front street, where its committees will meet and its Superintendent, Miss Pray, will dispense work and relief with judicious care.

—A new set of trucks is being put on car No. 1 of the street railway.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

AN EVENT IN DOLLDOM.

Novel Children's Party Tendered by Little Bessie TenEyck.

One of the most novel children's parties ever given in this city was that tendered by Bessie Ten Eyck at her home on Sixth street Saturday afternoon. The event was celebrated with a doll wedding, which was carried out with all the elaborateness and solemnity that would characterize an affair of Cupid in real life. Besides the bride and groom, there was the bridemaid, best man and all the other wedding party to make the affair a signal one in dolldom. The juvenile guests all brought presents, indulged in a wedding repast and had a general good time.

The doll's name who acted the part of the bride was Daisy Sheppard, while her husband was Harold Thompson. A comical little Brownie acted the part of the officiating clergyman, and tied the nuptial knot in a manner that was astounding to his companions in fairyland. After the ceremony was over the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to "the State of Europe," as the little hostess described the destination, which was to a corner of the parlor of Miss Bessie's home. There was thirty-five dolls present at the event.

The following juveniles of real flesh and blood were also present to witness and enjoy the ceremony: Ruth Berg, Marion Dickinson, Hattie and Anna Randall, Lucy Coriell, Grace TenEyck, and Master George B. Miller.

CONSOLIDATIONS MUST COME.

Ex-Mayor Saunders Says the City and Borough Will be One.

Ex-Mayor W. L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, speaking of the new movement on foot to consolidate Plainfield and North Plainfield on Saturday had words of encouragement for the consummation of this important movement. That it has not "bobbed" up in the legislature during this session is not strange, but entirely natural.

Before a bill is presented to the legislature the subject of consolidation must have thorough advertising and public opinion must be expressed, so that the people are fully informed of the true state of affairs. Whether the city is taken into Somerset county or the borough into Union county is a matter not yet decided, but one thing is certain, however, and that is that the two places should be together under one government.

Maps have been made by Engineer Dunham showing the city, borough and county line. When the time comes for action a very strong effort will be made to get the two places under one head.

THE WOODEN WILL CONTEST.

Relatives of Uncle Peter Trying to Prevent His Bequests of Money.

The Peter Wooden will contest was brought up in the Orphans' Court of Somerset county this morning before Judge Bartine. The contestants are Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Rachael Smalley and others, who allege that undue influence was brought upon "Uncle Peter" when he made the bequests to the Seventh-Day Baptist church and Alfred University. The executor of the estate, William M. Stillman, is represented by Craig A. Marsh, while the contestants are represented by W. R. Codington and Judge DeMeza, of this city, and Meehan & Steele, of Somerville. James B. Spicer and Joseph A. Hubbard were the witnesses to the original will and J. Oakley Nodyne and William A. Coddington to the codicil which was added in 1890, and they testified to the fact this morning. William A. Pangborn also gave testimony as to the date of Mr. Wooden's death. The case was then adjourned to next Monday.

In Charge of the Women.

The young women of Monroe Avenue chapel have in preparation a very unique affair which will be held on Friday evening, April 17th, in the chapel. Among those who will entertain are Miss Addie Parker Jackson and the ladies' orchestra from Dunellen. The women will have full charge of everything and they expect their gentlemen friends to patronize them liberally. The admission will be 20 cents and supper will be served for a small additional fee.

Entertainment to Be Given.

The Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, Auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met Friday evening. It was proposed that an entertainment be given in the near future and that an invitation be extended the G. A. R. and S. of V. At the conclusion of the business light refreshments were enjoyed by the members.

An Easter Tea.

The Misses Clark, daughters of E.B. Clark, have sent out invitations for a tea to be given at their home, 131 Crescent avenue, Easter Monday, from five to seven. The tea is given in honor of Miss Eleanor Underwood, of Crescent avenue.

LAST DAYS AT TRENTON.

THE LEGISLATURE WILL PROBABLY ADJOURN SOME TIME THIS WEEK.

The Judiciary Amendment May Cause a Hitch, Though, if a Long Discussion Ensues—A Presidential Canvass.

The legislative session will end on Wednesday afternoon, says the Sun, unless the Senate becomes involved in a long discussion over the constitutional amendments. The one reorganizing the higher court will cause the differences, if any. The Hon. Cortlandt Parker, one of the oldest and foremost lawyers in the State, is opposed to any change in the construction of the courts, which, he argues, have been satisfactory for half a century; but if a change must be made, he favors the amendment suggested by the commission of 1895, making the Court of Errors and Appeals to consist of the Chief Justice and two oldest associate Justices, the Chancellor and two oldest Vice-Chancellors. Senator Voorhees, chairman of the judiciary committee, and Frank Bergen, one of the committee of lawyers, want the Collins and Corbin amendment, providing for one court of fifteen Judges in three divisions with appellate, law, and equity jurisdiction. Senator Johnson, another member of the judiciary committee, and eight members of the lawyers' committee, favor the amendment suggested by the Constitutional Commission of 1894, providing for a separate Court of Errors and Appeals, to consist of the Chief Justice and four associate Justices.

All of the lawyers agree that the lay Judges should be abolished, and that the Vice-Chancellors should be made constitutional officers, so that they may have enlarged powers. For nearly a quarter of a century there has been a demand for changes in the composition of these courts, but all efforts at agreement have been unavailing. For months it has been known that the amendment adopted last winter was satisfactory, and yet only within the past week or two has an effort been made to draft one that would be satisfactory. None of the amendments have been considered yet in either House. This condition has led to charges being made that the Republicans do not want to agree, but are seeking to prolong the controversy in order to avoid putting into effect the anti-race track amendment. According to the authors of these charges the Republicans want to wait until the clamor against the race tracks has been allayed, when they will pass laws that will permit racing, but with restrictions against the practices pursued at Guttenburg, Clifton and Gloucester.

To the Assembly districting, the biennial sessions and the anti-race track amendments, and to the one prohibiting the appointment to office during recess of persons whom the Senate has refused to confirm, there is little, if any, opposition, and there is among the laymen in the Legislature a disposition to adopt them, and give the lawyers another five years in which to agree in the judiciary amendments. The joint committee appointed to revise the borough laws has been unable to complete its work, and the Legislature will pass a law legalizing the organization of those boroughs whose governments have been declared unconstitutional by the courts. During the summer the committee will meet and perfect a general law for the government of boroughs.

The sentiment among the Republican Senators and Assemblymen appears to be that New Jersey's vote in the national Convention may go to McKinley, as his recent successes in the Western States have given his candidacy a decided boom in the manufacturing districts. Gen. Sewell's advice that an unpledged delegation be sent to St. Louis will be followed, and the politicians believe that this means that Senater Sewell will endeavor to have Garret A. Hobart made the nominee for Vice-President, with either McKinley or Allison for first place. It was said in Trenton last week that Elias S. Ward, of Newark, had decided not to contest for one of the places as delegate at large, but would be chosen as one of the delegates from the Sixth District, whose Convention will be held on April 17th, the day following the State Convention.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

ENGLAND IN EGYPT

Germany's Assent Not Given To Conserve British Interests.

TO UPHOLD THE DREIBUND'S PRESTIGE

German Press Express a More Cordial Feeling Toward Great Britain—Demand for the French Ambassador's Recall—Unpleasant Surprise.

Berlin, March 23.—The official announcement that Germany has given her assent to England's drawing on the Egyptain reserve fund to defray the cost of the British expedition up the Nile valley is worded in such a manner as to convey the impression that Germany's assent was not given to conserve English interests, but rather for the sake of upholding the prestige of the allies of Germany included in the dreibund, especially that of Italy. Two articles on the subject, which were subsequently published in the North German Gazette, were a great deal more cordial toward England and the intention seems to have been to dispel all traces of the recent German irritation toward England, to defend the Dongola expedition as an inevitable and indispensable movement, and to predict the ultimate recognition by Europe of the value of the operations of the expedition in controlling the destructive power of the Dervishes. Other inspired journals are now taking the same view. The National Zeitung denies the contention that France can possibly create international trouble because of the fact that Egyptain troops are seeking to reoccupy Egyptian territory.

German Press Views.

As late as 1894, during the dispute over the Congo agreement, the Zeitung says, the French government maintained that the Soudan provinces were legally Egyptian terrritory, although they were in the hands of barbarians. The Tageblatt holds that the evacuation of Egypt by the British is England's own affair, and the Kreuz Zeitung says that France cannot oppose a punitive expedition against Soudanese malefactors. The Cologne Gazette, in an article obviously inspired by the foreign office, contends that the Dongola expedition is absolutely imperative. "The union of the Dervish forces, which are now divided by the Egyptian advance," it says, "might have the effect to drive the Italians out of Kassala and so strengthen Abyssinia against Italy and ultimately enable France and Russia, who are now lurking in the background, to determine the fate of Khartoum and the whole region of the Upper Nile."

France Unpleasantly Surprised.

The key to all this sudden display of good will toward England is unquestionably German sympathy with Italy. If the battle of Adowa, fought on March 1, in which the Italians were disastrously defeated, had not occurred, Germany would not have countenanced the expedition up the valley of the Nile, and probably would have sided with France and Russia to prevent it. A curious incident connected with the situation has arisen from the overtures which were made by France, with the object of ascertaining Germany's intentions in regard to the expedition. The communications from the French foreign office, which passed through the hands of M. Herbette, French ambassador to Germany, were couched in language which indicated expectation that Germany would join the French protest against England's action. It consequently must have been a very unpleasant surprise to M. Berthelot, the French foreign minister, to learn that the assent of Germany had already been sent to London and to Cairo, and the fact certainly must have caused the French government to surmise that the emperor knew more, and at an earlier date, of the designs of Great Britain than could have been obtained through the ordinary diplomatic channels.

M. Herbette's Recall Asked For.

It is now conceded on all sides that M. Herbette must be recalled by his government, and very speedily, too. The position described in these dispatches on February 16 has become intolerable. M. Herbette has made himself so obnoxious to the emperor that his majesty is reported to have on more than one occasion absented himself from Berlin in order to avoid the duty of receiving him. M. Herbette's rank as dean of the diplomatic corps would naturally bring him oftener into personal contact with the emperor than if some other diplomat held the rank and there is reason to believe that a personal meeting with the emperor is as distasteful to the French ambassador as it is offensive to the emperor. The feud between them is of long standing. Besides this difficulty M. Herbette has made himself disagreeable to many of the German officials with whom he has come in contact because of his exceedingly brusque and altogether bad manners, and to Prince Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, he has become almost intolerable. The consequence has been that Prince Hohenlohe has formally asked M. Berthelot to appoint M. Herbette's successor, and the German ambassador to Paris has advised the chancellor that the difficulty experienced by M. Berthelot in sending to Berlin an ambassador who would be persona grata to the Berlin court is likely to be overcome by the acceptance of the position by M. Decrais, formerly French ambassador to London.

Paper Box Factory Burned.

Newark, N. J., March 23.—The two-story frame paper box manufactory of Jacob Zippel was burned yesterday. Loss on stock, building and machinery, $12,000; insurance, $7,500.

ADMIRAL MAKAROFF'S VIEWS.

The Russian Commander Greatly Impressed by Our New Battleship.

Philadelphia, March 23.—Rear-Admiral Makaroff of the Russian navy, who was aboard the battleship Massachusetts during her builders' trial trip, in speaking of the vessel's performance, said: "I was greatly pleased with the ship. Ten years ago we were accustomed to see very old-fashioned ships in your navy, and we are now glad to see that our friends have such fine ships everywhere." He thought the new American ships as good as any seen anywhere else, and in some respects better than ships of other nations. As a battleship, he considers the Massachusetts superior to many others, especially in her range of fire, and he though she had an astonishingly good fore and aft fire. To get this, however, he thinks she has slightly sacrificed her freeboard, but, as she is for coast defense, he thinks this defect is perhaps not important. As compared to the great Russian battleships in the Black sea, which he considers the best for concentration of fire in Europe, the admiral admitted that he considered our new battleship superior in concentration in firing.

DID NOT WANT TO SURVIVE HER.

Antonio Rexach Tries To Commit Suicide on His Dead Wife's Body.

New York, March 23.—Antonio Rexach, a cigarmaker, who came to this country seven years ago with his wife, Encarnation, was found nearly asphyxiated on his wife's dead body in their home yesterday. The woman had died during the night from an internal cancer. Her husband, who had told his friends that he would not survive her, stopped up all the interstices through which air could penetrate into the room, and, after writing to the coroner and his friends, telling them that his wife had died in his arms while he was giving her some beef tea, disconnected the stovepipe and lay down across his wife's dead body to wait for death. He was found in an unconscious condition shortly before noon by his landlord, who, not being able to obtain any response to his rapping at the door when he called, summoned a policeman and broke into the place. Rexach was removed to St. Vincent's hospital and will recover. His mother and brother are well known in Barcelona, Spain, where the would-be suicide some years ago had a prosperous business.

BRILLIANT CEREMONY.

M. J. Hoban, D. D., Consecrated Coadjutor Bishop of Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., March 23.—The consecration of M. J. Hoban, D. D., as coadjutor bishop of the Scranton diocese took place yesterday in this city and was the most brilliant ceremony that ever occurred in Scranton. It began in St. Peter's cathedral and consumed nearly four hours. The vast auditorium was crowed to the doors and thousands would have liked to have secured tickets of admission, but were refused. Interest in the occasion was increased by the fact that the consecration mass was by Cardinal Satolli. Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia also participated in the consecration ceremonies. Bishop Horstman of Cleveland preached the sermon.

THE RAINES BILL.

Gov. Morton May Affix His Signature to the Measure To-day.

Albany, March 23.—It is intimated that Gov. Morton will make known his action on the Raines liquor tax bill some time to-day. The inference from this is that the bill will be signed, as otherwise it is argued that the governor would be likely to await for the reassembling of the legislature on Wednesday, to which body a veto message must find its way. Most people expect that the announcement of the governor's action on the bill will be accompanied by a lengthy memorandum, setting forth his views as to this sort of excise legislation.

EIGHT ARMENIANS KILLED.

Story of a Brawl at Kilis from Turkish Sources.

Washington, March 23.—The Turkish legation has received from the sublime porte the following telegram: The day before yesterday an Armenian, having wounded with a pistol shot a Mussulman at Kilis a brawl took place between Mussulmans and Armenians. Of the latter eight were killed and ten wounded. Four Mussulmans were also wounded. The authors of this incident were immediately arrested and sent to prison for trial. All goods that were stolen from a few shops were discovered and restored to their owners.

MISS STEVENSON TO WED?

Her Engagement to ex-Gov. Hardin's Son Reported at Oxford, O.

Chicago, March 23.—A special dispatch from Oxford, O., says it is reported there that Miss Ruth Stevenson, daughter of the vice-president of the United States, and Martin Hardin, son of ex-Gov. Wat Hardin of Kentucky, are to be married early this summer, probably in June. Mr. Hardin and Miss Stevenson visited the Misses Hardin at Oxford college here last Saturday. Mr. Hardin is a theological student at Center college, Dunville. He will be graduated and then ordained as a minister this year.

England's Egyptian Campaign.

Cairo, March 23.—The North Staffordshire regiment, numbering 900 officers and men, started yesterday for Girgoh, where they will embark on steamers for the journey up the Nile for Wady Halfa.

Philadelphia, March 23.—Two Philadelphia sailing vessels, the barks Havana and Robert S. Patterson, have been given up for lost, together with their crews, numbering thirty persons.

WEEK IN CONGRESS

The Dupont Case and Cuban Resolutions in the Senate.

NO PROGRAMME FOR THE HOUSE

Naval Appropriation Bill Not Likely To Be Reported Before the Latter Part of the Week—Other Affairs in Both Branches.

Washington, March 23.—The failure of the senate thus far to act upon the questions involved in the Dupont case and on the conference report on the Cuban resolutions retains them in line as unfinished business for this week. The senate's attitude towards the Cuban resolutions has been materially affected by the joint resolution offered at the close of Friday night's session by Mr. Morgan. It is understood that that he will press his resolution to vote if for no other purpose than to put the senate on record. The legislative and judicial appropriation bill, which is in charge of Mr. Cullom, will be called up at the first opportunity. The provision changing the compensation of United States marshals and district attorneys from fees to salaries, will, doubtless, cause debate, but otherwise there is little in the bill that should precipitate discussion. The bill to approve the compromise made between the United States and the state of Arkansas holds its place as the unfinished business, but Mr. Berry has not pressed it.

House of Representatives.

Beyond to-day, which, under the rules, is to be devoted to the consideration of business reported by the committee on affairs of the District of Columbia, there is no programme arranged for the house of representatives this week. Chairman Babcock says he will not have enough business to engage the attention of the house for an entire session, unless some wholly unexpected opposition to some one of the measures on the calendar from his committee should develop. The naval appropriation bill, owing to difficulties in the committeee having it in charge, mainly over the appropriation for battleships and for drydocks, has not been fully completed, and it is not expected to be reported before the latter end of the week. That had been depended on by the managers to occupy most of the time beginning to-morrow, and they have nothing of large importance to take its place. Two minor pension bills of a general nature are on the calendar, and an opportunity will doubtless be afforded to press them to passage. The committee on ways and means has before it for discussion and action at its meeting to-morrow the filled cheese bill, reported from the sub-committee last week. Those particularly interested in its progress believe that the full committee can agree upon a report then; should that be done, the bill will doubtless be taken up a day or two later. It will be vigorously fought in the house, and long debate is certain to ensue whenever it does come up.

EMPIRE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Greater New York Bill Will, It Is Expected, Pass This Week.

Albany, March 23.—Some important legislation will receive attention at the hands of the legislature this week, even though but half of the usual sessoins are to be held on account of the meeting of the republican state convention to-morrow. Nearly all of the members went to New York city on Friday and will return Wednesday in time to attend the session in each house which convenes Wednesday afternoon. The feature of the week will be the Lexow Greater New York bill in the assembly, where it is a special order on final passage on Thursday, and the cities committee's substitute for the Page and the Pavey New York school bills in the senate. The republican leaders say that both measures will be passed.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

Mrs. O'Neil Committed Suicide Because of Destitution.

Albany, March 23.—Destitute and hungry and worried because her children were suffering from the pangs of hunger while she could do nothing for them, Mrs. Minnie O'Neil ended her life yesterday afternoon. She swallowed nearly two ounces of carbolic acid, which, although it was diluted, was strong enough to cause her death an hour after she took the poison. The O'Neil family lived in a double tenement house, and was one of the families made poorer by the recent freshet.

Death Due to Heart Disease.

New York, March 23.—The cause of the death of Dr. Theodore C. Heyl, a retired surgeon in the United States navy, who expired suddenly at the home of his brother-in-law, was due to heart disease. Dr. Heyl came to this city from Philadelphia.

German Athletes at Athens.

Berlin, March 23.—The German competitors in the Olympian games at Athens will leave for that city on the 26th of March. They comprise the champion eleven gymnasts of Berlin, two skiff sculling champions, four runners and six champion bicycle riders.

To Receive Americans in Berlin.

Berlin, March 23.—Mrs. Evans, wife of Capt. R. K. Evans, military attache to the United States embassy, will receive the members of the American colony in Berlin to-morrow.

Emperor William Not To Visit Rome.

Berlin, March 23.—The emperor, in consequence of his annoyance at the disclosure of his intention to visit Rome incognito at Easter, has abandoned the idea.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

MAY AID THE REBELS

Hondurian Troops Likely To Desert President Zelaya.

NICARAGUAN REVOLUTION SERIOUS

Insurgents Lose No Ground—They Have the Moral and Material Support of the Party Which Placed Zelaya in Power—Strict Censorship.

New York, March 23.—The revolution in Nicaragua, according to intelligence received through private channels, is more serious than the dispatches from that country would indicate. The strict press censorship established by President Zelaya renders it impossible for news of any character except what is favorable to the government, from being made public. Two facts, however, in the opinion of those thoroughly familiar with existing conditions, seem to be well established. First, that Zelaya is not suppressing the rebellion, and second, that the Hondurian troops which arrived in Nicaragua on Friday last, as the supposed allies of Zelaya, are quite as likely to aid the rebels as to act in concert with the government troops. The first of these facts is based upon the almost certain knowledge that the revolutionists have not lost ground; that they are confident of success since, in every engagement, they have been the aggressors; that they have the moral and material support of the great majority of the liberal party, which placed Zelaya in power, and that the government forces have maintained from the beginning a purely defensive attitude.

Hondurians May Aid Rebels.

The Hondurian troops are now in Nicaragua and at a point midway between Leon and Corinto, in the territory occupied by the rebels. Their present attitude is one of strict neutrality but it is regarded as not improbable that their aid may in the end be given to Baca, the provisional president of the insurgent government. Color is given to this belief by the intimate relations that have long existed between Gen. Orteiz, the commander of the insurgents, and President Bonilla of Honduras who, in point of fact, owes his present elevation to the services rendered in his behalf several years ago by Orteiz. If Honduras espouses Baca's cause, the latter will, it is believed, become victorious, since his troops are armed with modern guns and animated by sentiments of the loftiest patriotism, inasmuch as they are fighting for constitutional liberty and to prevent the alleged dictatorship of Zelaya. Without the aid of Honduras the result is likely to be in doubt for several months at least. Another element of uncertainty is the influence which the Salvadorian peace commission may exert upon the contending factions. That their efforts will result in failure, is believed to be probable. Baca and those associated with him are determined upon the overthrow of Zelaya, while Zelaya, on the other hand, is equally determined upon the suppression of the rebellion, neither side being willing to concede any advantage to the other.

CIVIL SERVICE EXTENDED.

Clerical and Educational Positions at Indian Schools Now Under Its Operations.

Washington, March 23.—The president has issued an order directing the secretary of the interior to amend the classification of the interior department so as to include among the positions classified thereunder and subject to competitive examination all clerical and all educational positions at Indian agencies and Indian schools. The order also provides that Indians shall be eligible for appointment to any of these positions on such test of fitness as may be required by the secretary of the interior and without examination or certification by the civil service commission, but they shall not be transferred from said position to the departmental service.

THE CENSUS OFFICE FIRE.

Most Serious Loss Will Be to the Records Contained in the Building.

Washington, March 23.—The fire yesterday morning in the building occupied by the census office was more serious than at first supposed. The inside of the building was badly damaged, involving a loss of about $20,000, fully insured. Probably the most serious loss will be to the records of the census office contained in the building, some of which were destroyed and all more or less injured by smoke and water. The building was known as Marini's hall and was the place where the Knights of Pythias organization was born.

Quay Victorious.

Lancaster, Pa., March 23.—At the republican primaries in this county congressman Marriott Brosius was renominated without opposition. Practically the entire Quay combination was elected. The vote for presidential preference is very close between Quay and McKinley. With twenty-three districts out Quay leads by 367, and it is probable that Quay will win by a small majority.

Severe Fight with Maceo's Forces.

Madrid, March 23.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says that Gen. Villa has had another severe fight with Maceo's force in the vicinity of Bahia Honda, to the westward of Havana. No details of the battle are given.

The Washington Handicap.

Washington, March 23.—H. G. Crickmore, clerk of the Washington Jockey club, announces that the Blemton stables have declared Henry of Navarre and Dorian out of the race for the Washington handicap.

AGAINST AMERICAN MEATS.

Interesting Debate in the German Unterhaus on Imported Canned Goods.

Berlin, March 23.—An interesting debate arose in the unterhaus on Wednesday during the discussion of an interpellation asking the intentions of the government in regard to dealing with the question of American meats. Prof. Von Mendel launched a prolonged tirade of invective against American corned beef and all canned meats, and in the course of his remarks gave an instance of the wife of a Berlin journalist having been poisoned by the use of such goods. Other similar cases, he said, were not uncommon, and, amid the cheers of the agrarian members of the chamber, he urged that it was not sufficient that American meats should be certified as healthy by American inspectors, but that the whole carcass must be inspected by German inspectors before it could be admitted into the country. In regard to American oleomargarine, he declared that control of the inspection of that product by Americans was inadequate, Americans not having exercised proper sanitary precautions, their interests being solely commercial. Freiherr von Hammerstein-Loxten, minister of agriculture, replied that it was impossible to enclose Prussia within a Chinese wall. He held that the existing precautions were sufficient, and thought that the agrarians could make capital enough out of the alleged cases of Texas fever in German cattle, said to be traceable to the importation of American cattle.

UNITED STATES ATTACKED.

A Remarkable Statement Made by a Well Known Spaniard.

New York, March 23.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Madrid says: Senor Valles y Ribot, the well known federal leader, has just made the following statement: "Although it is absolutely undeniable that the colonial policy of Spain in Cuba has been disastrous and despotic to the point of fully justifying the insurrections which have arisen against various Spanish governments, still the United States is the very last nation justified in raising its voice, as the Spanish policy can in no way be compared to the sanguinary methods employed in American territories which it has forcibly annexed." It is stated on the best authority that the number of vessels available to Spain for naval privateering purposes number nearly 300. This includes many small, almost worthless, boats, the majority being ocean tramps and coastwise traders.

MINERS RECEIVE AN ADVANCE.

Pennsylvania Coal Operators Raise Wages 12 1-2 Per Cent.

Philipsburg, Pa., March 23.—This morning the following notice is posted on the mine tipples of all the mines in the Clearfield, Beech Creek, Cambria and Gallitizin coal regions: "On and after April 1 the employes of this company will be paid forty-five cents per 2,240 pounds for mining. Day labor will be paid the same rates as when this price for mining formerly prevailed." The above notice means an advance to the miners of five cents a ton, or 12 1-2 per cent. over the wages that have prevailed in the above-named regions for the past two years.

PROPOSALS FOR ARBITRATION.

Lord Salisbury Says They Are Now Before the United States Government.

London, March 23.—Lord Salisbury has written a letter to Sir James Stansfield, who was chairman of the recent demonstration in Queen's hall in favor of the principle of arbitration in all disputes between Great Britain and the United States, acknowledging the receipt of the memorial adopted at the meeting. In his letter Lord Salisbury says: "I am glad to be able to inform you that this question is receiving the consideration of her majesty's government, and that proposals in the direction indicated by the memorial are now before the government of the United States."

"UNCLE JIMMY" HOOPER DEAD.

Born in Slavery in 1806, the Old Man Has Just Passed Away.

Lancaster, O., March 23.—"Uncle Jimmy" Hooper, who was born in slavery in 1806, is dead. From his birth to the emancipation of slaves, Hooper was owned by John Kerr of Augusta, Ga. He delighted in his distinction at the age of 18 as the special servant of Gen. Lafayette, when the French officer was a guest of Mr. Kerr in 1824. Hooper was brought to Lancaster in 1862 by Gen. Sherman's family. He enlisted and served under Sherman. He was wounded in battle and for the last few years has lived on his pension.

Cyclist Banker Not Dead.

Pittsburg, March 23.—A cablegram dated Paris has been received in this from Mr. Charron, the manager of Geo. A. Banker, the American cyclist, in which he denies the report sent out from Nice to the effect that Banker had died in that city of typhoid fever. Mr. Charron's cablegram also stated that while the cyclist had been very ill with the fever, he was now slightly better.

Three Perish in Flames.

Danville, Que., March 23.—A double tenement house on Water street, occupied by James Brady and T. R. Staffin with their families, was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Two daughters of Brady and a son of Staffin perished in the flames.

French Chamber of Commerce.

New York, March 23.—Twenty-five of the leading French business men of this city have organized a French chamber of commerce in the rooms of the French consulate in Bowling Green.

Committed Suicide at the Age of 77.

Wayland, N. Y., March 23.—Mrs. Mary Samhammer, aged 77 years, committed suicide by hanging, yesterday.

TO ENDORSE MORTON

Programme of the New York Republican State Convention.

A NUMBER OF GUBERNATORIAL BOOMS

Messrs. Platt, Depew, Lauterbach and Miller Likely To Be Delegates-at-Large to St. Louis—Mr. Southwick for Permanent Chairman.

New York, March 23.—The majority of the delegates to the republican state convention, which will convence tomorrow to elect delegates-at-large to the national convention at St. Louis, have reached this city. They were very much in evidence at the different hotels to-day. During the day the principal topic of discussion indulged in was the national presidency. Morton men, of course, predominated, and the chances of New York's governor for the nomination was glowingly set forth. A number of gubernatorial booms were brought to town by leading delegates, but discussion upon the question did not assume any definite shape. All arrangements for to-morrow's convention are completed and the programme has been practically decided upon. Grand Central palace, where the delegates will assemble, has been elaborately decorated and a seating capacity of 4,000 provided. A large crowd of spectators are expected. The republican league of Albany, 400 strong, and other republican organizations throughout the state will send delegations. The convention will organize at noon with senator Cornelius R. Parsons of Rochester as temporary chairman. After transacting minor routine business, such as the presentation of contests and the appointment of the usual committees, an adjournment will be taken until 7:30 p. m.

The Platform.

When the convention reassembles congressman George N. Southwick of Albany will be the permanent chairman. Unless the slate is suddenly changed Thomas C. Platt, Chauncey M. Depew, Edward Lauterbach and Warner Miller will be chosen as delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention. The naming of the thirty-four presidential electors, representing the congressional districts, and the two electors, representing the United States senators of New York state, will very likely be deferred until the republican state convention in the fall. Although the platform of the convention has not been decisively passed upon by the party leaders, the main features have been drawn up and sanctioned. The leading feature will be the financial plank, which will be a strong declaration in favor of honest money. In addition to expressing unalterable opposition to free silver coinage at the ratia of sixteen to one, or any other ratio, except in the event of an international agreement, it will insist on the maintenance of the public faith with creditors of the nation by maintaining gold payment of all public debts. In this respect it will be a far more pronounced expression than any other financial plank adopted at a state convention thus far during the presidential canvass. The tariff plank will be a strong declaration in favor of the policy of protection to American industry and for reciprocity. This plank will be very short. Another plank will endorse Gov. Morton's candidacy for the presidency, setting forth his qualities as a business man, representing busines interests. The name of Major McKinley is not likely to be brought forward in the convention, but if it does come up, the leaders say, it will be in a very feeble way. The Raines bill, it is said, will not be touched upon, but the greater New York bill is likely to come in for considration.

HONOR SATISFIED.

Gen. Mocenni Wounds Deputy Barzilais in the Face with a Sabre.

Rome, March 23.—The duel between Gen. Mocenni, ex-minister of war, and Signor Barzilais, a radical member of the chamber of deputies, growing out of a wrangle in the chamber during the discussion of the credits asked for by the government, took place yesterday. The weapons used were sabres. Gen. Mocenni proved himself the better swordsman and wounded his opponent in the face. Honor being thus satisfied the duellists became reconciled.

GLADSTONE DENOUNCED.

A Waterbury Clergyman Calls Him the Archhypocrite of the Age.

Waterbury, Conn., March 23.—Rev. William J. Slocum, pastor of the Roman Catholic church of the Immaculate Conception, in his sermon yesterday scathingly denounced William E. Gladstone. He alleged that his attitude towards home rule had been dictated by expediency and not principle. He referred to Gladstone as the archhypocrite of the age.

Broke His Neck.

Erie, Pa., March 23.—Henry F. Freeman, 52 years of age, foreman in Asby & Vincent's printing house, had his neck broken yesterday by falling down stairs at his home, and died a few hours later. He had occasion to get up and made a misstep on the stairs. He leaves a widow and two chilpren.

Peace Negotiations Broken Off.

Rome, March 23.—The Italia says that Gen. Baldissara has broken off the peace negotiation with King Menelik, the latter's demands being excessive. They include the payment by Italy of 25,000 lire in gold.

McKinley seems to be strong with New Jersey Republicans.

This is the last week of the Lazy Legislature. It cannot be judged so far by what it has done.

Even the New Brunswick papers refer to it as the "old town," and The Home News is frank enough to print the following:

New Brunswick is the most modest city in the world. She refuses to retire while the gas is burning, but puts it out at 12 o'clock promptly, and when there is a moon or rather when it is moon time, she just stumbles around without either gas or electricity to protect her pretty feet from her rough sidewalks.

Now the Chancery Court clerkship has been practically settled in favor of Senator Foster M. Voorhees, of Union—says the New York Journal—all eyes are turned in the direction of the State Prison keepership, and the influential position of Chief Labor Inspector. J. Hart Brewer, of Trenton, a man who has sacrificed much for the Republican party; ex-Senator Willetts, of Cumberland, who hasn't the backing of his senatorial representative; Mr. Stokes, and "Bob" Carson, twice postmaster of New Brunswick, are the men whose names are most mentioned in this connection. Thomas McGowan, of Essex, is spoken of as a likely successor to the Factory Inspectorship but, as there are upward of 300 applicants to select from, there is no telling where the lightning may strike.

THEATRICAL.

The new play "Fritz in Love," in which Mr. J. K. Emmet will appear at Music Hall tomorrow night is a comedy drama in three acts, by A. D. Hall, and is said to be brimful of fun. It is a pure wholesome story of every day life and has many strong and interesting situations. It is replete with new songs and dances (specially written and arranged by Mr. Emmet for the play.) The fun is of that healthful kind which everyone can thoroughly enjoy and remember long afterward as one of the pleasant things they have seen and heard. The supporting company has been carefully selected. Among the members are Miss Annie Mortland, Mrs. Hattie F. Nefflen, Miss Grace Pierrepont, Miss Blanche Chatfield, William T. Doyle, Jas. H. Griffith, C. B. Bradford, Geo. Hernandez, Chas. A. Prince, and babies Lillie Sinnott and Florie Loeber.

The survey of Herrmann's baggage and paraphernalia, will undoubtedly bring to mind many suggestions as to how the magician's art has progressed. It was not so long ago that the very best of magicians and prestidigatateurs used to carry all their apparatus in one trunk and two trunks usually constituted the entire paraphernalia of a wizard's outfit; but times have changed and the magician's art has kept pace with them. Herrmann's outfit fills one extire baggage car and consists of nearly two hundred trunks, including a complete calcium and electric lighting apparatus. Where the old magician only had one assistant. Herrmann has seventeen experienced artisans, performers and mechanics. Herrmann at Music Hall, Wednesday, March 25th, will present his beautiful spectacular magi-comed, "The Artist's Dream," in which he will appear in the character of Mephisto, and Adelaide Herrmann in the role of the young aritst. Besides this, his new illusion may be called patriotic, comical and marvelous and embraces the astonishing oriental marvel, "The Asiatic Trunk Mystery," "Trilby," and the bewildering national specacle, "The Columbian Transformation."

Sandow, whose wonderful tests of physical power are exciting enormous interest, continues a potent attraction at Proctor's Pleasure Palace. He has revived the private receptions for ladies, which became quite a fashionable fad when he first visited New York. Immediately following his afternoon exhibitions, the athletic illustrates his system of physical culture, the daily attendance being limited to fifteen, and ladies being required to apply to the management in advance for special invitation cards. An important musical feature is the American debut of Mlle. Selma, a soprano of European renown who was for three years a pupil of Marchesi, and whose operatic work in France won the special recognition of Massenci, San-Saens and the late Ambroise Thomas, under whom she studied her initial role of Mignon. Mlle. Selma is the most important operatic singer to essay vaudeville in America, and her compensation reaches the neat sum of $200 for each appearance.

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Everyone does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. BUSINESS MEN WIN AT BASKET BALL.

The Regular Players Astonished by the Expertness of the Older Men.

Probably one of the most exciting basket ball games ever seen in this city, and certainly a very interesting one for the spectators, was played Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between two local teams. One was the regular Y. M. C. A. team which was composed entirely of young men and the other was a team from the business men's gymnasium class and included a number of Plainfield's well-known citizens. The fight was a hot one throughout, but the last half was particularly warm when the regulars saw defeat staring them in the face. But despite their efforts the business men won the game by a score of 5 to 3.

The regulars had the advantage of experience in match games while the business men have never played except among themselves. Of course the regulars expected to win, but when Captain Doane of the opposing team made the first goal by a pretty throw from the field their eyes began to open. The line-up at the start was as follows:

REGULARS.		BUSINESS MEN.
Lederer	right forward	O'Donnell
Jessup	right wing	Fuller
E. Moraller	centre	Hazell
	left wing	Van Fleet
M. Moraller	right guard	Maxson

Victor Christofferson, referee; Steven Joseph, Charles B. Morse, umpires; Webster Littell, timekeeper.

The team play and the dodging of the regulars was apparently the best and at the start they kept the ball near their opponent's goal most of the time, but the long arms of Egan and the activity of Maxson kept the ball from going into the basket. When Doane and O'Donnell were given the ball, however, it was easy to see that they were more accurate in throwing at the basket. The regular guards gave their opponents very little chance to try for the goal but never the less the business men had three field goals to their opponents two in the first half. Doane also threw one goal on a foul. One of Doane's goals was a very pretty one, being thrown from the side and landing fairly in the basket. Perhaps the prettiest playing was done by the Moraller brothers who were continually fooling their opponents by quick dodges and passes. Hazell had a hard fall, landing on his head, toward the close of the first half, but pluckily resumed play.

The first half ended with the score 4 to 2 in favor of the business men.

Several changes were made in both teams for the second half. On the regulars, Smith went to forward, which is the position at which he made such a reputation on the High School team, while Lederer took his former place at guard. On the other team, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell withdrew, Hazell took his place and Philliy Suffren filled Hazell's old position at wing. It may be noted that the regulars were playing with only six men and the other team with seven. This was owing to some misunderstanding and was not discovered until the game was concluded.

The second half was a rousing one and the fight chiefly centered about the business men's goal. Colthar and Egan had a lively time together and Egan turned a complete somersault over Colthar's back, while scraping for the ball. Superintendant Maxson, of the public schools, looked after Smith and kept him hustling. Time after time the ball was thrown at the basket but it ran around the edge and went everywhere but in the basket. Finally someone said "foul" and the players stopped. The umpire's whistle had not blown and Smith took in the situation and sent the ball into the basket. The business men secured one more goal this half by another of Doane's accurate throws. When the time-keeper remarked that there were only only five minutes more to play, the game grew more and more exciting. The good sized audience cheered and applauded while all on the floor played their hardest.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Man after man tumbled over an opponent in his efforts to get the ball, and whenever the ball was sent into a corner, it was the signal for a lively scrimmage. The referee's whistle blew for time and the Business Men marched from the field jubilant over their victory.

Another game will be arranged between the teams when they will meet on even terms. It was the general opinion at the close of the game, however, that the difference in numbers was not wholly accountable for the result.

Doane made all five of the business men's goals, four from the field and one on a foul. Lederer, Smith and Jessup threw them for the other side, all from the field.

On the regulars, fouls were made by Colthar, Lederer, M. Moraller and Jessup. O'Donnell and Fuller made them on the side of the business men.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The turning section of the Gesang and Turn Verein will go to Paterson next Sunday and take part in the annual turn day events. Societies from all parts of the State will be represented.

The Elizabeth Athletic Club has decided that for the first time in several years the club will not be represented this season in the ball field by a semi-professional team. There is much disappointment over this announcement among the lovers of baseball in Elizabeth. The club will, however, put in the field as strong a purely amateur team as can be obtained.

The Sportsmen's Club met Friday evening, when the members paid their dues for the year. The board of directors were authorized to purchase game and liberate them on the 2,000 acres, which has been secured at Samptown, near South Plainfield. They will purchase 240 quail and 100 rabbits. The farmers in that section will become members of the club and thus assist in protecting the game.

At the entertainment to be given in the Gesang and Turn Verein Hall, Monday evening, April 13th, there will be exhibition turning by the pupils and the turning section. A class from the Newark section will also be present. They are undoubtedly the best team on horizontal bar work in this section of the country. Two acrobats, who have travelled with the Barnum & Bailey show, will accompany them. The profits from the affair will be used to purchase new apparatus for the hall.

The executive committee of the Interschoolastic Athletic Association met at the home of George P. Smith, of the High School, Saturday. The following baseball schedule was adopted:

April 18—Montclair High School against Plainfield, at Plainfield.
April 18—Pingry against Newark Academy, at Elizabeth.
April 25—Montclair High School against Stevens Institute, at Montclair.
April 25—Plainfield High School against Pringry, at Plainfield.
May 6—Stevens Institute against Newark Academy, at Newark.
May 16—Stevens Institute against Plainfield High School, at Hoboken.
May 16—Montclair High School against Pringry, at Elizabeth.
May 23—Plainfield High School against Newark Academy, at Newark.
May 23—Pingry against Stevens Institute, at Hoboken.
May 27—Montclair High School against Newark Academy, at Montclair.

The events for the State Meet to be held on the grounds of the New Jersey Athletic Club, Bergen Point, Saturday, June 6th, were adopted as follows:

100-yards dash; 100-yards dash, for boys under 16 years of age; 220-yards dash; 440-yards dash; 1-mile run; 220-yards hurdle, 10 hurdles, 2 feet 6 inches; 1-mile walk; high jump; running broad jump; pole vault; putting shot, 12 pounds; throwing hammer, 12 pounds; 1-mile bicycle race.

The following committees were then appointed to arrange for the meet:

Officials and Badges—George P. Smith, Plainfield.
Medals—W. Cornwell, Plainfield; C. T. Myers, Pingry.
Printing—C. T. Myers, Pingry.
Programmes—G. G. Standford, Stevens Institute; H. Schultz, Newark Academy.

The committee on medals was given power to expend $195 for medals, making an average of about $15 for each event. It is expected that there will be eighty entries.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Charles Betts has purchased a Relay wheel with blue rims and yellow stripes.

The Crescent Wheelmen have received their sanction for a Decoration Day race meet.

AT THE TRAPS.

Neaf Apgar, of this city, the crack shot, is entered in the live-bird tournament of the Inter-State Association which begins today at Elkwood Park, near Branchport, N. J.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Millinery Opening.

The spring millinery opening at Edsall's Commercial Palace will take place on next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There will be a very fine exhibition of round hats, bonnets and toques in Parisian and domestic novelties, flowers, elegant foliage and high-class millinery of latest fashions, at much lower figures than in New York.

—At the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held last Friday evening, a handsome pin was presented to the president, Mrs. Brokaw, designating her as Assistant National Inspector.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

It is not a miracle. It wont cure everything, but it will cure piles. That's what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will do, because it has done it in hundreds of cases. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

METHODIST CONGRESS.

Soon to Meet at Cleveland in Quadrennial Session.

Functions of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church—Men Who Will Be Prominent in Its Deliberations.

[Special Cincinnati (O.) Letter.]

This important ecclestiastical body will meet in Cleveland, O., May 1, 1896.

It will be composed of ministerial and lay representatives from all of the 125 annual conferences and as many lay conferences of this great denomination. There will probably be about 540 accredited members in the conference.

The 17,000 itinerant preachers are represented by one for every 45 members of an annual conference, and the 2,800,000 lay members by two lay delegates for every lay conference, except where the annual conference with which it quadrates has but one, in which case there is but one layman. In the last general conference there were 315 ministerial and 189 lay delegates. This inequality of members has caused not a little friction in some places, but it is nearly counterbalanced by the arrangement that although both orders deliberate and vote as one body they may vote separately on any question on the demand of one-third of either order; and when a separate vote is taken the concurrent vote of both orders is necessary to complete an action. Still there is considerable agitation in favor of equalizing the representation. The principal objection is that it would make the legislative body too unwieldy and that the separate vote ought to continue and even on many subjects be made mandatory.

From the organization of the church in 1784 till 1872 the general conference was composed wholly of ministers. During three-quarters of the century an agitation was kept up—chiefly by ministers—for the admission of laymen to participation in the responsibilities of the general conference, but the laity were comparatively uninterested, and even when asked to vote on the question in 1865 they refused it. But the preachers and some laymen finally succeeded in getting a change of mind, in those who voted, and in 1872 laymen were admitted to the conference. One of the problems before the next conference will be how to accomplish equality of representation and not cause the legislative body to become a huge mass meeting.

The general conference meets once in four years and has "full power to make rules and regulations" for the church subject to six restrictions that protect: 1, the doctrines; 2, the membership of the general conference; 3, the episcopal form of government; 4, the general rules of the church; 5, the right of trial and appeal to ministers or members, and 6, the proceeds of the book concern and chartered fund. These things cannot be changed save by three-fourths of the members of the annual conferences—ministers—and two-thirds of the general conference. Outside of these things there is really no limit, legislative, judicial or executive, to the power of the general conference. Many see the peril of this state of things and earnestly advocate the further restriction of the power of the general conference, especially as to its passing judicially on its own legislative acts. There is a strong sentiment in the most influential quarters favorable to a new constitution, and this will be one of the most weighty and difficult problems before the next conference. It is probable they will not attempt to mature such a document, but will rather arrange for the election by the annual and lay conferences of a constitutional convention.

The relation of the bishops to the church and to the general conference is peculiar. In other churches, having bishops, these officers usually have a decisive control in the government of the church. But while the fathers of Methodism in this country believed the episcopal form of government the best, they decided on having "a moderate episcopacy," one that would be subject to the elderate and charged with the distinct work of superintending. These fathers were all familiar with an episcopacy that limits each officer to a specific field or diocese, but they ordained that their incumbents should be coequal in authority over the whole church, and so styled them "general superintendents," and their episcopacy they called a "general superintendency." Consequently, when a bishop in this church dies, there is no "vacancy" created, but the general conference may think it well to "strengthen the episcopacy" by electing one or more additional men to the office. Were these bishops diocesian, then the diocese would elect, but because they are general superintendents only, the general conference can elect.

Before the general conferences became in 1812 delegated bodies, the bishops, as elders—primus inter pares—were members of that body with full privileges of members, but since that time they have been simply presidents of the conference, with no right to even give a casting vote in case of an equal division. Neither are they recognized as a separate house with a veto authority. In the general conference of 1888, in New York, when the question of enrolling the names of five women who had been elected to serve as delegates came up in the organization of the conference, the bishops, as presidents, and, as they argued, responsible for the lawful procedure of the inchoate body until it became fully organized, assumed authority to withhold those names, seeing formal protest against enrolling them had been lodged with the bishops.

For this they were sharply censured by the friends of the admission of women, and at once other arrangements were made to provide for such cases in the future. There is no special danger that the Methodist episcopacy will become a hierarchy. Indeed, the jealousy against anything that even seems to look in that direction is sometimes extreme. Nevertheless, the church is full of the highest respect for its episcopacy and the vast power of the appointment of 17,000 pastors annually to the charge of nearly 28,000 local church organizations is a tremendous responsibility. There are at present 16 general superintendents, of whom Bishop Thomas Bowman is the senior, both in age and office. He was born July 15, 1817, and elected bishop in 1872.

The general conference prepares its work in a dozen large committees, composed of members from each annual conference. As there are about 125 of these, it will be seen that each committee is larger than many of the early general conferences. In addition to these, there are usually appointed a score or more special committees, to whom is sent the less easily classified business.

As there is but one house and no provision for a veto, or even for a challenge, of any act of the general conference, it follows that by a mere majority vote most important, if not even revolutionary, actions may be taken. This is admittedly one of the most serious perils of the denomination, and one that more powerfully than any other, cries out for the much-discussed new constitution.

The men who have most occupied the attention of the conferences for several quadrenniums are Drs. Buckley, Neely, Kynett, Little and Leonard. The first named is the versatile and brilliant editor of the Christian Advocate, in New York city. There is considerable talk of electing him bishop, while many others ask forcibly why remove from the editorial fraternity one so eminently qualified for that position, especially seeing "editors are born, not made." Dr. Neely is probably one of the most profound students of Methodist history and polity that can be found anywhere. He is an author of distinction. In 1892 he came near being chosen corresponding secretary of the board of education. He has served with acceptability in the office of presiding elder in the city of Philadelphia, and is now successfully serving the Union church in that city as its pastor.

Dr. Kynett is the veteran father of the great board of church extension, having first formed its plans in his own Iowa, and has served as its corresponding secretary since 1867. He is also prominently connected with the national anti-saloon movement, as a member of its executive committee and chairman of the Methodist general conference permanent committee on temperance and prohibition.

Dr. Little is the president of the Garrett Biblical institute of the Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill. He is widely known as a successful educator, and he wields a trenchant pen.

Dr. Leonard has for eight years been one of the corresponding secretaries of the missionary society. Not long before, that genius of a phrase maker, Murat Halsted, gave him abundant free advertising in the Cincinnati Commercial because he had the temerity to run for governor of Ohio on the prohibition ticket without the consent of his political opponents.

Each of these gentlemen has his admirers, who insist that the favorite should, at the first chance, be made a bishop. As they are all good men, the church would not suffer if they all were bishops. BUCKEYE.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites is still coming to the rescue. Out-door life, fresh air, and good pluck are of immense value. But in addition to these the body must be supplied with that peculiar kind of fat which is found only in cod-liver oil; combined with valuable medicinal agents; and there must be the tonic effect which comes from the hypophosphites. It is a great battle, and a great victory is often gained.

RUNS THROUGH THE SEA.

Wonderful Electric Road Now in Course of Construction.

Tracks Rest on the Bed of the Ocean But Are Anchored So That the Force of the Water Cannot Displace Them.

[Written for This Paper.]

Most railroads are stopped by a flood, but there is one being built between Rottingdean and Brighton, England, known as the Brighton & Rottingdean Seashore Electric tramway that just glories in deep water. It is really an elevated railway, with its tracks at the bottom instead of in the air, and the structural iron work moves along with the train. Should the trolley happen to leave the wire or the current cease from any cause the passengers can be taken off in life boats, one of which is shown.

Rottingdean is a seashore village 2¾ miles from Brighton. It is quite a popular resort, but transportation facilities were not of the best. Magnus Volk, of the electric railway of Brighton, conceived the idea of constructing an electric road between the two places, as the popularity of both of them seemed to promise a large amount of travel. Several difficulties confronted Mr. Volk after he had got as far as the idea. It was advisable to build on the seashore on account of the ocean view being preferable to the inland scenery. But the shore consists of high cliffs that are not of the same height, and presented many difficult engineering problems to be overcome, which would make construction expensive. To build at the shore line would not do, as the tide would cover the tracks twice a day, even if the water did not throw them out of alignment.

THE PASSENGER CAR AND ITS FOUNDATION

Most men would have given up the project when confronted with these seemingly insurmountable difficulties. Mr. Volk, however, had determined to build an electric railway. He continued to study the situation, which seemed so fruitless to his friends who were acquainted with his desire. At last his brain began to evolve the conception of the road which is now described, and is different from anything heretofore constructed, for it is apparently one of the things that King Solomon said didn't exist, something new under the sun.

He decided to construct his tracks after the manner of other railroad tracks on the bed of the ocean, but anchored in such a way that they could not be displaced. The car was to be elevated so that it could be operated at high tide as easily as at low tide. To do this it was necessary to do all the track work at low tide, which made progress rather slow. Concrete blocks at three-foot intervals were mortised into the solid rock, the height of the blocks varying with the grade, for the tracks are level. On these concrete ties were laid two rails with a gauge of 2 feet 8½ inches. Another line of blocks was set at points, so that of the two rails laid thereon in the same manner as the first two the distance between the outside rails of each pair would be 18 feet. This was imperative to give the necessary stability to the car. At high tide the height of water over the road bed is 15 feet. The track stood the severe storms of last winter without any damage at all to the permanent way, so it has been demonstrated that it possesses ample strength to withstand the force of the sea.

On these rails a sort of iron bridge with a platform, having room for 150 people, will be operated. There are four main legs or tubes of drawn steel 11 inches in diameter. At the bottom of each is a bogie truck having four wheels of 33 inches diameter, making a 16-wheeled car. The four bogies are held together by steel tubular struts, the wheel base being about 28 feet and the gauge 18 feet. These dimensions give great stability, and it will be impossible for the buffeting of the waves to tip it over. The tops of the main legs are built into lattice girder work, which carries the floor of the car, or deck, whichever may be the proper term. It is similar in design to the main deck of a yacht, being 50 feet long and 22 feet wide, and is 24 feet above the top of the rails, which will give passengers rather a pleasant sensation as they appear to be floating in air, and wondering if they will run over a fish, or something else that is likely to throw them off the track. The center space of the deck is given up to the saloon, which is attractively decorated. The roof makes a promenade deck, while inside the railing that surrounds both decks are the seats for passengers.

On the upper deck is placed the controlling apparatus for the motive power. It is not expected to develop great speed, on account of the resistance of the water, and because it will not be necessary, as the people will take the trip to enjoy the sea air and on account of its novelty. Electricity will be used to propel the car, two 30-horse-power motors being used. At first it was intended to adopt storage batteries, but it would require so many that their weight, in addition to the 40 tons of the structure and 20 tons of passengers, would be too great for practical use. It was, therefore, decided to adopt the overhead trolley. As no engineer would estimate officially the pressure of current that would be required to propel the car, on account of the many elements that would retard its progress—its great weight, friction of the rails, wind resistance and water resistance—the town authorities have declined to give a permit to erect an overhead trolley or to use steam to determine how much power would be required, although the road is completed. The engineers of the company say that a pressure of 500 volts, the pressure used by all street railways, will be sufficient to move the car at a speed of from six to eight miles an hour.

Motion is given to the 16 wheels on the rails by means of shafting in the four tubular legs, that have been described. The motors are placed over the two legs at each end of the car. They move the shafting, which is geared to toothed gearing that actuates the wheels. The brakes are worked by rods, which pass down the legs. It is thought that the inertia of the car and its load will be very great, and thus minimize the amount of power required to move it, very slow speed being used to start.

Iron piers have been built at Brighton and Rottingdean large enough to serve as a promenade. Facilities have been provided for the landing of pleasure boats, as well as making terminals for the electric railway. The offices are in a handsome structure on the Brighton pier.

JAMES BOYD.

Net Curtains.

For inexpensive draperies to be made at home, one of the most suitable materials is white net, either in plain mesh or very finely dotted. If one has but little leisure for needlework the front and lower hems may simply be edged with a three-inch ruffle of oriental lace. These curtains should be looped back about two feet from the sill. If one wishes, these same curtains may be made very elaborate by darning with Hamburg knitting silk. Almost any pattern can be followed out in this work, either a regular darning pattern, cross-stitch design, crocheted edge, or even a knitting pattern. Either white or colored silk may be used, but white would be considered the most refined. Instead of the lace ruffle, the edges may be buttonholed with the silk, if one has time and patience. Very pretty sash curtains are fashioned from the same material. Sash curtains should be darned only across the bottom about two inches above the hem, which may be invisibly hemmed with Asiatic honiton lace silk or feather-stitched with the same silk with which the darning was done.—N. Baltimore Woman's Novel Will.

There has been unearthed among a bundle of old court documents at Baltimore the following unique will executed by Mrs. Anna E. Kuhn years ago. It reads as follows: "This is my last will and testament. I bequeath all my jewelry to Kate, my old clothes to Anna, my books to Frank, my good wishes to Herman and Philip, and request that they go to church at least six times a year, and a sweet memory of myself to my loving better half, and also my inheritance from my father to go to Anna and Kate jointly. My last wish. Anna E. Kuhn."

IN WASHINGTON'S HONOR.

Monument to Commemorate the Birthplace of Our First President.

The movement to erect a monument in honor of George Washington at the place of his birth has recently taken definite shape and may be regarded as among the accomplishments of the near future. Last year congress appropriated $11,000 in furtherance of the project. The design submitted by John Crawford & Son, of Buffalo, has been accepted. The site of the house in which Washington was born, which is determined now only by a scattering pile of broken bricks and mortar from the chimney, is about 1½ miles from the Potomac, at a point where that river is about seven miles wide, and about 600 or 700 feet from Pope's creek, formerly Bridge's creek. This "creek" at this point is about three-quarters of a mile wide and very shallow, not more than four feet wide at high tide, and separated from the Potomac by a sandbar across the mouth of it.

The monument will stand 51 feet above the cement foundation, the monolith shaft rising 40 feet 4 inches above the base. The shaft will spring from a foundation 14 feet square and 8 feet high. Dressed down the shaft will weigh about 36 tons. Above this will rise the stone of the first base, 12 feet square and one foot eight inches high. On this will rest the second base, nine feet three inches square and three feet high. Above this will be the die upon which the inscription will be cut, and this will be six feet five inches square and four feet ten inches high. The plinth just above it will be four feet five inches square and one foot two inches high. The shaft that will spring from this will be three feet eight inches square and will rise 40 feet 4 inches above the plinth. On the die of the monument is cut the inscription:

BIRTHPLACE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.

On the lowest foundation will be the following:

"Erected by the United States, A. D. 1895."

The shaft will be visible from passing steamers and will divide with Mount Vernon the interest of the Potomac tourist.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

Frye, of Maine, Honored by the Republicans in the Senate.

The selection of Senator William P. Frye, by a unanimous vote, as president pro tem. of the United States senate is a deserved tribute to one of the ablest men now in public life in this country. In point of practical capacity for affairs, breadth of statesmanship, and conscientiousness of purpose, Mr. Frye has no superior in the republican ranks. In point of cleanliness of record he measures up to the highest ideas. As an orator he has few superiors, and there is no senator who brings to the discussion of economic questions larger information or a more convincing logic than he habitually does. He has probably no aspirations to the presidency, but if the republicans of Maine were to agree upon him as a candidate he would prove a formidable competitor to the candidates now in the field.

SENATOR WILLIAM P. FRYE.

Four Duchesses in the Family.

There are four duchesses of Marlborough now living. These are Consuelo, reigning duchess; Lillian, wife of Sir William Beresford; Fanny, the grandmother of the present duke and mother of the late Randolph Churchill, and Jane, widow of the late sixth duke. These do not include Lady Blandford, who was divorced before the late duke reached his title.

How a Girl Catches a Ball.

When a girl tries to catch a ball she throws her arms wide apart, waits until the ball hits her on the nose, turns her hands with a windmill motion, runs after the ball, picks it up, brushes her hair out of her eyes and smiles, as though her way of doing it cannot be improved upon.

YOUNG CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

Executive Committee of Baptist Christian Endeavorers Meet.

The Executive Committee of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church, met Saturday evening at the home of Dr. D. J. Yerkes, West Seventh street, with President Henry Crane in the chair. With one or two exceptions, every member was present. The matter of selecting committees was taken up. The list was not entirely completed, and as soon as it is, they will be announced. A resolution was adopted that the treasurer pay the secretary of the Convention Committee $5, which amount is to be devoted to preliminary expenses. Another resolution was adopted that the society purchase a box and place it in the vestibule of the church, for the purpose of receiving contributions, which will go toward the expenses of the coming State Convention. Great stress was placed on the fact that there is a great deal of work to be done before the convention meets, and everyone was urged to do as much as possible. The members discussed plans for the work this coming year and each one agreed to do all in their power to make the society all that it should be. Another meeting will be held at an early date to transact further business.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Grisly, of Arlington avenue, is recovering from a severe illness.

William Carter, the Manning avenue florist, is the proud father of twins.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Cox and daughter left town yesterday for Old Point Comfort.

Rev. Arthur Crane, of Carleton avenue, has returned from his evangelistic work in the west.

Frank Linbarger, of Elizabeth, has returned home after a pleasant visit with Plainfield friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pangborn, of Scotch Plains, are rejoicing over the arrival of a young daughter.

Miss Mary Brown, of East Ninth street, will entertain a number of her friends on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Leland, of Elmwood place, is ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue.

Miss Florence White, of West Front street, is now improving steadily, and hopes of her speedy recovery are entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of New York, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Mulford, of West Ninth street and Central avenue.

Miss Mabel Schenck, of Somerville, returned to her home this morning after a short visit with relatives on East Second street.

W. E. Martin, manager of the Postal Telegraph office of this city, was called to his home in Annapolis, Md., again last night by the serious illness of his sister. Charles Latourette has charge of the office during his absence.

Funeral of Miss Minford.

The funeral services of the late Miss Mary T. Minford were held this morning at 10:30 from the home of her parents, 517 East Front street. The attendance of friends was quite large. Rev. Dr. Rodman of Grace P. E. church officiated. His remarks were full of love and comfort to the bereaved ones, who are so sadly afflicted. A quartette, consisting of Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Clawson, Elmer E. Runyon and Arthur Freeman, rendered several touching selections. The floral tributes were profuse and very beautiful, consisting of several large pillows, a cross and smaller pieces. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery, Westchester county, New York.

Special Musical Service.

A special musical service was given in the Crescent Avenue church last night. There was a short address by Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., and a number of selections from Stainer's "The Crucifiction" were sung. The regular choir was assisted by Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. M. L. Clausen, Mrs. Harry Martin and Fred. W. Walz. There was a large attendance.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Among the latest purchasers of wheels from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company are: Col. M. W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, a Cleveland, model 32; W. H. Brokaw, of West Front street, a Crescent, No. 1; E. D. Murphy, of Sandford avenue, a Crescent, No. 2, and George H. Creveling, of West Front street, a Crescent, No. 2.

Miss Livingston, of Somerset street, will ride a Cleveland wheel, model 23.

Edgar I. Serrell and Meredith Dryden rode to New Brunswick yesterday on a '96 Cleveland tandem. Albert Woltmann accompanied them on a single wheel.

Mrs. Louis G. Timpson, of East Sixth street, is the owner of a new model 23, Cleveland wheel.

Harry VanEmburgh's head pin record of 114, came very near being broken Saturday night by Wheaton S. Lowry. In ten frames he rolled 98, but two breaks knocked out his chances.

—The rails for the Dunellen extension of the street railway are being placed along West Front street in readiness to be laid.

—The Thursday afternoon classes of the Dalziel Grammer, Manual and Art school for the study of natural history will be commenced next month.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Feminine Voices in Grace Church.

The addition of feminine voices to the surplice choir of the Grace P. E. church was tried for the first time yesterday and proved very satisfactory. The young women that sang were the Misses Smith, Egan, Costellis and Woodward, sopranos; and the Misses Newell, Collier and Tingley, altos.

CAUSES OF THE FLOOD.

A DAILY PRESS REPORTER INVESTIGATES BOUND BROOK'S POSITION.

Many People Think That the Railroad Embankments at That Point Are the Real Cause of Several Overflows.

The two recent floods at Bound Brook have caused much speculation regarding their general cause and why it is that two should come the same year, when hitherto they have been about fourteen years apart. Of course they were primarily brought on by the severe storms, but every year has its heavy rains. The two floods in the same year, however, would seem to prove that the physical conditions have been recently changed so as to increase the liability of floods. Plainfield is interested in the troubles of her near neighbor and a few days ago a Daily Press reporter went over the ground and interviewed a number of Bound Brook residents regarding the causes and possible remedies, if any, for those frequent inundations of the borough.

"Everybody in town," said one, "has his own theory regarding the causes, and so many different ones have been suggested that we don't know which to believe."

The situation was then explained. Bound Brook is located on the banks of the Raritan river. Below the town the river makes a turn to the east while the flat lands extend to the east of the town. Above Bound Brook, the valley broadens although the river channel itself is not very wide. The narrowest part of the Raritan in the vicinity, is opposite the centre of the town where the Delaware and Raritan canal on one side and the Port Reading railrod embankment on the other form high banks for the river. When the Millstone river and the North and South Branches send an unusually large quantity of water into the Raritan, the low lands above the town are flooded. When the narrow place in the river is reached there is not sufficient outlet for this large body of water and it is thrown back west of the town. The numerous bridges and culverts in the embankments of the Port Reading, Lehigh Valley, and Central New Jersey railroads furnish openings which allows the water to flow northward into the western part of the borough. About one-half of a mile west of the town proper, Middle brook empties into the Raritan river, bringing with it the torrents that flow through the notch near Chimney Rock.

The bridge on the Jersey Central Railroad embankment is quite low and the opening beneath it is not large enough to allow a free passage for the flood. The water in the brook meets another obstacle in the backwater from the Raritan, which has forced its way under the bridges in the different embankments. These two forces unite and follow the north side of the railroad embankments until they reach the town. The tracks of the Bound Brook division of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad leave the main line of the Jersey Central Railroad about a mile west of Bound Brook and cross the Raritan. This bridge and the bridges of the Lehigh Valley and Port Reading railroads adjoining, also tend to throw the high water in the Raritan river along the northern side of the railroad embankments, into the town.

East of the town the situation is somewhat similar. The high water in the Raritan comes back under the bridges in the railroad embankments and meets the high water in Green or Bound Brook, and the water is forced into the eastern end of the town.

The dam on the Raritan river, about a mile below Bound Brook, is said to assist in forcing the water back under the embankments. Of course, when the water is sufficiently high, the two floods meet in the centre of the town, and Bound Brook is again flooded.

An additional source of discomfort is a sewer built to drain the lower part of the town on the northern side of the three embankments and connecting with the river. In time of flood the sewer works backward and a stream of water is poured into the town.

The remedies suggested have been many and one is already under way. The Philadelphia and Reading railroad has increased the length of its span over the Raritan river. One prominent Bound Brook citizen proposes that Main street, the scene of most of the damage of last month's flood, be raised several feet at the cost of the borough and that the buildings be raised by their owners. The entire cost, he says, will not be over $150,000. Another plan is that embankments or dykes be erected at both ends of the town to keep the water back. Some think that should the Central Jersey railroad increase the height of its embankment, it would keep the Raritan, which floods the tracks at very high water, in the vicinity of the Middle Brook bridge, out of the town.

The Bound Brook Board of Trade has discussed the matter and a full report of the subject will be made at the next meeting.

RETURN IMPOSSIBLE, HE SAYS.

Commander Booth Will Stick to His New Forces.

Commander Ballington Booth's determination not to return to the fold of the Salvation Army grows in strength in proportion to the influences brought to bear upon him to take that step.

When visited by a reporter yesterday at the office of the American Volunteers, in the Bible House, he said:

"I wish to most emphatically say that I will never go back to the Salvation Army under any possible circumstances as Commander or soldier. I will stick to the American Volunteers through thick and thin, and rise or sink with my new command.

"Mrs. Booth-Tucker is my favorite sister. I shall be most pleased to meet her and Booth Tucker, but will not consider any proposition looking toward my return.

"As I said before, I have severed all connection with the Salvation Army, and will not answer any remarks made by its leaders, not even the reference of Commissioner Eva Booth, in Chicago, to me as a serpent. After the treatment I have received at the hands of International Headquarters return is impossible."

AN EVENING SOCIAL.

Pleasant Time Spent at a Watchung Avenue Home.

An enjoyable social and dance was held at the residence of J. Owen Smith, 333 Watchung avenue, last evening. Prof. Guttman furnished the music. Refreshments were enjoyed about midnight. Among those present were: Miss Mollie Feller, Miss Mamie Grimes, Miss Blanche Brizard, Miss Mamie Shaeffer, Miss Maggie Ryan, Miss Emma Angleman, Miss Pendon, Misses Ella, Louise and Annie Baker, Miss Annie Negley, and Miss Nellie Van Zandt, of Somerville, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Seals, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. H. W. Angleman, and Messrs. Henry Ryno, George Shaeffer, William Trembath, Fred Meeker, Mr. Drake, Al. Squires, Will Clifton, Arthur Ford and Gilbert Apgar.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ORGANIZE.

S. St. John McCutchen Re-elected President of the Borough Board.

The North Plainfield Board of School Trustees met in the schoolhouse last evening and organized by re-electing S. St. John McCutchen as president, and Ezra Loomis as secretary. The Easter vacation time was set from March 27th to April 7th. The president appointed J. H. VanWinkle and A. V. D. Honeyman a committee on rules, and J. H.VanWinkle,A.V.D. Honeyman and R. M. Fountain a committee to make a thorough examination of the school in every detail. They are to present a written report at the next meeting in April.

Home Mission Women to Meet.

The Woman's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions, of the Presbytery of Elizabeth, will hold their twelfth annual meeting in the Presbyterian church, Roselle, on Friday, at ten oclock a. m. The morning will be devoted to business with reports of the year's work. At the afternoon session, two p. m., the cause of the Freedmen will be presented by Mrs. B. W. Miller, of Germantown, Pa., and Mrs. F. H. Pierson will talk upon work in the South and West. Entertainment will be provided by the ladies of the church. A delegation from this city will attend.

—Thieves broke into John Graff's store, on Julien place, opposite the Central Railroad station, Elizabeth, Sunday night, and stole more than $100 worth of razors, combs, brushes and clipping machines. The robbery was reported to the police.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

GOT THE COLD HAND.

FOR TRYING TO KEEP PEOPLE FROM HAVING COLD FEET.

Continuance of the Sidewalk Cleaning Crusade in the City Court This Morning—More of the Victims Fined $3.

Probably the most abused man in the employ of the city, at the present time, is Street Commissioner Meeker. He has been trying to enforce the ordinance regarding the removing of snow from the sidewalks, and for all the trouble he has had in doing his duty he has received nothing but the cold shoulder from his victims.

Most of those against whom he complained, who did not appear last Saturday, came up this morning and they all pleaded guilty and received the same sentence as the others, a fine of $3 or ten days in jail. Everybody paid.

Everybody did not take the complaint alike. One prominent man came up to the courtroom evidently in no happy humor. His sidewalk had been partially cleaned off, so said the Street Commissioner. The man himself said the hard-packed snow that could not be removed until the the sun came out was all that remained on the sidewalk.

"My sidewalk was cleaner than the street crossings," said the man as he glanced at the Street Commissioner. The latter smiled resignedly.

Another of the citizens to appear took the matter more as a joke.

"I suppose I had better take the ten days," he said, as he felt for his pocketbook. "I would save board. Where do you send the Elizabeth or Trenton?" And then he inquired regarding the accommodations. But he paid the fine, however.

THREE SCORE AND TEN.

Mrs. A. J. Clarkson Celebrates Her Seventieth Birthday With a Party.

Mrs. A. J. Clarkson, of Stelle avenue, celebrated her birthday last evening, having reached the ripe old age of three score years and ten. The evening was spent in a very social manner. At an early hour a delicious supper was served. The rest of the evening was devoted to the usual gaities. During the evening Nathan King rendered a vocal selection in his pleasing manner.

Mrs. Clarkson received many handsome presents. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clarkson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Shotwell, Mr. Freeman Shotwell, Mr. and Mrs. S. Van Fleet and daughter, Mr. Nathan King, of Brooklyn, Mrs. C. H. King, of Loraine, Mr. and Mrs. Goodman, Miss Garretson, Mrs. VanZandt, Mrs. J. E. Tyrrell and daughter Mildred, Mrs. Harriet Dunning, of Westfield, Miss Clarkson, Mr. Belloes, Mr. and Mrs. John Doty, of Green Brook, and Mrs. Morris

FORTY WOMEN REVOLTED.

Perth Amboy Daughters of Liberty Objected to Gray.

Perth Amboy is excited over the split in Liberty Council, No. 10, Daughters of Liberty. William Gray organized and tried to run the lodge. The women objected, and when Gray had himself elected Councillor more than forty of the women promptly left the society and joined the Daughters of America. The dissenters are led by Mrs. Mary Larkin, who is Gray's foremost opponent.

Union Republicans Organizing.

The Union County Republican Executive Committee has organized for the Presidential campaign by electing Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, as president; Joseph B. Coward, of Plainfield, vice-president; Charles E. Reed, of Rahway, secretary; Samuel R. Ogden, of Elizabeth, treasurer. The call for primaries to elect delegates to the State Convention will be issued today. The Congressional District Convention will be held April 23 at Elizabeth or Montclair.

Reiner May Secure Cash Bail.

The wife of Editor John M. Reiner, of Elizabeth, visited him at the county jail Saturday, and it is probable, from what she said, that this week $5,200, the amount of his bail, will be deposited in one of the Elizabeth banks as collateral security for his appearance to stand trial, if indicted, for criminal libel. Should the money be put up in this way, it is thought there will not be any difficulty in the editor securing bondsmen.

Married a Somerville Girl.

Henry Gross, coachman for A. W. Haviland, of Rockview avenue, was married last Sunday to Miss Minnie Kukla, of Somerville. The ceremony took place at the bride's home and Rev. Mr. Koechli, formerly of this city, tied the bridal knot. A reception followed. The newly-married couple will take up their home at Mr. Gross' former quarters.

TOUGHER THAN TOUGH.

GENUINE KNIGHTS OF THE ROAD ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT.

When Arrested One of Them Had His Pockets Bulging Out With Bread and Meat—Had Stolen an Umbrella.

The first trio of stage tramps that sang the once famous "Razzle Dazzle" were not in it in appearance with the three delapidated individuals that lined up before City Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning. Genuine "knights of the road" were they all, and they did not have to have a label to tell it, either. The first of the trio was a young man, hardly twenty-one years old. He gave his name to the Judge as Dennis Murphy, when Sergeant Kiely remarked on the fact that that was about the seventh name he had already given since his arrest. "The last is correct, though" added the prisoner. He said that his home was at Ashley, Pa., and that he had been working in the mines, but his hands did not second the last statement from their appearance. He had been arrested on West Fourth street by Patrolman Saunders yesterday for vagrancy and begging. He pleaded guilty and the Judge gave him 59 days in the county jail.

The second man called himself John Strawn, and said he also came from Pennsylvania. Roundsman Frederickson met him on West Front street yesterday. Strawn had been drinking just enough to feel good. His pockets were bulging with slices of bread and meat. He also had an umbrella with him.

The roundsman saw Strawn come out of Leal's School and led the intoxicated man back while he inquired regarding his doings at the school. Mr. Leal said that he had been asking for money. Suddenly one of the boys in the school spied the umbrella.

"That's my umbrella," he exclaimed and that useful article was returned to him.

Strawn tried to explain his actions by saying that the liquor overcame him.

"How is it," asked Sergeant Kiely, "that this morning you are from Pennsylvania when last night you were from Elizabethport?"

The prisoner protested against such a statement and when accused of trying to work Plainfield with the other two prisoners he declared he had never seen either of them before. A smile flitted over the faces of the other two and they both admitted that they knew Strawn quite well.

The Judge thought that men whose memory was so poor that they did not remember what belonged to other people belonged somewhere else than in Plainfield. Strawn was sent to jail for 59 days and ordered to pay a fine of $100. He will probably work out the latter in jail.

The other culprit was an old man who has been here before. He was arrested on Seventh street by Roundsman Frederickson and charged with vagrancy and begging. He pleaded guilty and went up to Elizabeth for 59 days.

BIGGEST ORDER EVER GIVEN.

W. C. Hubbard's Company to Furnish Light for Seigel & Cooper's Store.

William C. Hubbard, of this city, Secretary and General Manager of The Electric Arc Light Company, of New York, has just closed an order with Siegel & Cooper, of Chicago, for 1,000 arc lamps. These lamps are for the large dry goods store they are building in New York, and is the largest single order for arc lamps ever placed by a business house in the United States. An electric plant the size of the local station in this city will be required to operate them.

The lamp is know as the "Enclosed Arc," that is the arc is enclosed and burns in a small bulb from which the air is excluded. By this method the carbons last fifteen times as long as those burned in the open air, the carbon dust is all consumed and no sparks can be given off.

The contract was awarded after a test of the other makes of lamps on the market.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

CITY MISSIONORY TALKS.

Miss Noah Hernden Speaks at Trinity Reformed Church.

The members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church and their friends did not let the storm last evening prevent them from enjoying the very interesting meeting held in the Sunday-school room. Mrs. Chas. Bilyeau was not able to be present, but her co worker, Miss Noah Hernden, of New York, filled her place very acceptably.

The meeting was in charge of F. E. Smith, and after the responsive Scripture reading and prayer, a quartette, consisting of Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Miss Emma Gillem, H. J. Martin and F. S. Cutter, sang "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet. Mr. Smith then announced the inability of Mrs. Bilyeau to be present and introduced Miss Hernden. Her presence and remarks were of peculiar interest from the fact that he has been engaged by Plainfield people as a city missionary and will labor in this city for five months this summer. Previous to her talk she sang a very pretty hymn with auto-harp accompaniment. She then spoke in part as follows:

"The Bible is practical common sense and meets our everyday wants. We are inclined to make excuses and think its teachings are meant for someone besides ourselves, thereby losing a rich reward. Nothing but Christ can satisfy. If I could only impress that fact upon you and help you to realize it I would be pleased. Some people think they must have a good time first, but I tell you the best time you can have is serving the Lord. There is so much we can do in Christ's service, and we should launch out into the deep ocean of Christ's love."

At the close of the speaker's remarks she sang another selection, the audience joining in the chorus.

An offering was then taken for the work at the Jerry McAll Mission, New York.

Miss Hernden will be present at the meeting of the Christian Alliance in the W. C. T. U. rooms this evening and make a few remarks. All are invited to hear her.

PROSPEROUS LOAN ASSOCIATION.

Plainfield Building and Loan Association Start a New Series.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association held their annual meeting last evening in their rooms on West Front street. The following directors were re-elected for the ensuing term: Lewis Barkalew, Henry Liefke, A. L. Force, Lewis Klein, J. P. Flannery, J. P. Homan, Jacob Voehl, Wood Titsworth, B. Frank Coriell, W. R. Codington, W. A. Woodruff and John Hickey.

The report shows that on the first series there is $1.260.81 to be divided among the members. In the second series each $103 full paid share is worth on the books $160.64. In the third series each $66 full paid share is worth $91.50, and in the fourth series each $18 full paid share is worth $19.80. The fifth series was opened last evening with good prospects. The directors will meet some evening this week and organize.

Millinery Opening.

The spring millinery opening at Lederer's will take place on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, when a handsome line of hats will be shown. Mr. Lederer has greatly enlarged this department of his store this season, and has made a special effort to please the large trade which he has acquired by square dealing during a long business career in this city. The department is under the supervision of Miss May Flanagan, whose artistic ability as a milliner is recognized.

A Great Spring Tonic.

During this varying spring weather, when it is warm one day and cold the next, the health of every person is endangered. To avoid sickness, a tonic of an invigorating kind is needed. There is none more efficacious than Paine's Celery Compound, and the fact that it has merit is demonstrated every week in The Press by the unquestionably reliable people who have taken it and sound its benefits to the public.

MAKING GOOD BOROUGHS

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS THE LAW OF 1878.

All Boroughs Created Under the Unconstitutional Laws Are Now De Facto Governments—Other Business.

Gov. Griggs last night sent to the House two more vetoes; one of the bill repealing the law requiring insurance brokers to obtain licenses from the Banking and Insurance Commissioners. The Governor says agents are required to take out licenses, and there is no good reason why brokers should be exempt.

Besides, the law is just and furnishes a safeguard about the insurance business, and turns in a revenue of $3,000 a year to the State. The other veto is of the bill requiring the Freeholders of Hudson county to construct sidewalks on both sides of the County Boulevard. The boulevard, the Governor says, is fourteen miles long, and was built at the public expense.

Now it is proposed to make the public pay for the sidewalks without any contribution from abutting property owners whose lands have received special benefits. The universal rule is that sidewalks are the special care and charge of the property owners, but he would consent to a bill requiring them to pay one-half of the $250,000 which the improvement will cost.

Many bills were passed and three were introduced from the Joint Committee to revise the borough laws. One legalizes all the de facto borough governments recently declared unconstitutional by the Court of Errors and Appeals, and confirms and validates all acts and ordinances passed by such boroughs. Present officers of such municipalties are continued until next spring, when their successors are to be chosen. The other two bills provides that boroughs and villages and cities and towns must hereafter be incorporated by special act of the Legislature. The bill to defray the incidental expenses of the Legislature was introduced in blank.

The Senate defeated the proposed marriage license law by adopting the adverse report of the Revision of Laws Committee. The Anti-cigarette bill was amended by Senator Voorhees so that it shall forbid the sale or gift of cigarettes to persons under 16, instead of under 21 years of age. The Jury Commission bill was amended so as to apply only to first and second class counties.

Nearly the whole of the session was consumed in discussing the merits of the bill making it unlawful for trolley companies to carry freight. The larger counties want the bill passed, and the seashore and rural counties are opposed to it. The discussion tonight was on amendments offered by Senator Bradley to exempt from the bill roads which are now carrying freight, and also all roads which shall secure the consent of the owners of a majority of the property along the line of the roads. The bill was finally laid over, as it was discovered that the printed copies differed from the official engrossed copy. Senator Voorhees reported the proposed amendment to the Constitution giving women the right to vote at school elections.

The Oleomargerine bill was taken up on final passage, when Senator Daly consumed considerable time with dilatory motions, and the Senate adjourned at midnight without taking action.

JERSEY'S NEW FLAG.

Will Be Buff in Color and Bear the State's Coat-of-Arms.

The new flag of the State of New Jersey will be unique in color, which, according to Assemblyman Hopkins, is to be buff. In the middle will be the State's coat-of-arms, the effect being handsome and pleasing to the eye. From an historic viewpoint the new flag will be accurate, buff being the color named for the State flag by the Continental War office, under date of Feb. 28, 1780. Hereafter this will be the flag used at the State House in Trenton and at the State camp ground whenever the Governor is present.

RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Empire State Republicans Will Endorse Gov. Morton.

IN CONVENTION AT NEW YORK TO-DAY

Major McKinley's Boom Also Launched in the Metropolis Last Night at a Big Meeting of Anti-Platt Republicans.

New York, March 24.—The preparations for the formal launching of the Morton boom are completed and there is every indication that the sentiment of the Empire State republicans will be voiced by this afternoon's convention in a striking manner. Hundreds of men who have for many years participated in the councils of the party and thousands of the younger men who compose its active working force in their several localities are gathered here to testify to their admiration for Gov. Morton. New York entertains many visiting statesmen and politicians every day, but a political convention is something of a novelty and the holding of a convention in New York is as much of a novelty to the delegates as to the city.

Work of the Convention.

The convention will assemble at noon and after the address of senator Cornelius R. Parsons, as temporary chairman, and the appointment of committees, a recess will be taken, probably until 8 p. m. At the evening session, after the report of the committee on contested seats, the permanent organization will be effected, with congressman George R. Southwick as chairman. His address will be followed by the report of the committee on resolutions, after which the delegates-at-large to the national convention and their alternates will be chosen and the presidential electors will be nominated. The business of the convention will occupy but a small part of the evening, but after it is concluded the convention will be resolved into a ratification meeting, and the enthusiasm for Morton will be given full vent.

M'KINLEY'S BOOM.

It Makes Its Appearance at a Large Meeting in New York City.

New York, March 24.—The McKinley boom in New York city was launched last night at Cooper union, and, although the weather was inclement and a miniature blizzard was raging outside, the big hall was packed with people. In the centre of the platform was a crayon picture of the Ohio man. The picture had tin plates for a frame, to remind the audience of what the champion of protection had done for the tin industry in the United States. At the bottom of the picture was a banner on which was inscribed the following: "The Anti-Machine Republican Organization of the City and County of New York." On the right of the platform was a banner on which was inscribed the words: "The Republican Party Stands for an Houest Dollar and the Way to Earn It," and on the left was another banner bearing the words: "William McKinley, the Advance Agent of Prosperity." The anti-Platt element was present at the meeting in considerable force. Among the speakers were Maj. Lovell H. Jerome, Gen. Swayne and Frank D. Pavey. Resolutions were passed organizing a political body to be known as "The McKinley League of the State of New York," the object of which shall be to secure the nomination of the Ohio man at St. Louis and his election at the polls in November. The league was then organized and officers chosen.

Minnesota Republicans.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—The republicans of the Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh congressional districts yesterday selected ten delegates to the St. Louis convention. Six of these delegates are instructed for McKinley, two for Davis, and two others for Davis with a queer proviso. In the Fourth district, of which St. Paul, Davis' home is the greater part, a resolution was adopted that two delegates should vote for Davis, unless their votes should jeopardize the chances of McKinley, in which event they should be cast directly for the Ohio man. The resolutions in all the districts declared strongly for protection and sound money.

Instructed for Reed.

Boston, March 24.—The republican convention in the Tenth congressional district elected delegates and alternates last night to the St. Louis convention, and instructed them for Thomas B. Reed.

Wallace Ross Defeated.

London, March 24.—The match between the scullers Wallace Ross of New Brunswick and W. A. Barry of London was rowed yesterday on the Tyne from Scotswood suspension bridge to the west side of Redhough bridge. Barry won by a length. Ross was given five seconds' start. The race was for $250 a side.

To Go to Egypt.

London, March 24.—The dispatch of the Soudan expedition has caused a number of members of the house of commons to decide to spend the Easter parliamentary recess in Egypt, where they will study the situation thoroughly.

Mrs. Charles F. Mayer Dead.

Baltimore, March 24.—Mrs. Charles F. Mayer, wife of ex-President Mayer of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, died last evening at the hotel Richmond at Washington, from an attack of paralysis. She had been ill four days.

Pope Leo Ill.

London, March 24.—The Standard's Rome correspondent telegraphs that the pope is suffering from insomnia.

SPAIN READY FOR WAR.

The United States Challenged To Cast Aside Its Mask.

Madrid, March 24.—Two articles that appear in the Epoca, which are supposed to reflect the views of the cabinet, have caused much comment. The first article challenges the United States to cast aside its mask and to show its colors. It says if America wants a war Spain is ready to face it with dignity. If a war is not wanted the American politicians ought to desist from their vexatious debates and covert hostility. The second article reviews possible European alliances. It finds fault with them all, but inclines to those countries whose interests are equally opposed to the American Japanese claims. All the Madrid papers concur in the belief that anything would be better than existing uncertainty.

TO BE SENTENCED TO-DAY.

Milo Gray Tells in Court of the Murder of His Wife.

Woodsville, N. H., March 24.—The Grafton county court room was crowded to its utmost capacity yesterday afternoon when Milo Gray was arraigned on the charge of the murder of his wife in 1891. Judges Carpenter and Blodgett presided. Gray retracted his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree. Gray's counsel asked the court's permission for Gray to tell his story of the crime. Gray admits the killing of his wife, but claims that it was accidental, occurring as follows: He and his wife were riding in his wagon when a dispute arose, his wife striking him in the face. He returned the blow which knocked his wife out of the wagon and when he reached her she was insensible. He made some efforts to revive her but failed. Fear of arrest for murder then took possession of him and to escape this, he took the body into the cellar of the old house, and covering it with boards, left it. This was in the evening and he had no light when at work in this dark cellar. Afterward he invented the story that his wife had gone to Montreal and he sent her trunk there to corroborate it. Considerable sympathy was shown to the prisoner by the audience during his testimony and at the conclusion Gray broke down and sobbed bitterly. Gray was taken back to Haverhill jail. He will be sentenced to-day.

FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.

Assignee Lea Talks of the Glendon Iron Company's Failure.

Philadelphia, March 24.—J. Tatnall Lea of this city, one of the assignees of the Glendon Iron company, whose assignment at Easton, Pa., was announced yesterday, says that the assignment is a general one and has been made for the benefit of all the creditors. The extensive plant, which is capitalized at $1,000,000, is located about two miles from Easton, and its investments are rated at much more than a million. The liabilities, he did not think, were very great, and he understood that the creditors would make arrangements with the company by which they would receive dollar for dollar. The assignment was caused by the very great depression in the iron trade, but the real and personal estates of the members of the company will more than cover the claims.

PROF. CROUCH DEAD.

Celebrated Song Writer and Composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen."

Baltimore, March 24.—Frederick W. N. Crouch, the well known musician and song writer, who had been confined to his home in this city for several days with an affection of the heart, died shortly after midnight this morning. Prof. Crouch was known in nearly every corner of the world. He has written upwards of 2,000 songs, the most successful, "Kathleen Mavourneen," having been translated into nearly a dozen languages. He was 79 years old.

HALF THE TOWN BURNED.

Colon, Colombia, Visited by a Destructive Conflagration.

Colon, Colombia, March 24.—The fire which started here yesterday morning raged for several hours, and before it was got under control half the city had been burned. All the bakeries have been burned, and a scarcity of food is threatened. Intense excitement prevails.

Bill Introduced by Speaker Reed.

Washington, March 24. — Speaker Reed introduced in the house yesterday a bill appropriating $12,000 to enable the secretary of the treasury to purchase the buildings of the Portland, Me., quarantine station. When purchased the station is to be operated by the United States.

Monument to President Monroe.

Washington, March 24.—Representative Jones of Virginia offered in the house yesterday a bill appropriating $50,000 for the erection of a monument to the memory of James Monroe, the author of the Monroe doctrine, at Fredericksburg, Va.

Sunken Schooner Raised.

Port Jefferson, L. I., March 24.—The schooner Thomas W. Ware of Lewes, Del., which sank with a cargo of coal in this harbor during the recent storm, was raised yesterday by the wrecking steamer Alert.

Judge John H. Reagan Dying.

Austin, Tex., March 24.—It is reported here this morning that Judge John H. Reagan, the last survivor of the Confederate States cabinet, is dying at his home in Palestine, where he has been sick for some days.

Killed by Jersey House.

Trenton, March 24.—The house last evening killed the bill creating the office of city veterinary surgeon

TO FIGHT TO THE END

New York Liquor Men Will Contest Raines Law in the Courts.

ASSISTANCE FROM OTHER STATES

Little Benefit, However, May Be Hoped for by the Smaller Dealers, Many of Whom Will Soon Be Forced Out of Business.

New York, March 24.—Although the Raines liquor tax measure is now a law the strongest fight, it is claimed, is yet to be made by the brewers and saloon keepers throughout the state assisted by funds from people interested in the liquor traffic in neighboring states against its enforcement. The fight, of course, must now be carried on in the courts, but nothing can be done until after the offic[illegible] have begun to enforce the law. As [illegible]roceedings of this kind are tedio[illegible] slow in action the smaller saloonkeepers, whom the law is intended to wipe out, cannot hope to benefit from any favorable decision to the liquor interests in the proposed proceedings as their places will be gone and many of them forced into other occupations before final decision of the courts is secured.

Grounds of the Contests.

Samuel Untermyer of the law firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall said: "We have been retained by the State Brewers' and Malsters' association and will proceed to fight the Raines law on the ground of unconstitutionality. As soon as the law goes into effect we will get up a test case to carry the matter before the courts. There are a number of points on which we propose to fight the law. We will contend that this is a tax in violation of section 21, article 3 of the constitution, which provides that no state money shall be devoted to local purposes without a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature. We will argue that the money collected is state money and comes under this head. We will also contend that the law is not a state law, but a collection of local laws and that it should have been sent to the local mayors for approval. Again, we will fight it on the want of uniformity in the tax and also because the twenty-third and twenty-fourth wards are differently legislated for."

Gov. Morton's Views on the Law.

Albany, March 24.—Gov. Morton in approving the Raines liquor tax bill filed a long memorandum explaining his action. The statement opens with a review of the excise question in its present status and points out the benefits which it is expected will be derived from the enactment of the law. He does not suggest any supplemental legislation as was looked for and in this respect disappoints the expectations of a large number of persons, especially Germans, who thought that although the governor would sign the bill, he would recommend that a second excise bill should be passed which would provide for an ale and beer license at a reduced rate of taxation.

United States Will Be Represented.

Washington, March 24.—By direction of the secretary of war the United States will be represented at the coronation of Emperor Nicolas of Russia by Maj.-Gen. A. McD. McCook, retired, and Maj. George P. Scriven, signal service

Women

Who are nervous, weak, worn out with local troubles find pure blood, nerve strength, and perfect health in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We do not say the above to raise false hope. It has been the experience of many, very many women in those intensely trying periods which demand and consume so much

General Debility.

That complete collapse of the entire system, when the organs improperly perform their functions, and as a natural result a cessation of nourishment to the body ensues, a continual loss of flesh is experienced, and death from starvation is the end. This trouble is in every instance averted by the use of that greatest concentrated food product

Bovinine

Retained by the weakest stomach, readily assimilated, new flesh and nerve tissue is created, the blood is enriched, the vital organs resume their natural functions and a return to health is the result. In this connection, Dr. M. W. Van Denburg of Fort Edward, N. Y., says, "I have used Bovinine in cases of extreme debility where no other food would be tolerated and with very satisfactory results." Physicians everywhere tell the same story.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

DUBOIS IN MOURNING

Details of Yesterday's Appalling Mine Horror.

THIRTEEN VICTIMS OF GAS EXPLOSION

The Presence of Gas Detected Several Days Ago, But All Known Precautions Were at Once Taken To Prevent a Disaster.

Dubois, Pa., March 24.—Dubois is to-day mourning over the victims of yesterday's mine disaster, the first great accident that has occurred in this neighborhood since mining became an industry of magnitude, fifteen years ago. In the humble homes of the dead men the weeping and wailing of widows and orphans strikes upon the ear with a mournful sound, but there is no complaint made against the company, because, although the presence of gas had been detected several days ago, all known precautions to prevent an explosion had been taken by the mine bosses. That more lives were not lost was solely due to the fact that the mine is a new one and in the early stages of its development, and for that reason there were no more men at work at the time the gas exploded. A corrected list of the dead is as follows: James Graham, sr.; James Graham, jr., son of the former; John Monroe, George Postlethwaite, Jesse Postlethwaite, Henry Harvey, George Harvey, Harry Smith, Lindsey F. Bradley, Andrew Mowak, David Bell, Reuben Noble and George Ainsley. All of the dead leave families except James Graham, jr. All of the bodies have been recovered.

Physicians Summoned.

As soon as the explosion occurred and before the extent of the disaster was known messengers were sent in town to summon all of the physicians who could be found. When the news reached Rochester mines, which are three miles from the shaft, the men working there rightly divined that the services of good, practical men would be wanted under the ground, and about forty at once came out and started to the shaft. Conveyances were found for some and others went as far as they could in the street cars and walked the remainder of the way. Superintendent Reed of the Rochester mines followed, and as soon as he arrived at the shaft went below with a cage full of his own men.

A Thousand People at the Scene.

The air was so bad below that the men who went down in gangs of about ten could not stay long at a time, but the opening seemed to clear up later on and better progress in getting at the extent of the disaster was made. About a thousand people were at the scene in an hour, including many of the friends of those underground, but as far as possible the reports were kept from the families of those who were dead until the bodies could be recovered. Seventeen men went down the shaft at 7 o'clock in the morning, thirteen going into a heading north of the shaft, and the other four in the opposite direction, and the latter, with the mine boss, were the only ones to escape the terrific shock.

Ran Into a Body of Gas.

The four men were half a mile away from the shaft, and shortly after 9 o'clock they felt what they believed was the shock following an explosion of gas. Immediately after Mine Boss Harvey came running toward them and directed them to hurry to the foot of the shaft. When they came to the shaft they ran into a body of gas and knew that there had been an explosion. Their first effort was to put up some brattices which had been blown off by the explosion, hoping that it might possibly have the effect of turning an air current to their comrades in the other parts of the mine, but before they had accomplished much they were being overcome by the gas and had to be taken up in the cage, one of them being in a very serious condition himself. Then it was that the news reached the outside world.

Capt. Williams Re-elected.

Philadelphia, March 24.—At a meeting of the members of last year's University of Pennsylvania football team, Carl S. Williams was unanimously re-elected captain for next year. This action would seem to indicate that Harvard has withdrawn her demands upon Pennsylvania not to play Williams and Brooke this year because both had played at other colleges before coming here, or that Pennsylvania had determined not to be dictated to by Harvard in the premises.

Confirmed by the Senate.

Washington, March 24.—The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations: James M. Beck, to be United States attorney, and James B. Reilly, United States marshal for the eastern district of Pennsylvania. Postmasters: Pennsylvania—Daniel Randall, Mechanicsville; Joseph A. Bing, Jeanette; E. M. Thompson, Curwensville; Emma K. Gitt, Hanover.

Judgment Against Fitzsimmons.

New York, March 24.—Transcript of a judgment obtained in the Onondaga county supreme court on Feb. 21 was filed in the county clerk's office here yesterday against Robert Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, and Martin Julian for $951 in favor of Charles E. Ide and Charles P. Ryan.

$250,000 Fire in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 24.—By the fire last night in the Thackara Manufacturing company's building on Chestnut street damage to the extent of $150,000 was inflicted upon the company, and the loss on the building amounts to about $100,000.

RUTHVEN TO BE ARRESTED.

The Alleged ex-Catholic Priest Likely To Be Sent to Jail.

Scranton, Pa., March 24.—Father Ruthven, the alleged ex-Catholic priest, who yesterday shot three men in the borough of Dunmore, a suburb of Scranton, is to be arrested, and he may be tried and sent to prison for assault with intent to kill. For a month or more he has been lecturing to men and women in this vicinity giving what he alleges to be exposures of the methods of the Catholic church. Afternoons he lectured to ladies and evenings to men. Several times during the past few weeks the police have been forced to protect him. He lectured in Christian church, Dunmore, Sunday evening, and some eggs were thrown at him while he was on his way to the car. His strictures on the Catholic church had greatly angered members of that faith, who are in the majority in Dunmore. Yesterday afternoon Ruthven lectured to Dunmore women and when he left the church at 5:30 o'clock, he was attended by detectives. A large crowd of hoodlums was waiting for him and saluted him with rotten eggs and snowballs. He walked about fifty feet to Drinker street and then drew a revolver and said that he would kill the next man who assaulted him. Some one in the rear of the crowd threw a missile of some kind and Ruthven opened fire. One of his detectives also began to shoot at the crowd and an unknown man in the crowd began to shoot back. Then Ruthven and two of his detectives retreated into a house nearby, carrying one of their number, who was wounded, with them. Ruthven escaped from the rear of the house through a vacant lot and ran away. Three men were shot. William Mink, one of the detectives received a bullet in the broad of his back. Will Seagraves, who was in the crowd, was shot in the leg, and a man named Kelley, also in the crowd, was shot in the hip. It is stated that all will recover.

ACONITE AND PISTOL SHOT.

Desperate Attempt of a Pennsylvania Physician To Commit Suicide.

Baltimore, March 24.—Dr. A. P. T. Grove, a well-known physician of Dallastown, York county, Penn., between 45 and 50 years of age, swallowed aconite and then shot himself in the left temple at the Eutaw house yesterday afternoon. The doctor arrived at the hotel Sunday night. Yesterday afternoon he was found in his room in an unconscious condition. Beside him lay a revolver with one chamber empty and near by was a vial that had contained aconite mixed with oil of lavender. On a table in the room lay a note giving the would-be suicide's address and asking that Max Fulton of York, Penn., be notified. The note also stated: "It pains me when I think of the misery that it will cause my dear wife and children, but I cannot help it, as I have been fighting against a terrible feeling for the past two months."

FIREBUGS SENTENGED.

Parker Receives Four Years and Ten Months, His Partner One Month Less.

Buffalo, March 24.—Parker and Vaughn, variety store partners, convicted of arson in having set fire to their store last September, which caused the destruction of the Academy of Music, were sentenced yesterday. Parker was found guilty in the third degree and sentenced to four years and ten months in Erie county penitentiary. Vaughn was convicted in the second degree and received only four years and nine months, because he had assisted the state materially by giving evidence.

Naval Movements.

Washington, March 24.—The Dolphin has arrived at Tampico. She is engaged in survey work along the Central American and Mexican coasts. The Charleston arrived at Chefoo on Friday last. The Petrel reached Yokohama Sunday en route from the Chinese station to the United States.

Dead at the Age of 101.

Amsterdam, N. Y., March 24.—Miss Mary Tomming is dead at St. Johnsville, aged 101 years. She was the oldest resident in central New York and had for sixty years resided in the Mohawk valley.

The Tribune states that difficulty is being experienced to get a competent man to take the State School Superindency at a salary of $3,000.

The apportionment of delegates to the Republican State Convention to be held at Trenton on April 16th is as follows: Atlantic, 19; Bergen, 30; Burlington, 37; Camden, 64; Cape May, 8; Cumberland, 27; Essex, 147; Gloucester, 20; Hudson, 105; Hunterdon, 17; Mercer, 56; Middlesex, 36; Monmouth, 41; Morris, 30; Ocean, 13; Passaic, 58; Salem, 17; Somerset, 17; Sussex, 13; Union, 42; Warren, 17.

The township elections in this State may mean that Democrats are recovering their own, or merely that politics have given place to personal popularity, but the fact that the Democrats did gain in important districts is indisputable, and offers encouragement to the party, and to the independent voters who have seen the perils of good government from the recent overwhelming majorities of the Republicans.—Newark Call.

The Joint Legislative Committee, of which Assemblyman Reed was a member, did a commendable thing to act quickly and decisively on the borough incorporation muddle which was precipitated by the Court of Errors and Appeals decision that the laws subsequent to the one of 1878 were unconstitutional. The consequences which delay in this question might have meant were serious to a large number of people in the State, many of whom are closely identified with Plainfield.

The essential feature of the anti-cigarette bill which Mrs. Coard, of this city, was striving to have the Legislature pass, has been rejected by the Senate leaders in changing the age to whom it shall be lawful to sell from 21 years to 16 years. Mrs. Coard stated to The Press a few days ago that her aim was to have the law made so that no dealer would be permitted to sell cigarettes to any but those of mature age, who could judge of the evil consequences of indulging in cigarette smoking. The amendment of the Senate, therefore, nullifies her proposition.

The efforts being made to get the Garden State Poultry and Pigeon Society to bring their annual show to Plainfield next December should be aided by every progressive person in the city. The exhibition would bring a large number of strangers to this city, and besides the money they would spend while here, there is also the fact to be taken into consideration that some of visitors would no doubt be favorably impressed with the town as a desirable residence place, and that that impression might take form in the purchase of property, and a decision to make their home here. Conventions and public events are good things for any town to seek for.

Few people doubtless know or realize what the traffic in dead bodies for medical purposes amounts to in New York. An employe in one of the large New York hospitals has just been discharged, and his removal will probably precipitate an investigation that will be a revelation in its ghastlessness. People who die in these large hospitals without friends or money, usually bring up on the dissecting table of a medical college, after having passed through the mystic channels of trade which has become a mint of money for those who engage in it. It is a horrible condition to contemplate, but many things are done in secret for science that would not be tolerated for a moment if the light of publicity should shine in on them.

John Kean will go as a delegate-at-large to the St. Louis Convention. The dove of peace, hovering over the Union County Republican Headquarters for many days, was finally taken in, and the ex-Congressman, Senator Voorhees and Mayor Rankin took turns in stroking its ruffled plumage and giving the weary minstrel a fond-ling rest. Mr. Kean was opposed by these stalwarts, and he could not count on a solid backing from his county until the appearance of the dove and its cooing assurance that he might again play in the Senator's backyard or holler down the Mayor's rain-barrel. All the old rancorous animosities are to be forgotten. Senator Voorhees, after serving as County Clerk, will blossom forth as the candidate for Governor. Mayor Rankin will go to the Senate next year, and, probably, Mr. Kean will look with hopeful eyes upon Senator Smith's seat in the United States Senate. In the meantime he will prepare for St. Louis with the best wishes of his present neighbors and former foes.—New York Press.

WHAT A DUTCHMAN THINKS.

He Philosophies on Church Fairs and Entertainments.

To de Editor of De Daily Press:—Val! vat about de fairs in de churches und de festivals, und de shows, und de endertainments, und de frolics und de kech pennys vat tell how old you are, und de maken fun of de old folks singen, und de sucsesive ucer parties, und de smith famile shows und a good many oder dings, vat will make a good many bebels laf like any ding. Sometimes surbrises, und somtimes dar be good meetins. Val! but da git so hungree for de bred dat perishes, dey kant go home widout lots of good dings to eat. Vel about dat maypee good many bebels don't have anyding by dair homes to eat, so it is a good ding maypee. But den I notice more times dey charge de bebels for eatin, de minister tells em Sunday in de church to be sure und come everypoddy, und buy dere super. Val, it may pee, some bebels have no homes nor houses to eat in, so it is kind in em to do dat. So I ask some man und he told me it vas to raise money, all de dings vas done to have some good time, and make de money. Und I say vat! in de church vich vas goncrecated to the Lord. I don't understan how Christian bebel can do dat. I likes to have sich fun sometimes a little in my home, und make money, but vould not go to de house of God for sich burbos, fur de dear Jesus vould not do so. Look in your Pipels und see John, 2d chap, 13 to 16 verses: "This vas His first year of ministry, de third year He rebeated." Und we have it by Matt., 21st: 12th und 13th: 'And Jesus vent into de Temple of God und cast out all them that sold und bought into de temple, und overthrew de tables of the money changers und de seats of em that sold doves. Und said unto em, it is written My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of tiieves ———." Val! vat comes of de revival meetings in Plainfield in January? Maypee cause so many fairs and nonscence on hand to be done in de churches! Now, I peleve de Holy Spirit, maypee, vas much grieved, fur so many bebels, so much more, vanted to have good time mit fairs und everyding else in de church. So, I dink we must be careful how we dreat de Holy Spirit. I see in my Pipel so much good dings, as de dear Jesus vas in the home of Martha und Mary, und Mary vas sitting at Jesus feet listening to Him, vile Martha vas getting up a good dinner, und Jesus told her she vas troubled very much, for it vas not necessesay. But Mary had chosen that good part, she vould never lose, und it vas needful. Oh! that we all were more like Mary, how different de church vould be today. If we vould only come und sit at Jesus feet und learn of Him. Oh! how happy we vould all be. He vould bless us und give us all needful dings. Yes, I do peleve it. Von Dutchman.

SINGULAR FACTS.

Some Old-Fashioned Ideas About Spring

What Our Ancestors Used for a Spring Medicine.

It Seems Ridiculous to Us Now in the Light of Science.

In spring the blood, which, like the sap of trees, has lain dormant all winter, begins to flow more rapidly through the body. If the blood is of good quality and the nervous system in good tone, the body increases in size and weight, for as a tree which is growing in poor soil will develop small, spindling leaves, so the body will not grow in weight if the blood which nourishes it is thin and watery.

In old times it was the custom to take sulphur and molasses in the spring. Today we have outgrown such notions and treat ourselves more scientifically, for we have learned what the body needs and how to supply it. Few of us but what are run down in the spring and feel the need of something to build us up. Mrs. E. A. Williams of Franklin, Mass., found herself after a hard winter, tired nervous and debilitated. She says:

MRS. E. A. WILLIAMS.

"I was completely broken down in health. I suffered from nervousness; could not sleep at nights; my limbs were in constant motion all the time, and it was evident that the nerves were in a terribly diseased condition.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I took three bottles and the result was remarkable. I now sleep well at night; my limbs are all right and my nervousness is all gone.

"I cannot speak too highly of the good Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy did me. I wish all others affected with nervousness or chronic diseases would use this great curer, for I think it is a God send."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a powerful, invigorating tonic, and those who use it find renewed health and strength. Why do you not begin its use today? Spring is here; you need such a tonic; you cannot find a better one. This wonderful remedy is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and who allows all who wish to consult him personally or by letter, free of charge.

"Yield Not to Misfortune."

I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste or smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm Cured it. Marcus Geo. Shautz, Rahway, N. J.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results. Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren ave., Chicago.

SPORTS

CYCLING COMMENT.

Lister, the North avenue cycle dealer, has received a shipment of 3,000 trouser guards for cyclers. He also keeps a full line of supplies of every description.

AT THE TRAPS.

The great event among the trap shooters of this part of the country, the Grand American Handicap, will be started at Elkwood Park, Branchport, today. Neaf Apgar, of this city, is entered. Thomas H. Keller, of this city, will also be present today, but is not entered.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Wilcox, of Central avenue, was able to go out today for the first, after a severe illness.

Mrs. Hull, of Norwood avenue, is moving into John Darling's house on East Ninth street.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scudder, of Newark, are stopping at the home of Mrs. Scudder's parents, Justice and Mrs. T. R. Crosley, of Duer street.

L. G. Timpson has been favored with a reserved seat for the consecration service in Calvary church, New York, tomorrow morning, and will attend.

Julius Williams, of Elmwood place, returned last night from an extended business trip. Mrs. Williams, who is stopping in Denver for her health, is very much better.

E. V. H. Voorhees and family, of New York, have rented the house at 426 West Front street, now occupied by J. F. Garretson and family. The latter will move this week.

Rev. Herbert Randolph, pastor of Grace M. E. church, left town today for Newark. He will attend the annual conference tomorrow to be held in St. Paul's M. E. church, Newark.

Spring Hats.

If you did not go today you missed it, but you can go tomorrow to the spring opening of fine millinery at White's. The department blooms like a florist's window in June. The place itself, its walls and columns, are elaborately festooned and draped, in the midst of which you see the prettiest of hats. They are worn much smaller this year than last, and worn, too, very close over the eyes. Another marked variation from last year. Then they are very light weight this season, largely in fancy straws and gauze. The predominating colors are green, gazon green, very pale, a new name for the familiar moss green. There are any number of pretty hats; among them is a love of a bonnet, as the ladies would say. A delicate affair in black, made of lace and horse-hair, with black and white egrets and Rhine stone ornaments. Another, a very pretty garden hat, made of Roman straw, with navy straw crown trimmed with black wings, steel ornaments and white thistles. The entire display reflects great credit on Miss Daly.

Example for Paradise Alley.

Another of the disturbers at Damuski's christening, the story of which was told in yesterday's Press, came before City Judge DeMeza this morning. It was Mrs. Ettenger, and the charge against her was the same as that against her husband and their host, a fine of $10 or 30 days in jail. Mrs. Ettenger smilingly paid the fine and left the lockup at once. Paradise Alley is likely to be more quiet in the future, however.

The Collectorship Decision.

The Daily Press is informed by good authority that there probably be a decision in the City Collectorship matter inside of one month. The Court now has all the necessary papers.

Mr. Whatnot's pills are good for indigestion, but the laughter which will fill Music Hall Thursday night will be just as effective and far more agreeable. Take a dose of it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

Its just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. Its easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THEATRICAL.

Mr. J. K. Emmet will present his new play, "Fritz in Love," a comedy drama in three acts, by Mr. A. D. Hall, tonight at Music Hall. Mr. Emmet is supported by a company of players, a glance at whose names will assure theatre-goers that the cast has been carefully selected to portray the characters assigned them. The piece is declared to be uproarously funny, yet consistent in plot and said to unfold a pretty story in which the child interest, so essential to the "Fritz" plays, is more than ordinary. Mr. Emmet has written several new songs for this play, among which is a "Lullaby," the "Tear" song, a beautiful melody, and a most novel "Bubble" song. In addition to Mr. Emmet, the company includes Miss Anna Mortland, Mrs. Hattie F. Nefflen, Miss Grace Pierrepont, Miss Blanche Chatfield, William T. Doyle, James H. Griffith, C. B. Bradford, George Hernandez, Chas. A. Prince, and babies Lillie Sinnott and Florie Loeber.

There will be cause for wonder and mystery at Music Hall tomorrow night, for Herrmann, with his imps of magic and his entertainment of mirth will hold high carnival there. To witness an evening's performance as Herrmann's audience will, is like taking a trip through Fairyland, and as the magician's programme this season is very elaborate and crowded with spectacular magi-phenomia, few will possibly miss the opportunity of seeing him. At no other time has he gone to such expense in presenting such extravagant novelties. He carries with him special scenery, special lighting apparatus, surprising electrical invention, and a special leader of the orchestra to introduce new melodies and accompanying airs. In his entertainment he also introduces songs and dances, and the magician will be seen in one of his acts in the role of Mephisto, with the characteristic makeup attributed to this gentleman. Adelaide Herrmann will introduce some new creations in spectacular dances, with the aid of many different colored lights which are expected to make a great sensation here.

Scotch Plains.

Fanwood Council, Royal Arcanum, will hold a meeting tonight.

Miss Amy Cook is entertaining her cousin, Miss Cook, of Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frentz.

Two young people were baptised at the Scotch Plains Baptist church Sunday morning. There will be a number of other converts baptised next Sunday.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Hear the local jokes and songs at Music Hall Thursday night.

—Mr. Kimball, of Providence, died at the State Hospital, Trenton, Sunday.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, biliousness, headache.

—The street railway snow scraper was put into service last evening to clear the tracks.

—John Wellborn, of Park avenue, is making extensive repairs and improvements at his saloon.

—The meeting next Sunday afternoon in Reform Hall will be conducted by William Richards, of Church street.

—There are now thirteen patients at Muhlenberg Hospital and each one is doing nicely under the excellent care of the nurses.

—It's dollars to doughnuts that you won't be able to tell who are behind the burnt cork at Music Hall Thursday night until you hear their voices.

—Impoverished blood causes that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, giving new life and increased vigor and vitality.

—Minerva Temple, No. 4. Rathbone Sisters, at their meeting this evening, will receive the Supreme Deputy of the State. Business of importance will be transacted.

—The illustrated war lecture to be given at the First Baptist church this evening gives promise of being remarkably fine. It is for the benefit of the Boys' Brigade.

—You are invited to attend the millinery opening at Edsall's Commercial Palace tomorrow. The latest in New York and Parisian fashions will be shown, under the direction of Miss M. Gassner, of New York city.

—A lamp shade in the home of Dr. Simpson became ignited Friday evening, and it was only by the presence of mind of Millie Durand, a fifteen-year-old girl, who threw the flaming material out of the window, that a fire was averted.

—The landlord and tenant case of Bradley against Gillispie was tried before Justice Newcorn yesterday morning and judgment was given the plaintiff. In the contract case of Coddington against Mundy judgment was also given the plaintiff.

—A good opportunity for everybody to enjoy a rare treat of vocal and instrumental music is on Friday night at Monroe Avenue chapel, when the Syracuse Mandolin and Glee Club, under the auspices of the Young Men's Association, will give a concert.

—"Compressed Air," the only publication of its kind in the country, is edited by W. L. Saunders and managed by A. E. Kenney, both of this city. It is an interesting little magazine, and is meeting with a favorable reception among people who are interested in the application of compressed air for power.

Loan Exhibition Opening.

April 10th is the date for the opening of the loan exhibition of works of art at the Camera Club rooms. The doors will be open at 10 o'clock a. m. to the public. Thursday evening, April 9th, the press, clergy and exhibitors will be invited, and Mayor Gilbert will formally open the exhibition. Mayor Heigman will be present and speak, and an address on art will be given by Mr. Audsley.

MILLS' RESOLUTION

Senators Do Not Believe the Bellicose Measure Can Pass.

PRACTICALLY A DECLARATION OF WAR

The Texas Member To-day Speaking in Favor of Its Passage—Mr. Hale Says the Cuban Affair Is Finally Disposed Of.

Washington, March 24.—Senator Mills, dem., Tex., who introduced in the senate yesterday the joint resolution which, if passed, is almost certain to produce war with Spain, is to-day speaking on the subject. The resolution directs the president of the United States to request the government of Spain to grant to the people of Cuba the power of local self-government and (in case the government of Spain shall refuse) to take possession of the island of Cuba and to hold it until its inhabitants can institute such government as they may wish to organize, and arm and equip such military forces as may be necessary to protect them from invasion. This is looked upon by many senators as a practical declaration of war, and it is not believed possible that the resolution can be passed. Senator Mills was led to introduce his resolution by the delay on the concurrent resolutions, and the fact that they were again sent to the same conference committee forced him, he says, to introduce the more radical measure. The senate conference committee is composed of Senators Sherman, rep., O.; Morgan, dem., Ala., and Lodge, rep., Mass. Senator Platt, rep., Conn., introduced a concurrent resolution expressing the earnest hope of the senate that Cuba may soon become a free, independent and republican government, and requests that the friendly offices of the United States shall be offered by the president to the Spanish government to secure such result. It was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Senator Hale's Opinion.

Senator Hale, leader of the Cuban opposition, said this morning that he did not believe the conferees could agree upon a report that would be satisfactory to both houses. He rather looked upon the Cuban matter as finally disposed of, and said that it would probably now be left where it should have been left at the start, with the president. This course would, Mr. Hale added, subserve the public good. With that out of the way, congress would proceed with the appropriation bills and when they were passed would go home. He predicts an adjournment as early as the middle of May.

House of Representatives.

The session of the house, under the rules, was given up to District of Columbia business, but the District calendar was soon cleared up, and the remainder of the session was spent in the consideration of a bill to modify the existing law regarding the punishment of crimes committed under federal jurisdiction involving the death penalty so as to allow a sentence to prison for life. After a three hours' discussion the passage of the bill was frustrated by a point of no quorum made by Mr. Barrett, rep., Mass.

NEW YORK POLICE BILL.

A Measure Prepared To Abolish the Present Board of Commissioners.

New York, March 24.—It was stated on reliable authority that Chairman Edward Lauterbach of the republican county committee has drawn up under the direction of Thomas C. Platt a bill which is to be known as the Metropolitan Police bill, and which is to be introduced at Albany the latter part of the week. The bill abolishes the present board of police commissioners and provides for the creation of a single headed commission. The new commissioner is to be a Platt man.

Boston Horse Show.

Boston, March 24.—The auction sale of boxes for the Boston horse show, which opens a week from next Monday, was held in Music hall yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of prominent society people, and the bidding was of a very lively nature. The total amount realized on the sale was $16,995. The largest amount paid for any one box was $350, and the lowest $110. Mrs. Jack Gardiner paid $140 premium for a box located near the entrance to the ring.

Mayor Quincy's Nominations Confirmed.

Boston, March 24.—All the nominations sent in by Mayor Quincy, March 10, were confirmed by the board of aldermen last night. They include: City registrar, William H. Whitmore; superintendent of markets, George C. McKay; city collector, Nathaniel H. Taylor; city auditor, James H. Dodge; city treasurer, Alfred T. Turner.

Escaped Lunatic at Large.

Providence, March 24.—James McGunnigle, an inmate until last Friday night of the state insane asylum, is at large somewhere in Massachusetts or Rhode Island. He made his escape at dusk Friday night by sawing through the iron bars at a dining room window.

Must Not Use the Mails.

Washington, March 24.—The postoffice department has denied the privileges of the mails to the Standard Art Co., and the Standard Manufacturing Co., J. H. Melrose, manager, of New York city, for violating the postal regulations.

To Elect Senators by Popular Vote.

Washington, March 24.—The house committee on election of president, etc., through John B. Corliss of Michigan, has favorably reported a bill to provide for the election of United States senators by the people.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of Calfornia, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

WATER SUPPLY CO.,

Incorporated 1869.

Frank Bergen, President. E. R. Pope, Sec. & Treas.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company supplies the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield with water for domestic use.

In June last the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allan Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he added: "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to the wholesomeness." The completion of the city's sewer system will add to the convenience of the supply of water from the Company's mains. A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, methods of service, etc. The work of making connections will be resumed as soon as the weather permits. BOATS FOR A DOLLAR.

A Fleet That Carries the Life of the World.

Millions of Tiny Craft With Human Blood for Their Sea.

The microscope has revealed many wonderful things, but none more wonderful than the minute bodies which exist in the blood. They are called corpuscles or cells, and are of two kinds, the white and the red. Just a few words about these red cells. They are so minute that there are countless numbers of them in the tiniest drop of blood. Yet each one has a peculiar shape, for which none of them ever vary.

An adult of medium weight has about twelve pints of blood in the body, and yet every small drop of this contains millions of red corpuscles. The number of them in the blood cannot be comprehended by the human mind. Of what use are they?

One great object of breathing is to bring the oxygen of the air in close contact with the blood which is in the lungs, for oxygen is necessary for the support of life. It is the business of these little red cells in the blood, to carry the oxygen which we breathe in the lungs to every part of the body. The most minute part of every organ and tissue in the body must have its supply of oxygen or it will perish, and the only way the oxygen can reach all these parts is by means of these little red cells. No matter how pure the air may be which we breathe, if there are not enough red cells in the blood to carry a sufficient amount of oxygen through the body we will surely suffer. Plenty of fresh air is essential, and so is an abundant supply of these little "oxygen-carriers" necessary. These little red bodies have been called "boats for carrying oxygen." Certainly not a very bad name for them.

Oxygen starvation is shown by poor circulation, loss of appetite, debility, anaemia, nervousness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, repeated colds, muscular and mental weakness, and many other symptoms. What is the remedy? Something which will make more of these oxygen-carrying "boats." Nothing will accomplish this quicker than Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It goes to the foundation of things. It greatly increases the number of red corpuscles in the blood. What follows? More oxygen is carried through the system, and new life and vigor are imparted. The oil nourishes the body, and the hypophosphites gives stability and strength to the nervous system. As the large size of Scott's Emulsion sells for one dollar, so you can get "oxygen boats for one dollar."

Scott's Emulsion contains more pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil than any other emulsion in the world, that will stand the test of time as being a perfect inseparable emulsion. Ask your doctor.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

As Clarence Brant, president of the Robles Land company, and husband of the rich widow of John Peyton, of the Robles ranch, mingled with the outgoing audience of the Cosmopolitan theater at San Francisco, he elicited the usual smiling nods and recognition due to his good looks and good fortune. But as he hurriedly slipped through the still lingering winter's rain into the smart coupe that was awaiting him, and gave the order "home," the word struck him with a peculiarly ironical significance.

His home was a handsome one, and lacked nothing in appointment and comfort, but he had gone to the theater to evade its hollow loneliness. Nor was it because his wife was not there, for he had a miserable consciousness that her temporary absence had nothing to do with his homelessness.

The distraction of the theater over, that dull, vague, but aching sense of loneliness which was daily growing upon him, returned with greater vigor.

He leaned back in the coupe, and gloomily reflected.

He had been married scarcely a year, yet even in the illusions of the honeymoon, the woman, older than himself and the widow of his old patron, had half unconsciously reasserted herself, and slipped back into the domination of her old position.

It was at first pleasant enough—this half maternal protectorate, which is even apt to mingle with the affections of younger women—and Clarence in his easy half-feminine intuition of the sex, yielded, as the strong are apt to yield, through the very consciousness of their own superiority. But this is a quality the weaker are not apt to recognize, and the woman who has once tasted equal power with her husband, not only does not easily relegate it, but even makes its continuance a test of the affections.

The usual triumphant feminine conclusion: "Then you no longer love me," had in Clarence's brief experience gone even farther and reached its inscrutable climax—"then I no longer love you"—although shown only in a momentary hardening of the eye and voice. And added to this was his sudden but confused remembrance that he had seen that eye and heard that voice in marital altercation during Judge Peyton's life, and that he himself, her boy partisan, had sympathized with her.

Yet, strange to say, this had given him more pain than her occasional other reversions to the past—to her old suspicions of him when he was a youthful protege of her husband's, and a presumed suitor of her adopted daughter Susy.

High natures are more apt to forgive wrong done to themselves than any abstract injustice. And her capricious tyranny over her dependents and servants, or an unreasoning enmity to a neighbor or friend, outraged his finer sense more than her own misconception of himself. Nor did he dream that this was a thing most women seldom understand, or understanding, ever forgive.

The coupe rattled over the stones or swirled through the muddy pools of the main thoroughfares. Newspapers and telegraphic offices were still brilliantly lit, and crowds were gathered among the bulletin boards. He knew that news had arrived from Washington that evening of the first active outbreaks of secession, and that the city was breathless with excitement.

Had he not just come from the theater where certain insignificant allusions in the play had been suddenly caught up and cheered or hissed by hitherto unknown partisans, to the dumb astonishment of a majority of the audience comfortably settled to money-getting and their own affairs alone? Had he not applauded, albeit half scornfully, the pretty actress—his old playmate Susy—who had audaciously and all incongruously waved the American flag in their faces?

Yes! he had known it; had lived for the last few weeks in an atmosphere electrically surcharged with it—and yet it had chiefly affected him in his personal homelessness. For his wife was a southerner, a born slaveholder, and a secessionist, whose noted prejudices to the north had even outrun her late husband's politics.

At first the piquancy and recklessness of her opinionative speech amused him as part of her characteristic flavor, or as a lingering youthfulness, which the maturer intellect always pardons.

He had never taken her politics seriously—why should he? With her head on his shoulder he had listened to her extravagant diatribes against the north; he had forgiven her outrageous indictments of his caste and his associates for the sake of the imperious but handsome lips that uttered them.

But when he was compelled to listen to her words echoed and repeated by her friends and family; when he found that with the clannishness of her race she had drawn closer to them in this controversy—that she depended upon them for her intelligence and information rather than upon him—he had awakened to the reality of his situation. He had borne the allusions of her brother, whose old scorn for his dependent childhood had been embittered by her sister's marriage, and was now scarcely concealed.

Yet while he had never altered his own political faith and social creed in this antagonistic atmosphere, he had often wondered, with his old conscientiousness and characteristic self-abnegation, whether his own political convictions were not merely a revulsion from his domestic tyranny and alien surroundings.

In the midst of this gloomy retrospect the coupe stopped with a jerk before his own house. The door was quickly opened by a servant who appeared to be awaiting him.

"Some one to see you in the library, sir," said the man, "and—" he hesitated and looked toward the coupe.

"Well," said Clarence, impatiently.

"He said, sir, as how you were not to send away the carriage."

"Indeed, and who is it?" demanded Clarence sharply.

"Mr. Hooker. He said I was to say Jim Hooker."

The momentary annoyance in Clarence's face changed to a look of reflective curiosity.

"He said he knew you were at the theater, and he would wait until you came home," continued the man, dubiously watching his master's face. "He don't know you've come in, sir—and—and I can easily get rid of him."

"No matter now. I'll see him—and," added Clarence with a faint smile, "let the carriage wait."

Yet as he turned toward the library he was by no means certain that an interview with the old associate of his boyhood under Judge Peyton's guardianship would divert his mind. Yet he let no trace of his doubts nor of his past gloom show in his face as he entered the room.

Mr. Hooker was apparently examining the elegant furniture and luxurious accommodations with his usual resentful enviousness. Clarence had got a "soft thing." That it was more or less the result of his "artfulness," and that he was unduly "puffed up" by it, were in Hooker's characteristic reasoning equally clear.

As his host smilingly advanced with outstretched hand, Mr. Hooker's efforts to assume a proper abstraction of manner and contemptuous indifference to Clarence's surroundings, which should wound his vanity, ended in his lolling back at full length in the chair with his eyes on the ceiling. But, remembering suddenly that he was really the bearer of a message to Clarence, it struck him that his supine position was, from a theatrical view point, infelicitous.

In his experience of the stage he had never delivered a message in that way. He rose awkwardly to his feet.

"It was so good of you to wait," said Clarence courteously.

"Saw you in the theater," said Hooker, brusquely. "Third row in parquet. Susy said it was you and had suthin' to say to you. Suthin' you ought to know," he continued, with a slight return of his old mystery of manner, which Clarence so well remembered. "You saw her—she fetched the house with that flag business, eh? She knows which way the cat is goin' to jump—you bet. I tell you, for all the blowing of these secessionists, the union's goin' to pay! Yes, sir!" He stopped, glanced around the handsome room and added, darkly: "Mebbe better than this."

With the memory of Hooker's characteristic fondness for mystery still in his mind, Clarence overlooked the innuendo, and said, smiling:

"Why didn't you bring Mrs. Hooker here? I should have been honored with her company."

Mr. Hooker frowned slightly at this seeming levity. "Never goes out after a performance. Nervous exhaustion. Left her at our rooms in Market street. We can drive there in ten minutes. That's why I asked the carriage to wait."

Clarence hesitated. Without caring in the least to renew the acquaintance of his old playmate and sweetheart, a meeting that night in some vague way suggested to him a providential diversion. Nor was he deceived by any gravity in the message; with his remembrance of Susy's theatrical tendencies, he was quite prepared for any capricious futile extravagance.

"You are sure we will not disturb her?" he said, politely.

"No."

Clarence led the way to the carriage. If Mr. Hooker expected him during the journey to try to divine the purport of Susy's message he was disappointed. His companion did not allude to it, possibly looking upon it as a combined theatrical performance. Clarence preferred to wait for Susy as the better actor.

The carriage rolled rapidly through the now deserted streets and, at last, under the directions of Mr. Hooker, who was leaning half out of the window, it drew up at a middle-class restaurant, on whose still lit and steaming windows were some ostentatiously public apartments, accessible from a side entrance.

As they ascended the staircase together it became evident that Mr. Hooker was scarcely more at his ease in the character of host than he had been as guest.

He stared gloomily at a descending visitor, grunted audibly at a waiter in the passage, and stopped before a door where a recently deposited tray displayed the half-eaten carcass of a fowl, an empty champagne bottle, two half-filled glasses and a faded bouquet. The whole passage was redolent with a singular blending of damp cooking, stale cigarette smoke and patchouli.

Putting the tray aside with his foot, Mr. Hooker opened the door hesitatingly and peered into the room, muttered a few indistinct words, which were followed by a rapid rustling of skirts, and then, with his hand still on the door-knob, turning to Clarence, who had discreetly halted on the threshold, flung the door open theatrically and bade him enter.

"She is somewhere in the suite," he added, with a large wave of the hand towards a door that was still oscillating. "Be here in a minit."

Clarence took in the apartment with a quick glance. Its furniture had the frayed and discolored splendors of a public parlor which had been privately used and maltreated; there were stains in the large medallioned carpet, the gilded veneer had been chipped from a heavy center table, showing the rough, white deal beneath, which gave it the appearance of a stage "property," the walls paneled with gilt-framed mirrors reflected every domestic detail or private relaxation with shameless publicity.

A damp waterproof shawl and open newspaper were lying across the once brilliant sofa; a powder puff, a plate of fruit and a play book were on the center table, and at the marble topped sideboard was Mrs. Hooker's second-best hat, with a soiled collar, evidently but lately exchanged for the one he had on, peeping over its brim.

The whole apartment seemed to mingle the furtive disclosures of the dressing-room with the open ostentations of the stage, with even a slight suggestion of the auditorium in a few scattered programmes on the floor and chairs.

The inner door opened again with a slight theatrical start, and Susy in an elaborate dressing gown moved languidly into the room.

She apparently had not had time to change her underskirt, for there was the dust of the stage on its delicate lace edging as she threw herself into an armchair and crossed her pretty slippered feet before her.

Her face was pale, its pallor incautiously increased by powder, and as Clarence looked at its still youthful, charming outline he was not perhaps sorry that the exquisite pink and white skin beneath, which he had once kissed, was hidden from that awakened recollection.

Yet there was little trace of the girlish Susy in the pretty but prematurely jaded actress before him, and he felt momentarily relieved. It was her youth and freshness appealing to his own youth and imagination that he had loved—not her.

Yet as she greeted him with a slight exaggeration of glance, voice and manner, he remembered that even as a girl she was an actress.

DIDN'T KNOW HIS NAME.

A Drunken Individual Thus Afflicted This Afternoon.

A man who was so much upder the influence of liquor that he didn't know his name, was arrested this afternoon on West Front street by Patrolman Vanderweg. The man was in a brick wagon and attempting to drive the team, but being unable, two men tried to help him. They were having a very lively time of it when they were stopped. The assistants were ordered out of the wagon and Patrolman Vanderweg took charge. He drove the team to the station-house, where he locked the man up and then took the horses and wagon to Boice, Runyon & Co's yard where they were kept till the owners, Mercer & Blatz, came after their property. The latter conduct the brick yard formerly owned by Mr. Scribner, in North Plainfield.

HAD HIS FACE BRUISED.

An Obstinate Drunken Man Who Refused to Leave a Saloon.

A man came into the city court this morning with a cut on his forehead from which the blood had run down all over his face. He had been found last night by Patrolman Cooney in an intoxicated condition at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street. The man gave his name as Thomas Waring, and said that he had been thrown out of Goff's saloon and bumped into a post, cutting his head.

Mr. Goff told Sergeant Kiely that Waring refused to leave the saloon when he was ordered to, and had to be put out. When he went out he fell cutting his forehead. The Judge gave Waring his choice between paying $3 or spending fifteen days in jail.

BANEFUL INDIGESTION.

The Disorders it Causes and the Poisons it Instills in the Blood.

If we only knew how dangerous, insidious and ruthless a disease indigestion is, we would not wait as we do before endeavoring to cure it.

The longer we wait, the more dangerous it is likely to become.

So the sooner we take Shaker Digestive Cordial the better it will be, and the better we will be.

Indigestion is dangerous because it creates poisons in the stomach which are absorbed by the blood and by it carried to all parts of the body.

Could anything be worse than this?

These poisons would not be formed if the stomach could digest its food. When it cant, Shaker Digestive Cordial will help it to do so.

Nothing will help the stomach so well as Shaker Digestive Cordial, nothing else cure indigestion so quickly or so positively.

The reason is that it purifies the stomach and the blood, and makes your food strengthen instead of poison you.

It is not a medicine, but an aid to digestion, a pleasant cordial for weak stomachs.

Sold by druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

YOUNG CADETS HEAR OF IT FROM THOSE WHO WERE THERE

The Lecture Entertainingly Given By Rufus K. Case, and the Incidents of the Campaign Illustrated By Scenes.

A portion of the history of the late unpleasantness, as some persons desire to call the War of the Rebellion, was vividly portrayed on canvas last evening at the First Baptist church. It was termed the "Campaign of the Army of the Potomac," and a number were present who recalled many of the scenes shown.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Baptist Boys' Brigade, Co. B., Third Regiment, of the above church, and the auditorium was well filled with people, principally the younger generation.

The programme opened with patriotic selections on the organ by Howard Case. As a march was being rendered the Brigade marched into the church in true military style, and it thrilled the hearts of all to see the young cadets enter with such manly bearing. A stack of muskets and a profusion of red, white and blue bunting added not a little to the enthusiasm of the event. After prayer was offered by Dr. D. J. Yerkes, Miss Grace Overton gave a stirring recitation entitled "Bay Billy." President L. H. Bigelow, Jr., then announced that under the direction of Rufus K. Case the pictures illustrating the "Campaign of the Army of the Potomac" would be given.

The speaker then stated that the campaign lasted from March, 1861, to 1865, and was a most notable one in many respects. Pictures were then shown of Generals McDowell, McClellan, Burnside, Hooker and Grant, and in connection with each Mr. Case gave the history of the campaign as it had to do with the leaders. Many amusing and touching incidents were related that were impressively received by the audience. When the picture of Gen. Grant was shown the audience gave unbounded applause.

Points of great interest were brought out by Mr. Case, who speaking from personal experience was able to talk intelligently on the subject. The frequent hearty applause gave unmistakable evidence of the appreciation of the audience.

At the conclusion of the first part, ex-Sergeant Wilson and Frank Carver rendered two patriotic selections on the fife and drum. The singing of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," by the audience, preceded the offertory, the proceeds of which will be devoted to purchasing uniforms for the members of the brigade. A recitation, "The Pride of Battery B," by Miss Amy Emmons won hearty applause.

The story of the Civil War was then concluded with the surrender at Appomatox and disbandment of the armies in 1865, and was full of interest to all. The entertainment concluded with the singing of "America" by the audience and an organ postlude.

Mr. Case was very kindly assisted by John Naegle, who manipulated the lantern in his usual faultless manner.

Below are the officers and members of the brigade, which was organized September 30th, 1895: Advisory board, Rufus K. Case, president, E. Bonny, George H. Batchelor; L. H. Biglow, Jr., president, C. M. Evans, secretary and treasurer; first sergeant, Fred. C. Bonny; second sergeant, Harry V. M. Vetterlein; first corporal, J. Allie Wilson; second corporal, Andrew Mulford; third corporal, Douglas Drake; privates, Lucius H. Biglow, third, George L. Bird, Eddie Bellis, Willie Coddington, Winfield S. Chase, Arthur V. Drake, Lewis W. Drake, Philip E. Drake, George J. Eagel, Jr., Elmer Hoffman, Aubrey B. Hull, John A Hull, Jr., Harry T. Joseph, Cyrus H. Kinsman, Rufus C. Larew, Louis S. Milligan, Louis A. McLaughlin, Alfred B. Marsh, Grover Marsh, William Edw. Neal, George Myers, Willie Mundy, George W. Pope, Charles C. Rocap, Floyd F. Sprague, Fred. M. Slater, Frank G. Shepherd, John P. Van Horn, Charlie Wilson.

To Interview the Governor.

Charles E. Buell, of the borough, and Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., went to Trenton this morning to meet Governor Griggs and protest against a bill that awaits his signature, regarding the imposition of fines by boroughs and towns that may have something to do with religious issues.

The Bridge Finished.

The new bridge of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad over the Raritan river, near Bound Brook, has been completed, and yesterday morning trains began running over it at usual speed. The enlargement of the span by 70 feet now allows the water to flow off the low lands west of the bridge.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET.

Two Methodist Societies Elect Their New Officers.

The Woman's Foreign and Home Missionary societies of the First M. E. church held two very interesting meetings in the parlor of Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon which were well attended by the members. They were the annual meetings for the election of officers, and outside of that the business was of a routine nature.

The Foreign Missionary Society election resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. M. L. Winter; vice-presidents, Mrs. Anson Sperry, Mrs. H. A. McGee; corresponding secretary, Miss Rachel Day; recording secretary, M. B. Sharp; treasurer, Miss Susie E. Jackson.

The Home Missionary Society officers are as follows:

President, Mrs. D. L. Davis; first vice-president, Mrs. P. M. French; second vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Peck; third vice-president, Mrs. J. Wier; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Horne; recording secretary, Mrs. N. W. Pike; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Jackson; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Geo. R. Cornwell; librarian, Mrs. John McNaughton; mite-box secretary, Mrs. I. L. McVoy.

Mrs. H. A. McGee was elected president of the Ladies' Aid Society unanimously.

Mrs. Ballington Booth's New Uniform.

When Mrs. Ballington Booth makes her next public appearance she will wear the uniform of a Volunteer. It consists of a severely plain skirt, three yards in circumference, and a waist of the Norfolk jacket pattern, with three box pleats down the front and back. Over the jacket Mrs. Booth will wear a coat, something the shape of a man's long sack coat. The garment will fit closely about the hips. The sleeves will be tight-fitting and as Mrs. Booth expresses it, without a crease or wrinkle. Illusion will be worn at the neck and wrists instead of collar and cuffs.

Jolly Old Vets.

The meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held last evening, was one of interest to the members. After the transaction of business, recitations, [illegible] songs were rendered by the comrades. Among those who entertained were W. R. Mattox, John Goodwin, N. C. Magne and M. C. Dobbins. At the conclusion of the programme bean soup, coffee and sandwiches were served by the good and welfare committee.

The New Woman.

The Thursday afternoon meeting at 3:30 in the W. C. T. U. rooms will be of unusual interest this week. Mrs. Whitehead, County Superintendent of Good Citizenship and Franchise, will read a paper on "The New Woman," and every member is urged to be present and bring her friends. Tea will be served and an opportunity given to meet Mrs. Whitehead socially after the programme, which is in charge of the County President.

Left Town in Twenty Minutes.

A good looking Russian was arrested by Patrolman Hartpence yesterday afternoon for peddling without a license, and taken before City Judge DeMeza. The native of Russia, whose home is in Newark, pleaded ignorance of the ordinance regarding peddling, and sentence was suspended on him. He was ordered to leave town in twenty minutes, which he did.

Worthy People.

The Organized Aid Association reports that they have on their lists names of fourteen women and twelve men, all worthy, seeking work. Work for women can be given, and in a limited degree for men if there were funds to pay for it.

An Easter Monday Tea.

Cards are out for a tea to be given by Miss Lulu Lewis, daughter of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Central avenue, on Easter Monday. The tea is given in honor of the Misses Tracy, of West Eighth street, who are spending the winter in New York.

Seeking a Democratic Candidate.

The Elizabeth Democratic Executive Committee will meet tonight and wrestle with the problem of finding a candidate who will run for Mayor against John C. Rankin, the Republican executive.

Ballington Booth Warned.

A telegram was sent yesterday from the National Headquarters of the W. C. T. U. to Ballington Booth, protesting against the new army wearing a white ribbon as a badge on the ground that it belonged to the W. C. T. U.

Concert and Dance.

Invitations have been issued for the dance to the Amherst Glee Club to follow the concert given by the club on Monday evening, April 6th, at the Casino.

SWISS LOVES TO FIGHT.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE ON SWITZERLAND AND ITS PEOPLE.

Prof. Maxson Talks of the Ruggedness of a Small European Country, Whose Independence No One Ever Questions.

The last of the Y. M. C. A. star course of entertainments was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last night. Those that were present heard a very interesting lecture on "Switzerland and Its People" by Prof. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield public schools.

Mr. Maxson began his lecture by speaking of the secluded position of this little republic in the centre of the great empires of Europe, its varied climate, of the different religious beliefs of its people, there being three State religions, and the five different languages that are spoken within its borders, none of which are Swiss. He then told of the history of the little country, beginning with its occupancy by the Romans, and passing through the oppressions of the Austrians. The story of William Tell and the other legendary heroes and their wonderful deeds of valor, were referred to.

"It is said of them," remarked Mr. Maxson, "that after their love of money came their love of fighting." He told of how they fought the foreigners, then among themselves, and at last hired themselves out to other nations whose love of fighting was not so great. The famous Swiss Guards that stood so bravely for the French at the commencement of the French Revolution, and were slaughtered almost to a man before they would yield were spoken of. The present constitution of the Swiss cantons forbids this hiring out to other nations, and the only place where a Swiss guard is to be found outside of their native country is in the confines of the Vatican at Rome, in the service of the Pope.

In Switzerland every man serves as a soldier one or two months in a year until he is thirty-two years old. The military spirit is even carried into the schools. There has been and are other republics in Europe, but none like Switzerland. There are others as small, but the European nations do not think them worth the trouble of capturing, while Switzerland they cannot get, although many countries would like to and have already attempted it.

One cause of the bravery of the Swiss may be that they are constantly in danger. Mr. Maxson then told of some of the difficulties and dangers that the Swiss encounters in growing and cutting his crop of grass. Not only does he stand face to face with death, but he is in a continual struggle for existence. In and around the towns, factories have been built, but outside of those, pastoral pursuits are the only occupations, while the cows are guarded and cared for with great attention. There is an intense local patriotism. The Swiss swears allegiance to his State first, and then to his country. It is a life of honest simplicity, there is no duty too menial, and no one is not willing to bear his or her share of the burden. We might not appreciate it with our refined taste, but it is the abode of concord.

The difference between the Swiss and American republics was next spoken of, and how in the former the legislative branch is all powerful. The head of the executive branch is a council of seven, somewhat similar to our cabinet. The two Legislative bodies are equal in power, and the members are paid $4 a day, and then only when they answer to the roll calls of the day. "So," said Mr. Maxson, "it is needless to say that in Switzerland, Tom Reed would find his occupation gone." Then followed a sharp arraignment of the present political methods. Mr. Maxson severely criticized the present situation in New York State, and spoke with disgust of a State that is run by a citizen in a down town New York office, while the people have nothing really to say.

Wheelmen Discourage It.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In reply to the article in yesterday's News on "Speculating in Seats," I wish to say that while one or two instances of the same have been brought to the attention of the entertainment committee, such speculating is entirely unauthorized by the committee. While we cannot control the individual action of ticket purchasers, the public are assured that every member of the committee discourages the speculation charge and will use his influence to abate it.

A PLAINFIELDER CHOSEN

CHARLES J. BAXTER TO BE STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

Mr. Baxter is a Man of Experience in Educational Work—Appointed Because He Had Ability for the Position.

The name of Charles J. Baxter, of Plainfield, was sent by Gov. Griggs to the Senate at Trenton yesterday, as his nomination for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, to fill the unexpired term of Addison B. Poland, of Jersey City, resigned. After filling the office for one year, Mr. Poland was offered the position of vice-superintendent of the New York city schools. He accepted and resigned from the State superintendency. A new man was necessary to fill the office for the remaining two years of the term.

"Although I had heard of the resignation of Mr. Poland," said Mr. Baxter to a Press reporter this afternoon, "I had no idea of trying for the position. I went up to Sussex county where I found that I was being actively boomed as a candidate. I did not think much about it at the time and when I was asked if I would accept it, I replied that I would but would not enter in a wild scramble for it."

His name was ably supported by Assemblymen W. R. Codington and the other Assemblymen from Union county. Outside of those, only educational influences were brought to bear in his behalf.

Mr. Baxter will hold the office for two years, and as his term will expire while Governor Griggs is at the State House, he will probably be re-appointed.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is secretary, ex-officio, of the State Board of Education, President of the State Association of School Superintendents, a member of the State Board of Examiners and of all the county and city boards. He has supervision of all the schools receiving any part of the State appropriation; he apportions the State school funds to the different counties, and acts generally in a judicial capacity, subject to the ratification of the State Board of Education. His office will be at the State House.

Charles J. Baxter was born at Glenwood, Sussex county, New Jersey, on November 8th, 1842. He attended the district school there until he was twelve years of age, after which he went to work on his father's farm, continuing his studies by himself and with the help of an uncle who had graduated from Lafayette College and then lived on the next farm. On his eighteenth birthday he started his educational work as a teacher in the district school at Frankfort Plains, N. J. After twelve years of teaching in several district schools, Mr. Baxter was appointed principal of the Franklin Furnace district school. He gradually improved the condition of the school until it was converted into a high school. Two pupils went to West Point during his superintendency, one on a competitive examination with college men.

A number of graduates entered the leading colleges of the east, while a small army of teachers were turned out under the competent instruction of Mr. Baxter, for the graduates were able to win the first-grade county certificate. Mr. Baxter's old position is now held by a young woman, who was one of his former pupils and graduated from the school. Mr. Baxter received the highest salary ever paid to a teacher in that county.

After leaving Franklin Furnace, about seven years ago, he moved to this city so that his children, two girls, might enjoy the advantages of the far-famed Plainfield public schools. Since his resignation as principal of the Franklin Furnace school, Mr. Baxter has been connected with the Provident Life and Trust Company, of Philadelphia.

In politics Mr. Baxter took some share as a Republican when a young man, but as he grew older, his educational work absorbed all his energies. In 1875, he was nominated and renominated as county school superintendent of Sussex County by the State Board of Education, but was rejected by the Democratic Board of Freeholders, because of his party affiliations. This started the agitation which resulted in that power being taken from the Board of Freeholders and given to the Board of Education.

Mr. Baxter new lives in a pleasant house at the corner of Putnam avenue and Richmond street, with his wife and daughter, Adelaide. Another daughter, Katherine, who graduated from the High School in 1894, is studying at Vassar College.

Gift of a Piano.

A Hazelton piano recently purchased for the Epworth House on Monroe avenue, is the gift of James McGee to the Monroe Avenue chapel.

NO MONEY FOR THE CHURCH.

Tip, the Bootblack, Says That He Needs All His Money for Himself.

An indignant colored woman made a complaint on her husband a short time ago on the charge of calling her names, refusing to support her and abusing her. The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, appeared in court yesterday afternoon. Thompson is better known to the citizens of Plainfield as "Tip, the bootblack," and the mirror-like shines that he gives his customers, despite the fact that he has only one arm, are the wonder of everybody.

His wife told her story which was that her husband refused to give her money for food or even for medicine when she was ill. He called her abusive names, so she said, and finally deserted her for another woman.

Thompson admitted that they had quarrelled about money matters and that he would not give her any money. His reason for this was that he bought all the household supplies himself and when he gave her money she gave it to the church. He thought that all the money he had he needed to support himself and family.

The trial was rather a damp one as Mrs. Thompson wept continually. Thompson paid a fine of $5 rather than go to jail for twenty days.

A PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The Endeavorers of the Crescent Avenue Church Arrange a Programme.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church held a sociable last evening in the parlors of the church. The attendance was all that could be desired, every available seat being occupied. Mrs. Frank Smith, the well-known eloqutionist, rendered several excellent selections. Alfred Holmes gave several baritone solos in a very acceptable manner. An instrumental quartette of violins and flute, consisting of Gilbert Lovell, Charles Davis, Lindley Hillmann and Walter Serrell, favored with several selections, which were enjoyed by all. At the end a collection for the work of the society was taken up.

Remembered His Name This Morning.

The speechless driver, who tried to monopolize the sidewalk and the street at Park avenue and Front street with his brick wagon yesterday afternoon, as was told in yesterday's Press, came up before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and driving on the sidewalk. He gave his name as Albert Regrett and seemed to regret the disorder exceedingly. The Judge allowed him to pay a $3 fine instead of spending ten days in jail.

Twenty-third Anniversary.

The twenty-third anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will be held Friday afternoon, March 27th, at 3 o'clock in the church. Miss Ella R. Church, a missionary from Japan, will address the meeting. Holders of Mite boxes are requested to bring them to the meeting. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend the meeting.

Tramps Journeying Northward.

The tramps are beginning to journey northward, and this vicinity is overrun with them, says an Elizabeth dispatch. Chickens are stolen every night and the belated pedestrian has to yield tribute to the "growler" or suffer harsh treatment. Women are afraid to venture out in the suburbs and the usual reign of King Tramp is commencing, a sure harbinger of spring.

Held Up and Beaten.

A huckster named Saunders, from Carteret, was held up near the Wheatsheaf Hotel, at Linden, and severely beaten, while returning from Newark early yesterday morning. He was badly injured, and was removed to the Elizabeth Hospital. The footpads did not secure much from him. This is the second case since Friday night in Linden.

Reduced Rates of Fare—April 7th, 21st, and May 5th.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railway will sell tickets at half rates for the round trip to points in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Colorado, etc. Persons desiring to avail themselves of the low rates offered, and who require any further information or assistance, will receive prompt attention by addressing H. A. Gross, G. E. P. A., 423 Broadway, New York. p2 c2.

A Missionary Meeting.

A missionary meeting will be held in Hope chapel this evening, which will have for one of its features a printed programme of responsive readings, hymns, etc., illustrated with several fine scenes from the Home Missionary Field. A short address will be made containing telling anecdotes of the home missionary work. All are welcome.

MAY NOT ADJOURN TODAY

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE ACTED ON BY LEGISLATORS.

The Bill Repealing the Elective County Judiciary Law Passed by the Senate—An Act to Protect the Oyster Trade.

There is considerable uncertainty about the Legislature adjourning today, as there are several important matters yet unacted upon. The Republican Senators were in caucus nearly three hours last night considering the Appropriation bill and the constitutional amendments.

An agreement was reached on the former, but there was such a difference over the amendment reorganizing the higher courts that the caucus decided to dispose of the amendments in open Senate. They will be taken up today. At midnight the Senate was still in session disposing of bills.

Both Houses spent the day in disposing of bills, and many of general interest were passed. The Senate was engaged for two hours in discussing an oyster bill which prohibits any person from being employed in gathering oysters until he has been for six months a resident of the State. It will pass the Senate today.

Senator Stokes told the Senate that New Jersey's oyster trade was worth $2,000,000 a year, which was more than the value of the State's wheat crop, and that at the rate the planters and owners were going the oyster business would be ruined in a few years.

Among the bills of importance passed by the Senate were these:

Repealing the Elective County Judiciary law of last year, which was declared unconstitutional.

Allowing women to be appointed masters in chancery.

Authorizing erection of an armory at Newark at a cost of $250,000, half to be appropriated each year for two years, but work not to be begun until the appropriation is actually made.

Requiring all lights in places of amusement to be protected by globes.

Fixing the municipal elections in Newark and Jersey City on the second Tuesday in April.

In the House, when Mr. Cagney attempted to get his dollar gas bill out of the hands of the Municipal Corporations Committee, Chairman King told the House that the committee received the bill only Monday, although it was introduced over a month ago. Clerk Parker explained that the bill had been lost in the safe and was not found until Monday. Under the circumstances the House refused to order the bill out of committee, and it is dead for this year.

Among the bills passed by the House were these:

Requiring manufacturers who make goods for the wholesale trade, to pay their employes every two weeks.

Prohibiting menhaden fishing within three miles of the shore, except under license from the Fish and Game Commissioners.

The Supplemental Appropriation bill, carrying appropriations to the amount of $146,000.

Giving to the widow of an intestate all his personal property when he has no children.

Of Interest to Endeavorers.

Rev. A. M. Sherman, of Morristown, has recently designed and published a medium-size illustrated wall pledge for Endeavorers. In the centre are pictures of Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Secretary Baer, Treasurer Shaw, and Robert Ross, the Christian Endeavor martyr. There are also pictures of places of interest associated with the movement.

A leaflet has been issued by Revs. Charles Roads and Charles A. Oliver, giving the history and method of Christian Endeavor evangelistic work. It is a valuable summary and all societies should procure copies. The leaflet is published by the United Society.

Eloped and Were Married.

Mrs. Oscar Felter, of Branch Mills, Monday afternoon notified the authorities at Westfield that her younger sister, Sarah, had left her home early in the morning and she feared that she had eloped with a man named Al. Day, of Westfield. Mrs. Felter has had the care of her sister for several years, and was greatly worried about her sister's disappearance. The couple were traced to Rahway, and later were found at the residence of Day's father in Westfield. The girl showsd a marriage certificate signed by an Episcopal minister at Rahway. As the girl is over eighteen years of age that settled the matter.

—Justice Newcorn issued a summons today in the landlord and tenant case of Rogers against Sullivan, which is returnable March 30th.

Captain Neilson, of the steamship Westerland, American Line, entertained a number of Plainfield friends at dinner on board the steamer last night. The vessel sailed today.

TOO EARLY TO GIVE IN

Hon. J. H. Manley Says Reed's Strength Will Steadily Increase.

M'KINLEY NOT FAR IN THE LEAD

The Aged Statesman Addresses a Letter to the Governor of Maine Pointing Out the Present Strength of the Various Candidates.

Washington, March 25.—Hon. J. H. Manley of Maine, secretary of the national republican committee, has addressed the following letter to the governor of Maine, in connection with the claims that Gov. McKinley of Ohio has already secured a majority of the delegates to the St. Louis convention: "My dear Governor—Including elections held to-day there have been 375 delegates elected to the national republican convention. There are thirty-six contested cases, which are not given to any candidate, because it is unfair to assume how these cases will be decided, either by the national committee or the convention. Of the 375 delegates elected 154 are for McKinley, provided you concede to him the twenty-six from Indiana and the eighteen from Minnesota. Sixty-four delegates have been elected for Gov. Morton; nineteen for Senator Quay; ten for Senator Cullom; forty-four for Senator Allison and forty-eight for Mr. Reed. Mr. Reed's strength from now until the convention will steadily increase. I am, sincerely yours,

"J. H. MANLEY."

MORTON ENDORSED.

Action of the New York Republican State Convention.

New York, March 25.—The republican state convention in Grand Central Palace last night carried out almost to the letter the programme as agreed upon by the leaders of the party. The platform favored protection and reciprocity, denounced the movement for free coinage of silver until there is a prospect of international agreement as to silver coinage and while gold remains the standard of the civilized world, and favored a business man for the office of president of the United States. On the above platform Gov. Morton was presented as the choice of Empire state republicans for the St. Louis nomination for the presidency.

Struggle of the McKinley Supporters.

When Chairman Aldrich of the committee on nominations presented the names of Gen. Tracy and E. H. Butler for electors-at-large, Messrs. Platt, Miller, Depew and Lauterbach for delegates-at-large, and Messrs. Fish, Babcock, Witherbee and McMillan for alternates-at-large, ex-supervisor Thos. Fitchie, representing the anti-Platt followers, presented a minority report substituting the names of Edgar B. Jewett of Buffalo and Gen. Samuel Thomas of New York for delegates-at-large in place of Platt and Lauterbach, with the recommendation that if it appears after the first ballot that Levi P. Morton cannot be the choice of the national convention that the delegates-at-large from New York be instructed to use all honorable means to promote the cause of William McKinley of Ohio. The vote on the report resulted: against, 631; for, 109. The announcement was greeted with general applause, the McKinley men cheering because they received so many votes and the Morton men because they had nearly six times as many votes as the opposition.

MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS.

Senator Davis' Letter Withdrawing from the Presidential Race.

Minneapolis, March 25.—In the convention hall wherein Benjamin Harrison was nominated for the presidency of the United States, the republicans of this state yesterday declared unanimously for Wm. McKinley as the next president of the United States, renewed their fidelity to the principles of the republican party, declared their belief in the policy of the United States as declared by James Monroe, demanded the restoration of the principle of reciprocity as a national policy and passed a resolution favoring the use of both gold and silver to the extent of which they can be maintained at a parity on the purchasing and debt-paying power and opposing the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Davis' Withdrawal.

Following is the telegram of Senator Davis to J. A. Tawney requesting that his name be not considered as a presidential possibility: "I am bound, I always did, and do most loyally respect the wishes of the people of Minnesota. For that reason I request that my name be not considered in the deliberations of the Minneapolis convention. Give all my friends my enduring and heartfelt thanks. Minnesota republicans should, in my opinion, declare against the United State undertaking the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It should also declare for a protective tariff that will encourage, secure and perpetuate domestic production of everything, agricultural, mining or manufactures, that we can produce or make. It should also assert the policy of the United States as disclosed by James Monroe, and by every one of our statesmen since; declare that the people of Cuba ought to be recognized as belligerents; declare for coast defenses and such other naval and military preparations as will surely make us able to secure peace by our manifest strength in war.

"C. K. DAVIS."

Unfriendly Articles Disavowed.

Madrid, March 25.—The government paper El Nacional disavows the unfriendly articles to the United States which appeared in the Epoca yesterday and which were supposed to reflect the views of the Spanish cabinet.

DULL DAY IN CONGRESS.

Nothing of Special Importance in Either House.

Washington, March 25.—Nothing of special importance is on the programme in either house of congress to-day. The Cuban matter, which has furnished amusement and excitement for visitors to the galleries, will probably be permitted to rest for a few days, although the subject is likely to be brought up in some manner at any moment. The chief matter of interest in the senate yesterday afternoon was the speech of Senator Mills in support of his joint resolution requesting the president to procure from the Spanish government the right of self-government for Cuba. He asserted that the United States had rights not only in Cuba, but in every foot of soil in the western hemisphere; that that was the Monroe doctrine; that that doctrine was as old as humanity, and that God Almighty was its author, as it was the right of self-preservation. "The United States should say to Spain," he exclaimed, "'You must give that island self-government, or we will.' And we are able to do it, too." After his speech some additional correspondence bearing on the Cuban question was brought forward by Senator Morgan, dem., Ala., and then the joint resolution was placed on the calendar.

House of Representatives.

Quite unexpectedly the house was plunged into a debate in the course of which the war was fought over and the issue of which was the repeal of the last remaining restriction against those who served in the confederate army. Representative Hull, rep., Ia., had presented from the committee on military affairs for the consideration of the house the senate bill which repealed section 1,213, R. S., regulating the appointment of officers in the army and navy, providing that no person who held a commission in the United States army and afterwards entered into the service of the confederate states or any state thereof should be appointed an officer in the army or navy of the United States. Boutelle, rep., Me., vigorously opposed the passage of the bill. The bill was advocated by Gen. Grosvenor, rep., O.; Pickler, rep., S. D.; Grow, rep., Pa.; Walker, rep., Va., who succeeded Stonewall Jackson in the command of the latter's famous brigade, and Cummings, dem., N. Y. The bill was passed after two hours' debate, Boutelle alone voting in the negative.

ARMOR FOR RUSSIA.

Successful Test of American Plate at Indian Head Grounds.

Washington, March 25.—A nickel steel Harveyized sample plate, representing the five-inch armor manufactured by the Carnegie company for the Russian government, was tested at the naval proving ground, Indian Head, Md., yesterday afternoon by Captain Sampson, chief of the bureau of ordnance, and his assistants, at the request of the Russian government. Six shots were fired at the plate at a velocity of 1,700 feet per second. Five of the shots were from a four-inch gun and one from a five-inch gun. The plate withstood the shots and passed the test successfully.

A GIFT TO NEWPORT, N. H.

To Receive a New School House if the Town Will Reduce Its Debt.

Newport, N. H., March 25.—At the annual school meeting yestarday Hon. Dexter Richards offered to present the town with a new high school building to cost $22,000, provided the town would agree to reduce its debt an average of $5,000 per year for the next five years. The offer was accepted and a building committee appointed.

Populists Advised Not To Fuse.

Raleigh, N. C., March 25.—Marion Butler, chairman of the populist party in North Carolina, has issued a circular letter to county chairmen of the party and to influential members, in which he advises populists not to fuse or cooperate with either republicans or democrats, but to hold firmly to the free silver coinage plan.

Mitchell Agrees to Fight Corbett.

London, March 25.—Charlie Mitchell has agreed to fight Jim Corbett for a purse of $12,000 offered by George Stevens of the Bolingbroke club.

TO AMERICA FOR AID

Spain Seeks Assistance from Her Subjects in This Country.

FUNDS TO STRENGTHEN HER NAVY

A Junta, Similar to the One in Mexico, Established in New York City—To Collect Subscriptions from Spaniards.

New York, March 25.—The founding of a patriotic Spanish junta, or union, in the City of Mexico, and its handsome monthly subscription list toward the formation of a fund to build new vessels for the royal navy of Spain, has been followed by a similar action in this city. Yesterday Senor Don Arturo Baldsano y Topete, the consul-general of Spain, called a meeting of the Spanish colony in New York city. There was a full attendance when La Junta Patriotica Espanola de los Estados Unides was duly organized. The payments will be made monthly or quarterly, semi-annually or annually, as the several juntas may decide. In all parts of America, north, central and south, the payments will extend over ten years. The Mexican organization has been most thorough. Its patriotic platform has been adopted, detail for detail, by the Spaniards of this city. It is estimated that at least a million dollars a year will be subscribed in the three Americas by the Spaniards.

TWO TO BE SHOT.

Execution of Cuban Rebels Set for This Week.

Havana, March 25.—It is reported here that the rebel leader Maceo is in the province of Pinar del Rio, near the north coast. Gomez is said to be moving to the eastward. Two political prisoners, who are now confined in the Cabanas fortress, will be shot sometime this week.

Cuban Republic Archives Captured.

Washington, March 25.—A government dispatch from Madrid to the Spanish minister announces that Col. Martin has captured all the archives and documents of the Cuban republic near Sancti Spiritu.

Another Insurgent Expedition.

New York, March 25.—A special dispatch from Jacksonville says: "The steamer Three Friends left Jacksonville some time last night with another cargo of arms and ammunition for the Cuban insurgents."

SUFFERING TERRIBLE.

Over 1,000 Dead from Starvation and Exposure Alone at Harpoot.

New York, March 25.—In response to $15,000 sent last week to Constantinople by Brown Bros. & Co., 59 Wall street, treasurers of the Armenian relief fund and of the Red cross, the following cable has just been received: "Philippolis, March 24.—Your two remittances most timely. Thanks. Distribution by Harpoot committee now reaches 54,000 souls. Over 1,000 have died from starvation and exposure there alone. We are supporting fifteen other centres. Need appalling. A nation is threatened with extermination. International Relief Committee."

Emperor William in Italy.

Genoa, March 25.—Emperor William and Empress Victoria arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening. The Duke of Genoa and a number of high officials received them at the railway station and as their majesties were driven from the station they were enthusiastically acclaimed by the crowds that lined their route. A meeting between the emperor and King Humbert has been fixed to take place on April 12 at Venice.

Requisition for McGraw's Return.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 25.—A requisition has been issued by Gov. Hastings on the governor of Missouri for the return of "Paddy" McGraw, who is under arrest in Savannah, Mo. McGraw escaped from the Western penitentiary a half a dozen years ago while serving a term for voluntary manslaughter. He will be brought back to finish his sentence.

Women as Lay Delegates.

New Haven, Conn., March 25.—The question of admitting women as lay delegates to the general conference of the M. E. church is creating a great deal of discussion here, where the annual conference of the New York east district of the church will be held April 1-6. Leading clergymen of this city have expressed themselves as confident that the amendment admitting women will not pass.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

SHE DIED FROM POISON

That Much Known Regarding the Death of Annie McGrath.

PHILADELPHIA POLICE ARE RETICENT

Further Known That Samuel Langdon, the Wealthy Coal Operator, Sat Beside the Girl During Her Death Agonies.

Philadelphia, March 25.—The arrest of Samuel P. Langdon, the wealthy coal operator, in connection with the death of Annie McGrath, the handsome young typewriter, whose body was found on a bed in a house on Girard street, which, it is claimed, Langdon, Miss McGrath and a servant occupied alone, has caused no little excitement in business circles, where Langdon is well known. Langdon is a man of about 50 years of age, and occupied a position of considerable prominence in financial and business circles in Philadelphia and the state. He is president of the United collieries companies, a bituminous mining company; president of the Altoona & Philipsbury connecting railroad, and was formerly president of the Altoona, Clearfield & Northern railroad. Besides these companies, he has other varied interests in the bituminous coal regions of Pennsylvania. Although he lived with Miss McGrath as her husband, Langdon has a wife and a grown son and daughter, but he has not lived with his legal wife for some time. To-day Langdon occupies a cell in the Central police station, and the police are working on the mysterious manner of the girl's death. It has been developed that the dead girl first met Langdon when he employed her as his stenographer and typewriter.

At the Girard Street Residence.

Langdon took up residence a few weeks ago in the Girard street house with an exceedingly pretty girl about 18 years of age whom he stated was his wife. Langdon looks fully his 50 years and the youth and beauty of the young woman caused the couple to be considerably talked about in the neighborhood. They neither sought nor seemed to wish to make any acquaintances and they were variously known by their neighbors under the name of McGrath, McDonald and Langdon. A colored girl named Bertha Stewart was employed as a servant. "Mrs. Langdon" came down to breakfast on Sunday morning in her usual good health. At dinner she complained of feeling unwell and later in the afternoon the servant girl heard her moaning in her room on the second floor. Langdon told the girl that there was no occasion to disturb his wife, as she was suffering from a billious attack. After this the servant did not go near her mistress' room that day. About 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, Langdon came down stairs with a valise in his hand. He told Bertha he was going to New York and that she need not worry about his wife, who was still unwell from billiousness. Langdon then left the house.

Found Dead on the Floor.

About 8 o'clock at night Bertha became alarmed at "Mrs. Langdon's" quiet. Going to the room on the second floor she looked in. "Mrs. Langdon" was lying on the floor, fully dressed. Her feet were crossed, there was a towel over her face, and her attitude was so quiet that Bertha was frightened. She snatched the towel from the girl's face and, even to the colored woman's untrained eyes, one glance was sufficient to show her that she looked upon death. She gave the alarm and the police were soon on the scene. A physician was summoned, and he, after an examination of the body, gave it as his opinion that the woman had been dead fully twenty-four hours before he had been called in.

Deceived Her Parents.

The girl was the daughter of a pressman on one of the daily papers here. It seems that when she was supposed to have been traveling with Langdon she was really at her father's house. To her parents she had some plausible tale of a situation that required her absence from home, and thus she was enabled to go with Langdon. She was also careful to never appear at her father's house arrayed in the handsome dresses and jewelry with which Langdon supplied her.

Death Was Due to Poison.

Despite the efforts of the police at concealment enough has leaked out to show pretty conclusively that Miss McGrath was killed by poison. Whether this poison was self-administered or not, Langdon probably only knows, unless he told the police the full story. That he watched by the girl during her death agonies has also been clearly brought out.

Trial Trips of Warships.

Washington, March 25.—The navy department is making arrangements for the official trials of the new battleships Massachusetts and Oregon, and the work of putting armor and armament upon them is being expedited. It is believed at the department that the Massachusetts will be ready for trial on April 15, and the Oregon one month later.

The Egyptian Question.

London, March 25.—It is reported that France and Great Britain will have settled their Egyptian difficulty before the next meeting of the Egyptian debt commission on next Thursday. Explanations of a satisfactory nature are proceeding.

Mutinous Hussars in Ireland.

Dublin, March 25.—Mutinous conduct on the part of the Thirteenth hussars is reported from Dundalk. Cavalrymen are said to have hacked to pieces twenty-eight saddles and bridles. Several of them have been arrested.

DIVIDENDS SUSPENDED.

Rumors and Excitement in Mill Circles at Fall River

Fall River, Mass., March 25.—Mill circles to-day are busy with gossip due largely to the notice sent out to stockholders of the Bourne mills. After declaring the regular monthly dividend of 1 per cent., the directors of the corporation have voted to suspend further payments of dividends until business improves. Perhaps no mill in the city is in better condition financially to stand the strain of dull business. Its stock is quoted at $180 per share, par value, $100; it has a surplus account from which dividends could be regularly paid for some time. The cause of a determination not to pay dividends at present is most likely to be found in the fact that there is no profit in the cloth business now. While this condition holds, the Bourne will probably keep running as long as any of its competitors, but it does not propose to weaken its standing by paying out almost as much as many mills are losing by renewing contracts at present low prices.

FOOD TEST AT WESLEYAN.

What Electrical Assistant Smith's Meals Consist of in the Calorimeter.

Middletown, Conn., March 25.—A. W. Smith, a graduate of Dartmouth, is now confined in the calorimeter at Wesleyan, where he will remain ten days. Smith is an electrical assistant. His diet is different from that of Dr. Tower, who came out Saturday. His breakfast is: Oatmeal, 40 grams; milk, 150 grams; bread, 75 grams; butter, 20; sugar, 20; baked beans, 150. Dinner—Hamburger steak, 125; mashed potatoes, 100; bread, 75; butter, 25; apples, 125. Supper—Boston brown bread, 250 grams; milk, 500 grams. Yesterday he did not eat all his butter. He is at work on charts and enjoying life.

Italy's African Credits.

Rome, March 24.—The senate last night debated the African credits, amounting to 140,000,000 lire, which were lately approved by the chamber of deputies. When Prime Minister di Rudini arose to speak in favor of the government's demands, he was loudly applauded. He emphatically denied that King Menelik had demanded the payment of a large indemnity as a condition of peace, and declared that the report was an insult to Italy.

Yale Will Compete.

Philadelphia, March 25.—The entry of the Yale university relay team has been received for the relay meeting to be held on Franklin field on April 25. This makes certain the appearance of a Yale team at the races. They will compete in the mile relay race for the championship of America and also in the open five-mile relay race, in which five men will each run one mile.

McKinley, 84; Quay, 63.

Huntingdon, Pa., March 25.—The Huntingdon county republican convention was held yesterday. The vote on presidential preference resulted as follows: McKinley, 84; Quay, 63. The delegates to the district convention were instructed to vote for the Ohio man as long as his name remains before the convention.

Catholic Church Burned.

Erie, Pa., March 25.—St. Andrews Catholic church was destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire occurred during the devotions and spread so rapidly that only the altar fixtures and vestments could be saved. Several young women risked their lives by rushing through the smoke and fire to save the statuary and altar furniture.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill Hearing.

Washington, March 25.—Friday next has been set apart for hearings on the Nicaragua canal bill before the house committee on commerce. Ex-senator Warner Miller of New York, president of the canal company, and members of the engineer commission who visited Nicragua last summer are expected to appear.

Suing the Central Road.

Rochester, N. Y., March 25.—The New York Central is being sued here for the death of Timothy Ragan, who was killed on the "Peanut" road near Canandaigua while coupling cars last September. Twenty thousand dollars damages are asked. The road is charged with using coupling irons that were out of repair.

Town Election at Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 25.—The village charter election held yesterday in compliance with Assemblyman McNaughton's reform law, passed one year ago, resulted in favor of the anti-reformers. Five democrats and one republican were elected.

No Verification of the Report.

Washington, March 25.—Nothing can be learned at the British legation here regarding the newspaper report from London that Sir Julian Pauncefote, British embassador, is going to London to discuss the Venezuelan question with Lord Salisbury.

Relieved His Conscience.

New York, March 25.—Mayor Strong has received the following letter: "To right a wrong, for conscience sake, please hand to the receiver of taxes and acknowledge in the papers, $170." The money was sent to the city chamberlain.

Banker Rapidly Recovering.

Nice, March 25.—George A. Banker, the well known American bicyclist, is rapidly recovering from the attack of typhoid fever from which he is suffering.

Hudson Frozen Over Below Albany.

Hudson, N. Y., March 25.—The Hudson is frozen from shore to shore at this point. The ice is six inches thick, and teams are crossing over it.

NO CHANGE OF TONE

Bayard Regrets Nothing He Has Uttered Abroad.

WOULD REPEAT THE SAME AT HOME

The Ambassador Addresses a Dinner Party in London and Refers to the Patriotism and Pluck of the Two English Speaking Nations.

London, March 25.—The anniversary dinner of the London General Pension society was given last night. Among the guests was the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, the American ambassador, who responded to the toast, "Our Kin Beyond the Seas." He remarked upon the strong family likeness of the kin beyond the seas to the people of England. They were, he said, as like as two peas, and they resemble each other in their patriotism and and pluck. Mr. Bayard dwelt upon the differences of opinion among his own countrymen and upon the value of individual opinion. He said that since he came to England he had never found occasion to change his tone, and there was nothing he would say here that he would not say at home and vice versa. (Cheers.) A man must not be expected to speak in a tone that would suit everybody. He rejoiced that in the system of government that originated here, and that had been carried beyond the Atlantic there was something that enabled a man to speak according to his own consience. There, too, lay the strength of both countries. When the time came when a man dare not speak the thoughts swelling within him for the public good, God help the country. In conclusion, Mr. Bayard said: "Herein lies that which shall keep both countries moving onwards and upwards in the cause of civilization, and we will never suppress the truth for fear of evil consequences. We will tell the truth whether we live or whether we have to die."

MUST PAY THEIR TAXES.

Big Sums Due the City of Brooklyn, N. Y., from Elevated Roads.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 25.—Supreme Court Justice Gaynor has handed down a decision denying the application for an injunction restraining the registrar of arrears from selling out the Kings County Elevated railway and the Brooklyn Elevated railway for taxes. The companies will have to pay or lose their franchises. Justice Gaynor scored the management of the companies as being dishonest both to the taxpayers and the public investing in their securities. The Brooklyn Elevated was assessed $83,000 on its twenty miles of road, the assessed valuation being $2,903,965. The company objected to the assessment on the ground that it was excessive. On this property, Justice Gaynor said, the company had issued stocks and bonds aggregating $26,000,000. Either the assessments, he held, were too low, or the stocks and bonds had been illegally issued.

ANNA DICKINSON'S SUIT.

A Continuance Granted on Account of Injury Received by Her Sister.

Scranton, March 25.—The case of Anna E. Dickinson against Thompson, Oglesby and others for $100,000 damages for incarceration in an insane asylum, was continued by Judge Buffington in the United States circuit court here yesterday. Anna Dickinson was present in person, and her counsel, J. Aspinwall Hodge of New York, argued with much fervor and eloquence for an immediate trial. The continuance was allowed because Susan Dickinson, a sister of Anna, fell upon the ice Sunday and broke her wrist. Susan is the most important witness for the defense, and a local physician thought that her presence at the trial while suffering such pain might endanger her health.

COSTLY ARMORY FOR NEWARK.

It Will Not Be Constructed, However, Under Two Years.

Trenton, March 25.—The senate has passed the bill under which the city of Newark will ultimately get a $270,000 armory. The money will not be available, however, under two years, as no appropriation has been made and none probably will be made until 1898, nor can the building of the structure be begun until the appropriation is made. The Jersey City, Paterson and Camden armories will first be taken care of.

Heir to $250,000.

Gloucester, Mass., March 25.—James Sterling, a member of the crew of the schooner Davy Crockett, that arrived from Georges yesterday, has learned from an attorney that he had fallen heir to $250,000, his part of an inheritance left by his grand parents in Ireland.

The Dygart Case.

Washington, March 25.—A telegram was sent to Consul-General Williams at Havana by Assistant Secretary Rockhill yesterday afternoon directing him to secure expedition of the Dygart case and report without delay to the state department.

Failure To Issue Mileage Books.

New York, March 25.—The attention of the attorney-general has been called to the neglect of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company to comply with the law regarding mileage books.

Electrical Executions for Ohio.

Columbus, O., March 25.—The senate last night unanimously passed the Jones bill adopting the electrical mode of inflicting capital punishment. The house will no doubt concur.

Arbor Day in Connecticut.

Hartford, March 25.—Gov. Coffin has issued a proclamation designating Friday, April 17, as Arbor Day.

When a man talks sound money he talks sound sense.

The New Jersey Republicans are free trade in all matters of Cupid.

The Booth family have been inconsistent on all sides during the Salvation Army trouble. They are examples of "do as I tell you to do, not as I do."

The State Federation of Woman's Clubs have asked for the passage of the Constitutional amendment pending which gives suffrage to women in the school elections.

It is characteristic of New Jersey's conservatism that the Legislature should refuse to pass the law providing for marriage licenses. The theory across the North River is that if anybody wants to marry in haste and repent at leisure the best thing possible is to let him do it.—Evening Sun.

The Joint Committee on Revision of Borough Laws have prepared a report, one important passage of which is as follows:

We believe that there are many boroughs in this State which have no sufficient excuse for existence, which, were prompted by some local desire for extravagant improvement, or were part of a scheme of speculation to encourage the sale of real estate, or were the outgrowth of sectional or local jealousy, which found too easy a vent in the facility which the borough law affords for the creation of a new municipality. We have not thought it advisable, however, to question in any way the existence of any of these boroughs, or in rehabilitating them to make any distinction between those that ought to exist and those that ought not. It will be sufficient, we trust, to guard against the increase of such boroughs.

An esteemed correspondant asks us to describe the probable effects of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, if that measure should be adopted by the United States. We are also asked to give details as to who would be benefited by it, and who would suffer, and all the rest. We are sorry that neither our time nor our imagination will suffice for the task. All we can say is that in the event mentioned, the dollar would become in purchasing power the equivalent of the present half dollar or thereabouts; and the consequences every one can work out for himself.—New York Sun.

The delay of President Cleveland on his forthcoming Civil Service order is attributed to the fact that the form in which the extension of the Civil Service rules shall be made, has not yet been definitely agreed upon. As now contemplated the order will cover nearly all the post offices throughout the country and about two-thirds of the offices now outside of the Civil Service, leaving a few of the lowest grade which cannot be filled under the rules, the lowest grades of unskilled labor and a few of the higher offices of a confidential nature subject to personal appointment by Cabinet officers and heads of bureaus. The reform contemplated is one of the most sweeping in its character, and the benefit which it will work to the public service can hardly be appreciated until its results begin to be felt and recognized in the improvement which will be made in every branch of the public service. One of the very best results will be to relieve public officials of every grade of the anxiety which constantly haunts them in regard to the retention of their places in case of a change in the administration, and the sense of security which good behavior and efficient work gives them, will stimulate them to their very best efforts, all of which will redound to the advantage of the general public.—True American.

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER

"Finding Cleveland's baking powder to be really the best, I recommended it in Common Sense in the Household' and now use it exclusively." May 5, 1894

MARION HARLAND, Author of "Common Sense in the Household."

THEATRICAL.

Herrmann the Great, who deserves this title, and without doubt in his particular art is inimitable and unapproachable, appears at Music Hall tonight. There is no entertainment similar to the Herrmanns' in this country, and it is a pleasure to be relieved from the ordinary dramatic and operatic attractions. Herrmann's entertainments are unique, amusing and full of delightfully unexpected surprises. Every trick is performed by him so deftly that it inspires a feeling kin to awe with his audiences This season his entertainment is the most brilliant one of his entire career. He has invented a new kind of entertainment to his magical art, and it is a short play, in which an act of magic is introduced. This he calls a magic comedy, and it is entitled 'The Artist's Dream." Herrmann, until this season, has never presented such a sketch. It is a beautiful ideal, and presented with spectacular electric effects, special scenery and contrivances and novel accompanying music. Its story is that of a picture which miraculously comes to life before the very eyes of the artist who has painted it. In the act Herrmann impersonates the character of Mephisto, and Adelaide Herrmann, that of the young artist. Herrmann's other marvels are entitled "Trilby," "The Asiatic Trunk Mystery," and "The Columbian Transformation." Herrmann's programme is said to be filled with mystic phenomena that the ordinary theatre-goer cannot afford to miss it this season and undoubtedly crowded audiences will be the rule.

—Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of I., will meet this evening in their rooms, the Fireman's Hall, at which time the anniversary committee will make their final report and several propositions for membership will be received.

Charles Robert, of Cranford, has rented, through J. T. Vail's real estate agency, one of J. E. Martine's new houses on East Ninth street. Mr. Robert lived in this city for sometime but left here three years ago. This is, he says, the only place to live after all, and he does not see why people want to live in Cranford or any other place along the Central when they can live here.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber, executor of Hiram Hornish, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the twenty-ninth day of April next.

CYCLING COMMENT.

E. Frank Vail has received a sample of the Pierce Special wheel.

Watch the Columbia blue rim wheel this year. You will see a great many of them.

Wm. Craig, of Dunellen, has purchased a Crescent roadster from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Stop at Martin & Zimmer's cycle store on Somerset street and look at their complete line of bicycle sundries.

Now is the time to visit the Columbia Cycle Academy and get all the fine points on riding. Then you will be ready for the spring riding.

Miss Norma Freeman, of Watchung avenue, has a new Crescent, No. 5, and Miss Annie Freeman a Crescent No. 4. Both were bought from the F.L.C. Martin Cycle Company.

Wm. Clifton, an employe of the Pond Tool Machine Works, was obliged to walk home from Pompton a few days ago. Cause—the tire on his front wheel became suddenly flat.

The last mid-Lent ride of the Plainfield Wheeling Club will be held at the Columbia Cycle Academy on Friday evening. The ride was postponed from Thursday night on account of the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels.

Godey's Magazine is the first among the monthlies to devote a number to the large and growing section of the public which rides the wheel. The April issue contains a delicious variety of illustrated articles, essays and storied, most of which deal with the bicycle. A noticeable novelty is a Wheeling Song, composed by Robert Coverley, and suited to the use of amateurs.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Clarence Smith, formerly of this city, is now studying at the Yale Law School. He is playing first base on the Law School baseball nine, and will go with them on their southern trip during the Easter holidays.

A number of boys of the Plainfield High School will go to New York next Saturday evening to attend the indoor meet of the New York Interscholastic Athletic Association, to be held in Madison Square Garden, under the auspices of the Manhattan Athletic Association.

A Good Thing for the People.

There are thousands of people, who, while not exactly sick, are out of order or ailing in some way. They don't feel well and can't understand what the trouble is. You can learn exactly what ails you, without its costing anything, by writing a letter to the noted and successful specialist, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, and telling him just how you feel. He will answer it, explaining every sympton in your case and telling just what to do to get well. He gives most careful attention to every letter, and makes his explanations so clear that you understand exactly what the matter is, and how to cure it. And all this costs you nothing.

He makes a specialty of treating patients through letter correspondence, and this method has proved wonderfully successful. His vast experience enables him to understand from reading your symptoms, the exact nature of your complaint. He is the discoverer of that wonderful remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the best medicine in the world, and has discovered many other valuable remedies. People living at a distance from the city will at once see the great advantage of this system of consultation and treatment by letter correspondence. No long journey and no doctor's fee. Write him and it will doubtless be the means of your geting well and strong.

—The Board of Trade will hold their regular meeting Thursday evening, April 2d.

—Several candidates will be initiated in Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., tomorrow evening.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Its just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. Its easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Fun will reign supreme at Music Hall tomorrow night.

—Staking for the street railway began yesterday on Putnam and Woodland avenue.

—The loan exhibition committee of the Plainfield Camera Club will hold a meeting tonight.

—The Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels will commence at 8:15 at Music Hall tomorrow night.

—W. L. & J. M. Smalley have purchased a new horse from Dan Roberts for their delivery wagon.

—The Westfield Y. M. C. A., with a membership of 65, will be incorporated under the laws of the State.

—Miss Louise Shepard, of New York, is announced to address the Plainfield branch of the Christian Alliance on April 21st.

—Geo. Conover, of the borough, has moved Mrs. Lawrence, of Bainbridge street, Brooklyn, to East Front street, near Netherwood.

—This evening in Red Men's hall a birthday sociable will be held under the auspices of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters.

—Victor Christofferson has completed the job of wiring French & Vail's new Mountain View Hotel for electric bells and lights.

—Maxson Dunham, of South Plainfield, will sell tomorrow at 1 o'clock a quantity of farming utensils and household goods, previous to moving to Dunellen.

—People who are obliged to drive through Webster place complain very much about the quantity of broken glass and bottles that have been thrown in the roadway.

—A special meeting of the Young Men's Association of Monroe Avenue chapel will be held tomorrow night to make the final arrangements for the concert on Friday night.

—This is the best time to have your spring suts dyed. Don't wait for the rush, but call at Hillier & Co's, North avenue, and let them fix your suit so that it will be as good as new.

—The Chapot Glove Manufacturing Company will take possession of its new factory on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, in a short time, and give up its present quarters in the Babcock building.

—Is your eyesight defective? The correct glasses properly fitted is probably all that is needed to give you your perfect vision. Give us a trial. Satisfaction guaranteed. Leech, Stiles & Co., formerly with Queen & Co. At 107 East Front street every Thursday.

—It is believed that the Borough Commissioners on the proposed Watchung avenue extension will make a report at the next meeting of the Council Friday evening, April 3d. Their work is now nearly all completed.

—The annual district meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Elizabeth district will be held on Thursday morning and afternoon, May 14th, in the First M. E. church in this city. It will no doubt be a most successful convention and largely attended.

—Extensive changes are now being made in the store, 202 West Front street, which was formerly occupied by Manning's five and ten cent store. William H. Sebring, the popular clothier, will leave his present store on Park avenue and take posession of that one tomorrow.

—A conference of the Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church, of this State, will be held in St. Paul's M. E. church, Newark, tomorrow afternoon. The Home Missionary Society will hold their meeting in the same place Friday afternoon. Several women from this city will attend.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

THE HUXLEY MEMORIAL.

Unusual Enthusiasm Over the Movement in the United States.

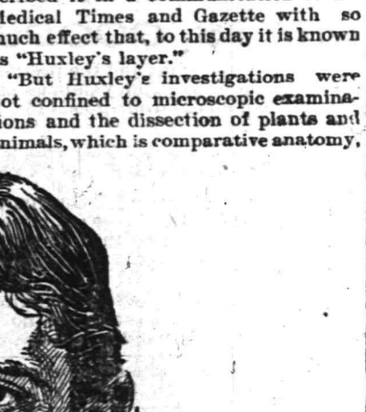
American Scientists in It—A Statue to Be Placed with Those of Darwin and Owen in the Kensington Museum.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Never has an undertaking of an international memorial offering been entertained with such rare enthusiasm in America as the recently organized movement to the memory of the late Thomas Henry Huxley, P. C. The unprecedented activity shown by the leading American scientific bodies at the time of the eternal retirement of the great champion of evolution and embodied into numerous devout resolutions of brotherly regret and declarations of the most earnest assistance in whatever action the home societies of Huxley's nationality should decide upon to give material expression of gratitude, commended special recognition in the work of this accomplishment, by virtue of the joint feelings so plainly shown. He was an admirer of the American people and nation.

American scientists did not, however, expect such marked preference as is shown them in the list of names selected from the foreign members of the general committee formed in London for the purpose of establishing such an interesting memorial, and which recently arrived in New York. A movement to organize an independent national committee has been abandoned, as all the influential scientists in the United States are honored in the home organization.

There are only two men in the long list of honored Americans who had the rare advantages of studying under the master mind of the world famous deplored scientist. They are Prof. Henry F. Osborn, biologist, Columbia college, New York, and Prof. W. B. Scott, biologist, Princeton college, Princeton, N. J. The foreign members embrace the names of all the noteworthy scientists in the world, a field representing 16 different nationalities, and numbering 235 men in all. America leads with 64, Germany has 62, France 24, Italy 13, Holland 12, Austria 10, Russia 10, Switzerland 8, Japan 7, Denmark 5, Sweden 5, Portugal 4, Norway 3, Belgium 3, Roumania 3, Spain 1 and Arabia 1. It is interesting to note that 7 Japanese scientists were honored in this complimentary list to several less in larger countries who are among the oldest known to civilization. Spain, for instance, is credited with having only one scientist worthy of appointment. Is this not the most substantial evidence of the much questioned higher educative advancement of this oriental race? And if one generation can advance at such a pace what rivalry is Europe likely to encounter from this hitherto unsuspected quarter?



PROF. W. B. SCOTT, BIOLOGIST, PRINCETON COLLEGE.

PROF. HENRY F. OSBORN.

Several suggestions have been presented and entertained as to the form the Huxley memorial should take. The final decision is a life-size statue to be placed in company with those of Darwin and Owen in the natural history branch of the British museum at Kensington, England.

Although deeply absorbed in the composition of an important lecture in his study at Columbia college, when I called, Prof. Osborn welcomed me cordially and voluntarily set aside his work for an hour or more to place himself at the disposal of my questions regarding the promotion of the memorial and his personal knowledge of the life of the great scientist. I found Columbia's noted biologist ready to make any sacrifice of time in the interest of the monument. Asked to give a brief history of the memorial undertaking, he responded:

"Shortly after Prof. Huxley died a coterie of his most intimate friends held a meeting in the rooms of the Royal society, London. A memorial had already been suggested, and they concluded they would be advancing the desire of all interested in inviting a number of representative and influential men to a second gathering for the purpose of fully considering the matter. The result of the second meeting was an unanimous decision to form into a regularly constituted provisional committee for the advancement of the movement, soon after which invitations were sent out to an additional number of admirers of the great biologist for the formation of a general committee.

"These invitations were very cordially received. H. R. H. the prince of Wales responded warmly, accepting the duty of honorary president. Immediate action would have been taken, but summer was too far advanced to make it worth while, and so the first meeting of the general committee was postponed until late in the fall. At the gathering of this body on November 27 last Lord Kelvin offered the first resolution, which was to the effect that it was desirable to establish a memorial to the late Rt. Hon. Thomas Henry Huxley. It was seconded by Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, M. P., and further supported by Lord Playfair.

"In offering the resolution Lord Kelvin paid a tribute to Huxley, which was characteristically in touch with the 'solemn gladness' of the occasion. It was an impressive mind picture of the simple grandeur of Huxley's life. 'As an original investigator in biology,' said the English peer, 'Huxley has by his lifelong perseverance in working for the increase of natural knowledge, left to the world a monument more enduring than any bronze or marble. Of his originality he gave early proof. Whilst still a student in Charing Cross hospital he made an exceedingly skillful and acute microscopic investigation of the structure of hair; he discovered a special structure, and described it in a communication to the Medical Times and Gazette with so much effect that, to this day it is known as "Huxley's layer."

"But Huxley's investigations were not confined to microscopic examinations and the dissection of plants and animals, which is comparative anatomy, including the vegetable world. He soon took up the subjects of geology and palaeontology, and especially in the latter his tracing of relationships and philosophical reasoning regarding these connections which led to his finding the ancestors of many creatures now living on this earth in rocks, are contributions to the great and newly developed science of evolution that must ever stand, monumental reminders of what Huxley has mastered for science. But as Lord Kelvin has remarked, he was not a man satisfied with being only a specialist, content to investigate his special subjects. He had a mind that must broaden into philosophic thought. The moral lessons of his biological work extended even into the field of politics. He was a worker who gave his life and sacrificed his health for the advancement of the welfare of mankind, which he himself considered of even greater importance than his promotion of the more purely intellectual science. 'Who then deserves a memorial or monument better than Huxley?' I join Lord Kelvin in asking that question.

"Like all genius, in advance of its time," Prof. Osborn remarked to the writer, "Huxley was not fully appreciated until his latter days. He yearned in vain for a university post, and in 1850 cast his eyes toward America, but in those early days classic prestige, even in the enlightened new world, was dead to a science which it was Huxley's great service in support of Darwin to place beside physics, in the lead of all others in England."

Prof. Osborn's reference to Huxley's thoughts of America at the time of his trials, for what he considered proper recognition at home in his early life, is a truly significant disclosure. According to the comments of the noted Columbia university biologist, who knew him well enough to have that much of his confidence, one would be inclined to assume that had Huxley been given the slightest encouragement to come to this country and accept a post in one of the universities, his fame would have been American.

JAMES S. HAMMOND.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

UNITED STATES

Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be held by its local board in this city on Saturday, April 4th, 1896, commencing at 10:30 a. m., for the grade of carriers in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations for this examination are as follow: Not under 18 years. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned, in complete form, on the proper blank, before the hour of closing business on March 30th, 1896. Applications should be filed promptly, therefore, in order that time may remain for correction if necessary.

The Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, without regard to race or to their political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded, and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to any consideration save their efficiency as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, apply to starving children

There are children without food. They cry for it, and are not answered. The pity of it! But often nature cries out in other ways that her children need nourishment. Is your child thin; actually poor in flesh? Does it get no benefit from its food? Then give something which produces flesh and makes rich blood.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites does more than this. It changes the unhealthy action to one of health, thus removing the cause. It acts on the nervous system, which controls all the processes of the body, toning it up into sound and vigorous activity. It is food for growing bone and brain. It makes the thin plump; the pale, ruddy; the weak, strong; it feeds and cures.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

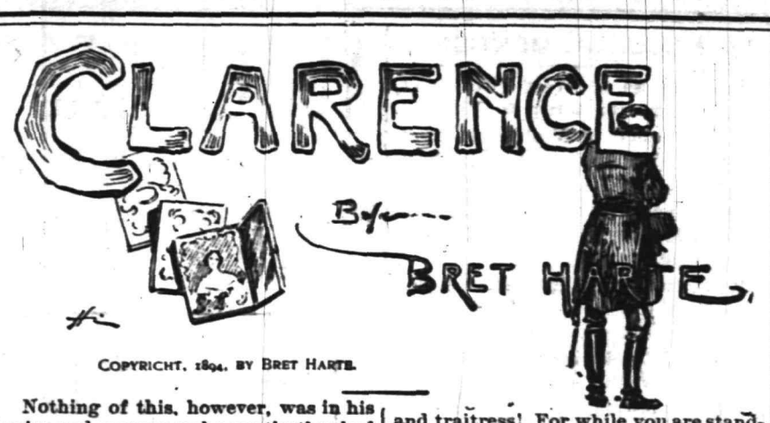
CLARENCE

By BRET HARTE



COPYRIGHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

Nothing of this, however, was in his voice and manner as he gently thanked her for the opportunity of meeting her again. And he was frank—for the di-

"I've only to say the word, to have her shut up in Fort Alcatraz this very night."

version he had expected he had found; he even was conscious of thinking more kindly of his wife who had supplanted her.

"I told Jim he must fetch you, if he had to carry you," she said, striking the palm of her hand with her fan, and glancing at her husband; "I reckon he guessed why—though I didn't tell him—I don't tell Jim everything."

Here Jim arose, and, looking at his watch, "guessed he'd run over to the Lick house and get some cigars."

If he was acting upon some hint from his wife his simulation was so badly done that Clarence felt his first sense of uneasiness. But as Hooker closed the door awkwardly and ostentatiously behind him, Clarence smilingly said he had waited to hear the message from her own lips.

"Jim only knows what he's heard outside; the talk of men, you know, and he hears a good deal of that; more, perhaps, than you do. It was that which put me up to finding out the truth. And I didn't rest till I did. I'm not to be fooled, Clarence—you don't mind my calling you Clarence, now we're both married and done for—and I'm not the kind to be fooled by anybody from the low counties—and that's the Robles rancho. I'm a southern woman myself, from Missouri, but I'm for the union first, last and all the time, and I call myself a match for any lazy, dawdling, lash-slinging slaveholders and slaveholderesses—whether they're mixed blood heaven only knows, or what—or their friends or relations—or the dirty half Spanish grandees and their mixed half nigger peons who truckle to them. You bet!"

His blood had stirred quickly at the mention of the Robles rancho, but the rest of Susy's speech was too much in the vein of her old extravagance to touch him seriously.

He found himself only considering how strange it was that the old petulance and impulsiveness of her girlhood was actually bringing back with it her pink cheeks and brilliant eyes.

"You surely didn't ask Jim to bring me here," he said smilingly, "to tell me that Mrs. Peyton"—he corrected himself hastily, as a malicious sparkle came into Susy's blue eyes—"that my wife—was a southern woman, and probably sympathized with her class? Well, I don't know that I should blame her for that any more than she should blame me for being a northern man and an unionist!"

"And she doesn't blame you?" asked Susy, sneeringly.

The color came slightly into Clarence's cheek, but before he could reply the actress added:

"No—she prefers to use you."

"I don't think I understand you," said Clarence, rising coldly.

"No—you don't understand her!" retorted Susy, sharply. "Look here, Clarence Brant, you're right; I didn't ask you here to tell you—what you and everybody knows—that your wife is a southerner. I didn't ask you here to tell you what everybody suspects—that she turns you round her little finger. But I did ask you here to tell you, what nobody, not even you, suspects, but what I know! And that is that she's a traitor—and more, a spy! And that I've only got to say the word—or send that man Jim to say the word—to have her dragged out of her copperhead den at Robles rancho, and shut up in Fort Alcatraz this very night!"

Still with the pink glowing in her rounding cheek, and eyes snapping like splintered sapphires, she rose to her feet, with her pretty shoulders lifted, her small hands and white teeth both lightly clenched, and took a step towards him.

Even in her attitude there was a reminiscence of her willful childhood, although still blended with the provincial actress whom he had seen on the stage only an hour ago.

Thoroughly alarmed at her threats, in his efforts to conceal his feelings he was not above a weak retaliation.

Stepping back he affected to regard her with a critical admiration that was only half simulated, and said, with a smile: "Very well done—but you have forgotten the flag." She did not flinch. Rather accepting the sarcasm as a tribute to her art she went on with increasing exaggeration:

"No, it is you who have forgotten the flag—forgotten your country, your people, your manhood—everything for that high-t ned, double-dyed old spy and traitress! For while you are standing here your wife is gathering under her roof at Robles a gang of spies and traitors like herself—secession leaders and their bloated, drunken 'chivalry.'

"Yes! You may smile your superior smile, but I tell you, Clarence Brant, that with all your smartness and book learning you know no more of what goes on around you than a child. But others do! This conspiracy is known to the government, the federal officers have been warned; Gen. Sumner has been sent out here—and his first act was to change the command at Fort Alcatrez and send your wife's southern friend—Capt. Pinkney—to the right about! Yes—everything is known but one thing—and that is where and how this precious crew meet! That I alone know, and that I have told you."

"And I suppose," said Clarence, with an unchanged smile, "that this valuable information came from your husband—my old friend, Jim Hooker?"

"No," she answered, sharply. "It comes from Cencho—one of your own peons, who is more true to you and the old Rancho than you have ever been. He saw what was going on and came to me to warn you."

"But why not to me directly?" said Clarence, with affected incredulity.

"Ask him!" she said, viciously. "Perhaps he didn't want to warn the master against the mistress. Perhaps he thought we are still friends. Perhaps—" she hesitated, with a lower voice and a forced smile, "perhaps he used to see us together in the old times."

"Very likely," said Clarence, quietly, "and for the sake of these old times, Susy," he went on with a singular gentleness that was quite distinct from his paling face and set eyes, "I am going to forget all that you have said of me and mine, in all the old willfulness and impatience that I see you still keep with all your old prettiness." He took his hat from the table and gravely held out his hand.

She was frightened for a moment with his impassive abstraction. In the old days she had known it—had believed it was his dogged "obstinacy"—but she knew the hopelessness of opposing it. Yet, with feminine persistency, she again threw herself against it, as a wall.

"You don't believe me! Well, go and see for yourself. They are at Robles now! If you catch the early morning stage at Santa Clare, you will come upon them before they disperse. Dare you try it?"

"Whatever I do," he returned, smilingly, "I shall always be grateful to you for giving me this opportunity of seeing you again—as you were! Make my excuses to your husband. Good night!"

"Clarence!"

But he had already closed the door behind him. His face did not relax its expression, nor change as he looked again at the tray with its broken viands before the door, the worn, stained hall carpet, or the waiter who shuffled past him.

He was apparently as critically conscious of them and of the close doors of the hall and the atmosphere of listless decay and faded extravagance around him as before the interview.

Had the woman he had just parted from watched him she would have supposed he still utterly disbelieved her story. But he was conscious that all that he saw was a part of his degradation, for he had believed every word she had uttered.

Through all her extravagance, envy and revengefulness, he saw the central truth—that he had been deceived, not by his wife, but by himself. He had suspected all this before—this was what had been really troubling him, this was what he had put aside, rather than his faith, not in her, but in his ideal.

He remembered letters that had passed between her and Capt. Pinkney—letters that she had openly sent to notorious southern leaders, her nervous anxiety to remain at the rancho, the innuendoes and significant glances of friends which he put aside—as he had this woman's message!

Susy had told him nothing new of his wife, but the truth of himself. And the revelation came from people whom he was conscious were the inferiors of himself and his wife. To an independent, proud and self-made man it was the culminating stroke.

In the same abstracted voice he told the coachman to drive home.

The return seemed interminable, though he never shifted his position. Yet when he drew up at his own door and looked at his watch he found he had been absent only half an hour. Only half an hour! As he entered the house he turned with the same abstraction toward a mirror in the hall as if he had expected to see some outward and visible change in himself at that time.

Dismissing his servants to bed, he went into his dressing-room, completely changed his attire, put on a pair of long riding boots, and throwing a serape over his shoulders, paused a moment, took a pair of small derringer pistols from a box, put them in his pockets, and then slipped cautiously down the staircase.

A lack of confidence in his own domestics had invaded him for the first time. The lights were out. He silently opened the door and was in the street.

He walked hastily a few squares to a livery stable, whose proprietor he knew. His first inquiry was for one Redskin—a particular horse; the second for its proprietor. Happily both were in. The proprietor asked no question of a customer of Clarence's condition.

The horse, half Spanish, powerful and irascible, was quickly saddled. As Clarence mounted, the man, in an impulse of sociability, said:

"Saw you at the theater to-night, sir."

"Ah!" returned Clarence, quietly gatering up the reins.

"Rather a smart trick of that woman with the flag," he said, tentatively. Then, with a possible doubt of his customer's politics, he added, with a forced smile: "I reckon it's all party fuss, though—thar ain't any real danger."

But fast as Clarence might ride the words lingered in his ears. He saw through the man's hesitation—he, too, had probably heard that Clarence Brant weakly sympathized with his wife's sentiments—and dared not speak fully. And he understood the cowardly suggestion that there was "no real danger."

It had been Clarence's one fallacy. He had believed the public excitement was only a temporary outbreak of partisan feeling—soon to subside. Even now he was conscious that he was less doubtful of the integrity of the union than of his own household. It was not the devotion of the patriot, but the indignation of an outraged husband that was spurring him on.

He knew that if he reached Woodville by five o'clock he would get ferried across the bay to the embarcado and catch the down coach to Fair Plains, whence he could ride to the rancho. As the coach did not connect directly with San Francisco, the chance of his surprising them was greater.

Once clear of the city outskirts he bullied Redskin into irascible speed, and plunged into the rainy darkness of the high road. The way was familiar.

For awhile he was content to feel the buffeting, caused by his rapid pace, of wind and rain against his depressed head and shoulders, in a sheer brutal sense of opposition and power; or to relieve his pent-up excitement by dashing through overflowed gullies in the road, or across the quaggy, sodden edges of meadow land, until he had controlled Redskin's rebellious extravagance into a long, steady stride.

Then he raised his head and straightened himself on the saddle—to think. But to no purpose. He had no plan; everything would depend upon the situation; the thought of forestalling any action of the conspirators, by warning or calling in the aid of the authorities, for an instant crossed his mind, but was as instantly dismissed.

He had but an instinct, to see with his own eyes what his reason told him was true.

Day was breaking through drifting scud and pewter-colored clouds as he reached Woodville ferry, checkered with splashes of the soil and the spume of his horse, from whose neck and flanks the sweat rolled like lather.

Yet he was not conscious how intent had been his purpose until he felt a sudden instinctive shock on seeing that the ferryboat was gone! For an instant his wonderful self-possession abandoned him; he could only gaze vacantly at the leaden-colored bay without a thought or expedient, but in another moment he saw that the boat was returning from the distance. Had he lost his only chance?

He glanced hurriedly at his watch; he had come quicker than he imagined; there would still be time. He beckoned impatiently to the ferryman. The boat, a ship's pinnace, with two men in it, crept in with exasperating slowness. At last the two rowers sullenly leaped ashore.

"Ye might have come before with the other passenger. We don't reckon to run lightnin' trips on this ferry."

But Clarence was himself again. "Twenty dollars for two more oars in that boat," he said, quietly, "and $5 if you get me over in time to catch the down stage."

The man glanced at Clarence's eyes. "Run up and rouse our Jake and Sam," he said to the other boatman; then more leisurely, gazing at his customer's travel-stained equipment, he said: "There must have been a heap o' passengers got left by last night's boat. You're the second man that took this route in a hurry."

At any other time the coincidence might have struck Clarence. But he only answered curtly: "Unless we are under way in ten minutes you will find I am not the second man, and that our bargain's off."

But here two men emerged from the shanty beside the ferry house and tumbled sleepily into the boat.

Clarence seized an extra pair of sculls that were standing against the shed and threw them into the stern. "I don't mind taking a hand myself for exercise," he said, quietly.

The ferryman glanced again at Clarence's travel-worn figure and determined eyes with mingled approval and surprise. He lingered a moment with his oars lifted, looking at his passenger.

He plunged into the rainy darkness of the high road.

TRAVELS IN LUXURIOUS FASHION.

Herrmann Arrives in Plainfield With His Own Cars.

The private, baggage and stock cars of Herrmann, the prestikigitateur, arrived in this city this noon at 12:45, and are sidetracked at the North Avenue station, where they are the cynosure of all eyes that look that way. In company with Manager Daly, of Music Hall, and Herrmann's manager, a Daily Press reporter was shown through the two cars shortly after their arrival. The private car is a marvel of elaborateness and convenience, and is a veritable palace on wheels.

It cost $44,000 to build and $8,000 was put on it afterwards. It is finished in quartered oak and embossed leather. Every panel in the leather work is different in design from its fellow, and all are designed by artists.

STILL ON THE WAR PATH.

Street Commissioner Meeker Keeps Right on With His Sidewalk Crusade.

Street Commissioner Meeker is on the war path again, and another batch of complaints were made this morning. They were almost altogether against non-residents, the owners of empty houses and vacant lots, who had forgotten to make any provision for the removal of snow.

There were several who were ordered to appear in the city court yesterday morning, but failed to put in an appearance. Unless some good reason is given to the City Judge, those who failed to appear are likely to find the matter more serious than they anticipated. Warrants will be issued for their arrest and they will await the pleasure of the court in the city lock-up, unless they can secure bail.

SENATOR THOMPSON FOR CLERK.

Governor Griggs Sends in the Name of Somerset's Man for the Chancery Place.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, N. J., March 25.—Governor Griggs this morning sent to the Senate the nomination of L. A. Thompson, of Somerset county, as clerk of the Court of Chancery, Senator Foster Voorhees having refused to take the position.

Senator Ward, of Salem county, was appointed Inspector of Factories, and David A. Pell, of Bergen crunty, for State Prison keeper.

Scotch Plains Man Dead.

One of the principal men of Scotch Plains, Thomas C. Cleaver, the veteran grocer, died at his home yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock from a complication of diseases brought on by the grip. He was taken ill two weeks ago with the grip. Within the last two or three days he sank rapidly and his death was a great surprise to the community.

He was 73 years old. He was born and brought up in Scotch Plains, emigrated west, and then returned to Newark and became a dealer in dairy products. Twelve years ago he bought out W. H. Dean in Scotch Plains and established himself there.

He was a member of the Baptist church and a firm supporter of it. He was well known as an honest Christian. He has two brothers, Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Rrook, aud ex-Judge Cleaver, of Newark.

Had to Saw Off the Ring.

While dressing a chicken, Saturday night, Mrs. Howell, of Grandview avenue, seriously cut the the third finger on her left hand. The finger swelled before she was able to remove the ring from the injured member. She went to several jewelers but they refused to take it off. At Collier's, however, the ring was sawed in two and thus taken off.

Death of Mrs. Allen

Mrs. Esther S. Allen, aged eighty-six years, died at her home 258 East Front street, about three o'clock this morning. She was a sister of Ephraim Acker, of Washingtonville, also an aunt of Gideon Allen of Grandview avenue. She was well known in this city. Her husband died a number of years ago.

—There will be an important business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society on Thursday at 3 o'clock at the home of the president, 210 West Eighth street. A full attendance is requested.

—The sale of the Allen property at Washingtonville took place yesterday. The purchasers were Andrew Lutkins and B. Wormser. The Allen homestead property on Somerset street was not sold, but the sale was adjourned to a future date.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Samuel Boss, of West Fifth street, has returned from a trip to Virginia.

H. M. Jaquett, of West Front street, went to Philadelphia today on business.

Miss Maggie Snyder, of East Second street, has returned after a visit at Centreville.

W. C. Runyon, of East Third street, is confined to the house with an attack of measles.

Mrs. J. H. Ackerman and daughter, of Central avenue, have gone to New York for a few days.

Miss Kingman, of Trenton, is visiting her friend, Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Mrs. Doland, nee Miss Maggie Fritts, of Newark, is the guest of Miss Addie Weaver, of Grove street.

Richard S. Waring, of Park avenue, returns tomorrow from Worcester Academy, to spend his Easter vacation with his parents.

Stewart Smith, formerly of Plainfield, but now residing in New York city, spent yesterday afternoon among his many acquaintances in town.

Mrs. Garretson, of Middlebush, Somerset county, mother of J. Smith Garretson, of the West End, is very ill and slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Underwood, of Crescent avenue, to Samuel Parrot, of Buffalo, will take place at the home of the bride Wednesday, April 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Roberts and son Gerold, and the Misses Maud, Edith and Kittie McArthur, of Passaic Bridge, are guests at the home of T. T. Barrett, of Rockview Farm, North Plainfield.

VOORHEES' RELUCTANCE.

The Senator May Not Accept the Chancery Clerkship.

Gov. Griggs has made the following nominations: Members of the State Board of Medical Examiners, L. B. Godfrey, of Camden, re-appointed; Charles H. Groyce, of Essex, vice Anthony H. Worthington; Davis P. Berden, of Passaic, vice F. H. Lane.

The slate for other nominations was shattered yesterday morning, so it is said, by the reluctance of Senator Foster M. Voorhees to accept the office of Clerk in Chancery. Just who will get the office now is not known. The name of L. A. Thompson, of Somerset, President of the Senate, has been mentioned.

Should he be selected, E. P. Bayler, of Hunterdon, would probably not be selected for Inspector of Factories and Workshops. The keepership of the State Prison is not likely to go to Robt. Carson, of Middlesex, as the slate has also been changed for this office.

No Danger of Losing His Job.

Street Commissioner Meeker, of Plainfield, has incurred the ill-will of a number of prominent citizens and is threatened with all sorts of reprisals because he enforced an ordinance requiring the cleaning of snow off of sidewalks. If his courage in this matter should cost him his official head he might come to Newark. Lots of people here would feel like rising up to put in public office a man who had the pluck to enforce that kind of an ordinance.—Newark News.

—An elaborate Easter programme is being rehearsed by the Sunday-school scholars of the First M. E. church.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

DIED.

CLEAVER—At Scotch Plains, Tuesday, March 24th, 1896, Thomas Cleaver, aged 69 years. Funeral services in the Baptist Church, Scotch Plains, Friday, March 27th, at 2:30 p.m.

Notice of Assignment.

Notice is hereby given that John Albertis, of the Township of North Plainfield, County of Somerset, and State of New Jersey, carrying on the business of retail grocer in the Township, County and State aforesaid, heretofore, to-wit, on the fifteenth day of January, 1896, made an assignment to the subscriber of his estate, for the equal benefit of his creditors, and that the said creditors must exhibit their respective claims, under oath or affirmation to the subscriber, at his office, rooms 304-5, Babcock Building, Plainfield, New Jersey, on or before the fifteenth day of June next ensuing, or be forever barred from coming in for a dividend of the estate.

Done by virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Somerset County, said order bearing date the 28th day of February, 1896.

ALL CHICAGO KNOWS HIM

W. W. Watson, Leading Real Estate Man, Restored to Health By Paine's Celery Compound.

Chicago, March 25th.—Mr W. W. Watson's reputation throughout the West for unerring judgement in the valuation of land has made him foremost among the most conservative, careful class of investors in Chicago.

Unlike many hard driven business men, the owner of "Alpine Heights," that pleasant suburb of Chicago, has not neglected his health on account of his exacting business. The following unrequested statement from Mr. Watson shows how consistent with his life-long, careful, conscientious and successful business habits has been his attention to getting well He states in the Times-Herald:

"Upon the recommendation of a friend, I used Paine's celery compound for headaches, constipation, indigestion and loss of sleep, and found it was all it was recommended to be. I suffer no more from headaches, sleep soundly at night, and am now in perfect health. This is the only medicine that I have ever taken for these complaints, which has benefited me at all." W W. Watson, 225 Dearborn street.

Busy men and women are apt to think there is always time to get well. The fact that only one person in a hundred dies of old age shows how recklessly men and women postpone attending to their health and allow it to go to pieces while they devote themselves heart and soul to affairs that are trifling in comparison. Wives and mothers have no greater duty than to see that those dear to them do not become so absorbed in the work of providing for the household as to lose their health and shorten their days.

No more thoughtful step could be taken during the spring days that are now here than to urge such tired and often irritable home providers to take Paine's celery compound. There are thousands of homes where overwork has led to worrying, fretting and despondency, that need only Paine's celery compound to banish the unhealthy atmosphere and make things bright and cheerful again.

It is the only spring remedy universally prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by giving them a hearty appetite and a relish for their food. Hard worked men and women, the nervous, weak and debilitated get new strength, fresh nervous energy and a purer, more vigorous blood supply from Paine's celery compound.

This most valuable nerve and brain invigorator and restorer practically demonstrates the life long conviction of its eminent discoverer. Professor Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College. Professor Phelps was for a long time convinced that sound nutrition was the keystone of firm health and that where there were signs of poorly nourished nerve tissues, and of thin, pale colored blood, some means must be devised to supply these deficiences briskly and rapidly. Professor Phelps prepared Paine's celery compound on this basis. It has proved an invigorator, strengthener and a great spring purifier, such as the world has never enjoyed before our day.

Tomorrow, or next day, or the day after is not soon enough to look about getting rid of weakness or disease. Take Paine's celery compound to-day. There is no time equal to these early spring days for throwing off poor health. There are few persons who do not need to take a spring remedy.

Many not downright sick, but tired or ailing, would be immensely benefited by taking Paine's celery compound, especially at this particularly favorable season of the year.

This great compound will banish that tired feeling, cleanse the blood and regulate the nerves.

MISTRESSES IN CHANCERY.

Miss Mary Philbrook Rushes Her Bill Through Both Houses.

Miss Mary F. Philbrook, the first woman lawyer, will be the first Mistress in Chancery.

The bill which she had drawn and introduced has passed both branches. She urged the bill through the Senate and House in one day. She reached the end of her day's work about 8:30 Tuesday night, and was rewarded by hearing her courage eulogized by the young lawyers led by Assemblyman Scovel, of Camden, followed by Leader Robertson and Reed, "the tall sycamore of Somerset."

She was seated in the gallery at the time. After sounding her praises unusually strong, the first Mistress in Chancery was given the privilege of the floor by resolution of Leader Robertson, but instead of taking the floor, she took a train for Jersey City, satisfied that she had made a good fight.

She has the Governor's promise that he will affix his autograph to the bill.

Miss Philbrook has successfully lead her sex into a profession which until a year ago was closed to them. She applied to the Supreme Court for examination as an attorney, but they refused her because of her sex, and she had a bill passed last year, giving power to the Supreme Court examiners to examine a woman.

There was some opposition to the bill, many of the young lawyers thinking that they saw a dangerous professional rival in the woman lawyer. She fought hard for several weeks and won. She had already been a notary public, and last year she was made a commissioner of deeds. Now she is in a fair way to become a Mistress in Chancery, which will vest her with some small judicial powers. She is a small woman about 24 years of age.

A PLACE FOR THE CITY POOR.

Intention to Place Overseer of the Poor Marx in Charge of the Sewage Farm.

That the City Council intend to provide a place for the city poor near the sewage farm, is a fact that is well assured. The former own three houses on the property, two of which will be placed near each other. The grounds will be graded and laid out in the most approved method, and the houses will be put in first-class condition to accommodate those who will be compelled to go there.

It is the intention of the Council to place both the sewage farm and the city poor under the direction of the Overseer of the Poor, who will be in full charge. Those who are able to work will find something to do about the farm, and thus be the means of relieving the city of additional expense. Instead of creating offices for men, the plan is to double up the work so that it will require a less number to run the city's affairs.

ENTERTAINED AT CARDS.

An Informal Whist Party Given by Miss Mary Brown Yesterday.

An informal whist party was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Mary Brown at her home on Park avenue. It was a charming affair and her guests spent a very pleasant afternoon. Whist occupied most of the time and prizes were awarded at the close. Miss Fritts and Miss Arline Crane won the first prizes. Mrs. Andrew Fritts and Miss Ida Cook took the second prizes. The consolation prizes were captured by Mrs. C. T. Pond and Miss Anna Boice and the booby prizes by Miss Delphine Bowers and Miss Mary Fritts. Conversation was interspersed by dainty refreshments.

In Darkness for a Time.

About 6:30 last evening one of the engines at the electric light station was noticed by the engineer to be out of order and he stopped it to prevent an accident. As a result a great number of the lights about the city went out, leaving darkness to reign supreme. The power which runs the street railway is furnished by the same engine and when it was shut off the cars were helpless, and were obliged to wait until their motive power could be secured. It was fully twenty minutes before the circuit could be connected to another engine. The disabled engine will be thoroughly overhauled and put in first class condition before they start it up again.

Lost in the Borough.

C. H. Lauthausen's moving van, of New York, struck Plainfield last night with a load of furniture belonging to a Mr. Holmes, of New York, The latter rented a house farm near Washington Rock and had sent his goods there. The men in charge of the van lost their way when they reached this city, and wandered all night about Johnston's drive. This morning they succeeded in reaching this city and upon inquiry learned where the farm was located.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED ON THE GROWTH OF METHODISM.

Officers for the Session Re-elected—A Bishop Says That There is Within 1,000,000 as Many Methodists as Catholics

The Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened its thirty-ninth annual session in St. Paul's M. E. church, in Newark, yesterday morning. The Conference includes all the northern part of New Jersey, portions of Orange and Rockland counties, N. Y.; Pike and Monroe counties, Pa.; and all of Staten Island. There were present 120 of the 200 delegates when roll was called. More dropped in during the day.

Presiding Elder S. P. Hammond, of the Newark District, opened the session with a brief address of welcome.

Bishop Cyrus S. Foss, of Philadelphia, was introduced as presiding officer and delivered an address on the outgrowth of Methodism in this country. He said that there are more than 5,000,000 communicants in the Methodist church, or 15,000,000 communicants and adherents, which he claimed was within 1,000,000 of double the number of communicants in the Catholic church.

The Bishop then gave statistics showing the increase in Methodism compared with the increase in population between 1886 and 1890. He quoted figures of some cities which showed the ratio to be as follows: Buffalo, increase in population 64 per cent, increase in Methodism 187 per cent; Cincinnati, population 16 per cent, Methodism 27 per cent; Cleveland, population 63 per cent, Methodism 91 per cent; Delaware, population 78 per cent, Methodism, 90 per cent; Chicago, population, 96 per cent, Methodism 112 per cent.

In concluding his address the Bishop said that the great question of today is the duty of tomorrow, or how to mediate between the masses of capitol and masses of souls. He spoke of the work done by the church for the poor, and said that the greater number of the poor people were workingmen whom the doctrinaires said had been forsaken by the church.

Rev. John F. Dodd, the Secretary of the Conference, was re-elected. At this point Bishop Fitzgerald, of the Southern Conference, entered and was escorted to the platform. Rev. John L. Morrow was elected assistant secretary, Rev. John A. Gutteridge, statistical secretary; Rev. A. M. Palmer, treasurer, and Rev. J. W. Ryder and J. A. Coll, assistants.

At the evening session the anniversary of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society was observed. W. H. Murphy presided and Rev. G. W. Miller, of New York, was the speaker. The Conference will last several days. The appointments will not be given out until next week.

Sad News Received at a Party.

Mrs. Charles Brantingham gave a party and dance at her home last Friday evening for her children and their friends. When the festive preparations were complete and all the guests were present, a telegram arrived telling of the death of Mrs. Brantingham's father in the west. The shock prostrated her, but she insisted on the guests remaining and the dance being continued. The party broke up at an early hour, however.

Wedding Reception.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Alice Underwood to Mr. Samuel Burrowes Parrott, to take place Wednesday evening, April eighth at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Underwood, of 138 Crescent avenue, will be followed by a reception from 8:30 to 10:30.

Horse Thieves at Work.

The authorities of Woodbridge are searching for a party of horse thieves that visited that town last night. The stolen property was a small bay horse attached to an extension-top surrey. The police of this city and neighboring towns were notified of the robbery.

Many House Connections.

The work of connecting the houses with the sewer is going on rapidly and Supervising Engineer Gavett has already granted a large number of permits. Yesterday twelve more were granted.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

STEALING AND SELLING COAL.

Two Colored Lads Arraigned in City Court and Fined.

Two little frightened colored boys appeared before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged with stealing coal. They were Abram Condit, aged fifteen years, and George Washington Cline, aged thirteen years. They sorrowfully confessed that they had been stealing coal and selling it to Hamilton Probasco, the colored man who objected so seriously to paying his fine for not cleaning the snow off his sidewalk.

The Judge asked the young culprits if they had ever been arrested before. Condit said no, but Cline answered in the affirmative. "What for?" asked the Judge. "Stealing watermelons," cried the youngster in a way that made everybody jump. He then explained that he had been in a gang of boys that stole some rotten watermelons from a freight car some time ago. Both lads paid $3 fine in preference to going to jail for ten days.

A BOY WITH A BIG HEAD.

Robert Wallace Fined $3 for Causing the Enlargement.

An indignant driver and a small boy with a big head appeared in the city court this morning. Robert Wallace was the man. He is employed by Powers, the coal dealer, and was driving home yesterday when a boy passed him in a wagon.

The whip, wielded by the boy, struck Wallace's seat, and the latter, thinking it was meant for he or his horse, jumped out of his wagon and threw a piece of coal at the lad. It struck the boy, whose name is Robert Angleman, on the back of the head causing the large head with which the boy appeared in court.

Young Angleman said that he was merely whipping the horse and the judge fined Wallace $3 instead of giving him ten days in jail.

Spring Opening at Lederer's.

Lederer's was crowded yesterday by ladies who had come to view the large and varied assortment of hats and millinery on the first day of the spring opening. They were well pleased, for there was never a finer exhibition displayed before at the above-mentioned store. The millinery department presented a handsome appearance, due to the clever taste of Miss May Flanagan, who has charge. The opening continues today and tomorrow, and if you are out for a walk call in, and you will be sure to see something to suit you. The hats are beauties, and Miss Flanagan will leave nothing undone to please those who favor her with their patronage.

A Butterfly Social.

The East Sixth Street Whist Club gave a "butterfly social" Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Cora Richardson, of East Sixth street. The evening passed only too quickly with whist, dancing and conversation, while delicious refreshments added to the occasion.

Those present were the Misses Cora Richardson, Charlotte Messersmith, Nellie Schenck, Bessie Giles, Jessie Giles, Marie Giles, Margaret Coriell, and the Messrs. Randolph, Judson R. Giles, Robert Carpenter, Charles Coriell, Ernest Millard, John Steiner and Fred Haynes.

From Store Rooms to Flats.

Pearson & Gayle, the carpenters and builders, are now transforming the upper part of the building on the corner of Park avenue and Second street, formerly occupied by G. Q. Packer, into flats. They are removing a portion of the front to allow for an entrance and stairs to the upper floors. The building is owned by Messrs. C. A. Marsh and W. L. Stillman. Marsh, Ayers & Co., will have the store for their wall paper and paint business.

General Good Time.

The members of Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, who did not attend the meeting last night missed a great treat. After the regular business meeting followed singing, speech-making, story-telling and a general good time.

At Work Again.

Contractor Washburn has resumed work on the sewage disposal beds and will push the work along as fast as possible to complete the remaining beds.

—See and hear the funniest man in Plainfield at Music Hall tonight.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale at Armstrong,'s Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

A BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

Minerva Temple of Rathbone Sisters Arrange a Pleasant Event.

Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, held a birthday sociable in Red Men's Hall, West Front street, last night, and an entertaining programme was rendered. It was not a birthday of the Temple, but of each one who attended, for connected with the printed invitations were two small bags in which as many cents as a person was years old was to be placed.

The programme was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Ida Tallamy; vocal solo, Harry Todd, of Newark, accompanied by Arthur Sherman on the guitar; piano duet, Misses Graves and Tallamy; recitation, Walter Sherwin; character change artist act, Mr. Frey; recitations by twelve little girls, representing the twelve months of the year; dialogue, by seven little girls; piano duet, Miss Maggie Sheppard and Miss Cortwright; recitation, Louie Hallard; recitation, Miss Lillie Sutton; song, Mr. Keller; dialogue, by four ladies; recitation, Miss Try Mattox; vocal selections by a quartette, Messrs. Pope, Wakefield, Thompson and Martin; recitation, Miss Lillie Haberle. The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. W. J. Ford.

After the programme had been rendered, refreshments were served. Dancing was then in order and continued until midnight, music being furnished by Al Squires, Charles Palmer and Art Sherman.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. E. K. Cox, Mrs. Edward Bowman, Mrs. J. B. Higgins, Mrs. Thos. Chamberlain, Mrs. E. Rushton and Mrs. S. Hallard.

IN ST. MARY'S.

An Instructive and Learned Sermon Delivered Last Evening.

Rev. D. J. Curley, of the Church of the Holy Name, New York city, delivered a sermon in St. Mary's church last night on "The Mercy of God." The church was well filled with people to hear this, the sixth sermon of the Lenten series. The preacher took his text from St. Luke, 19th chapter, 4th verse. The speaker told of the merciful attributes of God extended to the repentant. The speaker alluded to Magdalen, Zaccheus, and others, who, although sinners, received the forgiveness of God, which is mercy, because of their true repentance. This mercy might be shown us at the last moment, said the preacher, as in the case of the penitent thief on the cross, when our Lord said to him "This day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." But, Father Curley went on, we should all try to live in the grace of God, that gift so bountifully bestowed upon us especially during this holy season, and if we do we should enjoy that home, Heaven, that God has destined for all His creatures, a blessing that the speaker wished might come to all.

Rev. Father Smyth has provided some of the best speakers of the church to deliver these sermons, and to say that his efforts have been appreciated, is attested by the large congregations present.

On next Wednesday at 8 p. m., Rev. G. D. O'Neill, of Seton Hall College, South Orange, will speak.

Church Officials Elected.

The annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last night. C. A. Haynes and William Tallman were re-elected deacons. Alfred W. Day was chosen treasurer and H. E. Ryder, clerk. A number of reports were made and showed that the subscription for the missionary fund was greater by several hundred dollars than on any year previous. The different church societies were all reported to be in excellent condition.

Fighting and Quarreling.

Wm. Lane, colored, and John Matthews, alias "Jack the Pointer," were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza on the charge of quarreling and fighting. Matthews had Lane arrested for calling him names. Trial was set down for Saturday morning.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

TIME WAITS LEGISLATION

THE CLOCK WAS STOPPED BUT THE LEGISLATURE GOES ON.

The Two Houses In Last Hours of Their Existence—Rushing Business Through—Mr. Reed Talked of for Senator.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 26th.—Every year when it comes time for the Legislature to adjourn in compliance with the joint resolution of the two houses, which is always fixed for the noon hour, the members of the Assembly and Senate play a huge joke on old father time, and are able to finish up the business which they have mapped out and then adjourn within the time limit. It is done by the Sergeant at-Arms of each house giving the word to a subordinate officer, who approaches the clocks in the two houses and with an air of great importance stops the pendulum before the hands reach the hour of one o'clock. Then the tick tock of the clock is silenced and for several hours the old axiom that "Time and tide await no man" is made negative. The Legislature goes rushing through with their business, and when it is all cleared away and the members are ready to adjourn sine die, the subordinate official ceremoniously approaches the time piece again and with one gentle push starts the tick tock and a few minutes after the Legislature has become a thing of the past until the first of the next year, unless some great problem should arise during the intervening time and require Legislative action.

This noon the stop-the-clock proceedings were gone through with at 12:55 o'clock, and now the Legislators are working with all the bustle that is possible, while time awaits their command to move on. There is quite an accumulation of business which the leaders are anxious to dispose of, and it may be way along in the night before the clock is started again. Up to the time that this dispatch is being written Senator Thompson has not yet given his resignation to the Senate so that he might accept the clerkship of the Chancery, but he probably will hand it in sometime this afternoon.

Many Legislators express the opinion that Assemblyman Reed will no doubt receive the Senatorial nomination in Somerset county next fall. The record that the young lawyer has made in the Assembly this winter has astonished many of the older heads, but has won their admiration, and they predict for him a bright future in a political and official way.

Charles J. Baxter, who has been appointed State Superintendent of the Public Schools, was about the State House today making the acquaintance of many of the big men of the State. He impresses all with his quiet, unostensious manner.

Differences among the Republican Senators over the constitutional amendment reorganizing the courts, resulted in the final adjournment of the Legislature being postponed until today. Yesterday's session was continued until this morning in order to prevent the resuscitation of bills that have been killed by delaying action. After spending nearly three hours in conference Tuesday night over the amendments the Republican Senators spent three hours more on them yesterday afternoon, with the result that an agreement was reached on all but the judiciary amendment, and it was decided to transfer the fight on that to the floor of the Senate. Ten of the eighteen Republicans favored the amendment reported by the majority of the Lawyers' Committee, which is practically the same as adopted by the Constitutional Commission of 1894. Eight favored an amendment providing for a single court of fifteen Judges, divided into three divisions, with law, equity, and appellate jurisdiction. No formal vote was taken in the caucus. The three Democratic Senators, it was known, favored the latter proposition. After the caucus was over Senator Voorhees reported the fifteen Judges amendment and Senator Johnson moved to substitute the other, but the motion was defeated by the vote of 8 to 12 and the Voorhees amendment adopted by a vote of 19 to 0.

The other amendments were then adopted as follows: Prohibiting legislation that will legalize lotteries, bookmaking, pool selling or other form of gambling; granting women the right to vote at school elections except in cities; providing for biennial sessions of the Legislature, and extending the terms of the Governor to four years, Senators to four years, and Assemblymen to two years; providing for the division into Assembly districts of all counties electing two or more Assemblymen, and guarding against gerrymandering the districts; prohibiting the appointment to office during the recess of the Legislature of persons whom the Senate has refused to confirm.

Some of the Republican Assemblymen, having shown a disposition to repudiate the promises made last fall to abolish the lay Judges in the county courts, was summoned into caucus this afternoon, and after a long discussion the caucus decided by a vote of 25 to 14 to pass the Senate bill abolishing the Judges. Subsequently the bill passed the House by a party vote of 37 to 14. The Democratic opposition was based on the fact that laymen had always been represented in the New Jersey courts, and were closer to the people and better able than lawyers to determine questions of fact.

Other bills passed by the House were: Prohibiting the manufacture or sale in New Jersey of cigarettes of any kind; a general revision of the corporation laws of the State, and several bills reenacting various corporation laws under their proper titles; legalizing those boroughs whose charters were invalidated by recent court decisions; making it unlawful to buy or sell or use milk cans belonging to other dealers; furnishing to each public school and certain public officials copies of the history of New Jersey soon to be published; giving to honorably discharged veterans of the war preference as employees on all public works.

In view of the mystery surrounding Cagney's Dollar Gas bill, Mr. Queen presented a resolution which was adopted, requesting the clerk of the House to ascertain and report without delay what committee or official of the House, or other person, has control or possession of the bill requiring the City Collector of Jersey City to collect all water rents. The official copy of the bill is missing.

Among the bills passed by the Senate were: Prohibiting trolley companies from carrying freight, except such companies as are now legally doing so; accepting the gift of a farm at Englishtown, Monmouth county, upon which to erect a home for blind persons; also the House concurrent resolution requesting New Jersey's Senators and Congressmen to vote for the bill classifying the employes of the mail service; prohibiting the sale or gift of cigarettes to persons under sixteen years of age; the Deficiency Appropriation bill, carrying $239,677; the bill legalizing boroughs, providing that boroughs, villages, cities and towns shall be incorporated only by special acts of the Legislature, and be governed by general laws; requiring official envelopes used at elections to be made of yellow paper; the Annual Appriation bill. Bullock's bill requiring the payment of wages semi-monthly by corporations was practically killed by the adoption of amendments.

The House last evening passed the Anti-Trust bill introduced by the Judiciary Committee, and ordered that it be sent to the Senate at once. The Incidental bill was also passed. The icnidental expenses of the Legislature have been but $6,200.

A poll of the members of the House has been made, and it shows that there is strong opposition to the biennial session and the Assembly districting amendments to the Constitution adopted by the Senate, and that they will probably be defeated.

HE LOVES PLAINFIELD.

But His Love is Not Reciprocated and He is Sent to Jail.

There is one tramp that thinks Plainfield is a good thing, and so he has been pushing it along at a lively rate. It is Daniel Jones, and yesterday Sergeant Kiely arrested him for about the sixth time on the same charge, that of vagrancy and begging. Jones has a good looking face and a smooth tongue which he uses to a good advantage. He has expressed a decided love for Plainfield and promptly returns here as soon as he is released from jail.

He felt ugly in the city court this morning, and used anything but respectful language to the Judge. When asked how many times he had been arrested, he remarked with an unconcerned air, "Oh, about a hundred. Not over a hundred, I think." His uncleanly appearance caused the Judge to ask, "When do you wash?" "When I get ready," was his reply, and the Judge's opinion was that he needed to get ready pretty soon, and so gave him a chance by sending him to jail for fifty-nine days, and also ordering him to pay or work out a fine of $100.

Died of Consumption.

Louie T. Finch, aged 25 years, died yesterday at the home of his uncle, E. L. Finch, 1106 Park avenue, from consumption. His father and mother died several years ago, and since then he had been living with his uncle. The funeral services will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock from the house. Interment will be in New Haven, Saturday.

CANADA'S LOYALTY

Chamberlain Refers to Her Position When War Threatened.

FIRST AMONG ENGLAND'S COLONIES

No Danger of Absorption by the United States—Free Trade Among the Empires of the United Kingdom Might Be a Good Thing.

London, March 26.—Right Hon. Jos. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, was the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Canadian club in London last evening. Among those present were admiral Sir Francis Leopold McClintock, Hon. W. H. Montague, Canadian minister of agriculture; Jos. G. Colmer, secretary of the Canadian office in London, and many other prominent personages. The president of the club, Sir Robert Gillepsie, proposed a toast to the governor general of Canada and the Dominion, coupling the names of Chamberlain and Montague. Upon Mr. Chamberlain's rising to respond he was loudly cheered. He declared that, whatever test gauged her greatness, Canada stood to-day first among the group of kindred nations which, together with the United Kingdom, formed the British empire. He had often visited Canada, he said, and knew men on both sides of the Atlantic who once assumed that the manifest destiny of Canada was to be absorbed by the great republic upon her southern frontier. That ancient controversy, Mr. Chamberlain declared, was in contrast with the present determination of Canada to maintain her local institutions and draw closer the bonds uniting her to the parent stem.

Canada's Loyalty When War Threatened.

The recent isolation of the United Kingdom and the dangers which seemed to threaten had evoked from all the colonies, and especially from Canada, an outburst of loyalty and affection. To none of her majesty's subjects was the recent shadow of war more ominous than to Canada; yet there was no hesitation on her part, and unanimous voice was made in common cause with the United Kingdom. (Cheers.) The speakers of the Dominion parliament struck the right note when they spoke of "our empire." "Could an expression of loyalty from all the colonies," he asked, "pass without serious effort on the part of both colonial and imperial statesman to transform these high sentiments into practical results? We must seek the line of least resistance."

Danger of Duties on Foreign Imports.

Mr. Chamberlain referred to the motion offered in the Canadian house of commons by Mr. McNeall that a small duty be levied by each member of the empire against foreign products imported by them and that the proceeds from such duties be devoted to the imperial inter-communication and defense. Mr. McNeall's proposal, he said, was entitled to respectful consideration. If the English objected to it they ought to propose an alternative. At the same time the importance of the proposal ought not to be minimized. It would involve a most serious disturbance of the trade of the United Kingdom and a great change in the principles which for many years have guided its commercial policy. The proposed duty would tend to increase the cost of living to the working classes of the United Kingdom, and hence increase the cost of production, rendering worse the position of the British in competition with foreign countries in neutral markets. Great Britain, in return, would get a very small preference—amounting to 2, perhaps 5 per cent.—in competition with foreigners in colonial markets. This proposal Mr. Chamberlain considered a very startling one for a free-trade country, and he feared that it would be impossible of adoption in its present form.

Free Trade Throughout the Empire.

Mr. Chamberlain suggested that the true zollverein of the empire, viz, free trade throughout the empire, despite the involving of duties against foreigners, might be discussed and would probably lead to a satisfactory arrangement if the colonies were willing to consider it. (Cheers.) It had been assumed, he continued, that the colonies would certainly refuse to consider such a suggestion, but he was not convinced that they would do so. He contended that it would be so enormously advantageous to them that the colonies would be bound to consider it, but instanced some exceptions that would be necessary, holding, however, that the general principle would be acceptable that between the various parts of the empire protection ought to disappear, any duties imposed being merely for revenue, not protection. (Cheers).

An Aged Couple Run Down by a Train.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., March 26.—Mrs. McNally and John King, two aged persons whose hearing is defective, while walking on the railroad track near Roaring Springs, this county, were struck by a passing train. Mrs. McNally died from the effects of her injuries. King lost an arm and sustained several scalp wounds, but may recover.

Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, March 26.—The senate has confirmed the following postmaster nominations: Massachusetts—J. Q. Hatch, at Northboro; E. H. Gates, at Mittineague; A. B. Collins, Georgetown. New York—L. R. Benedict of at Ellenville.

McKinley's Name Cheered.

Charleston, W. Va., March 26.—Yesterday's meeting of the state republican league was the largest ever held in the state. Governor Bradley of Kentucky was the chief speaker. Every mention of McKinley's name was greeted with storms of applause.

KILLED HER KEEPER.

The Old Elephant Empress Adds the Seventh Victim to Her List.

Chicago, March 26.—W. H. Harris' big elephant, Gypsy, became unmanageble at its winter quarters on West Side last evening, and before she could be got under control killed her keeper, Frank Scott, tore down a frame building and created great excitement, which drew thousands of people to the scene. Gypsy is only another name for Empress, the original old Empress, the first elephant imported into this country, and the killing of Scott makes her seventh victim. The first was Harry Cooley, in 1870, at Forepaugh's winter quarters in Philadelphia. Then Geo. West was crushed to death in 1874 while on the road with Robinson's show. "Jimmy-the-Bum" wrs the next man at New Iberia, La., in 1882, followed by Wm. Devoe, with O'Brien's show at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1886. Patsy Mulligan was the sixth victim, and he had his arm torn out at Cincinnati in 1894 and died in two days.

VENEZUELAN MATTER.

Little Importance Attached to the Corrections in Great Britain's Blue Book.

Washington, March 26.—All the corrections referred to in the parliamentary paper issued yesterday refer exclusively to the argument usually credited to Sir Frederick Pollock, which covers the first forty-two pages of the British Blue Book and do not affect the remaining 401 pages to which the Venezuelan commission attaches most importance. Lord Salisbury thinks the corrections materially strengthen the British side of the question. Prof. Pollock's argument, while considered to be an able advocacy of the British contention as supported by the evidence in the Blue Book, has not the same conclusiveness attached to it in Washington as in London and even the Venezuelan commission awaits with more interest the promised addition to the evidence to be furnished in a supplementary paper. The commission is devoting all its time to the study of documentary evidence and does not dwell much on opinions from whatever source they may come.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

Complaints Filed Against Prominent Politicians at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, March 26.—County comptroller James A. Crier has filed in the common pleas court a sworn statement in which he makes sensational charges against C. L. Magee, Senator William Flinn, director of public safety J. O. Brown and county treasurer W. S. Brown. All of the statements bear upon the fraudulent use of tax receipts. Magee is charged with having used a dummy to get the printing contract, and that the receipts furnished were far below the sample submitted to the county commissioners. The comptroller charges Senator Flinn and Director Brown with attempting to obtain exoneration from taxes where the taxes had been paid by the republican committee, and charges County Treasurer Brown with intending to give credit to the republican committee, but was warned not to do so. These are among the important statements in the paper.

GREAT BRITAIN AND ITALY.

An Alliance Formed After Italy Threatened To Abandon Kassala.

Rome, March 26.—In the senate last night Baron Blanc, ex-minister of foreign affairs, affirmed that the alliance between Great Britain and Italy was an accomplished fact. The alliance had been concluded, the ex-minister said, under a threat of the abandonment of Kassala by the Italians. Advices from Massowah state that Gen. Baldissera, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces in Abyssinia, has started from Asmar with a strong force. The object of the expedition is, if possible, to liberate the Italian garrison at Adigrat.

Reed Ahead in Texas.

Austin, Tex., March 26.—Owing to the delay of Chairman Cuney in selecting committees, the republican convention was compelled to adjourn last night until this morning. Cuney in selecting the committees has wholly ignored the McKinley men and has placed McDowell, state manager for Reed, at the head of the committee on credentials. Knowing ones here this morning place the thirty delegates Texas will send to the national convention as follows: Reed, 16; McKinley, 8; Allison, 6.

Amendments to New Jersey's Constitution.

Trenton, March 26.—The senate yesterday afternoon passed the proposed amendments to the constitution as follows: Providing for biennial sessions of the legislature; granting women the right to vote at school elections; prohibiting race track and all other kinds of gambling; providing for the division of the state into assembly districts and the amendment providing for a reorganization of the judiciary of the state.

Denied Use of the Mails.

Washington, March 26.—The postoffice department has denied the privileges of the mails, for alleged violations of postal regulations, to the Eagle Manufacturing company of New York city and its manager.

New York Broker Suspended.

New York, March 26.—The governing committee of the New York Stock exchange has suspended Albert A. Drake for one year, for maintaining relations with the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum exchange.

No Tax on Bicycles.

Boston, March 26.—In the house the committee on taxation has reported "ought not to pass," on a bill providing for a tax on bicycles.

MOTIVE, JEALOUSY

Accepted Theory Regarding the Death of Annie McGrath.

INTENDED TO LEAVE LANGDON SOON

His Mouth Ulcerated, Indicating That He Also Swallowed Poison—Latest Developments in the Philadelphia Mystery.

Philadelphia, March 26.—The theory is now strongly entertained by the police that Langdon, the wealthy coal operator now under arrest in connection with the death of Annie McGrath, murdered the girl, and they also believe that he endeavored to end his own life. The supposition is that Langdon saturated the towel now in possession of Detective Geyer with ether or chloroform, and after placing the towel over the girl's face he drugged himself. Police Surgeon Andrews' examination of Langdon shows that he had inhaled the fumes of some soporific drug, probably ether. The prisoner's tongue and lips are covered with ulcers similar to those found on the lips of the dead girl. Just what drug caused these eruptions has not yet been decided.

Langdon's Mouth Ulcerated.

To a reporter Dr. Andrews said: "I found that the whole of Langdon's tongue was a series of mucus patches. From the lip of the tongue to the root there is considerable irritation, with small indentures surrounded by white circles. Ulcerations of this character might be caused by mineral acids, but in this case mineral acids were scarcely used, as the inflammation and ulcerations would be greater. On Langdon's tongue they are not severe but merely superficial and quite recent. The lips are also irritated. Langdon complained of a soreness in the throat. He told me he thought excessive smoking might have caused both the ulceration of the lips and the sore throat. Smoking, however, will not have this effect. He looked like a sick man, and his illness was such as would result from the inhalation of the fumes of a drug."

Effect of Ether.

The colored servant, Bertha Stewart, says that she heard her mistress scream out on Sunday afternoon at about 4:30. Dr. Andrews was asked if a person under ether would be likely to cry out or scream. "Oh, yes," he replied, "that is a common effect of the drug. Ether and chloroform act differently. Ether is a stimulant and a person suffering from its effects might scream. That is the primary state. The doctor also said that persons under ether were subject to hallucinations, and there was no accounting for their actions.

Scouts the Idea of Suicide.

Deputy Coroner Dugan scouted at the idea of suicide on the girl's part. "She had $100 in her pocket when the body was found," he said. "She wore good clothes and had diamonds. In addition to this she was too young to want to end her life." Langdon is said to be quite ill and a physician is attending him in prison. It is reported that Annie McGrath was engaged to be married to a young man in this city, but that the wedding had been postponed until early next year. In this connection it is stated that the solitaire diamond ring found in Langdon's possession when he was arrested, is the engagement ring given to the young girl by her fiance.

My

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my

Kidneys

I was nervous, had pains in my back. I cannot tell what I suffered. My eyesight became affected and I was so despondent I did not have any interest in life. I had two physicians, but my complaints became worse. I was told that I was affected with Bright's disease. A relative urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and did not trouble me so severely. My appetite returned and I gained strength every day. I am now able to do my own work, and feel perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and I gladly recommend it." Miss Ella Bartley, 213½ S. Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

Consumption—
Collapse

in this disease is what physicians constantly are on the look-out for, knowing that it means the end. Just keep up the strength; keep the body nourished properly, so that waste of tissue is checked, and with proper medicines death is delayed indefinitely, or a permanent cure, as has been proved in thousands of cases is accomplished. To effect this much desired result, give the patient

Bovinine

Dr. W. E. S. Preston, House Physician of the "House of Rest for Consumptives," of Tremont, N. Y., says, "I have never known a case where the stomach has rejected Bovinine. In cases of collapse, so common among consumptives, we always use it." Bovinine being easy to take, and quick of assimilation and a wonderful food product, at once starts on its mission of creating strength, flesh and blood. It tones up the vital organs and by thus invigorating them, enables them to throw off disease and gives to the sufferer a new lease of life where such a thing is possible.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

BIG SPANISH DEFEAT

Many Killed and Wounded Near San Juan de los Yeras.

COMPLETELY ROUTED BY INSURGENTS

Rebel Leader Vidal Killed in Another Engagement—A New York Newspaper Correspondent Expelled from the Island.

Havana, March 26.—A detachment of government troops, composed of the San Quintin battalion, was attacked by a party of rebels under Fonseca near San Juan de los Yeras, in the Santa Clara province, and a hard fight ensued. The battle resulted in a complete rout of the Spanish force, which lost many killed and wounded. It is admitted by the Spaniards that in this engagement they lost one lieutenant and fifteen privates killed. The insurgents have burned the principal houses in Santa Ana, in the province of Matanzas; 105 houses in Rodriga and a number of houses in Palma Sola and Yabucito, all in the province of Santa Clara. Elbert Rappleye, the correspondent in Cuba of a New York evening paper, will embark for the United States to-day in accordance with an order issued by the governor-general decreeing his expulsion from the country. During an attack by insurgents upon the city of Santa Clara the rebel leader Leoncio Vidal was killed.

NEW ENGLAND FREE TRADERS.

Col. Albert Clark Addresses Members of the League at a Dinner in Boston.

Boston, March 26.—The New England Free Trade league dined at the United States hotel last evening, about 125 members being present. President H. W. Lamb presided, and at his right sat the especial guest of the evening, Col. Albert Clark, secretary of the Home Market club, who had been invited to state the protection argument to his opponents. Among others present were William Lloyd Garrison, Hon. John E. Russell, Hon. Harvey N. Shepard, Henry C. Thatcher, Osborne Howes, Henry F. Axon, Gen. Hazard Stevens, H. C. Parson, editor of the Greenfield Gazette, and others. President Lamb opened the after-dinner speaking by expressing the appreciation of the league to the courtesy and kindnesss of Col. Clark in consenting to be present and to address the league. Col. Clark was received with hearty applause, and his statement of the points wherein he agreed with the league received marked approval, as well as his congratulations at the throwing off by the league of the name of tariff reform for that of free trade. Col. Clark read a carefully prepared addresss on "Errors of Free Trade."

FOR PUBLIC HEALTH.

New York Likely To Establish a State Board of Undertakers.

Albany, March 26.—Before the assembly committee on public health last evening there was a hearing on the Andrews bill to establish a state board of undertakers and to regulate the practice of undertaking. The bill provides that the governor shall appoint five undertakers as the board, from a list to be submitted by the State Undertakers' association. All applicants for entrance into the undertaking business are to be examined jointly by the board and by the regents of the state. Undertakers under the bill must be embalmers. The board of undertakers is to grant licenses at a fee of $10. There was no opposition at the hearing to the bill. Undertakers present claim that the supervision by such a board as the bill created would be in the line of public health. Embalming was the proper means of keeping a body and the passage of this bill would compel embalming and prohibit undertakers from using the same icebox for the various cases which come to them, some of which are contagious. It is expected that the bill will be reported favorably.

Against Sub-Letting State Contracts.

Albany, March 26.—Labor men appeared before the assembly committee on judiciary yesterday afternoon in favor of the Husted bill providing that no contracts throughout the state should be sublet. Their claim was that laboring men, particularly in New York, were being robbed of their just dues by sub-contractors, who were not held responsible for the performance of work.

Instructed for Quay.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 26.—Yesterday afternoon the republican conferees from the congressional district composed of Adams, York and Cumberland counties, met and organized. Resolutions were adopted endorsing Senator Quay as a presidential candidate and instructing the delegates for him at the St. Louis convention.

Electrical Heating Trust.

Boston, March 26.—Officers of the American Electric Heating corporation admit that after six months of negotiation the absorption of all the important electric heating companies has been effected by the corporation and their control has passed into the hands of a syndicate.

Probably a Total Loss.

Savannah, Ga., March 26.—The Norwegian bark Erato, from Goole for Savannah, which ran ashore Tuesday night about seven miles south of Tybee light during a heavy blow, will probably be a total wreck. The crew were saved.

Baseball at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., March 26.—The Virginia league team of Norfolk defeated the New Haven team of the Connecticut league yesterday afternoon by a score of 16 to 2.

IS HYPPOLITE DEAD?

Notice to That Effect Received at the Haytian Bank in Paris.

Paris, March 26.—A dispatch has been received at the Haytian bank here saying that Gen. Hyppolite, president of the Haytian republic, is dead. The dispatch gives the cause of his death as apoplexy. No announcement has been received at the Haytian embassy.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Proposition for the Adjournment of Congress on May 1 To Be Considered.

Washington, March 26.—When the legislative appropriation bill shall have been disposed of, and that will be in a day or so, this being the fourth day of its consideration by the senate, there will remain but two other appropriation bills to consider, the Indian and the post-office appropriation bills, neither of which is expected to occupy more than one day. After their disposal, the resolution introduced by Senator Platt, rep., Conn., fixing the date for the final adjournment of congress on May 2, will be reported back from the committee on appropriations and will probably be favorably acted upon. Nearly all the discussion to-day on the legislative appropriation bill is on the clause changing the fee system of U. S. attorneys and marshals to a salary system—the amounts appropriated being assailed, but vainly, by several senators. A joint resolution to amend the constitution by prohibiting congress and state legislatures from using public moneys in aid of any institution controlled wholly or in part by any sectarian or religious association was introduced by Senator Gallinger, rep., N. H., and laid on the table for the present.

The House of Representatives.

The house to-day is considering the paragraph of the naval appropriation bill relating to the new vessels, all the other paragraphs of the bill having been disposed of yesterday. Only one amendment has been offered, appropriating $60,000 for building the quay and wing walls of the Brooklyn drydock. The only incident of interest in the discussion was the renewal of the old fight to transfer the naval observatory from the jurisdiction of the navy department. There was a rather warm exchange of sarcastic compliments on the subject between Congressmen Cannon, Boutelle and Robinson, rep., Pa., but nothing was done with the matter. Before the appropriation bill was taken up Congressman Boutelle, rising to a personal explanation, stated that the colloquy last Tudsday between himself and Congressman Wheeler, dem., Ala., regarding the attitude of ex-confederates toward the bill to retire Gen. Grant, had been changed. He stated that it did him an injustice, for, as printed, it left his statement resting upon nothing, whereas, as it actually occurred, it was based upon the record of the house. Congressman Wheeler explained that he had changed his copy in order to correct a mistake in his statement, having been denied the opportunity to make the correction in open house during the course of the debate, when he had discovered it. The record was ordered corrected so as to accurately report what had occurred. Congressman Bartlett, dem., N. Y., as a matter of personal privilege, denied the truthfulness of an item in a Washington paper stating that he had furnished to Congressman Sulzer, dem., N. Y., the copy of the circular letter to his constituents written by Congressman Gibson, rep., Tenn., which had formed the subject of the rather amusing passage between those gentlemen during the course of the debate on the Bayard resolution of censure.

North Dakota for McKinley.

Huron, S. D., March 26.—McKinley swept the republican state convention here yesterday amid enthusiasm. There was not a dissenting voice. South Dakota's eight delegates are instructed for the Ohio man and for sound money.

BROWN IS ACQUITTED

The Congregational Minister Not Guilty of Heresy.

A VERY IMPORTANT CHURCH DECISION

Educated Men, Scholars Who Can Explain Much That Has Hitherto Been Obscure, Necessary in the Ministry.

New Haven, Conn., March 26.—The council in the heresy case of Rev. W. T. Brown met yesterday afternoon in the Congregational church at Madison, and Rev. Newman Smyth of New Haven read the decision of the council, by which Rev. W. T. Brown was acquitted of every charge. The document was a very important one, as it was the first formal expression of a Congregational council on the "New Theology." The statement began by calling attention to the necessity of having only educated men in the ministry of the Congregational church and to the fact that the members of the Congregational church had the right to appeal to a consociation for advice when they thought the teachings of the pastor to be erroneous. The decision of this body is final, so far as any authority is superior to the individual church. It is declared that the result of the labors of scholars during the last quarter of a century had been to explain much that had hitherto been obscure, and that the education of the minister at Madison had made him acquainted with these views. Attention was called to the statement in the articles with which the church was originally consociated regarding the importance of the individual conscience.

CLOSE OF AN ACTIVE CAREER.

Sudden Death of Brig.-Gen. Thomas Lincoln Casey, Retired.

Washington, Maren 26.—Brig.-Gen. Thomas Lincoln Casey, retired, late chief of engineers, United States army, who di[illegible] at his residence in this city yester[illegible] afternoon, after an attack of apoplexy which he suffered on the street while on his way to his office in the new congressional library building, was the son and grandson of soldiers. His father was Gen. Silas Casey, and a brother of that name, Capt. Silas Casey, U. S. N., still survives. He was born at Madison barracks, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., on May 10, 1831, and in 1848 received an appointment to the United States military academy as a cadet-at-large, and four years later graduated at the head of his class, and entered the engineer corps as second lieutenant in 1852. At the outbreak of the civil war he was sent to New England as superintendent engineer of the permanet defenses and field fortifications on the coast of Maine. In March, 1865, he was brevetted lieutenant-colonel and colonel "for faithful and meritorious services during the war." He was sent to Europe in 1873 on official business. Serving as superintending engineer of public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia he was placed in charge of the Potomac aqueduct, and to him also was committed the completion of the state, war and navy department building, the Washington National monument, the construction of the medical museum and library. From 1886 to 1888 he was president of the board of engineers for fortifications and other public works at New York, and on July 6, 1888, he was appointed brigadier-general and chief of engineers, U. S. A., by president Cleveland.

RAILS FOR JAPANESE ROADS.

An Extensive Order Being Filled by Pennsylvania Works.

Braddock, Pa., March 26.—The Edgar Thomson plant of the Carnegie Steel company has started to make 16,000 tons of steel rails for the Japanese government. They will be used on the imperial railways of the empire. Each will weigh fifty-six pounds to the yard and be sixty feet in length.

Blakely Hall Repudiates Him.

New York, March 26.—Blakely Hall, proprietor of the Metropolitan Magazine, in a card to the press, emphatically denies that the man who has traveled under the name of E. M. Hall and E. J. West, and who committed suicide in Cincinnati Tuesday night, is in any way related to him, near or remote. Mr. Hall also says that the suicide had represented himself as his brother and drew drafts on him in several towns in the west.

Judgments Against Waterbury & Marshall

New York, March 26.—Judgments aggregating $56,331.03 has been filed in the supreme court by the attorneys for the First National bank of Rockville, Conn.; Danville (Conn.) National bank; Trenton Banking company; Marine National bank of Erie, Pa., and other banking institutions, which claim the above amount due them on promissory notes against the the firm of Waterbury & Marshall, dealers in cordage and paper in this city.

Denver's Abnormal Weather.

Denver, March 26.—With abnormally warm temperature and the sun brightly shining the wind blew a gale all day yesterday, reaching fifty-eight miles an hour at noon. Considerable damage to property occurred. At Leadville, Col., an elevation of 11,000 feet, clouds hung over the city so densely that the street lamps had to be lighted.

To Investigate Massachusetts Harbors.

Washington, March 26.—The house committee on rivers and harbors will leave Washington for Boston this afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of investigating the condition of rivers and harbors for which improvements have been asked. What particular points will be visited have not been determined upon.

Assemblyman Reed's yellow ballot envelope bill was defeated in the Senate sometime ago, but was reconsidered a few days after, and yesterday was passed by that body. It will now go to the Governor.

In the Republican Assembly caucus yesterday on the bill to abolish Lay Judges, Assemblyman Reed was one of the few who opposed its passage. The bill, however, was made a party measure, the caucus deciding to support it.

The Newark Advertiser, one of the leading Republican papers in New Jersey, has the following to say about the third house at Trenton:

An indignant correspondent complains elsewhere of the lobby which flourishes at Trenton. His criticism is well founded, for the New Jersey lobby is as offensive a crowd of self-seekers and wood-sawyers as it would be possibls to find anywhere. It is unblushing, voracious, very hungry, very thirsty, stays up late and gets up early, works week days, holidays and Sundays, has a nerve as strong as an ostrich's powers of digestion, is as devoid of the sense of right and wrong as an oyster is of the power to dictate who shall devour it, refuses to be rebuked or bluffed and pretends to own everything in sight at Trenton from the railroad station to the State House. Modesty does not appear in the vocabulary of the Trenton lobbyist. He is on familiar terms with everyone, calls the Governor "John," tells the heads of departments how to run things, and orders, or tries to order, Senators and Assemblymen around as if the legislator were his little brother.

Next to a Union county man being appointed to a good position, there is nothing more pleasing to a Plainfielder than to have a Somerset county man experience equally as good luck. The Press therefore extends congratulations to Senator L. A. Thompson over his appointment to the Chancery clerkship. Mr. Thompson was born in Somerset county in 1845, taught school for five years, and then opened a millinery and fancy goods store, in which business he has since continued. He has been Sheriff of Somerset county and President of the Board of Commissioners of Somerville. In the Senate he has been chairman of the committees on Corporations, Unfinished Business and State Prison. The salary of his new office is $6,000 a year, and the term is five years.

There seems to be a lack of approval by the State on Governor Griggs' appointment of Charles J. Baxter as State Superintentendent of the Public Schools because of the apprehension that he has had no experience in educational work. True, Mr. Baxter's business for a few years past has been in the insurance line, but previous to this he was a successful educator, and engaged in the very work over which he will exercise general supervision in his new position. As was shown in yesterday's Daily Press, the schools which Mr. Baxter superintended were rapidly brought to the front rank of the public school system, and his students competed successfully with those from recognized high-class institutions. Since he retired from active school work, he has been in close touch with the progressive element of the public school system, and among his acquaintances there is no feeling other than that he will make a successful and satisfactory official for the State.

NOT FOR PERSONAL REASONS.

Mr. Baxter Not Selected Because He Was a Friend of the Governor.

Charles J. Baxter, who has just been appointed Superintendent of Schools for New Jersey, was seen at the North avenue station this morning, before his departure for Trenton, by a representative of the Daily Press. Mr. Baxter stated that the report circulated by some New York papers that he was appointed to the position because he was a personal friend of Governor Griggs, was absolutely without truth.

"I never knew Governor Griggs, never saw him," remarked Mr. Baxter, "until last Monday, when I was summoned to Trenton and there had an interview with the Governor previous to my appointment being sent to the Senate."

—The announcement that Miss Lulu Lewis is to give an Easter Monday tea is erroneous.

THEATRICAL.

According to the New York papers, Jacob Litt's splendid production of the new Cuban play, "The Last Stroke," at the Star Theatre, New York, last Monday night was received with wild enthusiasm, and it is pronounced with singular unanimity the strongest and most picturesque melo drama seen on the metropolitan stage this season. Dealing, as it does, with Cuba's gallant fight for freedom, it is very apoprns at this time. The World says: "It went with a dash which set the house in a panic of applause and the audience stood up and yelled." The Herald says: "It was a great night for 'Free Cuba.' Between the acts enthusiastic gentlemen arose in their places with blazing eyes and roared 'Vive Macei!' while the gallery went into hysterics. Mr. Morris has written a stirring melo-drama full of action in every detail, bright in dialogue and with an abundance of good comedy. Its success was unquestioned and all who like to be thrilled will want to see it."

—Patrolman Vanderweg, whose beat includes the business section during the day, was off duty yesterday and Patrolman Cash, one of the new policemen, filled his place.

—Invitations are out for the second weekly reception of the Watchung Avenue Social club, to be held next Monday evening at the residence of one of its members, George Shaffer, 452 West Second street.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Judson R. Giles is riding a brand new '96 Columbia, model 44.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company received a shipment of seven model 22 Cleveland wheels this morning.

Harry Vail, of Duer street, will ride a Keating wheel this year. He purchased it from Lister, of North avenue.

Francis Ketcham Anderson, of East Fifth street, is among the number who will ride a Crescent wheel this year, having just obtained one from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Co.

The Eldridge Bicycle Company is greatly improving the interior appearance of its salesrooms by covering the platforms and floor with matting, painting the woodwork and making other minor changes.

The women in Plainfield who are interested in music are cordially invited to call at Lister's cycle store on North avenue and receive a present of "The Keating March," a most excellent composition by a well-known composer.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Another match is being arranged between the young men of the I. O. S. of Westfield and the crack team of the Westfield Athletic club.

A cock fight will be held at Elizabeth on the evening of Saturday, April 4th. There will be a contingent of Plainfield sports there, and also several birds from this city are expected to contest.

Ed Campbell and William Gratton went possum hunting Tuesday night and met with good luck beside numerous adventures. They captured a a nest full of small opposums beside several of the large ones.

The Board of Directors of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective and Propogative Society met last night at the office of Percy C. Ohl, Babcock building. A committee, composed of William Pierson, Alex. McCullough and John Goff, was appointed to go to New York tomorrow to purchase game to be liberated on the society's preserves near New Market.

Those who have been interested in tennis in Plainfield for the last three years will remember the wonderful successes of Albert Price Simmonds, then of the Hillside Tennis Club. This year Mr. Simmonds will again make Plainfield his headquarters and will play in most of the local tournaments. He will also enter the principal tournaments in the vicinity of New York. In local contests in doubles, Thomas U. Smith, a well-known player, whose excellent game is putting him near the top, will be his partner, and the team will be a hard one to beat. They will begin practice in a few days at the Columbia Cycle Academy and will play there until the local courts are in condition for play.

WHIST.

A return match between the whist players of New York and those of New Jersey was played at the rooms of the Brooklyn Whist club. Jersey came out again by 8 points. In the other match that was played at the rooms of the Jersey City Whist club, two months ago, the New Jersey men also won, that time by 27 points. In the match last night, New York and New Jersey were each represented by eighty men. Of the New Jersey representatives, the following were from Plainfield: Samuel Townsend, George T. Rogers, Joseph Howell, H. B. Reed, Peter B. Matthews, Harry Depew, J. Parker Mason and Mr. Keirchoff.

INS AND OUTS.

Cranford has decided to put a baseball team in the field.

—Fresh strawberries are used in making the strawberry crush at Armstrong's pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

—The work of digging the cellar for E. E. Marshall's new house on Fairview avenue will be started April 1st.

—The Easter vacation at Leal's School will begin on Friday, April 3d, and come to an end on Monday, April 13th.

—Joseph Johnson, of Greenbrook road, is erecting a green house on his property, also an addition to his house.

—Contractor Jacob Higgins began yesterday the laying of the foundation for another house for Eugene Pope on Duer street.

—A fundamental principle of the Organized Aid Association is to make work by the applicant the foundation of all giving.

—Mrs. James T. MacMurray, of East Front street, is now improving from her severe illness and able to sit up a little each day.

—P. M. Decker has disposed of his business in Plainfield and has taken a position with Louis Noll. Mr. Decker is an artist of long experience.—Somerville Messenger.

—Ninety per cent of all the people need to take a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season to prevent that run-down condition of the system which invites disease.

—On Friday evening the Rev. R. Mackellar, rector of Red Bank, N. J., will preach the sermon in St. Stephen's church. The services will begin at 7:45. A free stage will leave the railroad station for the church at 7:15.

—Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of L., met last evening in their rooms, the Fireman's Hall, at which time the anniversary committee made their final report and several propositions for membership were received.

—The sociable to be given tonight in the Olympia, Sycamore street, promises to be an enjoyable affair. The committee consists of A. R. Johnson, I. G. Pearson and George W. Scribner. Prof. Frazee will furnish the music.

—There will be no services held in St. Stephen's church today, as the rector was obliged to attend the funeral of Mrs. Simpson's brother, which was held in Grace church, Newark, at 11 a. m. Interment at Woodlawn cemetery.

—This is the time of the year when you need a good tonic for the system. Leggett, the druggist, has a compound extract of sarsaparilla, beef and celery, which cannot be excelled as a blood purifier. Try it and be convinced of its excellent qualities.

—"I want to go to Peck's street!" said a lady to a sassy boy. "Well you may go if you wont stay long," said the boy. "But I want to know where Peck's is?" "Well, why didn't you say so! Do you see that crowd down yonder! That's the place, and ma says it is the best store in town!"

STRAWBERRIES UNPROMISING.

Jersey Crop Prospects Injured by Recent Severe Weather.

The recent severe weather is said to have been bad for the Jersey strawberry crop. Hammonton farmers say that the strawberry plants have been seriously injured by the cold rains of the last two weeks, as the roots have been decayed to a great extent.

Blackberries and raspberries have stood the winter well, and give promise of large crops.

Excel in Harmony.

The capacity of the Tabernacle was tested to its utmost last evening, the occasion being the first appearance in this city of the Syracuse University Glee and Banjo Clubs. The banjo playing was good, but the singing was a revelation. It has been a long time since our people have had the pleasure of listening to such a harmonious blending of voices. Certainly no other College Glee Club can expect to excel in harmony the work of the Syracuse Club.—Erie Herald. The club will give one of their concerts at the Monroe Avenue chapel tomorrow night.

Sewage Farm Working All Right.

There are now in use four beds at the sewage farm and according to the reports of the officials they are doing the work in a most satisfactory manner.

Its just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. Its easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

WITH HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS.

Many Little Jots Taken in Random From Among the Scholars.

The High School Cadets met for drill this afternoon in the Columbia Cycle Academy. Three corporals will be appointed at the drill, chosen from the ranks.

One of the best declamations given by the boys of the High School was given yesterday morning by Charles A. Squires, of the class of '96. The selection was one written by Mark Twain entitled "Experiences with European Guides," and was full of humor from the beginning to the ending.

The regular meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi society will be held at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, and will be held at that hour every week instead of 3:30 o'clock as has been the custom for over a year.

The Easter vacation commences on Friday, the 27th of March, and ends Monday, April 6th.

Much enthusiasm is being shown among the boys over the prospects of a good baseball team this year. The team will be organized as soon as possible and practice commence as soon as the ground is in fit condition. The first game will be played on April 18th with the Montclair High School nine at Plainfield.

Scotch Plains.

The lecture at the Baptist church on "Explorations in Africa" was an interesting one. The attendance was very good and a neat sum was realized.

—A great improvement is now being made at the corner of Watchung and North avenues by J. T. Vail's men. The flagging is being re-laid so as to conform to the grade.

—Mrs. Cregier, of Park avenue, whose home was burned down about a year ago, is now trying to obtain the full amount of her insurance at the New Brunswick court.

METHODS OF MANAGERS

Art and Business Methods of hree Famous Men.

How Henry Irving Puts a Play on the Stage—Mr. Daly's Autocratic System of Management—Gustave Frohman's Success.

[Special New York Letter.]

The extent to which the personalities of half a dozen men are reflected in every worthy current phase of dramatic endeavor becomes apparent to the habitual play-goer, as well as to the humblest class of laborers in the theatrical field, in these days of financial depression when only plays of great merit or strikingly original novelties enjoy pecuniary success. In fact, the art and business methods of three of these men are responsible for every recent achievement in their line that is worthy of note. Others using the same methods have made nearly as great reputations; but that has been through their talent for appropriating to their own use the creations of greater minds.

SIR HENRY IRVING.

In the last decade there has been no disposition to dispute the fact that Henry Irving stands supreme and alone as an artist manager. Viewed merely as an actor he has never ranked with the English Macready or the American Forrest and Booth. But no actor of the first rank has ever possessed Irving's comprehension of art in its broadest significance. The art of the English master of the stage is universal. It is the possession of this quality that enables him to make productions of classic and historical drama, which, before his advent, were beyond the dreams of the most ambitious stage director. The scenes of an Irving production are a delight to the painter's eye; the incidental music which accompanies the action is composed by some master who has caught from Irving the spirit of the play; the costumes, faithful in material and design, win the admiration alike of the lover of romance and the student of history.

Surrounding the genius of the Lyceum theater, London—in fact, his comrades and cordial co-workers—are most of the men of the English metropolis whose names are great in painting, in sculpture, in music, in architecture—in every branch of art that can contribute of a perfect stage representation of a noble historical subject. It is a peculiarity of Irving's temperament that he is able to inspire and bind together in his own service all these elements. Probably the secret of his success is his invariably generous public recognition of the contributions of others toward his triumph, and the geniality of his bearing toward all with whom he comes in contact. These characteristics are nowhere else so pronounced as in his relations with the members of his acting company. Those who have been privileged to witness a rehearsal of one of Irving's famous productions at the Lyceum theater have carried away with them two especially vivid impressions. They have observed that the suggestions of even the least important members of the cast are courteously considered. A supernumerary may advance his own theory of how his spear should be carried, for example, and Irving, if he finds this theory wrong, will take the trouble to courteously explain why it is so. In this way the best intelligence of every member of the cast is called into action. Although the presiding genius gives up a great deal of his time to considering the suggestions of those who are less expert than himself, he gains a hearty cooperation which more than compensates him. With all his close attention to the details of his productions—a self-imposed task nearly as exacting as those of his staff of assistants on the stage—Irving neglects none of the social duties which are the lot of representative men of art and letters in the English metropolis. In this regard he is as indefatigable as our own Chauncey Depew.

This picture has its reverse in our country, where for nearly 20 years the name of Augustin Daly has been associated in the minds of play-goers with all that is most refined and truly artistic in the field of drama. In some instances Daly's results have been the equal of Irving's. He has the correct eye and ear, and the temperament, of a born artist, and when he has been surrounded by capable people whose powers were proof against the chill and uninspiring atmosphere of his discipline, his high ideals have usually been realized. Instead of radiating inspiration, as Irving does, Daly absorbs every artistic quality that has legal representation on his pay roll, filters it through his own personality and tenders the harmonious product to an admiring public, who accept it as Augustin Daly's very own. When his actors develop individual excellencies of impersonation, thereby setting a very bad example to all properly constituted automata, it is necessary that they should go elsewhere; Daly's instrument must respond to his touch alone. He is a master, but he has no association with other masters of his craft. The name of no great painter, musician or poet is ever found associated with Daly's upon the occasion of any of its triumphs, unless the latter should chance to be the author of the play presented, and even then, unless the author should happen to be Shakespeare—who, by the way, furnishes Mr. Daly with some excellent material for spectacular productions bearing his name—his status is apt to be somewhat vague.

It would be unfair to Augustin Daly to charge him with being the instigator of all the inequalities in the common highway of strict equity in these matters that have been observed during the course of his career. For example, the palpable neglect of Mr. French, the publisher of standard acting dramas, to remove from the title pages of "Frou Frou" the name of Augustin Daly as author, when Mr. Daly and every other well-read American has known for a dozen years past that two clever Frenchmen, not unknown in their own country, namely, Meilhac and Halleyy, are the authors of that fine work. It is somehow the misfortune of Mr. Daly to have failed to live down that early period in his career when he was sun, moon and stars in the dramatic firmament of this country. Perhaps he could if he would, and if he could and would there are few who will deny that if Augustin Daly should now avail himself of all the forces that would be at his command under the Irving form of administration he would still be as unapproachable in his special field as he has been in the past.

There being few men in the theatrical field naturally so gifted as Mr. Daly, his imitators have been very few. The imitators of another man, of vastly different gifts and attainments, are correspondingly numerous. The methods which he put into operation a score of years ago have reduced theatrical management to a legitimate business basis, if not to a science. They have built handsome playhouses in hundreds of towns, which, under former conditions, would be able to boast only the primitively constructed town hall; have brought within the reach of practically everyone the best dramatic literature of the past and present. The man referred to is Gustave Frohman, second in years of the three brothers whose combined interests in the amusement line are of greater importance than those of any other dozen managers.

Gustave Frohman was the pioneer distributor of celebrated dramatic attractions throughout the towns and villages of the country. What others had done in a haphazard way with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," he did systematically with "Hazel Kirke," and is now doing with the importations of his brothers, Charles and Daniel Frohman. Many will doubtless be surprised to know that without this cleverly managed and exhaustive "road business," as it is called, the expense of importing the great novelties of Paris and London, such as "Jane," "Sowing the Wind" and "The Fatal Card," would practically prohibit that enterprise. But whatever is demanded by the people of New York city and Chicago is eagerly accepted by the audiences of the smallest towns on the map of the country, and it is placing these attractions everywhere on a carefully systematized plan before their novelty has worn off that enables American managers to give their patrons all that can be had in any other country. While Gustave Frohman's administrative genius showed other managers how this result could be accomplished, and while he still remains chief among road managers, to say that his talents are limited to this field would be far from the truth. As the lessee of a first-class theater in Chicago he has demonstrated the possession of sound artistic judgment, and it is well understood in the theatrical profession that no other manager excels him in the knowledge of how to exhibit the talents of the actors in his employ at their best

CURTIS DUNHAM.

Napoleon's First Wife.

A recent writer on Napoleon I. says that Josephine was far from being the beauty that she is commonly supposed. Her nose is too long, her chin was small and receding, her eyes were rather oblique, her teeth were brown and decayed and her breath very bad. Her gait was not easy, and she had a foolish giggle that spoiled her conversation.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. PROFIT AND LOSS.

It Is Not Enough to Merely Hold Your Own.

Hard Times in Health as Well as Business. How to Attain Physical Prosperity.

Every successful merchant keeps two columns, one for "Profit" and another for "Loss." At the close of each year a balance is taken and the true condition of things revealed.

Unwise purchases or too many charges on the books may easily make the balance show on the wrong side. In dull and hard times the merchant often thinks he is fortunate if the books do not show a loss, even if there is no gain. He is almost satisfied if he "holds his own."

A great many young people, especially school girls, seem to be living in "dull and hard times," for they do not improve and develop as they should. They just hold their own, and that is all. They should be growing and making advances all along the line. Every day should show a balance on the Profit side of the health column. They should gain in weight, increase in height, and steadily develop in muscular and mental strength.

If there is a stand-still, just holding your own, then an effort should be made to aid nature. You only have to give her a little start in the right direction. Some good reinforcements will easily help her over the hill, then everything will prosper again. Give her power and vigor by supplying her with a nourishing food, a reconstructive, and strong nerve tonics.

All three of these are found in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites.

The trouble with a great many is that they think one preparation of cod-liver oil is as good as another. Hence, if they try some clear oil and receive no benefit, then they are discouraged and give up in despair. When the body is weak and you wish to give it strength, what wisdom is there in making it do an extra amount of work? When you take raw cod-liver oil, this is what you do. The body has to digest the oil, and this work of digestion takes vital energy. Why not digest the oil before taking it, and thus save the body all this expenditure of force?

Physiology teaches that an oil is digested when it is emulsified, or broken up into most minute globules. An "emulsion" is a preparation of a digested oil. Therefore, in Scott's Emulsion the oil is digested. There is no loss of force in preparing it for absorption. Everything is on the Profit side. The body has the full benefit of the whole dose. The hypophosphites makes you hungry, and they give tone and stability to the nerves and brain.

Scott's Emulsion contains more pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil than any other emulsion in the world, that will stand the test of time as being a perfect inseparable emulsion. Ask your doctor.

COPYRIGHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

"It ain't no business o' mine, young man," he said, deliberately, "but I reckon you understand me when I say that I've just taken another man over there."

"I do," said Clarence, impatiently.

"And you still want to go?"

"Certainly," said Clarence, with a cold stare, taking up his oar.

The man shrugged his shoulders, bent himself for a stroke and the boat sprang forward. The others rowed strongly and rapidly, the tough ashen blades springing like steel from the water, the heavy boat seeming to leap in successive bounds until they were fairly beyond the curving inshore current and clearing the placid, misty surface of the bay.

Clarence did not speak, but bent abstractedly to his oar; the ferryman and his crew rowed in equal panting silence, a few startled ducks whirred before them, but dropped again to rest.

In half an hour they were at the Embarcado. The time was fairly up; Clarence's eyes were eagerly bent for the first appearance of the stage coach around the little promotory; the ferryman was as eagerly scanning the bare, empty street of the still sleeping settlement.

"I don't see him anywhere," said the ferryman with a glance, half of astonishment and half of curiosity, at his solitary passenger.

"See whom?" said Clarence, carelessly as he handed the man his promised fee.

"The other man I ferried over to catch the stage. He must have gone on without waiting. You're in luck, young fellow."

"I don't understand you," said Clarence, impatiently. "What has your previous passenger to do with me?"

"Well, I reckon you know best. He's the kind of man, gin'rally speaking, that other men in a powerful hurry don't care to meet, and as a rule I don't foller arter. It's gin'rally the other way."

"What do you mean?" said Clarence, sternly. "Who are you speaking of?"

"The chief of police of San Francisco!"

CHAPTER II.

The laugh that instinctively broke from Clarence's lips was so sincere and unaffected that the man was disconcerted, and at last joined in it, a little shamefacedly. The grotesque blunder of being taken as a fugitive from justice relieved Clarence's mind from its acute tension, he was momentarily diverted, and it was not until the boatman had departed and he was again alone that it seemed to have any collateral significance.

Then an uneasy recollection of Susy's threat that she had the power to put his wife in Fort Alcatrez came across him.

Could she have already warned the municipal authorities, and this man—but he quickly remembered any action from such a warning could only have been taken by the United States marshal, and not by a civic official, and dismissed the idea.

Nevertheless, when the stage with its half-spent lamps still burning dimly against the morning light swept round the curve and rolled heavily up to the fice, he became watchful.

A single yawning individual in its doorway received a few letters and parcels, but Clarence was evidently the only waiting passenger. Any hope that he might have entertained that his mysterious predecessor would emerge from some seclusion at that moment, was disappointed.

As he entered the coach he made a rapid survey of his fellow-travelers, but satisfied himself that the stranger was not among them. They were mainly small traders or farmers, a miner or two, and apparently a Spanish-American of better degree and personality.

Possibly the circumstance that men of this class usually preferred to travel on horseback and were rarely seen in public conveyances attracted his attention, and their eyes met more than once in mutual curiosity.

Presently Clarence addressed a remark to him in Spanish. He replied fluently and courteously, but at the next stopping place he asked a question of the expressman in an unmistakable Missouri accent.

Clarence's curiosity was satisfied; he was evidently one of those early American settlers who had been so long domiciled in southern California as to adopt the speech as well as the habiliments of the Spaniard.

The conversation fell upon the political news of the previous night, or rather seemed to be lazily continued from some previous more exciting discussion, in which one of the contestants, a red-bearded miner, had subsided into an occasional growl of surly dissent.

It struck Clarence that the Missourian had been an amused auditor, and even, judging from a twinkle in his eye, a mischievous instigator of the controversy. He was not surprised, therefore, when the man turned to him with a certain courtesy and said:

"And what, sir, is the political feeling in your district?"

But Clarence was in no mood to be drawn, and replied, almost curtly, that as he had come only from San Francisco, they were probably as well informed on that subject as himself.

A quick and searching glance from the stranger's eyes made him regret it, but in the silence that ensued the red-bearded passenger, evidently still rankling at heart, saw his opportunity.

Slapping his huge hands on his knees, and leaned far forward, until he seemed to plunge his flaming beard—like a firebrand—into the controversy, he said grimly:

"Well, I kin tell you gen'l'men this! It ain't goin' to be no matter wot's the political feeling here or thar—it ain't goin' to be no matter wot's state's rights and wot's fed'ral rights—it ain't goin' to be no question whether the gov'ment's got the right to relieve its own soldiers that those secesh is besieging in Fort Sumter, or whether they haven't—but the first gun that's fired at the flag blows the chains off every blamed nigger south of Mason and Dixon's line! You hear me! I'm shoutin'! And whether you call yourselves 'secesh,' or 'union,' or 'copperhead,' or 'peace men,' you got to face it!"

There was an angry start in one or two of the seats; one man caught at the swinging side strap and half rose, a husky voice began: "It's a confounded—," and then all as suddenly subsided.

Every eye was turned to an insignificant figure in the back seat. It was a woman holding a child on her lap and gazing out of the window with her sex's profound unconcern in politics.

Clarence understood the rude chivalry of the road well enough to comprehend that this unconscious but omnipotent figure had, more than once that day, controlled the passions of the disputants. They dropped back weakly to their seats, and their mutterings rolled off in the rattle of the wheels.

Clarence glanced at the Missourian. He was regarding the red-bearded miner with a singular curiosity.

The rain had ceased, but the afternoon shadows were deepening when they at last reached Fair Plains, when Clarence expected to take horse to the rancho. He was astonished, however, to learn that all the horses in the stable were engaged, but remembering that some of his own stock were in pasturage with a tenant at Fair Plains, and that he should probably have a better selection, he turned his steps thither.

Passing out of the stable yard he recognized the Missourian's voice in whispered conversation with the proprietor, but the two men withdrew into the shadow as he approached.

An ill-defined uneasiness came over him; he knew the proprietor—who also seemed to know the Missourian, and this evident avoidance of him was significant. Perhaps his reputation as a doubtful unionist had preceded him, but this would not account for their conduct in a district so strongly southern in sympathy as Fair Plains.

More impressed by the occurrence than he cared to admit, when at last, after some delay, he had secured his horse, and was once more in the saddle, he kept a sharp lookout for his quondam companion.

But here another circumstance added to his suspicions; there was a main road leading to Santa Inez, the next town, and the rancho, and this Clarence had purposely taken in order to watch the Missourian—but there was a cut-off directly to the rancho, known only to habitues of the rancho.

After a few moments rapid riding on a mustang much superior to any in the hotel stables, he was satisfied that the stranger must have taken the cut-off. Putting spurs to his horse, he trusted still to precede him to the rancho—if that was his destination.

As he dashed along the familiar road, by a strange perversity of fancy, instead of thinking of his purpose, he found himself recalling the first time he had ridden that way in the flush of his youth and hopefulness.

The girl-sweetheart he was then going to rejoin—was now the wife of another; the woman who had been her guardian was now his own wife. He had accepted without a pang the young girl's dereliction, but it was through her revelation that he was now about to confront the dereliction of his own wife.

And this was the reward of his youthful trust and loyalty! A bitter laugh broke from his lips. It was part of his still youthful self-delusion that he believed himself wiser and stronger for it.

It was quite dark when he reached the upper field or first terrace of the rancho. He could see the white walls of the casa rising dimly out of the green sea of early wild grasses, like a phantom island.

It was here that the "cut-off" joined the main road—now the only one that led to the casa. He was satisfied that no one could have preceded him from Fair Plains; but it was true that he must take precautions against his own discovery.

Dismounting near a clump of willows, he unsaddled and unbridled his horse, and with the cut of the riata over its haunches sent it flying across the field in the direction of a band of feeding mustangs, which it presently joined. Then keeping well in the shadow of a belt of scrub-oaks he skirted the long lesser terrace of the casa, intending to approach the house by way of the old garden and corral.

A drizzling rain, occasionally driven by the wind into long misty curtainlike waves, obscured the prospect and favored his design. He reached the low adobe wall of the corral in safety; looking over he could detect in spite of the darkness that a number of the horses were of alien brands, and even recognized one or two from the Santa Inez district.

The vague outlines of buggies and carryalls filled the long shed beside the stables. There was company at the casa—so far Susy was right.

Nevertheless, lingering still by the walls of the old garden, for the deepening of night, his nervous feverishness was again invaded and benumbed by sullen memories. There was the opening left by the old grille in the wall, behind which Mrs. Peyton stood on the morning when he thought he was leaving the ranch forever—where he had first clasped her in his arms, and stayed; a turn of the head, a moment's indecision, a single glance of a languorous eye, had brought this culmination.

And now he stood again before that ruined grille, his house and lands, even his name, misused by a mad, scheming adventuress, and himself a creeping spy of his own dishonor.

He turned with a bitter smile again to the garden. A few dark Castilian roses still leaned forward and swayed in the wind with dripping leaves. It was here that the first morning of his arrival he had kissed Susy; the perfume and color of her pink skin came back to him with a sudden shock as he stood there; he caught at the flower, drew it toward him and inhaled its odor in a long breath that left him faint and leaning against the wall.

Then again he smiled, but this time more wickedly—in what he believed his cynicism had sprung up the first instinct of revenge!

It was now dark enough for him to venture across the carriage road and make his way to the rear of the house. His first characteristic instinct had been to enter openly at his own front gate—but the terrible temptation to overhear and watch the conspiracy unobserved—that fascination common to deceived humanity to witness its own shame—had grown upon him. He knew that a word or a gesture of explanation, apology, appeal, or even terror from his wife would check his rage and weaken his purpose.

His perfect knowledge of the house and the security of its inmates would enable him from some obscure landing or gallery to participate in any secret conclave they might hold in the patio—the only place suitable for so numerous a rendezvous. The absence of light in the few external windows pointed to this central gathering. And he had already conceived his plan of entrance.

Gaining the rear wall of the casa he began cautiously to skirt its brambly base, until he had reached a long, oven-like window, half obliterated by a monstrous passion vine.

It was the window of what had once been Mrs. Peyton's boudoir; the window by which he had once forced an entrance to the house when it was in the hands of the squatters; the window from which Susy had signaled her Spanish lover; the window whose grating had broken the neck of Judge Peyton's presumed assassin.

But these recollections no longer delayed him; the moment for action had arrived. He knew that since the tragedy the boudoir had been dismantled and shunned; the servants believed it to be haunted by the assassin's ghost.

JEWISH PASSOVER.

This Feast Will Be Celebrated Beginning on Saturday.

The feast of the Passover, or the feast of unleaved bread, the Jewish Easter, according to Hebrew chronology, will be ushered in at sundown next Saturday evening, and among the orthodox Jews will be observed for eight days. The reformed Hebrews observe the feast for seven days only and are not so strict as the orthodox in abstaining from all but the unleavened bread.

Services during the passover are held in the synagogues the first two and last two days of the week, but not on the intermediate three. The methods of service vary according to the orthodoxy of the congregations. The unleavened bread, which is known as matzoths, is composed only of flour and water, and is made into a large, thin wafer. In most countries matzoths are baked in ovens, but in Jerusalem they are baked by the heat of the sun.

May Interfere With Communion.

The New York Advertiser recently published an extract from a pamphlet by the late Rev. Dr. Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains, entitled "Christ's Character the Answer," in connection with a statement that the Raines bill in New York might prevent the use of wine at church communion. Dr. J. Ackerman Coles yesterday had the following in the Advertiser:

In reply to the article headed "No Communion Wine," permit me to call attention to a pamphlet argument of the late Abraham Coles, A. M., M. D., Ph. D., LL. A., which some of the ablest critics in this country and in Europe consider unanswerable. It proves conclusively that, if the Raines law interferes with religious worship, so far as it concerns the use of alcoholic wine, the sooner it is enforced the better. Spurgeon says (1877): "We have found a true natural wine, and we use it with satisfaction to all our friends. I cannot think that alcohol is the essential point in the memory of our Lord's death. We have not, as a spiritual fact, found it so in our church. I do feel that for the strong to respect the scruples of the weak brother, to whom intoxicating wine would be a snare, is the very essence of Christian communion.

Big Contractors Once of This City.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of the 24th you allude to the fact that the contract to light Seigel & Cooper's building has been given to Mr. Hubbard, of this city, the secretary and manager of the Electric Arc Light Company, the largest single order ever given. This is quite complimentary to Plainfield, but it may not be generally known that the entire contract for the steel construction, frame as well as inside work and roof, has been given to Milliken Bros., who were also Plainfield boys and who are now pushing the work to completion. It is one of the largest fire proof structures in the city of New York, the cost of ironwork alone approximating a half million of dollars.

A BIT PERSONAL.

Folks Always Interested in Each Other's Doings.

Hence This Matter Taken From Their Private Life.

We Are Sure Will Interest the World Amazingly.

Dover, N. H.—A cynic of old once said—"Other peoples affairs are tedious."

We believe, on the contrary, that there is nothing so interesting to us as what happens to other people.

We are sure, therefore, that this will prove interesting reading.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Grant, who reside at 490 Central avenue, Dover, N. H., both talk unreservedly of the matter.

"Three years ago," said Mrs. Grant, "I was severely attacked by grippe, which after a long period of illness terminated in a complete case of nervous prostration. I became greatly reduced in flesh, and was rapidly growing weaker and less able to work about the house."

MRS. F. W. GRANT.

"Having heard of the wonderful curative properties contained in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I concluded to give it a trial. After taking one bottle I was greatly improved, and before the third bottle was gone I was able to be about my work as usual."

Mr. Grant is no less enthusiastic. He says:

"Having employed the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in a chronic case of nervous indigestion with the most gratifying results, I can sincerely recommend it to all who are suffering from this horrible malady. It aids digestion, strengthens the stomach and builds up the entire nervous system at the same time."

MR. F. W. GRANT.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy surely cures. The reason is plain. It is the prescription of the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases; hence of necessity, is perfectly adapted to cure just these chronic complaints. Remember that the spring is the time you can be cured quickest and at least expense. The spring is the time of all others to take this remedy and get well. Its discoverer, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Wm. Townsend and wife, of the borough, moved today to 39 Somerset street.

Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, returned today from a visit with Brooklyn relatives.

Geo. Kirch, of Somerset street, and Mrs. Zimmerman, of Summit avenue, attended the funeral of their aunt, which was held yesterday from the house, Arlington avenue, Jersey City.

A surprise party was given Mrs. William H. Scribner, of South avenue, last evening, by a number of her friends. It was gotten up by David Bush. The evening was spent mainly in dancing.

Mrs. Startup, of Westervelt avenue, is improving nicely from her severe illness. Mrs. H. W. Marshall, of East Fifth street, very kindly offered her services to Mrs. Startup, and has been in constant attendance during her illness.

They Are Still Frying Fat.

The laying of black mail upon present and prospective tariff beneficiaries has already begun. Honest Republicans, read the statement of Senator Chandler wherein he says this sum, viz. $250,000, is not raised for legitimate gifts. Don't it make you blush with shame Mr. Mark A. Hanna, who has been fixing delegates for the nomination of the "Tariff God" has the imprudence to say that Senator Chandler is talking through his hat. American citizens! these methods in our politics is but an admission that the high protection policy is a fraud and the people can only be sustained through uncanny means and agencies.

ESSENCE OF SONG--PUN.

Great Audience Witness the Minstrels of the Wheelmen.

ORIGINAL HITS OF A LOCAL NATURE.

Music Hall Packed With an Audience Who Appreciate and Applaud the Efforts of Plainfield's Funny Men—The First Part was an Exposition of Up-to-Date Minstrelsy—Besides the Melody of Music and the Jocularity of Jokes, There Were Several Original Acts—Names of Those Who Were the Participants.

The art of merriment as elucidated from song and pun was exploited with an irresistible subtleness at Music Hall last night by the gay, the grand, the gorgeous array of black-faced and white-panted contingent of the Crescent Wheelmen.

It has not been often that Music Hall contained a larger audience; every seat was occupied and a large number of people were standing. The audience was a cosmopolitan one, a Democratic one, a fashionable one. Almost everybody was there, or at least some of their relatives, and everyone who wasn't there wanted to be.

The conservative business man from Wall street, who almost ran his legs off between Broadway and Liberty street to catch an early ferryboat so that he might "come early and avoid the rush," accompanied by his wife, and children, if he was so fortunately blessed, was there. He hawhawed without any respect for conventionalities, and didn't seem to care a picka yune whether the market was bulled or beared. His clerk was in evidence also, and with him came the young lady who is the prospective Mrs. Wallstreet Clerk. They viewed the wry faces and comical antics, and smiled, giggled and laughed. The progressive Plainfield merchant occupied an orchestra chair, or anything else that he was lucky enough to get into, and chuckled with inward glee at the jibes that had been coined and aimed at the frailities of some unfortunate friend of his who had come under the eye of the ridiculous of "bones" or "tambo." He had his family there, too. His clerks and all his competitors' clerks had to come to view the pompous aggregation and indulge in the bushels of merriment that were dealt out. The staid matron, who seldom visits places of popular amusement, could not resist the temptation to see some of the boys whom she had known since they were knee-high-to-a-grasshopper, appear behind the footlights "to make fools of themselves," as she expressed herself when giving a plausible reason for her indulgence from her usually sedate conduct. But after the performance she confessed that she had laughed till the tears dimmed her eyes and she couldn't tell whether Charlie Lyman was the living skeleton or the man with the rubber skin. In a word, the crowd was there and they laughed.

The performance was of a local character all the way through, most of the jokes being aimed at members of the various clubs of the city. They were original, cleverly executed and the humor of a kind that was quickly appreciated by all who heard it. Now and then, however, a pun would be thrust out that would fall short of its mark, principally because a large part of the audience were not acquainted with the subject. As good a pun as was rendered was that given by Billy Runyon when he said that "Ballington Booth was doing the split at the Salvation Army." But it was gone and the audience was laughing at another before many people saw the point. Charles Lyman made a good interlocutor, his voice and bearing having the element of dignity, requisite for the position. George O. Stevens and Charles Runyon as "bones" and William N. Runyon and J. H. Rogers, as "tambos," acted with an abandon and ludicrousness necessary to create lots of laughter.

Those appearing in the first part were as follows: W. N. Runyon, J. H. Rogers, A. W. Demarest, C. E. Pettinos, F. D. Hallock, F. Freeman, R. McGee, W. E. MacClymont, W. Thiers, J. E. S. Petrie, F. J. Pope, A. E. Holmes, Charles H. Lyman, E. E. Runyon, L. S. Bond, C. Angleman, H. Schutt, L. Miner, J. E. Douglass, H. Moore, A. B. Jessup, George Lehman, S. P. T. Wilbur, Charles Runyon, George Stevens, A. Titsworth, S. Reynolds, C. Hazeltine, A. H. Cornish, A. Cannon, H. Yaeger, G. Ulrich, F. H. Smith, F. French, W. Stephenson, B. Mundy, C. Lister, G. Homn, W. Sweeney, F. H. Clarkson, A. F. Baker, G. Rockfellow, F. L. Jones, W. B. Mosher, R. Miner, Wyatt Barnes, Ed. Serrell, T. Smith, J. Crawford, N. Titsworth.

The busy hum of conversation was suddenly stilled by the sound of singing coming from behind the curtain. The male voices blended harmoniously in the strains of "I Am Working on the Levee," and then the curtain rolled up. A grand burst of applause from the audience greeted the picturesque party, and then, at a signal from the genial interlocutor, the dusky-faced artists sat down and the long-expected minstrel show of the Crescent Wheelmen had begun. The overture by the entire company was a varied one and everybody had a hand in it. First came the familiar strains of "Paradise Alley" and "Little Alabama Coon." The orchestra gave snatches of other well-known selections in the intervals between the songs while "Bones" and "Tambo" kept up a lively accompaniment. "Go Tell the News on High," with the solo part sung by George O. Stevens, came next, and "Lulu," with Alfred Holmes, was also given. Then up jumped George O. Stevens and William N. Runyon in their fantastic costumes while the orchestra struck up "Two New Sports in Town." They sang it in a way that brought tears to the eyes of their hearers. They were tears of joy, however. A grand finale by the orchestra, bones and tambos concluded the opening selection.

"There is an intoxicating effect about this show," remarked Stevens from his end. Of course, the interlocutor, Charles H. Lyman, wanted to know what and how it was. "We have got Music Hall full," began Stevens, and everybody saw the point and laughed. He then went on to tell about who was present in the audience. Sheriff Kyte, so he said, had an attachment for this kind of shows and came down to see the programme properly executed.

His story of his last trip on the trolley car and how, as the sign said not to spit on the floor, he tried to expectorate on the ceiling, was a very sad one, but still the audience laughed. Bones, for such Stevens was, then told something about "Bill" Runyon and how he got his clothing by fits and starts, not getting them until they fitted and then starting off without remembering to pay. That made him think how he had given Runyon a bill sometime ago. Its denomination was Episcopalian, he thought, because it kept lent. Louis Timpson's little boy swallowed a five-cent piece and was hurrying to see Dr. Mattison when they met Stevens, or at least so the latter said. He told them to go see Reed & Coddington for they, who had just got $1,000 out of a man, ought to be able to get five cents out of a little boy.

A bass solo, "Rollin' to de Sea," was well rendered by Raymond A. McGee assisted on the chorus by Messrs. Angleman, Bond and Pope. Will Runyon had in the meantime fallen asleep and Interlocutor Lyman roused him out of his slumbers. Will was disgusted because he was waked up in the middle of the best dream he ever had. He dreamed he was "Jimmy" Leonard and had a job, but woke up before he found out what the salary was. The audience hollered with amusement.

Runyon's gags were good, and his bland, innocent smile quite captivated the crowd. He told how Will Worth was so stingy that in church, when the congregation sang "Old Hundred," he sang "The Ninety and Nine" to save his breath on one. Lyman made some inquiries regarding his law practice, and Runyon said so innocently that the only man that employed him in a murder case was acquitted for being insane. Ballington Booth was credited with doing the split on the Salvation Army. Then Runyon ended with a story about his sister, who, he said, was a typewriter in Charley Fisk's office. Her devotion to duty was remarkable, according to Will, for she put mucilage on the sheet of type-written matter and sat on it so Mr. Fisk could see that she was sticking to her work.

A pretty selection was sung by Wm. J. Thiers, while the chorus was rendered by a quartette composed of Messrs. Angleman, Thiers, McClymont and McGee.

Chas. Runyon, as the second bones, had a far away look in his eyes, and looked as if he hadn't a friend in the world. Interlocutor Lyman wanted to know what was the matter, and Runyon told a sorrowful story of how, after looking at his watch, he had hurried to the train, catching a ride on one of George Stevens' coal wagons so as to beat the trolley car, and arrived there to find the train gone. He looked at his watch to find that it had stopped.

"What was the matter with your watch?" inquired Ly man.

"Had a bed-bug in it," was the reply.

"A bed bug! How could a bed bug get in your watch?" said the Interlocutor.

"It crawled in between the ticks," came the solemn answer. George Stevens tried to die while Will Runyon ooked quite ill. But Charley Runyon was good for more. He told how Joe Cooney locked up a toothpick-legged young lady in bloomers for having no visible means of support, and how Judge DeMeza let him go after he assaulted his mother-in-law with a door in a midnight encounter with her because, the judge said, no man could be arrested for a-dooring his mother-in-law. He then spoke of a funny sight he had seen in Green Brook where the two mayors, Dr. Thiers, Dr. Carman, Dr. Hedges, and a number of other prominent men were looking for the sewer connections with an Xray machine.

The orchestra started and George Stevens wiggled to the centre of the stage and sang that plaintive melody, "I Want Yer Ma Honey." He begged so pleadingly that the pianist was nearly drawn out of his seat. After a rousing encore, the members of the Lotos Glee Club gathered round their leader. They were Chas. H. Angleman, J. E. Douglass, W. M. Muier, Herbert Schutt, Herbert Moore, Henry Yaeger and W. J Timpson, tenors; Raymond A. McGee, Wyatt Barnes, Chas. Hazeltine, Stacy R. Raynolds, F. J. Pope, A. H. Cornish, Ralph K. Miner and Thomas U. Smith, bassos. They were hardly recognizable with their curly wigs and burnt cork complexion. Their two selections, "Maid of the Valley," and "They Kissed, I Saw Them do it," were rendered in a most acceptable manner, and the large audience was greatly pleased with the appearance of Plainfield's new glee club.

Will Runyon had recovered from the effects of Charley Runyon's story by this time and began to talk about Judge DeMeza. Then Lyman remarked on the great number of Runyons in town and Will said that Plainfield would hardly be a borough without the Runyons.

He said there were more Charley Smith's in town than any other name and he told of some of the terrible mistakes they had caused—how ten beer kegs had been unloaded and piled upon the front piazza of Charley Smith, the architect, and how a gallon of paregoric went to Charley Smith, of West Front street, instead of Charley Smith, the jeweler, and a green barkeeper made cocktails out of it, nearly ruining his employer's business. Some plans meant for Charley Smith, the architect, arrived at the residence of Charley Smith, the jeweler, and his baby swallowed them by mistake, causing a bow window swelling in its neck and giving it a brown-stone front.

While the audience was recovering from this last shock, a very pretty "Slumber Song" was sung by Elmer E. Runyon, whose sweet tenor voice pleased the audience more than ever. The chorus was sung by a quartette, composed of Messrs. Bond, Angleman, Pope and McGee.

J. H. Rogers, Will Runyon's companion as "tambo," took his share in the fun. He used a dialect that was a cross between German and Negro, and he looked so solemn, when he said that McVey was arrested for cruelty to animals, because he beat an egg, that straight faces were few and far between.

He joked about Elmer E. Runyon and said that Judge Nash was not an American, but a Laplander, as he knew, for he saw him at dinner in a cable car. He closed with a little poem about wanting to be on a golden wheel on a golden shore, where "punctures would punct no more."

The well known baritone, Alfred E. Holmes, was the next to take part and he gave the pleasing selection, "The Requital," in an artistic manner.

It was apparent from the way Geo. Stevens squirmed about that he was loaded and wanted to go off, so Lyman pulled the trigger and he fired his first shot up Somerset street. He exhibited his roses from Miles' greenhouse, and remarked that one would have to go miles to find their equal. After commenting on death and burial he told about the recent wind storm, when S. P. T. Wilbur stood on Washington Rock waiting to be blown off by someone. Elmer Runyon was his next victim, and George told how that gentleman came home one night from the lodge without his night-key and started to make an entrance over the piazza roof. His wife heard a noise, and looked out of the window, where she saw his bald head just looming up above the piazza roof. She took it for the moon, so said Stevens, and retired again. He then said that Elmer Runyon could not keep thoughts in his head, for they kept flowing away, as they had so few locks to keep them. He closed with a wonderful story of the hunting exploits of Percy and Fred Sandford.

The first part closed with an end song entitled "Only a Yaller-Headed Coon," by Will Runyon.

During the intermission, the orches

CUPID'S DARTS IN MARCH

MARRIAGE OF MISS BELLE CARKHUFF TO ROBERT W. BARNES.

The Event Solemnized at the Home of the Bride's Uncle at Mt. Pleasant—Many Plainfield People Present at the Affair.

The pretty country home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Rowley at Mt. Pleasant was the scene yesterday afternoon of a very charming wedding when their neice, Miss Isabella S. Carhuff, became the wife of Robert W. Barnes, of this city. The ceremony, which was performed at 3 o'clock by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, was witnessed only by the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. At the appointed hour the bridal party entered the front parlor from the hallway, and passed to the rear parlor where they formed in a semi-circle. As they entered Miss Etta Taffan, of Mt. Pleasant, rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march on the organ. The groom and best man, John G. McLoughlin, of North Plainfield, and Dr. Yerkes, entered the room from another door. The ceremony was performed with a ring and the responses were very clear. While a favorite march was being played the party passed to another room on the opposite side of the hall, where the bride and groom received congratulations.

The bride wore a gown of tan cloth with Fedora front of Dresden silk, and trimmed with brown velvet. She carried an exquisite bunch of bridal roses. The bridemaid, Miss Lizzie Rowley, cousin of the bride, was gowned in brown cloth, with brown satin bodice, trimmed with bertha of spangled passmentric and white silk lace. She carried pink roses. A most excellent wedding supper followed congratulations, after which Mr. and Mrs. Barnes left by the Royal Blue Line train for Washington where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will board for awhile until their new home on Grove street is completed. They were the recipients of a large number of very handsome and useful presents. The groom's gift to the best man was a gold scarf pin with pearl setting.

Those present at the marriage were: Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Councilman and Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mrs. G. H. Batchelor, Mrs. Spratt, Miss Trewin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. John Butler, Robt. Butler, Robt. Barnes, father of the groom, Miss Gussie Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Randolph, Miss Bertha Van Cleef, Miss Geogia Eick, Mrs. Jeremiah Van Winkle, Robert Love, Nelson Van Winkle, W. C. Dobbins, Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. George Banks, Luther Banks, Miss Lizzie Rowley, Miss Etta Taffan, Mt. Pleasant; Miss Ella Carkhuff, Flemington; Mrs. Garrabrant, Wm. Garrabrant, Eugene Garrabrant, Bayonne; Isaac Carkhuff, North Branch; Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hopping, Tottenville, S. I.; Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. Ketteltas, Arocar, S. I.; Miss Susie Cooper, Mrs. George Cooper, Somerville; Miss Anthony, High Bridge.

The ushers were Robert Love, of Plainfield, and Eugene Garrabrant, of Bayonne. They wore favors consisting of boutenierres.

TALK ON BIRDS.

Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller Talked to a Cultured Audience in the Seminary.

A large and cultured audience gathered in Seminary Hall yesterday afternoon to hear Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller lecture on spring birds. She took her listeners for a walk in the woods, where they met the birds and visited them in their homes. Parenthetically, she spoke of the varied notes and songs in the repertoire of one bird, and of the differences in disposition between birds of the same family. She described in detail the song-sparrow, field lark, bobolink, meadow lark, woodpecker, warbler, oriole, crow and cuckoo, stuffed specimens of which she exhibited.

Mrs. Miller's reputation as an expert in bird lore had prepared her listeners for a charming lecture, but their expectations were more than realized. Mrs. Miller is attractive in personnel, charming in manner, and an enthusiast in her subject, showing the closest observation and most intimate knowledge of her bird acquaintances, added to which, her elegant diction and keen humor, leave nothing to be desired in the minds of her hearers.

—A farewell dance will be given at the Olympia on April 22nd by the same committee that arranged the subscription dance that was held there last night.

—Charles H. Lyman is to have a new residence in Washington Park. The plans for it are now being drawn by Clum & Lancaster, of the Babcock building.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DEAD.

Rev. M. Elston Dunn, Well Known Here, Dies in Milton, Wisconsin.

Rev. Elston M. Dunn, a former well-known citizen of Plainfield, died at his home in Milton, Wisconsin, on Wednesday, after an illness of about one month, during which time he suffered from an attack of kidney trouble. His health previous to this time was excellent, but owing to a decline in strength, his congregation had granted him a leave of absence. He was not, however, able to leave home. His death was sudden and his family is stricken with grief.

Word of his death was received by John Cuthbert, his brother-in-law, now living in New York, and the latter sent word to City Treasurer Alex. Titsworth, an old friend.

Mr. Dunn was about sixty years of age and was born in the house now occupied by Druggist Alex. Mallinson on Watchung avenue. His father, William Dunn, was in partnership with the late John D. Titsworth, and they conducted a clothing business in this city where Ulrich & Blatz are now located. Elston Dunn went to school to Mr. Wallace in his early years, and later clerked for Webster & Marsh in their dry goods store.

A short time after that he was appointed postmaster and served two terms, eight years, under the administrations of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson. The office was located where P. Casey & Son now have a store.

At the conclusion of his term he attended school at Alfred, N. Y., where he remained for sometime. About twenty years ago he entered the ministry and was located as pastor of the Milton, Wis., Seventh-Day Baptist church. His studies were completed at Morgan Park Theological Seminary. He was a brilliant man of good ability and thoroughly able to sustain himself. The loss to the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination will be severe.

The late Mrs. Maridane Babcock, widow of the late George H. Babcock, was his sister, and another sister is now living in Boston. He also leaves a widow, two married daughters and a son, who are now living at Milton, Wis.

Mr. Dunn attended the Seventh-Day Baptist Conference in this city last August and preached for Dr. Lewis August 31st.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow from his late home at Milton, Wis.

TOM JONES IS DEAD.

The Well Known Central Baggage Man Passes Over the Divide.

After a brief illness, Baggage-Master "Tom" Jones, of the Central Railroad, died last evening at the home of relatives in Elizabeth. There is scarcely a person along the line of the road that did not know him. He had been in the employ of the company for 25 years, and during the past twenty-two years he has held the position of baggage-master on the same train. His genial, affable manner won him many friends, and it was often remarked that he had the biggest heart of anyone on the road.

He was one of the organizers of Engine Company No. 2, of this city, and it was his custom a few years ago to visit Plainfield every day after his work was completed and make his headquarters at the engine house, which stood on West Front street, opposite the Jackson building.

A few years ago he was married, and he leaves a widow and one child. His home was in Dunellen, and he lived there for many years, but he was as well known in this city as in the former place.

JOHANNA BEFORE THE CADI.

A Well-Known Character to Spend a Term in the County Jail.

A frequent visitor at the city court was again the guest of the city last night and this time she will stay longer than usual, but the county will have a hand at her entertainment. Johanna Haley was the culprit and she attempted to appropriate a pair of buckskin gloves belonging to E. M. Laing, the Park avenue hatter.

Roundsman Frederickson arrested her and she had to answer for that and a previous complaint. The Judge gave her her choice between a fine of $15 and forty days in jail. The prospect of free board was too alluring and down she went.

Justice Mosher's Court.

Summons was issued today in the case of Aaron D. Thompson against Philip J. Brindenberger and Fred Brindenberger, on contract, returnable at Justice Mosher's court on April 7th. S. S. Swackhamer is the attorney for the plaintiff.

—A valuable horse belonging to Smalley Bros., North avenue butchers, died this morning from a severe attack of colic.

NO MORE LAWS THIS YEAR

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED SINE DIE LAST NIGHT AT 6 O'CLOCK.

The Appropriation Bill is a Big One—Voorhees Investigating Committee Continued—Presents for the Officers.

The Legislature adjourned sine die a few minutes after 6 o'clock last evening. The clocks in both House and Senate were stopped at 2 o'clock, the time the House fixed for adjournment. Both Houses rushed business rapidly in the morning, but the debates on constitutional amendments and bills of minor importance kept the House going two hours after the Senate was ready for dissolution.

A magnificent eight-day clock, eight feet high, was presented to Speaker Derousse by the Assemblymen. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Queen, the Democratic leader. Bill Clerk Sutherland also presented an umbrella and a diamond pin to Sergeant-at-Arms Breidenbach in behalf of the members. The customary resolutions were adopted.

One of the final acts of the Senate was the adoption of a resolution continuing the Voorhees Investigating Committee appointed last year "with all previous powers to investigate into public matters." The resolution was adopted in furtherance of a report from Senator Voorhees to the effect that there were other matters touching the public revenues and expenditures which may demand further inquiry, and requesting the continuance of the committee.

The Senate passed a score or more of bills, and after the calender had been cleared, President Thompson presented his resignation, which was accepted on motion of Senator Voorhees. Senator Williams, of Passaic, was elected to fill the vacancy.

Bullock's mutilated Semi-Monthly Wage bill was among the last measures which the Senate passed. It had been amended to death and was urged by Senator Williams.

The bill providing for the appointment by the Governor of a Public Library Commission of five persons was also passed. Senator Voorhees urged the passage of the bill making it a misdemeanor punishable by $100 fine to solicit candidates for office to purchase ball and picnic tickets. The bill passed unanimously.

The Governor sent to the Senate these nominations for county law judges under the new law: H. Burdett Herr, Hunterdon County; Woodbridge Strong, Middlesex County; Joseph H. Birdsall, Ocean County; Clement H. Sinnickson, Salem County; James F. Conklin, Sussex County; Harry S. Douglass, Cape May County. These were confirmed in executive session, as were also the other nominations made by the Governor.

The session of the House was intermingled with numerous recesses during the day, occasioned by the necessity of a conference and the usual presentations. The morning session saw the passage of many unimportant measures. In their midst was the Anti-Cigarette bill. The bill prohibiting the holding of elections in barrooms was passed. When it was discovered that its provisions would prevent the charter elections throughout the State in April, as elections in many cities were held in barrooms, the bill was reconsidered and killed.

The appropriation bill was given an airing in the House when it came up on final passage yesterday morning. Mr. Queen took exceptions to the bill which he characterized as the most extravagant the State had seen in some time. "The Democrats," said Mr. Queen, "were not represented on the committee, so our party does not know if the various items are correct."

Mr. Walling regretted the haste with which it was put through, declaring that the members should have time carefully to consider each item. Mr. Lower desired a halt to be called in the expense of maintaining the militia, declaring that organization cost $50,000 more than the appropriation for school purposes. Messrs. Thorn and Tice stood up for the militia, declaring the money was well spent. The bill passed by a party vote.

SEVERELY BURNED.

A Little Girl Hunting for Medicine Finds Benzine and is Burned.

The little niece of Mrs. Kenyon, of Kensington avenue, was severely burned last evening by the explosion of a bottle of benzine. She went to a closet, carrying a lamp trying to find a certain bottle of medicine. She removed the cork from the benzine bottle and the gas from it was ignited by the lamp. The little girl was badly burned about her face and on one arm and hand. Dr. Tomlinson was called to dress the wounds. It is thought that she will not lose her sight.

THE SNYDERS BURIED

Their Daughter, the Alleged Murderess, Not at the Funeral.

A LINK IN THE CHAIN OF EVIDENCE

Ground on Which the Young Woman Is Suspected of the Murder by Port Jervis Police—Organs of the Victims Undergoing Analysis.

Port Jervis, N. Y., March 27.—The double funeral of Jacob Snyder and his wife Frances, who are alleged to have died from poison administered by their daughter Martha, took place this morning at 10 o'clock. The daughter was not present, being guarded by the police at the hospital, where she was taken after she had recovered from her attack of convulsions, which, the doctors believe, was brought on by her taking, with suicidal intent, a dose of the same poison which is alleged to have caused the death of her parents. The motive attributed to the daughter was the desire to secure the insurance money on her parents' lives, which would be inherited by her on their death. Her father's life was insured for $2,00 and her mother's for $1,000. It is said that the girl was making arrangements to marry a young man in Seattle, Wash., and that the procuring of this insurance money was a necessary part of her plan. The strongest link in the chain of evidence is that the hired nurse, in conversation with the sick woman, asked her if there was any poison about the house, to which the patient replied that there was a box of rough-on-rats in the closet. The nurse procured the box and brought it to the bedside. On opening the box, the patient exclaimed: "Why, there are more than two teaspoonfuls gone." The stomach, liver and kidneys of the deceased are now in the possession of Dr. Whitehouse of New York, who is to-day engaged in making an analysis. After he has finished the work of analysis, the coroner will hold an inquest. In the meantime the strictest surveillance will be maintained about the daughter, who was separated from her husband, a man named Joseph Whittaker, some time ago on account of her erratic conduct. She had made her home with her parents since then. The police now allege that she has always borne a bad reputation. Snyder was an engineer employed in the Erie yards here. He and his wife were well respected.

B. & O. RECEIVERS' PLANS.

A Thorough Overhauling and Additions to the Rolling Stock Decided Upon.

Baltimore, March 27.—The receivers of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have outlined the policy which they intend to carry out in the management of that great property and present the official announcement in detail. Oscar G. Murray, one of the receivers, says that the company has not enough rolling stock to properly handle its business. "We have given orders," he added, "for every shop on the line to be operated on full time at repair work alone. It is our intention to overhaul and repair every locomotive and car that will justify the outlay. This will necessitate the employment of our entire force. Consequently all orders for new locomotives and cars will be given to outside concerns. We intend ordering 5,000 freight cars as soon as possible and also about seventy-five locomotives. Of the freight cars a large proportion will be coal cars, which may indicate the importance with which we regard our coal trade. Of the locomotives a small number, twelve or fifteen, will be for passenger service, as our locomotives in this respect are, as a rule, of a high standard. The balance will be for hauling freight. It is our aim to maintain the passenger service at as high a standard of efficiency as possible. All of the sleeping, drawing-room and day coaches will be renovated and refurnished, and wherever necessary new ones will be added."

GOV. ALTGELD INDICTED.

Illinois University Trustees Also Charged with Not Floating Old Glory.

Champaign, Ill., March 27. — The Champaign county grand jury has indicted Gov. John P. Altgeld and the entire board of trustees of the University of Illinois for not complying with the state law requiring that the American flag be displayed over the state university building.

HIPPOLYTE IS DEAD.

Dispatches Received in London Confirm the Paris Report.

London, March 27.—Dispatches received here confirm the report of the death of Gen. Hippolyte, president of Hayti.

Arizona Entitled to Statehood.

Washington, March 27.—In reporting favorably the bill granting statehood to Arizona the senate committee on territory says Arizona has more wealth and population than two-thirds of the states at the time of their admission, having taxable property valued at $27,518,332, and about 80,000 inhabitants.

Premium on Gold Bars Advanced.

Washington, March 27.—The treasury department has fixed the premium to be paid for fine gold bars echanged for gold coin by the New York assay office at three-sixteenths of one per cent., which is equivalent to $1.8750 per $1,000. The rate heretofore prevailing has been one-sixteenth of one per cent.

D. & H. Canal Navigation To Open April 6.

Honesdale, Pa., March 27.—Navigation on the Delaware & Hudson canal between Honesdale and the Hudson river for the season of 1896 will open Monday, April 6.

D. F. MURPHY DEAD.

Official Reporter of the U. S. Senate Expires in Washington.

Washington, March 27.—D. F. Murphy, chief official reporter of the United States senate, died in this city last night, aged 62 years. He had been in bad health for several years, suffering from nervous disorders. Monday night he had an apopleptic attack from which he temporarily rallied. Mr. Murphy became connected with the senate in 1848 and has remained there continuously since, in 1873 being appointed chief official reporter. He reported the proceedings of the famous electoral commission in 1876 and the absolute accuracy of his report in that case as in the numerous exciting debates following the reconstruction period, were never questioned. In his time he enjoyed the most intimate acquaintance of the most prominent men of his day, by whom he was respected for his high integrity of character. He leaves a family consisting of a wife and several children and two brothers—D. I. Murphy, deputy commissioner of pension, and E. V. Murphy, his chief assistant in the senate. The interment will take place in Philadelphia.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Cuban Discussion Believed To Be Practically Closed for This Session.

Washington, March 27.—The agreement of the conferees to accept the Cuban resolutions passed by the senate practically closes the incident, at least for this session. The hope of the Cuban representatives in this city that the more radical house resolutions would be adopted has been dashed to the ground, especially in view of the fact that the attitude of the president toward the resolutions is still in doubt. The Cubans had expected better things, but it was a case of Hobson's choice. The conservative element in the senate is so strong that it would defeat any new resolution, and the house conferees, knowing this, were finally forced to agree to the milder form. The house spent most of the day's session in committee of the whole discussing the motion offered by Congressman Hanley, rep., Ill., member of the committee on naval affairs, to amend the naval appropriation bill by providing for the construction of six battleships instead of four, as recommended by the committee. The motion was lost—52 to 134. Without further amendment the bill was reported to the house and passed exactly as reported by the committee—the first appropriation bill of this session to pass through the houce unscathed. Among other business was the presentation of the report on the opening of the Chickamauga national park. For this afternoon the house has the sundry civil appropriation bill to occupy its attention.

Proceedings of the Senate.

The senate to-day is still occupied in the consideration of the legislative bill. Some time was consumed over a joint resolution appointing a successor to Gen. Casey in the matter of the construction of the new library building in Washington.

NATIONAL LEAGUE UMPIRES.

All of the Men Appointed for This Season Are Well-Known, Except Two.

Washington, March 27.—President N. E. Young has appointed the following baseball umpires for this season: Sheridan, Lynch, Timothy Hurst, Robert Emslie, Timothy Keefe, George E. Weidman, Purdy Henderson, with Dan Campbell of Philadelphia as substitute. With the exception of Weidman and Henderson, these men are well known. President Young believes that the present corps of umpires is a strong one.

Children Poisoned by Eating Wild Roots.

Bound Brook, N. J., March 27.—Four school children, Bessie and Willie Matthews and Leon and Anna Van Nest, yesterday afternoon found some roots which they mistook for horseradish, and ate of the plants. Bessie, who was six years old, soon after was taken with convulsions, and died. The doctors say that the roots eaten were either wild parsnips or wild artichokes. Anna Van Nest, four years old, is so ill that she is not expected to recover. The others will probably recover.

NO OFFICIAL NOTICE

Turkish Minister Has Heard Nothing About His Recall.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT RETICENT

A Dispatch from Constantinople, However, Says the Report Has Been Officially Confirmed at the Foreign Office.

Washington, March 27.—At the state department the usual reticence is observed, and Secretary Olney declines to give any information either affirming or denying the reported recall of the Turkish minister, Mavroyeni Bey himself states that he is utterly ignorant of any intention on the part of his government to recall him, as he hears of it, except through the newspapers. Alexander W. Terrell, the United States minister to Turkey, has been anxious to obtain a leave of absence for some time, but the threatening state of the Armenian situation has made the granting of his request difficult heretofore. Should the situation become less critical it is probable that Mr. Terrell may be granted a leave of absence, and it is not regarded as not unlikely that Mavroyeni Bey may then be given a release from his official duties in Washington at the same time, with an opportunity of visiting Turkey.

Alleged Confirmation of the Report.

Constantinople, March 27.—The report that Mavroyeni Bey, Turkish minister to the United States, has been recalled is confirmed by information obtained at the foreign office here.

NO PROTEST FROM TURKEY.

The Sultan Merely Made Inquiries Regarding the Advance Upon Dongola.

London, March 27.—The government denies that any protest had been received from Turkey against the British-Egytian expedition to Dongola. It admits, however, that the sultan had made inquiries as to the nature of the expedition. The necessary explanations were given to the Turkish ambassador. As nothing was contemplated which was beyond the power of the khedive in the advance of troops, it was not considered necessary to consult Turkey previous to organizing the expedition. The action of the representative at Cairo of the Paris syndicate of Egyptian bondholders in instituting proceedings before the Egyptian mixed tribunal against the debt commissioners and the ministers responsible for the reserve fund to reverse the action yesterday of the debt commission of the Egyptian debt in advancing $2,500,000 to meet the expense of the expedition which is to advance on Dongola, gives the government no concern whatever, although Russia is backing the protest. Germany, Italy and Austria sanctioned the advance.

REV. E. S. DECKER EXPELLED.

Action of the Methodist Episcopal Conference at Newark.

Newark, N. J., March 27. — The Methodist Episcopal conference by unanimous vote decided yesterday afternoon to cancel the ordination parchment of Rev. E. S. Decker, who, in October last, was suspended as pastor of the South Market street church. The committee to whom the case was referred reported that the young woman to whom Rev. E. S. Decker had written endearing letters had withdrawn the charge with the understanding that the clergyman be expelled by the conference. The evidence in the committee's hands was then ordered burned by direction of Bishop Foss. The complainant's name was not divulged.

AGAIN FLOWING IN.

A Large Influx of Immigrants from Europe Expected This Spring.

Washington, March 27.—Col. Stump of the treasury immigration bureau says that the tide of immigration has again begun to flow from Europe to this country in considerable volume. Immigration slacked up during the winter months, but the prospects now are that the number of immigrants that will come this spring will equal, if not exceed, the statistics of previous years.

Boy Train Wreckers on Trial.

Brattleboro, Vt., March 26.—The trial of one of the Porter boys for placing obstacles on the Boston & Maine railroad track at Brattleboro is now under way at New Fane before a jury. The evidence of the state is strong and it is believed they will be convicted and possibly sentenced this afternoon. One of the trio is said to have turned state's evidence, incriminating the other two brothers.

Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill.

Washington, March 27.—The sundry civil appropriation bill has been completed by the appropriations committee and Mr. Cannon authorized to report it. The bill, as agreed to, carries an appropriation of $29.409,874 being $11,064,779 less than the estimates on which it is based, and $17,241,285 less than the appropriation for the current fiscal year.

Oklahoma Divorce for a Jersey Woman.

Perry, O. T., March 27.—A decree of divorce has been granted to Mrs. Howard White, whose husband is a leading bicycle rider of Trenton, N. J., the charge being abandonment. Mrs. White is the daughter of C. E. Stahl, a Grand Army officer of New Jersey.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

BANEFUL INDIGESTION.

The Disorders it Causes and the Poisons it Instills in the Blood.

If we only knew how dangerous, insidious and ruthless a disease indigestion is, we would not wait as we do before endeavoring to cure it.

The longer we wait, the more dangerous it is likely to become.

So the sooner we take Shaker Digestive Cordial the better it will be, and the better we will be.

Indigestion is dangerous because it creates poisons in the stomach which are absorbed by the blood and by it carried to all parts of the body.

Could anything be worse than this?

These poisons would not be formed if the stomach could digest its food. When it cant, Shaker Digestive Cordial will help it to do so.

Nothing will help the stomach so well as Shaker Digestive Cordial, nothing else cure indigestion so quickly or so positively.

The reason is that it purifies the stomach and the blood, and makes your food strengthen instead of poison you.

It is not a medicine, but an aid to digestion, a pleasant cordial for weak stomachs.

Sold by druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

THE BERMUDA SUNK

Said To Have Been Fired on by a British Warship.

RUMOR CAME BY WAY OF MADRID

Dispatches Received in New York Wednesday Said She Had Successfully Landed Filibusters and War Supplies in Cuba.

Madrid, March 27.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says a rumor is current in that city to the effect that the British steamer Bermuda, Capt. O'Brien, which sailed from New York on the 15th inst., ostensibly for Vera Cruz, but which had on board war material for the use of the Cuban insurgents, has been fired upon and sunk by a British warship.

New York, March 27.—Dispatches received in this city Wednesday from Havana stated that the Bermuda had landed the arms and ammunition she carried, and that Gen. Calixto Garcia and the men with him had safely joined the insurgents.

Rebel Defeat Reported.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Havana, March 27.—Gen. Buiz reports that he has had an encounter with 300 rebels at a place half a league from San Felipe, province of Havana. The rebel loss is stated to have been twenty-one killed and several wounded. The troops sustained no loss. A train has arrived here bringing sixty-three troops who were wounded in the recent encounter in the province of Pinar del Rio. It is unofficially reported that Col. Sanches Echavarria has captured insurgent camps near Paso Real, and that the rebels lost fifty killed. The troops destroyed goods valued at $200,000. Capt.-Gen. Weyler has ordered that all the political prisoners detained by Gen. Pando in Santa Clara, except three, be liberated on account of the lack of evidence against them.

THE DUNMORE RIOTS.

Ex-Priest Ruthven and Four Others Arrestd—Murder May Be the Charge.

Scranton, Pa., March 27.—Great excitement was occasioned here last evening by the arrest of five men as the result of the riot at Dunmore on Sunday. After being in hiding all day the ex-priest, Ruthven, who caused all the trouble, was arrested in his boarding house on a charge of inciting the riot and he is now in the county jail. The arrests of yesterday were due to the fact that Frederick Mink, the deputy sheriff who was shot, is now dying at the Lackawanna hospital. The four young men who are charged with the shooting are John Walsh, John Lynch, Peter O'Hara and James Peyton. Two men who were with Ruthven at the time of the shooting swear that they saw the four men among the rioters, and Walsh had a revolver. All four of the young men refused to go to the hospital so that Mink could see them. The young men gave bail in $1,500 each to answer at a further hearing this afternoon.

ROBERT MANTELL MARRIED.

Mrs. Huhn, Who Secured a Divorce Last Wednesday, the Bride.

Chicago, March 27.—Robert Mantell, the actor, and Mrs. Charlotte Huhn were married yesterday afternoon by Bishop Fallows. Mrs. Huhn, who is known on the stage as Charlotte Nehrens, was Wednesday granted a didorce from Edward F. Huhn, a theatrical manager. She has been Mantell's leading lady for several years. Huhn has a suit for $125,000 pending against Mantell for alienating the affections of his wife, and it is not long since Mrs. Mantell secured a divorce from her husband, Mrs. Huhn being named as the co-respondent. Theatrical people indicate that yesterday's wedding will be the cause of further trouble, because it is said that Huhn has threatened to kill Mantell should the latter marry the ex-Mrs. Huhn.

ITALIANS IN ABYSSINIA.

The Troops Badly Organized, Fed and Disciplined—Officers Without Maps.

Rome, March 27.—Gen. Elena, who was wounded at the battle of Adowa, in an interview is quoted as saying that the Italian army was never so badly organized, fed and disciplined. The three columns operating against the Abyssinians were so separated that contact was impossible. The officers were without maps, the country was quite unknown, and no provisions were made to meet emergencies. He declared that if the war continued Italy will be exposed to great disillusions.

Pacific Coast Team Anxious To Compete.

Princeton, N. J., March 27.—Manager Turner of the Princeton track team stated last evening that he had received word from the manager of the University of California track team to the effect that the latter would like to send a team to compete in the Yale-Princeton meet at New Haven on May 6. Mr. Turner replied that Princeton would be pleased to have California enter, thereby making it a triangular meet.

Shoe Firm Assigns.

Haverhill, Mass., March 27.—The assignment of C. H. Goodwin & Co. of this city, doing a shoe manufacturing business in Holliston, is announced. James W. Goodwin of this city is assignee and states that the liabilities of the shoe business are about $28,000; while outside liabilities are much more, but he cannot at present say how much.

New York Artist Honored.

London, March 27.—The artist George Henry Boughton, formerly of New York, has been elected a member of the Royal academy.

WHY HE CEASED HIS VISITS.

Howard Fitzsimmons Tells of His Relations with Annie McGrath.

Westchester, Pa., March 27.—Howard Fitzsimmons, the man who, it is alleged, was engaged to marry Annie McGrath, the dead Philadelphia girl, is a prominent young business man of this place, conducting a large jewelry stand here and moving in the best society. He admits that he was engaged to the girl, and says that the diamond ring found bearing his initials was given to her several months ago by him. His intimacy with Miss McGrath grew out of a seashore flirtation, he having met her at Atlantic City some time last summer while spending a few days there. The friendship continued after he returned home, and he was a frequent visitor at the house of the young lady on Girard avenue, but his visits there ceased several months ago account of her actions. She would make engagements with him and then break them for no apparent cause when he went to the house, going away and leaving a note for him. This continued for sometime, and then he grew weary of it and ceased his visits altogether. "On one occasion," said he, "she made an engagement with me for Sunday evening, and when I went to the house she had gone to Jersey, ostensibly to visit her sister. At that time I began to suspect that she was duping me and was away with some other man. She afterwards wrote to me from that city telling of the pleasures of the visit and wishing I was there. I have that letter yet. Soon afterwards I ceased my visits to the house." Fitzsimmons says he has not seen the girl for several months, and has not even heard from her.

Mrs. Langdon Consults with Prosecutor.

Philadelphia, March 27.—Mrs. Langdon arrived here yesterday from Pittsburg and was in private conversation in the afternoon with Assistant District Attorney Barlow. The reason for Mrs. Langdon's coming or the subject of her conversation with Mr. Barlow could not be learned, nor is it known where she is stopping.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE.

Close of the 120th Session of the New Jersey Legislature.

Trenton, March 27.—The 120th session of the New Jersey legislature adjourned sine die last night. Speaker De Rousse was presented with a large and handsome hall clock by the members of the house, and Sergeant-at-arms Breidenbach with a diamond stud by the doorkeepers. At 6 o'clock the senate, which had ceased the transaction of business and had been waiting several hours, sent word that it was ready to receive the house for adjournment sine die. In response the house, having finished its business, adjourned and repaired to the senate chamber where President-elect Williams declared the session adjourned sine die. Before the final adjournment of the legislature yesterday afternoon the house of assembly adopted the following resolution offered by Mr. Cagney: Resolved that this house of assembly, recognizing the benign influence of liberty and equality as symbolized in the glorious stars and stripes, request the congress of the United States to grant belligerency rights to the struggling patriots of Cuba.

ELECTRICAL SIGNALS.

Exhibition of a New Divice for Communication at Sea or Upon Land.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary Herbert, members of the senate and house committees on naval affairs and other interested officials witnessed yesterday afternoon an exhibition of a new electric signal for use at sea and on land, the invention of L. S. Crandall. The exhibition took place in the sub-basement of the navy department building and was conducted by the inventor. A display frame containing numerous incandescent electric light lamps so arranged diametrically and diagonally as to contain all the elements of every letter in the alphabet, composed the signalling apparatus power. To this is attached a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter, and pressure on each lettered key so switches the current that the letter indicated is formed in brilliant curves and hues. It is claimed that the device will show plainly at the distance of five miles.

COINAGE OF SILVER.

The Mints Now Turning Out 1,500,000 Standard Dollars a Month.

Washington, March 27.—The mints are now coining standard silver dollars at the rate of 1,500,000 per month from the silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, on hand. Of the number of silver dollars now being coined, 1,031,375 will be held for the redemption of treasury notes, being the cost of the bullion contained in 1,500,000 silver dollars at the average cost of silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890. The remainder, 468,675 dollars will be paid into the treasury as profits on the coinage of silver bullion and against which silver certificates can be issued and used in the payment of any expenses of the government.

Naval Cadet-at-Large.

Washington, March 27.—Charles E. Lull, son of Capt. E. P. Lull, U. S. N., has been appointed a cadet-at-large to the United Sates Naval academy by the president. John Downs, a son of Lieut. John Downs, U. S. N., retired, has been designated alternate for Lull.

Albany, March 27.—Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge has awarded the contract for the construction of a wrought iron bridge over the Erie canal at Main street in the village of Newark to the Rochester Bridge and Iron Works of Rochester, for $5,899.

WOULD NOT REFUSE

Gen. Harrison Said To Be a Receptive Candidate.

STATEMENT OF AN INTIMATE FRIEND

"Being Drafted and Volunteering Are Two Different Things" He Is Reported To Have Replied To a Letter Regarding His Attitude.

Indianapolis, March 27.—One of Gen. Harrison's most influential friends among the Indiana politicias, was authority last night for a statement of much significance just now in the political world, anent Harrison being a receptive candidate. He said a letter had been written to the general recently by leading republicans of Indiana, asking him if he would accept in case the St. Louis convention nominated him. In reply to this letter, Gen. Harrison is said to have remarked that, "being drafted and volunteering are two different matters." The inference is that he would accept the nomination.

TWO TEXAS DELEGATIONS.

Reed and McKinley Forces To Carry the Fight into the St. Louis Convention.

Austin, Tex., March 27.—Two sets of delegates will go from this state to the St. Louis convention. The greatest excitement and confusion prevailed at the regular republican state convention yesterday when the election of delegates was taken up. Chairman Cuney announced that himself and Ferguson, colored, Allison and Makemson and Terrell, white, Reed men, had been elected. The announcement caused the wildest excitment and the McKinley men attempted to capture the platform. A row followed, in which Webb Flannagan was struck on the head and knocked down, but the row was finally quelled without further serious results. The regular convention was, amid great uproar, declared adjourned sine die and the McKinleyites took possession of the hall. They organized with 621 delegates, of whom over one-third were colored. A negro was elected chairman and the meeting was harmonious. A sound money and protection platform was adopted. The following McKinley delegates to the national convention were elected: Frank Hamlin of Austin; B. F. Smith (colored) of Colorado county; Dr. W. Davis, Fort Worth, and chairman John Grant of the state executive committee. The convention then adjourned sine die. Both conventions selected two electors, each from the state at large.

SOUTH DAKOTA REPUBLICANS,

Congressman Pickler Believes the Rank and File Are Still for Free Silver.

Washington, March 27.—The accounts of the South Dakota republican convention which showed that the free silver advocates had been outnumbered three to one by the sound money men have been the subject of much discussion in the capitol corridors. Mr. Pickler, the senior representative from that state, said to a United Press reporter who asked his opinion of the condition of his state, as shown by the reports of the proceedings of the convention: "I do not believe there has been any substantial change in opinion in the state on the subject. The convention affirmed the Minneapolis platform of 1892, and the state was carried that year for the republican candidate. The representatives from the towns and many of those who go to conventions," he said, "are opposed to the free coinage of silver, but throughout the state generally I do not believe there has been any great change in the sentiment of the people. The situation is as it was in 1892: whatever the St. Louis convention may do in the matter of platform and candidate, will receive the support of the republicans of South Dakota." Mr. Hartman of Montana said the condition of affairs in South Dakota, as shown in the convention, has suprised him, but he did not anticipate that it was in any wise indicative of a change of sentiment in other western stat s.

Private Secretary to Hoke Smith.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary Hoke Smith has appointed William McKinley Cobb of Georgia his private secretary. Mr. Cobb is a lawyer and has for some time served in various capacities in the pension bureau. His middle name of "McKinley" was conferred upon him before the Ohio ex-governor came into national prominence.

RELIEF WORK HINDERED.

Turks at Bitlis Preventing Americans from Aiding the Suffering Armenians.

London, March 27.—The Morning Post to-day publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that the officials at Bitlis are preventing the American missionaries from relieving the needy. The dispatch adds that Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, has visited Tewfik Pasha, minister of foreign affairs, in regard to this matter.

Steamships in Collision.

London, March 27.—The British steamer Delano, from Rotterdam, while proceeding from Shields for Baltimore last evening, collided at the entrance to the Tyne with the British steamer Almo. The bows of both vessels were seriously damaged.

More Money for the Prince of Wales.

London, March 27.—The Chronicle says it is rumored that the government will ask parliament for a further allowance for the Prince of Wales on behalf of his children.

Greater New York Bill Passed.

Albany, March 27.—The assembly has passed the Greater New York bill. The vote was 91 to 56.

March 27—Junior Endeavor Entertainment at Trinity Reformed Church.

March 28—G. A. R. Staff Officers visit Major Anderson Post.

A medal for conspicuous gallantry at the Battle of Chancellorsville was issue dto Senator Sewell yesterday, A medal for conspicuous influence at Trenton would not be an unjust recognition to the Senator.

Thomas A. Edison expects to be able to photograph the entire human skeleton before he is through with his experiments. The achievement will be a valuable one, as it will enable the public to determine beforehand whether candidates for executive offices have any backbone or not.—Rochester Union.

One of the closing acts of the State Senate yesterday was the passage of a bill making it a misdemeanor to solicit political candidates to purchase tickets for balls, picnics, etc. If the bill becomes a law a bane will have been removed from the politician's life and a source of income from some clever people.

If City Judge DeMeza continues to impose sentences on vagrants as severe as the one given to a tramp in City Court yesterday, the fraternity of pitiful tale and leary eye will soon give this city a wide berth. Fifty-nine days in jail and a fine of $100 is the dose of justice the Judge is giving nowadays to these vagabonds, and the residents of the city think that it is none to severe.

Some weeks ago an ordinance was introduced into the Borough Council and advanced towards adoption, the effects of which would be to close the barber shops on Sunday in that municipality. The ordinance went just so far, and then came to a sudden halt before it was enacted as a law. What has become of it? The barbers on the city side of the brook are fretting under the competition they are subject to by the borough barbers on Sunday.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A Pleasant Affair Tendered to the Friends of Miss Josie Stram.

An enjoyable birthday party was tendered to Miss Josie Stram, of Wilson avenue, last evening, the occasion of her twentieth birthday. Miss Emma Stram and Miss Jennie Gordon composed the committee in charge and through their efforts the affair was made the success that it was. The hours of the night were whiled away with singing, playing games and dancing, music being furnished by various members of the company.

They Were Very Beautiful.

Many very complimentary remarks were indulged in at Edsall's millinery opening by the throngs of Plainfield's most fastidious ladies who visited the millinery department during the exhibition. Those who had seen New York openings, declared that they had not seen anything there that pleased them as well as at Edsall's. Hats, bonnets and toques were shown that equaled the latest New York and Parisian styles, and the prices were much lower than in New York. Edsall says that everything was made up in his own work rooms by his milliners in charge of Miss M. Garsner, who have had a wide experience in the best and most fashsonable millinery houses in New York.

Defaulter Settles Up.

The grocery clerk who was employed in a West Front street store and defaulted for quite a sum of money, paid the claim in full yesterday, and therefore cleared himself from any punishment by law.

Not to be Trifled With.

(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John S. King is slowly recovering from his recent attack of pneumonia

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett, of Arlington place, is ill with the measles.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, of Schenectady, N. Y, formerly of this city and exceedingly well known by the Plainfield people, will exchange pulpits with Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning and evening.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, returned to Stevens Institute at Hoboken yesterday after spending a few days at home. His less fortunate classmates were compelled to take examinations from which Rittenhouse and a few others were excused on account of high standing. He will return to Plainfield on Tuesday when his Easter vacation begins.

A Pretty Wedding.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at 7:30, when Miss Mary Ellen Hague, of 1047 West Front street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hague, was united in marriage to John Stien, of New Market. Rev. T. Logan Murphy, rector of Holy Cross church, officiated. The bridemaid was Miss Maggie McKnight, of Jersey City, and the best man was Samuel Kriney, of Clinton avenue. About seventy-five guests, including Jersey City, Newark, Plainfield, Dunellen and New Market friends, were present. Many costly and useful presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Stien. They left today for a short trip. The groom has an excellent position at Marshall's laundry on East Front street.

A Pleasant Dance.

The sociable given in the Olympia last night, of which Messrs. I. Pierson, A. Johnson and G. Scribner had charge, proved a decided success. Music was furnished by Prof. Frazee. Dancing continued until the early morning hours, with refreshments at midnight.

—B. R. Metler, of West Third street, has left the employ of the Prudential Insurance Company and has interested himself in the Central Real Estate Company and A. P. Miller's law office on North avenue.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Labanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street

POISONED BY ROOTS.

One of the Four Children is Dead and One is Not Expected to Live.

Four school children were poisoned in South Bound Brook yesterday. One of them is dead and another is not expected to live.

In company with other children, Bessie and Willie Matthews and Leon and Anna VanNest left school at noon to go home to dinner. On their way they found some roots which they ate, mistaking them for horseradish. After dinner Bessie, who was six years old, was taken with convulsions, and died before medical attendance could be procured.

Anna VanNest, four years old, is so ill that she is not expected to live. The others will probably recover.

The doctors say that the roots eaten were either wild parsnips or wild artichokes.

ENDEAVORERS' ANNIVERSARY.

The Washingtonville Society Celebrates Its Fifth Anniversary.

The Washingtonville Christian Endeavor Society held their fifth anniversary exercises last evening in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel. The retiring president, Miss Nettie J. Beeching, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed the friends of the society. Rev. Mr. Martine, of Dunellen, delivered the address to the society on "Christian Opportunities," taking for his text "I do always those things that please Him."

The quartette composed of Charles and Louis Hummer, Horace Martin and Ezra Loomis, sang several selections. During the intermission several musical selections were rendered by Ed. C Clark, organist, Geo. Speer, violinist, and Harry Stewart, cornetist.

The report of the Senior Society showed that the receipts for the past year amounted to $47.27. $31.86 of which was given to the Sunday-school, the remainder going to defray the expenses of the Sunday-school. The aggregate attendance for the year has been 1,318 against an aggregate attendance of 1,794 for the previous year. The average for each week has been thirty-four.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society, which is three years old reported an average attendance of eighteen and a large collection of flowers, papers and picture cards to various hospitals in this section of the country.

Cantata to Be Sung.

On Sunday evening there will be a special service at the First Baptist church. The choir will render entire Dr. Stainer's work, entitled "The Crucifixion." The Rev. Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone, D. D., the rector of the Church of the Holy Redeemer, will preach a sermon in keeping with the solemn subject of the cantata, and appropriate for the beginning of Holy Week.

It is not a miracle. It wont cure everything, but it will cure piles. That's what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will do, because it has done it in hundreds of cases. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

EDWARD RAN AWAY.

Because He Didn't Like His Adopted Sister.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Richard Mills, of Westfield, was visiting in New York, and while there became interested in an infant whose mother was an habitual drunkard and who treated the little one with shameful cruelty.

The inhuman parent told Mrs. Mills that she might have the child if she wanted it, and forthwith the gift was accepted, and the forlorn piece of humanity became a member of the Westfield lady's family.

Mr. Mills and his daughter shared in her affections for it, and much interest was taken in the waif by kind hearted citizens. The adoption was not, however, to the liking of Master Edward Wright, the thirteen-year-old son of Mrs. Mills, and on Monday he showed his displeasure by running away It is known that he had a few dollars, and that he took a west-bound train.

Further than this, there is no trace of his whereabouts, and his mother is very solicitous to know what has become of him. He is a very bright lad, and his stepfather says that it is his opinion that he will "come out all right."

Death of an Aged Recluse.

Michael Beamish is a recluse, sixty-seven years old, of Summit, died yesterday. He had lived in Summit for thirty seven years, during which time he never shaved or had his hair cut, and it reached almost to his knees. He had not appeared outside his own gate since the spring election of 1873, and only a few residents of Summit had ever seen him. He was formerly a sailor and had been shipwrecked twice. He leaves a widow, who is now in very feeble health. The last rites of the Catholic Church were administered to Beamish by Father Vassalo, and he was buried in St. Theresa's Cemetery, yesterday morning.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Mrs. Roger Murray, of Central avenue, has a new Cleveland wheel, model 23.

Among the late purchasers of Crescents, is Willis Anderson who has bought a Crescent Model 2, which he has presented to his nephew.

Between April 9th and 19th Lister, North avenue cycle dealer will have on exhibition the celebrated Fowler sextette which is making a tour of the country. An opportunity will probably be given to ride the machine.

Miss Annie A. Hagan, of Prospect avenue, will ride a Crescent wheel this season, purchased of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. Her sister, Miss Lulu Hagan, captain of the Plainfield Lady Cyclers, will ride a Cleveland Swell Special, as usual.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The record for the head-pin game on the Crescent Wheelmen alleys had a very narrow escape Wednesday night when Wheaton S. Lowry successively rolled 111, 112 and 113. The present record is 114, made by Harry L. VanEmburgh.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Mrs. Whitehead Does Not Picture Her to be a Ferocious Person.

The Thursday afternoon meeting of the W. C. T. U., which was held yesterday afternoon in their rooms, Watchung avenue, was led by Mrs. Whitehead, County Superintendent of Good Citizenship and Franchise. Mrs. Whitehead read a paper on the new woman. The general drift of her remarks were as follows:

She always listens with keenest attention to any remarks that anyone may choose to make, concerning the new woman. Women have been moulded, as it were, by man with no choice but to accept his terms. She did not wish to abuse men for having taken so aggressive a part in affairs, as she said women might have done the same thing had nature so willed. The home is woman's sphere. We should keep it so, and not give up to men who attempt to take even that sphere away from us. The new woman when she started did not have very practical ideas about what was most expedient for her. She learned by experience as far as she has gone, and there is no reason why she should not keep on obtaining knowledge.

Poverty is one of the main causes of so much murder, robberies and other wrong doings. Poverty is also one of the first things the new woman needs to work upon—it affords her an opportunity to show how much she is interested in the cause and how much she is willing to do to uphold the cause.

The new woman should make poverty her point of attacks. She cited the large number who were punished by the State for offences committed, all of which could be traced to poverty, and said that no power should punish men and women which does not furnish employment for them.

At the close of Mrs. Whitehead's talk, refreshments were served. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Honeyman, accompanied by Mrs. William Townsend, and Mrs. Honeyman and Mrs. Steiner sang a duet, accompained by Mrs. Townsend.

—A promising treat at Monroe Avenue chapel this evening, the Syracuse University Glee Club.

—Treasurer D. W. Littell, of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, received a check for $3,000 yesterday, which he paid to the widow of the late W. L. Titsworth, who was a member of Plainfield Council.

—William Hand & Son are now prepared to receive goods for storage in their new building on Park avenue near the railroad. The upper part of the building has been specially fitted up for the above firm and it is one of the best storage buildings in the state.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Coal Wagon Horses Runaway.

A team of horses attached to a coal wagon belonging to E. H. Holmes, of Madison avenue, had a short but lively run last evening about 6 o'clock. The driver got out of the wagon on West Second street near Terrill & Cole's building, to get a barrel that fell out. In the meantime the horses ran away. They were stopped at the coal yard before any damage was done.

Washingtonville.

The annual election of the Washingtonville union Sunday-school was held Tuesday night and resulted as follows: Superintendent, E. L. Bonny; assistant superintendent, Andrew Wilson; treasurer, Miss Nettie Beeching; secretary, Richard Rogers; librarian, Harry Acker; trustee, for three years, E. L. Bonny.

A reception was given Wednesday evening to Harry Acker, in honor of his election to the office of librarian of the Sunday-school, despite his own protestations. The pleasant event took place at the residence of Edward Clark, and the guests were charmingly entertained with games and music, while refreshments added to the pleasure of the evening.

POLITICAL ORATORS.

Congress Is Full of Men Who Have the Gift of Gab.

Many of Them Will Be Heard During the Coming Campaign – Statesmen Whose Speeches Are Worth Hearing.

[Special Washington Letter.]

It is a common thing to refer to the good old times when statesmen were orators, thrilling the masses with their eloquence and producing lasting results in directing the policies of the nation. Our fathers have taught us that Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and Stephen A. Douglas were orators whose equals have never entered the senate or house of representatives.

We will probably teach our children that Roscoe Conkling, James G. Blaine and Matt Carpenter were the most marvelous orators in the history of the world, but we may thus be misleading the coming generation. When the grown folks of to-day went to school and studied McGuffey's readers, we saw therein and committed to memory long paragraphs from the speeches of Webster and other orators of the preceding generation. Now that the leaders of the departing generation have passed and are passing away, we will probably buy schoolbooks for our children containing some of the most forceful utterances delivered in congress since the civil war.

But every generation produces men equal to the strong men of the remote or approximate past. The passing years develop the wonders of nature, and the minds of the statesmen of to-day are stored with information which would seem miraculous if transmitted suddenly to the men of the past. For example, if Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and John C. Calhoun, three of the greatest men of their times, were to stand on the corner opposite the treasury to-day, conversing upon political or scientific matters, and the cable cars should come shooting around the curve, without steam or other visible means of propulsion, they would all take to their heels and get into the woods, or climb over the walls for safety inside the inclosures of St. Elizabeth's insane asylum.

Campaign oratory is becoming less and less effective every year, because our people are omnivorous readers, and given to studying men and affairs for themselves. Nevertheless, for the sake of raising a hurrah and creating popular interest in affairs, we must have torchlight processions, barbecues and meetings in the town halls, where orators will endeavor to spellbind the people, as they used to do in the days of Demosthenes and Aristides. The people have been long in the habit of sending their best orators to congress, and the 446 senators and representatives now in congress are men of more than ordinary oratorical ability; and all of them will be heard on the hustings this year.

Mr. Blaine was a presidental candidate in 1884. He went upon the stump and delivered speeches constantly during the campaign. That is a good precedent, and whoever may be nominated this year may properly go forth and talk to the people in his own behalf; so that we may expect to hear all of the present presidential candidates during the campaign which fast approaches.

On the democratic side we look for William R. Morrison and Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois; Henry Watterson and John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky; William F. Vilas, of Wisconsin; Daniel W. Voorhees and David Turpie, of Indiana, and Ben Tillman, of South Carolina. When Col. Morrison was in congress he was an orator of extraordinary power. Vice President Stevenson, while in congress and during his candidacy for the position he now holds, manifested strength, fire and vim in his public utterances. Secretary Carlisle is one of the most cold, logical, reasoning, earnest speakers, who can create no enthusiasm by his gestures or utterance, but whose political points are so clearly stated that the truths uttered bring conviction to the minds of his hearers, and they applaud the facts, rather than the man who presents them. Henry Watterson, an editor by profession, and an orator by nature, is so genial, so mild, so kind to the enemy, and withal so sarcastic and bitter, that every democratic listener feels like throwing up his hat at every sentence. Watterson is magnetic to a wonderful degree.

William F. Vilas is a born orator. He acquired ripe scholarship and profound legal learning before he began to actively participate in political affairs. His oratory is like unto that of Marc Anthony, who said: "I tell you that you all do know." That is, he is modest, unassuming, conversational and instructive. As soon as he obtains the complete attention of his audience, he impresses them with his personality, magnetizes them, and almost hypnotizes them; for they are completely carried away with his eloquence.

Senators Voorhees and Turpie, of Indiana, are orators of diametrically opposite characteristics. Senator Turpie is a calm reasoner, like Carlisle. Senator Voorhees is, from beginning to close of his speeches, like a raging lion. He simply endeavors to demolish and annihilate his political enemies.

Senator Ben Tillman, of South Carolina, will probably confine his efforts to his own state this year. It is not likely that he will be invited into northern states, because he is too wild and reckless an extremist. Although claiming to be a democrat, Senator Tillman unsparingly assails democrats and republicans alike, and so he will not be heard in northern states.

On the republican side there are also orators galore. Tom Reed, whether the head of the ticket or not, will, of course, go upon the hustings and deliver speeches in states which the republicans regard as doubtful or hopeful. Senator Allison, of Iowa, will not hide his light under a bushel, for he is a speaker of force and earnestness. His long experience in public affairs has equipped him with almost boundless knowledge with the details of our system of government, and his speeches are replete with general information.

Gov. McKinley is a sturdy speaker. He is not an inspiring speaker, but calm, deliberate and dogmatic in his statements. His apparent belief in his every declaration carries with it a strength and force which induces his listeners to agree with him and assume that his arguments are unanswerable.

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, will be heard in the land. He is more like Blaine than any orator now living in our country. He is a whirlwind on the hustings. He is a hand-shaker and has a wonderful memory of names and faces. He is after the presidency, and every speech which he now makes is intended to enhance his opportunities for the highest office and distinction in the republic.

Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, is one of the best political orators in this broad land. He began life a poor boy, having lost his father during the civil war. He educated himself, and studied law. He soon made a reputation as a lawyer and as an orator; and for several years was general counsel for the Union Pacific Railroad company. While occupying that position, he was sought far and near to deliver addresses at banquets and upon other public occasions. He is a new man in the senate, but not a new man among public men. His first speech delivered in the senate was on the subject of pensions and it at once attracted attention.

Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, seldom indulges in public speaking outside of his own state, even when political campaigns are hottest. But on the floor of the senate he is the most intensely annoying sarcastic talker on the republican side.

Massachusetts has two good speakers in the senate, and they will be heard upon the hustings. Senator Hoar and Senator Lodge are typical New England scholars and English purists. They are ardent political workers, and will probably be heard beyond the New England borders this year.

Senator Davis, of Minnesota, is an orator of superior merit. He is primarily a lawyer, but at the same time one of the most cultured classic scholars in the land. He is a great international lawyer, and his recent speech concerning the Monroe doctrine is a model of English diction. His oratory is attractive because it is logical, earnest, plain and unpretentious. He loses his identity in his subject.

Senator Quay is a presidental candidate, but he is not an orator. He seldom speaks in public. But, during the debate on the Wilson tariff bill, he delivered a speech which filled a volume.

SENATOR THURSTON, NEBRASKA.

He spoke an hour or more every day for five or six weeks. His oration was a statement of tariff facts and statistics, and was read without oratorical effort.

Senator Burrows, of Michigan, is an orator whose fame is well earned. His presence upon the stage or upon the floor of the senate is sufficient to command attention at any time, and under all circumstances. His voice is a rich resonant orotund, and has been carefully cultivated. Public speaking is manifestly no effort for Senator Burrows, but an apparent pleasure, it is so easy. He has long been in public life, is well informed upon all subjects of national interest, and can talk instructively and in an interesting manner upon any occasion.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, one of the handsomest men in congress, is a profound scholar, and a orator of magnetic power. His speech nominating James G. Blaine, at Minneapolis, in 1892, was by many regarded as superior to the splendid effort of Chauncey M. Depew, who nominated Harrison.

These are only a few of the spellbinders of the two political parties who will appear before the people during the coming presidential campaign. You will be fortunate if you can hear any one of them, regardless of your political opinions and beliefs.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the

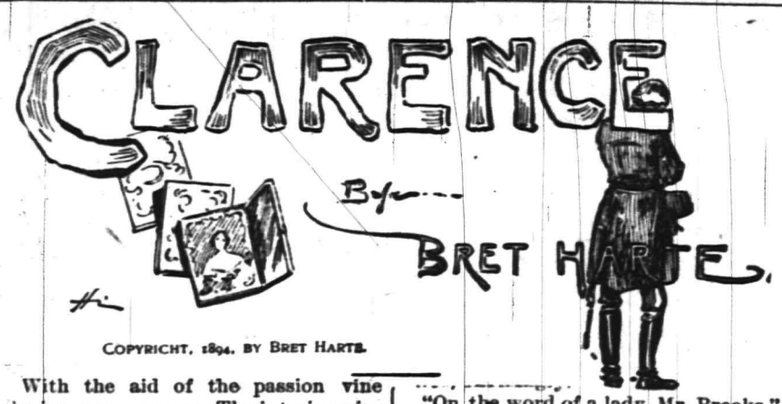
CLARENCE

By BRET HARTE.



COPYRIGHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

With the aid of the passion vine the ingress was easy. The interior window was open; the rustle of dark leaves on the bare floor as he entered and the whirr of a frightened bird by his ear told the story of its desolation and the source of the strange noises that had been heard there.

The door leading to the corridor was lightly bolted, merely to keep it from rattling in the wind. Slipping the bolt with the blade of his pocketknife, he peered into the dark passage. The light streaming under the door to the left and the sound of voices convinced him that his conjecture was right, and the meeting was gathered on the broad balconies around the patio.

He knew that a narrow gallery, faced with Venetian blinds to exclude the sun, looked down upon them. He managed to gain it without discovery; luckily the blinds were still down. Between their slats, himself invisible, he could hear and see everything that occurred.

Yet even at that supreme moment the first thing that struck him was the almost ludicrous contrast between the appearance of the meeting and its tremendous object.

Whether he was influenced by any previous boyish conception of a cloudy and gloomy conspiracy, he did not know, but he was for an instant almost disconcerted by the apparent levity and festivity of the conclave. Decanters and glasses stood on small tables before them; nearly all were drinking and smoking.

They comprised 15 or 20 men, some whose faces were familiar to him elsewhere as southern politicians; a few, he was shocked to see, were well-known northern democrats.

Occupying a characteristically central position was the famous Col. Starbottle, of Virginia. Jaunty and youthful looking in his mask-like, beardless face, expressive and dignified in his middle-aged port and carriage, he alone retained something of the importance—albeit slightly theatrical and affected—of the occasion.

Clarence, in his first hurried glance, had not observed his wife, and for a moment had felt relieved.

But as Col. Starbottle arose at that moment, and with a studiously chivalrous and courtly manner turned to his right, he saw that she was sitting at the further end of the balcony, and that a man whom he recognized as Capt. Pinckney was standing beside her.

The blood quickly tightened around his heart, but left him cold and observant.

It was seldom, indeed, remarked Col. Starbottle, placing his fat white fingers in the frill of his shirt front, that a movement like this was graced with the actual presence of a lofty, inspiring yet delicate spirit—a Boadicea—indeed, he might say a Joan of Arc—in the person of their very charming hostess, Mrs. Brant.

Not only were they favored by her social and hospitable ministration, but by her active and enthusiastic cooperation in the glorious work they had in hand. It was through her correspondence and earnest advocacy that they were to be favored to-night with the aid and counsel of one of the most distinguished and powerful men in the southern district of California, Judge Beeswinger, of Los Angeles.

He had not the honor of that gentleman's personal acquaintance; he believed he was not far from wrong in saying that this was also the misfortune of every gentleman present, but the name itself was a tower of strength. He would go further and say that Mrs. Brant herself was personally unacquainted with him, but that it was through the fervor, poetry, grace and genius of her correspondence with that gentleman that they were to have the honor of his presence that very evening. It was understood that advices had been received of his departure, and that he might be expected at Robles at any moment.

"But what proof have we of Judge Beeswinger's soundness?" said a lazy southern voice at the conclusion of Col. Starbottle's periods. "Nobody here seems to know him by sight; is it not risky to admit a man to our meeting whom we are unable to identify?"

"I reckon nobody but a fool or some prying mudsill of a Yankee would trust his skin here," returned another, "and if he did we'd know what to do with him."

But Clarence's attention was riveted on his wife, and the significant speech passed him as unheeded as had the colonel's rhetoric. She was looking very handsome and slightly flushed, with a proud light in her eyes that he had never seen before.

Absorbed in the discussion, she seemed to be paying little attention to Capt. Pinckney, as she rose suddenly to her feet.

"Judge Beeswinger will be attended here by Mr. MacNiel of the Fair Plains hotel, who will vouch for him and introduce him," she said in a clear voice which rang with an imperiousness that Clarence well remembered. "The judge was to arrive by the coach from Martinez to Fair Plains, and is due now."

"But is there no gentleman to introduce him? Must we take him on the word of a common trader—by Jove, a whisky seller!" continued the previous voice [illegible]

"On the word of a lady, Mr. Brooks," said Capt. Pinckney, with a slight gesture toward Mrs. Brant, "who answers for both."

Clarence had started slightly at his wife's voice and the information it conveyed. His fellow-passenger and the confidant of MacNiel was the man they were expecting. If they had recognized him (Clarence), would they not warn the company of his proximity?

He held his breath as the sound of voices came from the outer gate of the courtyard. Mrs. Brant rose—but at the same moment the gate swung open and a man entered. It was the Missourian.

He turned with an old-fashioned courtesy to the single woman standing on the balcony. "My fair correspondent, I believe! I am Judge Beeswinger. Your agent, MacNiel, passed me through our guards at the gate, but I did not deem it advisable to bring him into this assembly of gentlemen without your further consideration. I trust I was right!"

The quiet dignity, and self-possession, the quaint, old-fashioned colonial precision of speech, modified by a soft Virginian intonation, and, above all, some singular individuality in the man himself, produced a profound sensation, and seemed to suddenly give this gathering an impressiveness it had lacked before.

For an instant Clarence forgot himself and his personal wrongs in the shock of indignation he felt at this potent addition to the ranks of his enemies. He saw his wife's eyes sparkle with pride over her acquisition, and noticed that Pinckney cast a disturbed glance at the newcomer.

The stranger ascended the few steps to the balcony and took Mrs. Brant's hand with profound courtesy.

"Introduce me to my colleagues—distinctly and separately. It behooves a man at such a moment to know to whom he intrusts his life and honor, and the life and honor of his cause."

It was evidently no mere formal courtesy of the stranger. As he stepped forward along the balcony, and under Mrs. Brant's graceful guidance, was introduced to each of the members, he not only listened with scrupulous care and attention to the name and profession of each man, but bent upon him a clear, searching glance that seemed to photograph him in his memory, with two exceptions.

He passed Col. Starbottle's expanding shirt frill with a bow of elaborate precision, and said: "Col. Starbottle's fame requires neither introduction nor explanation." He stopped before Capt. Pickney and [illegible]

"An officer of the [illegible] army, I believe."

"Yes."

"Educated at West Point, I think, by the government to whom you have taken the oath of allegiance?"

"Yes."

"Very good, sir," said the stranger, turning away.

"You have forgotten one other fact, sir," said Pinckney, with a slightly supercilious air.

"Indeed, what is it?"

"I am, first of all, a native of the state of South Carolina."

A murmur of applause and approval ran round the balcony. Capt. Pinckney smiled and exchanged glances with Mrs. Brant, but the stranger quietly returned to the central table beside Col. Starbottle.

"I am not only an unexpected delegate to this august assembly, gentlemen," he began, gravely, "but I am the bearer of, perhaps, equally unexpected news. By my position in the southern district I am in possession of dispatches received only this morning by pony express. Fort Sumter has been besieged. The United States flag, carrying relief to the beleaguered garrison, has been fired upon by the state of South Carolina!"

A burst of almost hysteric applause and enthusiasm broke from the assembly and made the dim vault-like passages and corridors of the casa ring. Cheer after cheer went up to the veiled gallery and the misty sky beyond; men mounted on the tables and waved their hands frantically, and in the midst of this bewildering turbulence of sound and motion, Clarence saw his wife mounted on a chair, with burning cheeks and flashing eyes, waving her handkerchief like an inspired priestess.

Only the stranger, still standing beside Col. Starbottle, remained unmoved and impassive. Then with an imperative gesture he demanded a sudden silence.

"Convincing and unanimous as this demonstration is, gentlemen," he began, quietly, "it is my duty, nevertheless, to ask you if you have seriously considered the meaning of the news I have brought. It is my duty to tell you that it means civil war. It means the clash of arms between two sections of a mighty country, it means the disruption of friends, the breaking of family ties, the separation of fathers and sons, of brothers and sisters—even perhaps to the disseverment of husband and wife!"

"It means the sovereignty of the south—and the breaking of a covenant with low-born traders and abolitionists," said Capt. Pinckney.

"If there are any gentlemen present," continued the stranger, without heeding the interruption, "who have pledged this state to the support of the south in this emergency, or to the establishment of a Pacific republic in aid and sympathy with it, whose names are on this paper," he lifted a sheet of paper lying before Col. Starbottle, "but who now feel that the gravity of the news demands a more serious consideration of the purpose, they are at liberty to withdraw from the meeting—giving their honor as southern gentlemen to keep the secret intact."

A cry broke from her lips as she recognized him.

"Not if I know it," interrupted a stalwart Kentuckian as he rose to his feet and strode down the steps to the patio. "For," he added, placing his back against the gateway, "I'll shoot the first coward that backs out now."

A roar of laughter and approval followed, but was silenced again by the quiet, unimpassioned voice of the stranger.

"If, on the other hand," he went on, calmly, "you all feel that this news is the fitting culmination and consecration of the hopes, wishes and plans of this meeting, you will assert it again, on your own signatures, to Col. Starbottle at this table."

When the Kentuckian had risen Clarence had started from his concealment; when he now saw the eager figures pressing forward to the table he hesitated no longer.

Slipping along the passage he reached the staircase which led to the corridor in the rear of the balcony. Descending this rapidly he not only came upon the backs of the excited crowd around the table, but even elbowed one of the conspirators aside without being noticed.

His wife, who had risen from her chair at the end of the balcony, was already moving toward the table. With a quick movement he seized her wrist and threw her back into the chair again.

A cry broke from her lips as she recognized him, but still holding her wrist he stepped quickly between her and the astonished crowd.

There was a moment of silence, then the cry of "Spy" and "Seize him" rose quickly, but above all the voice and figure of the Missourian was heard commanding them to stand back. Turning to Clarence, he said, quickly:

"I should know your face, sir. Who are you?"

"The husband of this woman and the master of this house," said Clarence, as quickly, but in a voice he hardly recognized as his own.

"Stand aside from her, then, unless you are hoping that her danger may protect you," said the Kentuckian, significantly drawing his revolver.

But Mrs. Brant sprang suddenly to her feet beside Clarence. "We are neither of us cowards, Mr. Brooks—though he speaks the truth—and, more shame to me," she added, with a look of savage scorn at Clarence—"is my husband."

"Then what is your purpose in coming here?" continued Judge Beeswinger, with his eyes fixed on Clarence.

"I have given you all the information," said Clarence, quietly, "that is necessary to make you, as a gentleman. Leave this house at once—and that is my purpose. It is all the information you will get from me as long as you and your friends insult my wife with your uninvited presence. What I may have to say to you, and each of you hereafter—what I may choose to demand of you, according to your own code of honor,"—he fixed his eyes on Capt. Pinckney's—"is another question and one not usually discussed before a lady."

"Pardon me. A moment—a single moment."

It was the voice of Col. Starbottle; it was the frilled shirt front, the lightly buttoned blue coat with its expanding lapels, like bursting petals, and the smiling mask of that gentleman rising above the table and bowing to Clarence Brant and his wife with infinite courtesy.

UNITED STATES

Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be held by its local board in this city on Saturday, Apr 4th, 1896, commencing at 10:30 a. m., for the grade of carriers in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations for this examination are as follow: Not under 18 years. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned, in complete form, on the proper blank, before the hour of closing business on March 30th, 1896. Applications should be filed promptly, therefore, in order that time may remain for correction if necessary.

The Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, without regard to race or to their political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded, and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to any consideration save their efficiency as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, apply to tra rendered a selection and then the curtain rose for the second part. With his hair standing at every angle and a bath robe wrapped about his shoulders, George Taggart came out to give his monologue, "The 'Class B' Man." He was dressed in a bicycle suit beneath his robe while several ribbon badges and the large No. 13, decorated his chest and back. He sketch was a good one and well rendered, and his quick manner of assuring the audience that it "was all right" highly delighted them. He told in his witty way of his experiences in going to a race meet in Plainfield with a friend from New York. "Everybody comes out from New York, for nobody in Plainfield ever goes to a race meet." He went on to describe the race which he did very graphically and his imitation of the announcer and his remarks appeared very realistic and the audience recognized it. His entire sketch was filled with bits of humor that he gave so seriously and he seemed quite surprised when his hearers laughed.

ESSENCE OF SONG-PUN.

A very meritorious part was the slack wire performance by Mr. Burke. Many of his acts were new to Plainfield and it was all given in a manner that was deserving of the loud and hearty applause that he received. One of Fletcher Hallock's pleasing mouthophone solos was added to the programme at this point. He was accompanied by a banjo trio, Messrs. Pettinos, Lehman and Jessup, of Lehigh University.

The audience was then treated to a genuine "Coon Wing Dance" by Harry Schenck, a young colored man of this city.

Next came a humorous sketch by Will Runyon and George Stevens. They were dressed to kill and apparently tried to kill their audience with laughter. The scene was supposed to be in a restaurant and their efforts to secure something to eat were as astonishing and nearly raised the roof. After playing all sorts of ridiculous pranks and getting off local hits as they conversed, they sang a parody on "She May Have Seen Better Days." They brought out a large card, the front of which was labeled, as they sang each verse. The first stanza was about President Cleveland and his love of duck shooting. The card said "Popular Songs." The next sign was "Why I Love Work, by Jimmy Leonard" and that verse referred to Cuba and the "better days" she will soon see. The other titles and verses were as follows:

Novel. A Girl in Jail, by Judge DeMeza."

Our good Mayor G. the critics agree
Doth daily fresh honors accure,
His speeches so fine in the banqueting line
Are knocking out Chauncey Depew.
He so freely o'erflows with delicious bow-nots,
'Tis said (under confidence seal)
That his family "pards" he daily bombards
With orations at every meal.

Oh may he see longer days
That with his gift will chime,
When it will be the craze
To banquet all the time,
When in the pastures of wit
His genius may constantly graze
And pour fun and sense thro' the saccharine hence
Of the long, endless days.

"Manual of Mixed Drinks, by 'Thirsty.'"

In the borough I strolled and then did unfold
A picture that caused us surprise,
For out in the night by the flickering light
Ben Hegeman stood forth to my eyes,
He was looking all ways for the local cafes,
'Twas just after 12 o'clock m.,
And strangers, you see, got the notion that he
Was seeking a chance to—ahem!

He may yet see better days,
Days of calm delights,
Yes, he may see better days,
Free from sleepless nights,
When from the keyholder he may
Turn his argus gaze,
When bars o'er the "crick" are as tight as a brick
He may see better days.

"The Evils of Cigarette Smoking, by Roger W. Erickson."

While strolling along with an appetite strong
For the sights that our city reveals,
In the thoroughfares tide Jim Leonard I spied,
And Pete Matthews was close at his heels.

They were vis-a-vis, and they both did agree
'Bout the times being quite out of gear,
And asserted that work they would no longer shirk
Were they offered $10,000 a year.

They may have seen better days
When they were in their prime,
They may have seen better days,
Once upon a time,
Tho' by the wayside they wait
They may acquire a raise
When shekels accrue for just nothing to do
They will see better days.

"How to Win Ladies, by L. H. Van-B."

Our city police have got an increase
Of shekels so nice to amass,
And in uniforms new they loiter to view
Themselves in each mirror they pass.
They're drilling so fine, if seen when in line
All Europe would tremble with fright,
For they'd know at a glance they would ne'er have a chance
With the Plainfield police in a fight.

They'll never see better days,
E'en if they never die,
Never more charm and daze
The ladies passing by,
Wearing a mien militaire,
With envy all rivals they'll craze,
Till they go to patrol the cerulem god
They'll ne'er see better days.

"How it Feels to be a Statesman," by Charlie Reed.

The sights that one meets as he strolls thro' the streets
Where the sewers have lately been laid,
Makes a Plainfielder think that we've stood on the brink
Where an earthquake its havoc has played.
Eruptions galore and lumps by the score
Endanger the streets as we pass
Till stung to the quick at the sight we grow sick
And indignantly cry out En-Masse.

Oh may we see better days
Where we may freely ride
Over our public ways
Safe from homicide,
When for our money we may
Have roads that are worthy praise
Where no highway wrecks will endanger our necks
And forbid better days.

"How to Put Out Fire, by R. J. Shaw."

Tho' all will concede that quite in the lead
The Crescents at wheeling you'll find,
Such speed to acquire their treasury's tire
Was punctured and's fallen behind.
But thanks to their friends whose encouragement lends
New hopes of success to their aim,
With money to burn they'll be fired to earn
For Plainfield fresh honor and fame.

And they will see better days,
Days when the records will fall,
Days you'll remember with praise,
When victories you recall,
And we will gratefully hold
Your tribute in memory always,
When you thus did reveal your regard for our weal
And insured better days.

"Stop."

'Twould suit us to death if we had the breath
And iron clad vocal machines
To stay here and toot till we really took root
And became a fixed part of the scenes.
We'd twitter away till that on coming day
When Gabriel's booked to appear,
An when his cornet he tooted you bet
Our voices above it you'd hear.
But we must have stronger lungs,
Lungs of eternal wear,
Anti-corrosive lungs
Filled with exhaustive air,
Then with our throats copper-lined
Our yawp we'd continue to fly,
And keep up the time till the last afternoon
Of the sweet bye and bye.

Each stanza was loudly applauded and the local hits were all duly appreciated.

After several well rendered selections by the Lehigh University banjo quartette composed of F. D. Hallock, C. E. Pettinos, G. Lehman and S. B. Jessup, the never to be forgotten minstrel show of the Crescent Wheelmen closed with a farce entitled "A Night at the Park Club with the Union Counties.

The work of which the audience knew little, but which after all was of the utmost importance, was performed by Louis G. Timpson with signal success. Mr. Timpson managed all the details of the money-making end of the affair, and he did it so well that the club will clear about $500 from the minstrels. All day yesterday he was kept busy in perfecting many little arrangements that were necessary to a a successful presentation, and last night he managed the stage so that every number on the programme was carried out without a break. He was assisted on the stage by the regular Music Hall mechanics and Charles Wheeler, late of Thatcher's minstrels.

The music was under the direction of Prof. Conde, whose rendition was perfect for the performers and pleasing to the audience. The overtures between the acts were especially fine and merited much favorable comment from the critical audience that was present.

The ushers were under the direction of Harry Coward and were as follows: Harry VanEmburgh, Clifton Pearson, Mr. Dryden, Frank Richards, Frank Howland, Richard Williams, George Griffin, Harry Patten and Max Lunger. They did their work efficiently and courteously.

In No Danger.

Dinkley (who has owed a bill for medical attendance for four years and never mentions a settlement)—Doctor, I woke up in a cold sweat a little while ago, but feel so much better now I am sorry I sent for you. I am easily frightened and am afraid I am losing my nerve.

Dr. Grimby (who has been called at two a. m., dryly)—No, I don't think you are.—Judge.

A Satisfactory Explanation.

Mrs. Winks (enraged)—How is this? Mrs. Stuckup's letter of reference said you were a good cook, and yet you have utterly spoiled the first meal you attempted.

New Girl—Maybe Mrs. Stuckup don't know nothing about cookin'.

Mrs. Winks (mollified) — Probably that is the case. Well, I'll teach you myself.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Romance of To-Day.

The Season's Depression.

"This weather is very trying for everybody," said the physician.

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "I don't see how my wife is going to bear up under it. When the sun doesn't shine it gives her the blues, and when it does she says it's fading the carpet."—Washington Star.

An Unkind Remark.

"How is your boy Johnnie coming on?" asked Gus DeSmith of Mr. Chaffee.

"Oh! pretty well, only he is getting a little puffed up with his own importance. Knows more than his father."

"Ah! then the boy is not quite an idiot."—Texas Sifter.

His Trade.

Ragged Haggard (at the door)—I'm willin' to work, maddim, but I can't get nuthin' to do at my profession.

Mrs. Snapperton—H'm! What is your profession?

Ragged Haggard—I'm an Anglomaniac.—Harper's Bazar.

Tommy's Excuse.

Mamma—What do you mean by taking that piece of cake—when you asked for it, didn't I say no?

Tommy—You did; but last night I heard papa say that when a woman says no she always means yes.—Truth.

The Same Material.

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE.

CHARLES CALLAHAN FIRED FIVE SHOTS AT HER FLEEING FORM.

The Couple Quarreled Over the Way the Mid-day Meal Was Served—A Neighbor Narrowly Escaped Being Shot.

An angry husband, partially crazed with drink, tried to kill his wife by emptying the five chambers of his revolver at her fleeing form yesterday afternoon. The man who thus attempted the life of his helpmeet was Charles Callahan, of 756 East Second street, just beyond Berckman street.

Early in the afternoon Patrick Donnoly, who occupies the front rooms on the lower floor of Callahan's house, heard Mr. and Mrs. Callahan quarrelling in the kitchen. The trouble continued and at about 5 o'clock the shooting occurred. Although there were a number that saw it, they hardly know how it happened. The angry couple had gone into the yard when the watchers saw Mrs. Callahan start to run toward the street and her husband rush inside the house. He returned in an instant with a revolver and fired two shots at his wife who had reached the street. After she had gone further down East Second street he called to her to come back and then fired the remaining three shots from his revolver. Mrs. Martin Kreitling, a neighbor, was passing by and saw the shooting. One of the bullets narrowly escaped striking her.

Patrick Donnoly then appeared on the scene and Callahan started for him. The sight of the smoking revolver was too much for Donnoly and he departed for the back yard and hid in one of the outhouses.

Callahan shouted to Donnolly to come back as he would not harm him, but Donnoly did not care to. Then Callahan began looking for him.

"Be gobs," said Donnoly to Sergeant Kiely and a Press reporter as he told the story of the affair, "I thought my time had come."

Callahan finally went into the house and Donnoly soon put several blocks between himself and the revolver.

Sergeant Kiely was notified of the affair by some of those that saw it and promptly arrived at the scene. He found Callahan in the house and the latter denied having a revolver. The Sergeant searched him, found the revolver, and arrested Callahan. He was immediately conveyed to the lockup.

The couple have quarreled before, usually when Callahan drank. He did not go to work yesterday afternoon as usual. The quarrel started over the midday meal and the way it was served. The affair was a great shock to Mrs. Callahan and she refused to talk about it at all when seen by a Press reporter after her husband had been arrested.

The attempt was witnessed by Eddie Duck, of Netherwood avenue, who was in the next yard and Robert and Henry Angleman, of East Second street, who were across the street, Mrs. Kreitling and several men and woman at the corner of Berckman and Second streets.

City Judge DeMeza this afternoon committed Charles Callahan to the county jail for forty days in default of paying a fine of $15, and James Matthews was given 40 days for being abusive and using indecent language.

WRECKED THE MAYOR'S BIKE.

An Inexperienced Rider Accidentally Falls Into Mr. Hegeman's Wheel.

Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of the borough, met with an accident at the Columbia Cycle Academy last evening when the club had its last ride. The members were completing a most intricate figure and all were moving very slow. Several riders became shaky, and especially the one ahead of the Mayor. Just as the latter was trying to get his wheel and himself out of the way the former fell and landed squarely on Mr. Hegeman's brand-new Spalding. The wheel was a complete wreck. In the meantime he is obliged to forego the pleasure of wheeling.

Misses Lee and Littell together with a larger number of friends from Willow Grove, gave Miss Jennie Ross and her brother, Fred Ross, of Park place, a complete surprise last evening. Dancing was the feature and all had a good time.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale at Armstrong,'s Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

LITTLE CHILDREN IN A CANTATA.

Pleasing Juvenile Entertainment Given at Trinity Reformed Church.

There was not a vacant seat in the lecture room of the Trinity Reformed church last night and many of those who came to see the entertainment given by the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor of the church had to stand up. The programme opened with a piano solo by Miss Lucy Coriell, after which came the cantata "The Floral Rainbow" given by thirty-five little misses of the society. They were:

Rose—Grace Emmons, Clara Martin, Lydia Wyman, Martha Anthony, and Lizzie Denecklau.

Tulip—Anna Hazell, Mary Jones, Belle DeMott, and Hattie Vanderhoef.

Dandelion—Gertrude Tier, Anna Randall, Pauline Buckley, Mary Woolston and Clyde Slater.

Snowball—Emma Line, Bessie Ten Eyck, Grace Ten Eyck, Hattie Bodine, and Cora Hand.

Corn Flower—Bessie Martin, Louisa Ebel, and Lillian Scribner.

Morning Glory—Lucy Coriell, Dora Wilson, May Anthony, Maizy Gray and Lulu Vail.

Violet—Violet VanWinkle, Bessie Randall, Mary Hazell, Anna Holder, Hazell Martin and Etta Trembley.

The girls wore different colored draperies of tissue paper over their gowns. The Roses wore red, the Tulips red and yellow, the Dandelions yellow, the Snowballs green, the Cornflowers blue, the Morning Glory blue and purple, and the Violets purple. The girls representing each different flower came out on the platform, and in song and recitation, told about their flower and why it was the prettiest. The cantata closed with a chorus by all the flowers, and the combination of the different colors, as they stood in line, made a very pretty rainbow.

The second part of the programme was as follows: Singing, "Toiling for Jesus;" prayer, Bessie Randall; recitation, "Temple Builders," by Luther Shephard; autoharp solo by Bessie Ten Eyck; dialogue by ten Juniors, entitled "What can I do for Jesus," followed by singing, "Savior bless the little children;" recitation, "A plea for the Indian," by Martin Anthony; singing, "Send the Light," duett and chorus; dime dialogue by Fred Dunavan and David Wikoff; collection; singing, "Our Junior Band."

Over $20 was received and it will be given in furtherance of the work of Indian Evangelist Wright, who is well-known in this city. In the dialogue by the ten Juniors, little Cornelius Schenck, Jr., made his maiden speech.

The affair was gotten up by Mrs. Cornelius Schenck and Miss Olive Wikoff, who worked hard for its success and they deserve great credit for the excellent manner in which the programme was carried out. Mrs. G. W. Saums acted as accompanist.

The City of Watchung.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Seven strong reasons are here given showing the advantages of consolidation. The new city to be named "Watchung" and forming part of Somerset county: 1, One school system; 2, one fire department; 3, one police department; 4, one street department; 5, one sewage system; 6, one city government; 7, lower taxes, harmony of interests and the abolition of two governments for the same town. Let those who oppose this progressive reform publicly state their objections so that the community may form a correct opinion of the merits of the various propositions.

Anti-Mossback.

Schlatter, the Healer.

The remarkable cures of this western wonder have found their equal in those performed by one Newell, of New England, whose magic touch is daily bringing relief to scores of sufferers. Neither of these great healers, however, made any pretensions to curing blindness, the best protection from which is in prevention. To insure this protection every precaution should be taken, the first of which is an examination of the eyes; such examinations and expert optical advice are free to you at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.

Died Without Friends.

Miss Ellen O'Connolly, of Terrill road, who was taken to the hospital recently suffering with pneumonia, died at that institution yesterday. The authorities have made careful inquiry and are unable to learn that there are any relatives left to take charge of the body, and in consequence the city will have to bear the expenses of burial. She was sixty years of age, and lived at the city poor house on Terrill road. She was very poor and left nothing whatever.

Poisoned Children Recovering.

Drs. Wild and Fisher, who are attending the Matthews and VanNess children at Bound Brook, who were poisoned yesterday by eating a root which they took for horseradish, reported last evening that the children will all recover. The doctors say the root eaten was either wild parsnips or wild artichokes.

A TRUMP CARD PLAYED IN THE MOONLIGHT.

THE STREET RAILWAY OFFICIALS MAKE THE FIFTH STREET EXTENSION DURING THE NIGHT.

To Avoid the Possibility of Injunctions Being Served on Them, the Work is Started When the Supreme Court Has Adjourned, and No Proceedings Could Be Commenced to Thwart the Construction of the Road Over Contested Ground—Material and Men Were in Readiness as Soon as the City and Railway Officials Signed the Contracts, and the Ink Had Hardly Dried When the Picks Struck In—The Work Watched By a Crowd of Citizens.

The "man in the moon" saw a strange sight in Plainfield last night. An army of laborers quietly invaded the town and marched in a long silent procession to East Fifth street. Trucks carried tools and strange apparatus to the same place. Soon East Fifth street, between Washington street and Watchung avenue, was illuminated by immense kerosene torches and the workmen had strung along the centre of of the street. All was activity, men were running about, lanterns were waved and picks and shovels were flying, but still the unwonted silence continued, broken only by the rattle of the tools on the stones of the roadbed, the creaking and rumbling of the moving trucks and the hoarse roar of the torches. The bright moon made the scene almost as light as day, while the brilliant flame from the torches cast a still brighter glow on the street and surrounding houses.

To the peaceful citizens and their families returning home, the sight was indeed a strange and mysterious one. But a few words explained the entire situation.

It was the new trolley road in process of construction and it was started as soon as the Common Council gave the required permission and before an injunction could be secured by any of the objecting property owners.

The Common Council met last night and approved of the plan of construction for the extensions of the street railway and the bonds for $20,000 which were filed on March 16th at the City Clerk's office by the Plainfield Street Railway Company. Then they adjourned. That was all that was needed, however, to allow the work to be started at once. Lemuel W. Serrell is the contractor in charge of the construction. He realized the fact that after the permission had been granted, there were several residents on East Fifth street who intended to secure an injunction to stop the work.

That would mean a delay of several months which was not to be thought of. So Mr. Serrell decided to begin work the moment the plans had been approved and the contract complete and rush it through at night before the opposers of the scheme could secure an injunction. Preparations have been quietly going on for several weeks. The rails, ties and poles and other material arrived ten days ago and part was distributed along the Dunellen and the West Fourth street extensions, but the residents of East Fifth street were not given the slightest hint that work was soon to commence. Tools, bolts and the other necessary adjuncts were stored in the vacant store on West Second street, next to Terrill & Cole's undertaking establishment. Local truckmen were sworn to secrecy and told to be on hand last night. The plan of the contractors was kept very still and very few people knew that anything unusual was going to happen.

In addition to Contractor Serrell's own experienced gang of workmen, about 150 Italians from New York and Jersey City were imported to do the digging and hardest manual work. These Italians were employed through Frank Wilson, of this city, who furnishes a large number of such laborers to contractors on big jobs. The men came out from New York at 8 o'clock, and were marched from the North avenue station to East and West Second streets, near Park avenue, where they were huddled together until the time came for them to start for the scene of work. The men were frequently cautioned to be quiet, and scarcely a word was spoken above a whisper.

Contractor Serrell attended the Council meeting, immaculately dressed, and his demeanor gave no evidence that he was soon to startle Plainfield by turning night into day. He engineered the consummation of the deal between the city and the street railway through the Council and then started for East Fifth street. Engineer Gavett and his staff of assistants were already there running the line for the new railroad and staking it out and locating the trolley wire posts. The hustling contractor then returned to his home to don sweater and golf cap when he returned to the scene of operations where he remained all night.

At 10 o'clock the trucks began to unload the material and the vanguard of the army of workmen arrived. All was activity; seven large kerosene torches, of 4,000 candle power each, were placed along the side of the street to illuminate the scene. A crowd of interested spectators gathered along the sidewalk to watch the proceedings. The strangeness of the scene, together with the unusual quietness of the workmen, seemed to awe the on-lookers and everybody spoke in a whisper.

It was known that opposition was feared from a few of the residents and the interest centered about the houses of the opponents of the trolley. The knowing ones, however saw how nicely Contractor Serrell had outwitted them, for it was a case of "heads I win, tails you lose" in favor of the trolley.

No personal opposition would be allowed by the police, now that the franchise had been granted, and the only way left was through the courts which were unaccessible at night.

William H. Sampson, of 229 East Fifth street, was the first of the residents to appear on the scene and protest. He declared it to be entirely wrong and asked why it was that the company should be afraid to work in the daytime and so try to construct the line at night on the sly. He watched the operations for sometime and evidently came to the opinion that Contractor Serrell held the highest card, for he soon retired to his house and, after a time, the lights were extinguished there.

Most of the residents in the neighborhood were just retiring when the unusual light and large number of passing wagons attracted their attention. All East Fifth street, from Richmond street to Watchung avenue, was aroused. Curtains were pushed to one side and faces appeared at the windows. Then front doors softly opened and the investigators took a nearer look at the disturbers of their evening's rest and quiet. The house that was watched the most by the visitors was No. 220, where H. H. Baker and Charles G. Crawford reside. They were known to be especially prominent in opposing the trolley line and had retained Assemblyman C. A. Reed as their lawyer in the fight which they promised to take to the courts. At last the patience of the watchers was rewarded and Mr. Baker was visible at an upper window gazing on the busy scene below.

After a time he appeared at the door and came out to learn more of the invasion of his peaceful neighborhood. One of the trolley poles happened to come directly in front of his house. He immediately said that it must not be put there. The workmen had received their orders and paid no attention to the protestations of the old man. Seeing the impossibility of stopping the work, Mr. Baker retired from the field and the pole was placed in position. Quite a crowd gathered around as he conversed with one of his neighbors on the situation. The neighbor was in favor of the trolley, however. To Mr. Adelmann, the superintendnnt of the street railroad, Mr. Baker remarked that as long as work had been begun he had nothing to say, after which he returned to his house to dream of trolleys, contractors and injunctions.

The only other objection came from the home of Mrs. A. A. Chandor, 330 East Fifth street. She and her family were highly indignant when they learned that the trolley was going through. They declared that a trolley pole should never be placed in front of their home, and there was not, as it missed it by about four feet.

Some property owners were jubilant over the appearance of the road and were especially pleased at the way in which the injunction was to be prevented. Other residents looked on it as a necessary evil, and one woman said to a Press reporter "I don't want it, but I suppose we have got to have it and so there isn't any use of fighting." She then retired to her domicile and left the trolley in full sway. Contractor Serrell was pleased with the result of his coup, and told a Press reporter something of his plans for the future. The track and wires would, he said, be completed on East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Franklin place, as soon as possible. He hoped that that part would be ready by the next morning, but as the men were new it might take longer. This was the only place along the route where he expected opposition, as property owners generally are much pleased.

If the weather continues good, he said, the work will be pushed right along as rapidly as possible, and they expect to have everything completed by the first of June. He did not anticipate any trouble with Mr. Baker or Mr. Crawford, as he said they would rather have the work completed than stopped with the street in its present condition.

The ground was broken at twelve minutes past 10 o'clock and from that time up to the time of going to press the workmen kept at work with only short intervals of rest. The poles from Watchung avenue to Franklin place were all placed in position during the night and the ties and rails placed in position as far as Washington street. This merning the rails were bolted together and spiked to the ties.

The large crowd that witnessed the beginning of the work remained until about eleven o'clock. Almost all of the Councilmen were there while a number of other prominent citizens were to be seen in the crowd that silently watched the preparations. Assemblyman Reed did not visit his clients nor the scene of action, although he knew that work had been begun. He said nothing could be done last night. Some of the watchers remained until after midnight, waiting to see, if possible, the first spike driven.

To a Press reporter this afternoon Supt. Yarnell said "We are greatly disappointed in the quality of the workmen They are very poor. We will merely finish up the one block today and start with an entire new gang of of men on Monday."

At noon, the railroad had been completed on East Fifth street from Watchug avenue to Washington street, but the ties and rails had not been covered.

The superintendent of the construction is V. H. Yarnell, who has been employed by Mr. Serrell before and is well and favorably known among the people of Plainfield.

The first real excitement caused by any objecting propery owner was occasioned this morning at an early hour when the workmen who were putting up the trolley poles arrived in front of one of the houses owned by Emil Messerschmidt, of Jackson avenue, and occupied by Mrs. Brokaw. Mr. Messerschmidt did not object to the tracks being laid in front of his property, but he did protest against a pole being set in front of the house.

The workmen, however, paid no attention to his son William, who was there to look after the interests of his father, and went ahead and excavated the post hole.

Finding no one who would respect his wishes, he resorted to the act of placing his body in the hole, where he remained for fifteen or twenty minutes and carried on a council of war with the official in charge. The matter was finally compromised by the pole being located on the dividing line between the two lots, thus obviating what Mr. Messerschmidt considered would be a detriment to his property.

Dr. Hussey at Trenton.

Dr. Mary D. Hussey, of Madison avenue, with Miss Philbrook, were among the ladies who went to Trenton this week to watch the passage of the school suffrage constitutional amendment through the Legislature. They were much pleased with the result as it went through both Houses with but one dissenting vote. If it becomes a law it will restore to women the right to vote for school trustees in the country districts. Petitions from every county in the State were presented for it.

Mr. Baxter Sworn In.

Charles J. Baxter was sworn in as State Superintendent of Schools Thursday at Trenton by Associate Justice of the Supreme Court William E. Gummere. It was at first thought that Mr. Baxter was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Poland, but Thursday he was informed that it was for a full term of three years. Mr. Baxter will continue to reside in this city, going back and forth to his duties at Trenton, where he has an office in the State House.

Tom Jones' Funeral.

The funeral of Thomas Jones late baggage master on the Central rail road, will take place from 29 Morrell street, Elizabeth, Monday morning, at 8 o'clock. All friends are invited.

William Richards, of Church street, will lead the 4 o'clock meeting in Reform Hall tomorrow afternoon.

A SOCIETY THAT WORKS.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF A FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Reports of the Officers Showed That Much Had Been Accomplished During the Year—A Talk on Japan Missions.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, celebrated its twenty-third anniversary yesterday afternoon in the church in a very appropriate manner. The president, Miss Linda Butler, was in the chair. Mrs. Wyckoff, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, offered prayer, after which Mrs. B. J. Shreve presented her annual report as secretary. It was a very excellent review of the past year's work and showed that the society had accomplished considerable in mission work. Mrs. Alex. Gilbert, treasurer, read her report, showing that $660.61 had been received during the year. This amount does not include everything for some money has not yet been reported. For the Gold Dust Band Miss Serrell reported. This society of little ones have raised $30.48 during the year. Mrs. W. O. Chapman presented a report for the Young Ladies Missionary Society. Her report showed a balance of about $160 in the treasury. There was reported about $125 as the profits of the recent "Festival of Holidays." In all there has been raised over $800, which is very encouraging to the members. Miss Hattie Shreve gave a most excellent report of the work of the Young Ladies Band.

A pleasing solo was rendered by Mrs. George Chapman, and after the singing of a hymn, Miss Butler made a few remarks urging the members to do more for the society and to attend the meeting more regularly. She then introduced Miss Church, a returned missionary from Japan. Miss Church is a very interesting speaker and she related in an entertaining manner something of her work in Japan.

She told how rapidly Japan was advancing in Christianity and how willing the natives are to learn something about Christ. She said that there was a great work to be done among the children. In her school she has forty scholars and they are very attractive and bright. Each day there is a certain amount to be accomplished in the school and the scholars are eager to learn. They rise every morning at six o'clock and recite the Fourth Commandment and from that time till four o'clock in the afternoon, the time is occupied in teaching the Bible and English branch. The pupils advance rapidly and give promise of making bright men and women. At the close of Miss Church's talk, Mrs. L. H. Biglow, Jr., sang a solo. Miss Butler then introduced Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, of Elizabeth, State Secretary of the Foreign Missionary society. She extended hearty words of congratulation and gave the society a cordial invitation to attend the state anniversary at Newark April 15th and 16th.

At the close of the meeting, mite boxes were given to the members.

Those who composed the choir at the meeting were: Mrs. W. O. Chapman, Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Miss Harold, Mrs. George Chapman. Mrs. L. H. Biglow, Jr., Miss Gussie Runyon, Miss Florence Kline. Those who acted as collectors were Miss May Stelle and Miss Stephenson.

A KNAVE CONVICTED.

Counterfeiting Carter's Little Liver Pills a Serious Offence.

Eight months in the penitentiary was the sentence imposed by Judge Fitzgerald in New York the other day upon William Remington, alias Scott, for manufacturing and selling spurious "Carter's Little Liver Pills." Since last June the Carter Medicine Company has been engaged in running down a lot of people who were selling counterfeit Carter's Pills. Several of these cases have been tried and one druggist named Thomas B. Hughes, No. 281 Tenth avenue, was convicted and sent to the penitentiary.

Everyone handling the spurious goods named William Remington as the person from whom they made the purchase. Remington was accordingly arrest and plead guilty with the above result.

Plainfield's Good Example.

Plainfield says her citizens must shovel snow, settle with silver or see the Sheriff. They have their choice. Rather rigid regulation, perhaps, but evidently efficacious. Several days ago the Street Commissioner filed complaints against twenty-five different people for not cleaning off their sidewalks. There are many folks in town, no doubt, who, having felt the pain and mortification of equilibrium gymnastics on slippery sidewalks, have heartily wished the same thing was in force in New Brunswick.—New Brunswick Home News.

ANXIETY FOR DYGART

State Department Still Without Information About His Case.

REBELS CUT OFF COMMUNICATION

Spanish Officials Probably Unwilling To Admit the Real Cause for Their Delay in Giving Information Regarding His Imprisonment.

Washington, March 28.—The state department still professes to be without information from the Spanish authorities in Cuba, through Consul General Williams about the case of Walter Dygart of Illinois, who is imprisoned at Guinez. Telegraph lines are down and railroads are not in running order between Havana and Guinez, a distance of forty-five miles, but the administration is becoming uneasy over the delay in answering the consul general's repeated request for information and is desirous to have some specific reply. It is believed here that the insurgents occupy the country between Havana and Guinez and that the Spanish authorities at Havana are unable to secure any news from Guinez for that reason, but are unwilling to admit the fact. Representative Hopkins of Illinois, in whose district Dygart holds legal residence, has interested himself in the case and has urged the state department to do what can be done for his constituent.

INDIGNATION AT MADRID.

Action of American Congress Denounced in the Most Moderate Papers.

London, March 28.—The Standard to-day publishes a dispatch from Madrid saying that even the most moderate papers in the their issues Friday expressed great indignation at the action of the American congress anent the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents, and asked the government to spare no effort to prepare for any development. The action of Capt.-Gen. Weyler in deciding to treat the insurgents as bandits is almost unanimously approved. The dispatch adds that public feeling is running so high that the government will find difficulty in controlling the national exasperation. The republicans advocate the granting of autonomy to Cuba, and declare they will, with a view to avoiding responsibility, abstain from taking part in the elections for members of the cortes.

NAVAL OFFICERS GRATIFIED.

Successful Docking of the Indiana Causes Much Rejoicing.

Washington, March 28.—Officials of the navy department are greatly pleased over the successful docking of the battleship Indiana at Port Royal, N. C., yesterday. The great war vessel steamed gallantly through the caisson of the dock, with fully fifteen inches to spare between her keel and blocks. It was a glad day for the people of Port Royal, and the satisfaction depicted upon the faces of the officers was sufficient testimonial of the gratification which they experienced in the vindication of the work upon which they have labored so long and faithfully. The Indiana was put on the blocks not only with perfect ease and success, but when the tide had been running out for at least an hour.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARVIN.

Sister of the Late President Hayes, from Whom She Was Estranged.

St. Louis, March 28.—Mrs. E. Marvin, a sister of the late ex-President Hayes, who died Wednesday at Kirkwood, a suburb, was buried from the Kirkwood Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Mays presiding. She was a few years the senior of her brother. They were separated in early youth. Mrs. Marvin was reared and educated by an old southern family then residing in southern Illinois. When the civil war broke out, the brother joined the union army and the strong prejudices of the family with which Mrs. Marvin was living estrang' her from him and they never met again.

GREATER NEW YORK BILL.

Final Fate of the Measure Still in Considerable Doubt.

Albany, March 28.—It is highly probable that the greater New York bill will encounter the veto of at least one mayor, the chief executive of Brooklyn, and in that event nothing remains but for the legislature to repass the measure in order to get it before the governor for his consideration. A number of republican members of the assembly who voted for the bill will undoubtedly vote against it if it is returned to them with the disapproval of a republican mayor, and the fate of the measure in such an event would be in great doubt.

Lord Dunraven to Visit Canada.

Montreal, March 28.—A Halifax dispatch says: A member of the Halifax Yacht club has received a letter from Andrew Harmon of London, England, a friend of Lord Dunraven, in which he states that Lord Dunraven has decided to visit Canada next summer, remaining in Halifax several days. It is posible that he may sail Valkyrie at Halifax.

Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, March 28.—The senate in executive session confirmed the following postmaster nominations: Massachusetts—T. H. Jackman, Peabody. Connecticut—S. J. Lyon, Collinsville. New York—J. V. Crawford, Morristown.

Gen. Wilson at Middletown, Conn.

Washington, March 28.—Postmaster General Wilson left Washington yesterday for Middletown, Conn., where he will address the students of the Wesleyan university this evening.

GREAT TURF SCANDAL.

California Bookmakers Swindled Out of $100,000 by a Chinaman.

San Francisco, March 28.—The officials of the Pacific Coast Jockey club have just discovered a gigantic conspiracy whereby Fong Ching, a notorious Chinaman, better known to the police and public as "Little Pete," has, in collusion with several prominent jockeys now riding in this city, defrauded the bookmakers at the Ingleside and Bay District tracks out of a sum roughly estimated at $100,000. For some weeks past the peculiar riding put up by Jockeys Chorn, Chevalier and Hinrichs, have excited the suspicion of the track officials, but owing to the finesse displayed by the lads it was difficult to attribute their failure to land winners to any other source save the proverbial streak of bad luck. Jockeys Chorn and Chevalier have been ruled off the track for life, and Hinrichs suspended indefinitely. "Little Pete" has been barred from attending either the Ingleside or Bay District tracks, and owner Dow Wallace, sponsor for Chevalier, has been warned off. The associations have also decided not to accept the entries of Tom Griffin and Andy Blakely, on account of the peculiar running of the horse Fairfaith, on the 25th instant, and Jockey Coady has been indefinitely suspended for the manner in which he rode Gabrielle on the same day. Chorn was regarded as one of the best jockeys in the country. "Little Pete" has served a term in San Quentin for jury bribing and has been implicated in several questionable transactions, notably the smuggling of the Chinese "actors" to the San Francisco Mid-winter fair and the Atlanta exposition. The disclosures have created a tremenduous sensation in turf circles.

TOBACCO TRUST CASE.

Continuation of the Hearing Against the American Company at Newark.

Newark, N. J., March 28.—The hearing of evidence against the American Tobacco company was continued before Chancellor Reed yesterday afternoon in the action to prevent the corporation from discriminating against jobbers. Hobert J. Park of Park & Tilford, New York jobbers, swore his firm had purchased 25,000 Admiral cigarettes but returned 22,500 when pressed on a contract made with the American company. Simon C. Maruell, a New York jobber, said he had been forced to sell trust cigarettes or have to pay higher figures for other tobacco. He had received $400 a year in presents from the trust to push its goods.

DEATH OF FRANCIS R. FAVA.

Only Child of the Italian Ambassador and a Prominent Architect.

Washington, March 28.—Francis R. Fava, jr., son of Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, who died here yesterday of consumption, was the only child of his parents. He was 36 years old and fifteen years ago the title of baron was conferred upon him by the king of Italy. For the past six years he has been one of the most prominent architects in Washington.

HIS SENTENCE QUASHED.

Kneebe, the American Horseman, Wins His Case on Appeal in Germany.

Leipzig, March 28.—The supreme court has quashed the sentence of nine months' imprisonment and fine of 1,000 marks imposed by the lower court on Robert T. Kneebe, an American horseman, who was convicted of having started in German trotting races a mare, alleged to have been Bethel, under the name of Nellie Kneebe.

New York Excise Commissioner.

Albany, March 28.—The only change in the gossip concerning the appointment of state excise commissioner under the Raines liquor tax bill is that W. A. Sutherland of Rochester has definitely dropped out of the race for the position.

Concessions in Madagascar.

Antananarivo, Madagascar, March 28.—Under instructions received from France, mine-prospecting permits issued lately have been cancelled, and such permits hereafter will be granted to French citizens only.

NO POISON FOUND

Said To Be Result of Analysis of Anna McGrath's Blood.

LANGDON MAY THUS BE RELEASED

He Requested the Doctors Who Examined His Mouth To Use Their Influence for His Liberty—He Is Not Comfortable, He Says.

Philadelphia, March 28.—It has been learned on good authority that there is strong probability that the chemical analysis now being made by an expert chemist of Annie McGrath's blood and and internal organs will not develop that the girl died of poisoning. So far this analysis has developed nothing in this direction. If this should be true there seems to be nothing for the police to do but release Langdon unconditionally. The chemist will make his report on the result of his examination on Monday. After the physicians had finished their examination of Langdon's mouth and tongue yesterday afternoon the prisoner turned to them and in the most matter-of-fact way thanked them for the courtesy they had extended to him. Then shaking hands with each of the doctors, he said: "The position in which I am now placed is, as you can imagine, not as pleasant as it might be, but if such a thing is possible, I would like you gentlemen and the officers who have been identified with the case to do what you can in order to allow me to regain my liberty. Even with the bed and other privileges accorded me, I am not at all comfortable."

JULIUS PORTER GUILTY.

Convicted of Placing Obstructions on Railroad Tracks.

Brattleboro, Vt., March 28.—Julius Porter, who has been on trial in the county court at New Fane for placing obstructions on the Boston & Maine tracks about a mile north of Brattleboro station, was convicted last night, the jury being out about two hours. Three brothers were arrested in Massachusetts and New Hamphire last fall for the crime, since when they have been confined in the county jail awaiting trial. Julius is the second of the three. Will turned state's evidence and described how they were under the influence of liquor when they crossed the track near the Bradley farm, where Bert and Julius stripped boards from the section house and finally placed a large tool chest on the track. After carousing in the neighborhood for several hours they all returned to Brattleboro village until next day when they fled to New Hampshire. Will's testimony was controverted by the two other brothers, but the jury found the defendant guilty, while the two other brothers were remanded to jail to await further action by the court. The court adjourned till Wednesday of next week, when Porter with other prisoners will probably receive their sentences.

THE NILE EXPEDITION.

First Instalment of the Money Paid by the Egyptian Debt Commission.

Paris, March 28.—The refusal of the French government to endorse the use of the Egyptian reserve fund for the purposes of the Nile expedition was based on the fact that France did not consider a vote of the majority of the Egyptian debt commission to be sufficient to warrant the use of that fund for the expenses of the expedition. It is understood that Russia refused for the same reason. Some of the French bondholders have summoned the debt commissioners to appear before the tribunals on April 19.

London, March 28.—The foreign office is informed that the Egyptian debt commission has paid the first installment, from the reserve fund, amounting to $1,000,000, of the money required for the expenses of the British-Egyptian expedition up the Nile.

Hancock Statue.

Washington, March 28.—The bronze statue of Gen. Hancock is now being put in position in the small park at Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh street. The statue was modelled by Henry J. Ellicott of this city and cast by the Gorham company at Providence, R. I., and is in fourteen parts, which are being put together and the whole work will be completed in the course of a week. The figures are of heroic size and the entire work has cost $49,000.

To Vacate Its Charter.

Nashua, N. H., March 28.—Pursuant to the requirement of the bank commissioners in their report regarding the Granite State Provident association Attorney General Eastman has filed an information against that organization with the clerk of the Hillsboro county court, thus instituting quo warranto proceedings to vacate

Nerve

Excitement, overwork and worry are ruining the health of thousands of women. Pure Blood is required to feed the nerves, a good appetite and digestive strength are demanded to keep the body strong and vigorous, and to restore the exhausted energies there must be sound and refreshing

Sleep

By its power to respond to all these needs Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself the greatest friend of women. Thousands write that they have been given health and strength by its use. It is the great blood purifier, and consequently the true nerve tonic.

"I feel that I should be wanting in common gratitude should I fail to tell the benefit my wife has derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. She became seriously ill from running ulcers, caused by poorness of and was strongly advised by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. She said it had cured her and would no doubt cure my wife. So we tried it, and to say that its effect is wonderful, is only using a mild expression. It appears to be building up a new constitution for her; and, as we are a family of eleven, there are eleven of us rejoicing at the result.

"If the foregoing induces only one person, suffering in the same manner, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I shall feel more than rewarded." ELIJAH PACKER, 585 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

GOV. DRAKE INTERVIEWED.

He Says Iowa Is for Allison—About the Opposition to Champagne.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Gov. Drake of Iowa, who is here with the party from his state to attend the launching of the battleship Iowa to-day, was interviewed with reference to the republican presidential nomination. He said: "We are all for Allison in Iowa and we are going to do all we can to secure him the nomination for president by the republican convention at St. Louis. We believe he is the man for the place and for the times, and that he will faithfully serve all the best interests of the country. We have no second choice. Any one from Iowa who would go to the national convention with a second choice would be anathematized. Senator Allison is our first and only choice. The republicans of Iowa are fully organized, and they are going into the contest to win. We think he occupies the best position and that his chances are better than all of the other distinguished gentlemen who are candidates for the high office."

The Protest Against Champagne.

When asked about the protest against using champagne at the christening to-day, the governor seemed surprised to learn that the matter had gained publicity. He said: "My daughter received letters from the president and secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance union of Iowa protesting against the use of champagne in the christening of the battleship Iowa. She replied that she was in hearty accord with the principles of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, but that she had no control over the programme; that she believed that the programme had been arranged and that she would find on reaching Philadelphia all the arrangements for the christening had been completed. She further stated that doubtless the secretary of the navy had determined that matter and she could not interfere with what had been decided upon by that official."

NO STRIKE EXPECTED.

Believed That the Philadelphia Traction Trouble Will Soon Be Settled.

Philadelphia, March 28.—A committee representing the dissatisfied employes of the Union Traction company waited upon President Welsh last evening. The conference lasted over an hour, and the men left to report the result to their comrades, and an appointment was made to meet Mr. Welsh again this afternoon. The committee, so far as they were individually concerned, told Mr. Welsh that they had no grievances, but were there as representatives of those who had. Mr. Welsh advised them to try to bring them all over to their way of thinking. The general feeling of the traction officials is that the men will take no harsh measures, and that an amicable adjustment of the differences will be reached. A committee of colored men headed by ex-minister to Hayti Durham also visited President Welsh and asked that the Union Traction company consider the question of employing colored men as motormen and conductors. Mr. Welsh did not give his callers any encouragement.

WHITES KILLED BY MATABELES.

The Wildest Rumors in Circulation Regarding the Uprising.

Cape Town, March 28.—Advices received here are to the effect that several whites in outlying places are reported to have been killed by Matabeles. It is assumed that the outbreak is partly due to the stringent measures recently adopted to stamp out rinderpest in Rhodesia. The fondness of the Kaffirs for their cattle is well known, and the killing of them in attempts to stamp out rinderpest has excited much discontent. A dispatch from Johannesburg, in the Transvaal, says that the wildest rumors are in circulation there regarding the rising. It is hinted that the Boers stirred up the Matabeles against the British, but this rumor is declared here to be baseless.

MRS. BOOTH AT PITTSBURG.

Fifty-five Recruits and $500 for the American Salvation Army.

Pittsburg, March 28.—Over 500 people listened to Mrs. Ballington Booth, wife of the deposed head of the American Salvation Army and leader of the new volunteer movement, at the Alvin theatre last evening and as a result of her appeals she left for New York with $500 and fifty-five names of prominent men and women from the audience who enlisted their names in the new organization.

He Laughed on the Scaffold.

Georgetown, Tex., March 28.—Matt Mootrey, colored, was hanged here yesterday afternoon in the presence of 4,000 people for the murder of Andrew Pickryl, a Bohemian farmer, last May. Mootrey confessed his crime, but did not seem to think it justified hanging. He caused the people to laugh over his reference to a game of cards with a white man in which he said his hand was stolen. He also laughed heartily himself.

Big Lease of Coal Lands.

Greensburg, Pa., March 28.—A. B Copeland of Parnassus has just completed the largest lease of a contiguous tract of coal land on record in the United States. A. B. Copeland represents a syndicate of capitalists and has secured 12,000 acres of coal land in northern Westmoreland and Allegheny counties. Work will begin within a few weeks.

Ex-Police Captain Devery Acquitted.

New York, March 28.—The jury in the case of ex-police Captain Devery, who has been on trial for a week past charged with accepting a bribe brought in a verdict of acquittal last evening. The jury was out nearly twenty-four hours.

SITUATION REVIEWED

How the Fight for the Republican Nomination Stands To-day.

M'KINLEY STILL HOLDS THE LEAD

J. H. Manley Predicts That the Blaine Campaign of Twenty Years Ago Will Be Repeated, Only That Ohio Will Lose to Maine.

Boston, March 28.—The letter received by Hon. W. Murray Crane at the republican state convention yesterday afternoon from Hon. J. H. Manley, summing up the situation in the race for the republican presidential nomination is as follows: "In answer to your inquiry, this is the situation as it will stand at the end of this week. At the close of your convention to-day there will have been 398 delegates elected. Gov. McKinley will have 162 delegates, provided you assign to him the entire delegation from Wisconsin, Indiana and Minnesota, but there should be taken from this number twelve delegates from those states who have declared since their election in favor of Mr. Reed, and as they were not instructed, they should be taken from the McKinley column and placed in Mr. Reed's. This gives Gov. McKinley 150 delegates; Reed, 72; Morton, 64; Allison, 38; Quay, 26; Cullom, 10; contested, 36. You will see that this gives McKinley 150 delegates against 210 anti-McKinley delegates. The situation is precisely as it was twenty years ago. You will remember that three months before the convention met at Cincinnati we were confident of Blaine's nomination. He stood then as the apostle of protection, but he had opposed to his nomination Senator Conkling of New York, Senator Morton of Indiana, Secretary Bristow of Kentucky, Gov. Hayes of Ohio and Gov. Hartranft of Pennsylvania. We felt so sure of Blaine's nomination that we regarded it as settled, and yet he was defeated in the convention, and the Maine men went down before the Ohio governor. History will repeat itself at St. Louis. Gov. McKinley is and will be the leading candidate in the convention, but he will have opposed to him as candidates Gov. Morton of New York, Senator Allison of Iowa, Senator Cullom of Illinois, Senator Quay of Pennsylvania and Speaker Reed of Maine. You will find that the tables will be turned and the Ohio governor will go down before the man from Maine."

BAY STATE REPUBLICANS.

Resume of the Work Transacted at the Convention in Boston.

Boston, March 28.—The republican state convention yesterday declared for Reed for president, for sound money, protection with reciprocity, the independence of Cuba, a firm foreign policy, restriction of immigration and against the use of public money for sectarian schools. The platform also favored the United States building and holding the Isthmain canal and carefully guarding our interests in Hawaii. The paragraph in the platform endorsing Reed is as follows: "Massachusetts republicans have never undertaken to pledge or bind their delegates to a national convention. We do not intend to do so now. We think it is fitting to declare our decided preference among the candidates for the republican nomination to the presidency. We present to the national convention for nomination as president, and we urge all our delegates to give their earnest, united and active support to a fearless leader, tried in many hard conflicts, a man of national reputation, of unblemished character, unswerving republicanism, and great abilities, the Hon. Thomas B. Reed of Maine." The convention was entitled to 1,002 delegates, and 1,851 were present. Hon. Samuel W. McCall of Winchester was permanent chairman.

Republican Efforts to Capture Texas.

Austin, Tex., March 28.—There is talk here of a political move, which, if successful, it is claimed will wheel Texas into the republican presidential list of states this year. An effort is to be made to have the republicans and populists fuse, the republicans to support the populist ticket for all state officers upon condition that the republican electors are placed on the populist ballots.

Instructed for McKinley.

Minneapolis, March 28.—The first congressional district has elected A. D. Gray of Preston and L. S. Swenson of Albert Lea, delegates to St. Louis. They are instructed for McKinley.

DR. PETERS WILL RESIGN.

He Intends To Go to Somaliland in the Service of Another Country.

Berlin, March 28.—Dr. Peters, the African explorer, against whom grave charges have been made against his conduct as an official of the German colonial government, intends to resign from the German service no matter how the judicial inquiry into his conduct ends. He will go to Somaliland in the service of a foreign country.

Not Known in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Nothing can be learned here to-day concerning the identity of Georgeanna Bissell, the young woman who gave her address as 53 Jackson street, Philadelphia, and who was found suffering from morphine poisoning in the hallway of a Brooklyn, N. Y., house Thursday night. There is no one by the name of Bissell who lives, so far as can be learned, at any of the several Jackson streets in this city.

Fast Day in N. Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., March 28.—Gov. Busiel has issued a proclamation designating April 9 as fast day in New Hampshire.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of California, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

D. A. Pell, who was recently appointed by Governor Griggs keeper of the State prison, is still in doubt whether or not to accept the position. He did not know of the intention of the Governor to appoint him.

A correspondent in another column of today's Press suggests the name Watchung for the consolidated city and borough. Plainfield is good enough, and Plainfield it will remain even when the 'greater" is accomplished.

Assemblyman Reed, of Somerset county, has proved himself one of the best qualified legislators in this State. Since Senator Thompson has retired from active politics and has accepted a position as clerk of the court of chancery, the Republicans of Somerset county could not do better than to elect Mr. Reed to the Senate.—Elizabeth Journal.

THE SWEETEST MUSIC.

Perfect Rendition Given by the Syracuse Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs.

The large and appreciative audience that occupied every available space at Monroe Avenue chapel last evening were given a rare treat by the Syracuse Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs. It is seldom that a Plainfield audience enjoys a programme in its entirety, but such was the case last evening and every number won a hearty encore. The glee club has attained a perfection that is truly delightful, their voices blending in the sweetest harmony, while the mandolin and banjo clubs rendered their parts in a thoroughly pleasing manner. The clubs are small, comparatively, but the music more than repays for the quantity usually found in other clubs.

The Young Men's Association of the chapel deserve unbounded praise for their efforts to furnish the residents in that section and their friends with an evening of genuine pleasure.

Should the clubs ever come to this city again a much larger auditorium would no doubt be necessary to accomodate those who would like to attend.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, Walter S. Arthur, Raymond A. McGee and Fred Phillips very kindly looked after the comforts of those present in providing seats, and the association decorated the chapel very prettily with the college colors, purple and yellow.

The following editorial is from the pen of ex School Commissioner John W. Slauson, of Middletown, N. Y., who was intimately associated with Mr. Baxter in educational work. He is now editor and proprietor of the Middletown Daily Press:

We are glad to note that the name of our old friend, Charles J. Baxter, was sent to the New Jersey Senate Tuesday morning by Gov. Griggs for the important office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. No doubt New Jersey has many excellent men for this position, but the Governor could not have found a better one than Mr. Baxter. He is a born school man, and with his technical knowledge of the science of teaching, he combines administrative and executive ability of a high order. Mr. Baxter taught the school at Otisville in this county for several years, and was always foremost in all teachers' work and organization for the improvement of teachers and the elevation of the profession. For several years past he has had a lucrative and responsible position with the Provident Life and Trust Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, with his home at Plainfield. We congratulate Mr. Baxter upon his preferment and Gov. Griggs upon the wisdom of his selection.

Cantata to Be Sung.

On Sunday evening there will be a special service at the First Baptist church. The choir will render entire Dr. Stainer's work, entitled "The Crucifixion." The Rev. Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone, D. D., the rector of the Church of the Holy Redeemer, will preach a sermon in keeping with the solemn subject of the cantata, and appropriate for the beginning of Holy Week.

—Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., met last evening and received two propositions for membership.

—The West End Club have organized by electing James Gray president, Charles Gulick, vice-president, John Gray, secretary, and Frank McComas, treasurer.

—The Union Tire Company, 132 East Front street, have sold a four-horse power upright steam engine to Vogeler, the West Front street butcher, and it will soon be in operation.

—There is a very attractive list of 'specials" in Edsall's advertisement for tonight's trade, and plenty more displayed at his store to be seen besides, all of which means a great saving to patrons of this popular trading place.

THE M. E. CONFERENCE.

Question of Permitting Women to Be Lay Delegates Will Be Decided Today.

The interesting feature of yesterday's session of the Methodist Episcopal Conference in St. Paul's church, Newark, was the balloting for delegates to the General Conference to be held in Cleveland, a few months hence. There were many candidates in the field. Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz, President of Drew Seminary, secured 139 out of 196 votes cast on the first ballot. Four other delegates will be elected today.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society held its meeting in the afternoon. Mrs. Sarah E. Drake, of Jersey City, presided, and Rev. Dr. Louis A. Banks, of Brooklyn, delivered an address on "Some American Heathens." Reports from the presiding elders of the various districts, showed a large increase in the number of communicants, an increase in the number of churches and missions, and an increase in the finances.

The laymen held their conference in the Franklin Street church, Newark, and elected the following delegates to the General Conference: Samuel Sterling, W. H. Beach and Dr. Robert R. Doherty, of Jersey City; Oscar Jeffries, of Washington, N. J.; William H. Murphy, of Newark, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Plainfield.

The conference decided yesterday morning to vote today at noon on the question of admitting women as lay delegates to the General Conference at Cleveland, next May. It was decided that no ballot shall be counted on any question unless cast personally. Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton reported $125,000 as the share of the Methodist Book Concerns profits in 1895, for superanuated clergymen.

Easter Week Union Services.

Union services will be held in the various churches during the coming week as follows: On Tuesday evening in the First Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock, the sermon by Rev. Robert Lowry, D. D.; Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Baptist church, the sermon by Rev. M. E. Dwight; Friday evening at 7:30 in the Grace P. E. church, with addresses by different pastors.

Rankin Again for Mayor.

Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, seems likely to be renominated for Mayor without opposition—says The World. No candidate has yet appeared in the field against him. The newspaper war waged upon him recently has "made him solid," the politicians say, with the German American vote, and nobody else could win the primaries from him.

Address on Rescue Work.

RIGHTS OF A DRIVER.

Judge Lippincott Makes a Rule About Travel on Trolley Tracks.

Judge Lippincott filed an opinion Tuesday in the Supreme Court in the suit of Edmund W. Reeves against the Consolidated Traction Company. Reeves secured a judgment in Hudson county, for damages resulting from a collision between a traction car and his horse and wagon, for the value on the horse, wagon and harness. The traction company brought the case to the Supreme Court on certiorari.

The Supreme Court decision affirms the judgment of the Common Pleas Court. In the opinion of Judge Lippincott, the following rule in regard to contributory negligence is laid down:

"A person traveling with a horse and a vehicle on a street traversed by electric trolley cars has the right to make use of the tracks upon which such cars are propelled whenever the necessary and customary use of the street requires or permits him to do so; and it is not, perse, contributory negligence for him to turn off from one track into and upon the other track in a street in which double sets of tracks are laid, to allow a car to pass, if whilst so doing or whilst he is endeavoring to turn back again, he is struck by a car running upon the other track. The fact that he turns to the left to allow the car to pass is not of itself contributory negligence."

the ghastly terror of consumption stares a man in the face who neglects a cold.

SPORTS

AT THE TRAPS.

The first annual Empire target shoot of Neaf Apgar and Charlie Hebbard will be held on the grounds of the Elizabeth Gun Club, March 31st, and April 1st and 2d. The tournament is open to the world, with no handicap. All shooting will be at known traps and unknown angles. There are eight events for each of the three days. In connection with the tournament there has been issued a little book of paramount interest to the shooting fraternity, which contains pictures of all the principal shooters in the country, among whom are Neaf Apgar, Thomas H. Keller and Charles Smith, of this city. The tournament will be one of the big events of the sporting world in this section of the country.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company received a shipment of ten Cleveland wheels yesterday.

Among the latest purchasers of wheels from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company are Elmer E. Runyon, a Cleveland, model 22; J. B. Schoonmaker, George Grieb, Bridgeport, C. W. MacQuoid, Cleveland, model 22; Miss Williams, of Westfield, a Crescent No. 10; Fred Mantz, a Victor.

INS AND OUTS.

Practice of the baseball team of the High School will begin on the Crescent Oval next week. Beside the baseball team, a tennis team will be formed this year, and match games will be played with teams from the other schools of the league.

Dunellen.

Mr. Staples has gone to California for a visit.

C. Meeker will move into H. V. Dunham's house on Fairview avenue.

Mrs. Maier, of North avenue, has been visiting her sister at Bound Brook.

Mrs. Emily Apgar has been entertaining her son, Charles Apgar, of Westfield.

The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in the Presbyterian church on Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Luckey, of Prospect avenue, are entertaining relatives from Philadelphia.

Miss Jennie Bolton, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harman, has returned to her home in Somerville.

Improvement in Church Music.

The orchestra of the Park Avenue Baptist church has been enlarged by the addition of several proficient instrumentalists, all the parts now being well balanced. Under the new leadership of Joseph Sattells the members have achieved an efficiency which makes the orchestra the finest amateur organization in the county. An exceedingly fine programme has been arranged for Easter; the orchestra, consisting of sixteen men, will render selections from "The Creation," from Von Weber's Farmer's Masses. Programme in full will be printed next week.

Co-operative Association to be Organized.

A public meeting of those who are interested in co-operation will be held in the rooms over the City National Band on Thursday evening, April 16th, for the purpose of taking the necessary steps to organize a Co-operative Association.

Asbestos Club Spread.

The Asbestos club had a spread yesterday afternoon, honoring the eighty-fourth birthday of Isaac Brown, the oldest member of the club. The event was jolly one for all who attended.

—Drive out the impurities from your blood and build up your system by creating an appetite and toning the stomach with Hood's Sarsaparilla, if you would keep yourself well.

—A drama entitled "High, Low, Jack and the Game," was presented at the Bound Brook Hall, Bound Brook, last evening, to a fair sized audience by an amateur troop from this city.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AMATEUR SINGERS.

They Should Attempt Ambitious Feats In Public with Caution.

The average American to-day knows more of music than he did 20 years ago and only those who have worked for years under the guidance of the best masters feel like playing for others not within the innermost circle of admiring friends. But, alas! the case seems to be quite reversed in singing. How often have we made one of a band of unhappy but smiling victims, forced to listen to some otherwise charming girl, who, after perhaps not more than one quarter's lessons, tries to entertain a room full of company, totally unconscious of her cruelty! A partially trained voice is at times most beautiful, but is lamentably at the mercy of circumstances. A slight cold; a close room; a little nervousness—what horrible visions of failure they conjure up! But look at the experienced artist. He is also mortal, but he has learned to cover up little defects; knows just what his voice will and will not do, and so makes himself master of the situation.

Singing should be perfectly natural, but we are constantly straining after effect, and trying to make our untutored voices perform feats which only years can accomplish. Some little unpretentious ballad in our mother tongue sung to friends who enjoy it for the singer's sake as well as the song's, may give ever so much pleasure; but a German, French or Italian mate skill that the music alone brings unless rendered with such consummate skill t hat the music alone brings out the composer's thought, might much better be played on a violin. By all means study the works of the masters, but do not try to interpret them for others until you can handle your voice at will. Another thing is to keep in mind that a good voice and a correct ear are not the only necessary attributes of the successful singer. Schumann says: "The most important thing for a musician is to cultivate his inner sense"—that indescribable some thing which compels others to feel what you feel. The artist must have it, or who will buy his bits of canvas and patches of color? The writer must have it or who will wade through his effusions? The speaker must have it, or his audience will be gathering the fleecy coats from the occupants of far distant pastures instead of his gems of thought. The pianist must have it, or his music will simply act as a stimulus to conversation. Alas, then, for the singer who has it not! He may as well use a speaking trumpet to address his hearers or turn the crank of a phonograph. When you tingle all over with the feeling of the song, are swayed by it, lifted out of yourself—then, and not until then, are you singing. If you are only making certain sounds according to the directions of your singing master, you are wasting your breath.

Many people have this real musical gift, but it is latent and waits to be developed; therefore, my plea is for more cultivation among amateur singers. Why should you not work as industriously as those who play the piano? If people will listen to your voice uncultivated, why should you stop there and never develop the grander possibilities within reach?—The Outlook.

THE FAMILY BATHROOM.

An Indispensable Adjunct to a Well-Ordered Household.

It is one of the most surprising things in the world why people who have the ordinary comforts of life should build houses without bathrooms.

The farmer needs the bath much more than his city neighbor, and could have it at a small cost. A bathtub is not expensive, and with a good force-pump and a barrel or two as head water, can be arranged without the aid of skilled labor. If the house is already built and there is no room for the bathtub, it might be put into the kitchen, or even into the family living room. A heavy curtain or a strong screen could conceal it, and, when not in use, a cover could be closed down over it, and it would be quite out of the way. But a little ingenuity and work will fix it in fine running order in any ordinary dwelling.

There are many houses where there is a range, with hot and cold water, but no bathtub. This is an omission that should not be tolerated. A small tank, with force-pump and drainage, can be supplied for a very little money, and if the house is not warm enough to keep this without freezing, it is time some measures were taken to insure anti-freezing conditions.

A well-equipped bath-room, with closet, can be arranged in any dwelling where there is even a tolerable supply of water. The kitchen sink can drain through the pipes, the water from the weekly wash will clear them out, and if there is proper ventilation and a suitable outlet there will be nothing unsanitary in the outfit.

Of course, the more water the better, but as every house is, or should be, supplied with a never-failing well, the muscle expended in pumping is very well used in this direction. By all means have the health, comfort and safety of the family provided for by proper and sanitary bathroom and closet arrangements.—N. Y. Ledger.

He Got an Answer.

For grave speeches of importance delivered with weight, Bismarck was, of course, most celebrated. When annoyed he nearly always adopted a jesting tone, which must have sounded to his frightened friends much as if the tiger in the menagerie had greeted them with a cordial handshake before devouring. "Do you mean to break the convention of Gastein?" bluntly demanded the Austrian ambassador, Count Kurolyi, of the Prussian minister-president. "No," replied the latter, with great directness, "but even if I did so, do you think I should be such a fool as to tell you?"—Detroit Free Press.

For Her Color.

It was a great event for Daisy when her little sister was born. Her delight was unbounded. At the same time she felt a great increase of age and dignity, and announced to her mamma that she no longer wished to be called Daisy, but by her own name—Isabel.

"We called you Daisy when you were the baby," said mamma, "because you were so fair and sweet that you reminded us of a daisy. Can you not think of some pretty flower that your little sister resembles?"

Daisy meditated for some time, and then gravely replied:

"I think we might call her Currant."—Youth's Companion.

Why He Paused.

"I ought to have known better than to come here," said the departing drummer to the landlord. "I was told beforehand that it was a one-horse town."

"Well, there's no use of kicking now," was the placid response.

"No. I just wanted to stop long enough to express my sympathy for the horse."—Washington Star.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Expert Opinion

The Canadian Government recently sent an appraiser to the principal bicycle factories in this country, to determine the exact value of various makes for import into Canada. After an exhaustive investigation, his report to his Government rated

Robbery of Life as Well as Money.

One of the Worst of Modern Swindles—Stones for Sufferers Who Want Bread.

If a doctor should prescribe candy and other sweets for each young girl who came under his professional care, he would probably be called, by these patients at least, "an elegant doctor."

If your child was desperately ill, and you knew that only some nauseous mixture would effect a cure, you certainly would not hesitate to give it, simply because of its taste. Suppose the druggist would think only of pleasing your child and should give you some mixture of honey, only labeling it with the name of the disagreeable remedy! What would you think of such a man? You would say he was willing to risk the life of the child simply for the sake of pleasing.

We all know what wonderful power cod-liver oil has over a number of diseases. It is also well known that no human skill can completely remove all its peculiar taste. Yet there are a few unscrupulous manufacturers who are so anxious to have a perfectly "tasteless" mixture, that they will leave out the cod-liver oil. They label their bottles as some "tasteless cod-liver oil," and yet there is not a particle of oil present. That is why it is tasteless. They believe you have confidence in their statements, and so are perfectly willing to deceive you if only they can sell their goods. Is such a course anything but a criminal one?

A perfectly tasteless preparation of cod-liver oil cannot be made. We have been making emulsions for twenty years, and we can speak with authority. The nearest approach to it is found in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites. This preparation contains the very best cod-liver oil with nearly all the fishy taste removed. Only a trace of it remains: enough to be detected, but not enough to make the mixture disagreeable even to the most sensitive stomach. This is why sick people find no trouble in taking Scott's Emulsion, and it also explains why so many persons recover their health under its use.

Nearly twenty-five years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion discovered a process of emulsifying or partially digesting cod-liver oil, so as to remove from it almost entirely its obnoxious fishy taste and smell, and at the same time increasing its food and remedial properties. They found also that by combining the Hypophosphites with it that they added still further to its power.

Since that time thousands of imitations have come into the field, but the original has never been equalled in its great strengthening, healing and flesh producing powers. The medical profession have obtained results from it probably unequalled by any other remedial agent.

COPYRICHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

"The—er—humiliating situation in which we find ourselves, gentlemen—the reluctant witnesses of—er—what we trust is only a temporary disagreement between our charming hostess and the—er—gentleman whom she had recognized under the highest title to our consideration—is distressing to us all, and would seem to amply justify that gentleman's claims to a personal satisfaction, which I know we would all delight to give. But that situation rests upon the supposition that our gathering here was of a purely social or festive nature!

"It may be," continued the colonel, with a blandly reflective air, "that the spectacle of these decanters and glasses, and the nectar furnished us by our Hebelike hostess," he lifted a glass of whisky and water to his lips while he bowed to Mrs. Brant gracefully, "has led the gentleman to such a deduction. But when I suggest to him that our meeting was of a business, of private nature, it strikes me that the question of intrusion may be fairly divided between him and ourselves. We may be even justified in view of that privacy in asking him if his—er—entrance to the house was—er—coincident with his appearance among us."

"With my front door in possession of strangers?" said Clarence, more in reply to a sudden contemptuous glance from his wife than Starbottle's insinuation. "I entered the house through the window—"

"Of my boudoir, where another intruder once broke his neck," interrupted his wife with a mocking laugh.

"Where I once helped this lady to regain possession of her house when it was held by another party of illegal trespassers, who, however, were content to call themselves 'jumpers' and did not claim the privacy of gentlemen."

"Do you mean to imply, sir," began Col. Starbottle, haughtily, "that—"

"I mean to imply," said Clarence, with quiet scorn, "that I have neither the wish to know nor the slightest concern in any purpose that brought you here, and that when you quit the house you take your secrets and your privacy with you intact, without let or hindrance from me."

"Do you mean to say, Mr. Brant," said Judge Beeswinger, suppressing the angry interruption of his fellows with a dominant wave of his hand, as he fixed his eyes on Clarence keenly, "that you have no sympathy with your wife's political sentiments?"

"I have already given you the information necessary to make you quit this house, and that is all you have a right to know," returned Clarence, with folded arms.

"But I can answer for him," said Mrs. Brant, rising with a quivering voice and curling lip. "There is no sympathy between us. We are as far apart as the poles. We have nothing in common—but the house, and his name."

"But you are husband and wife—bound together by a sacred compact!"

"A compact!" echoed Mrs. Brant, with a bitter laugh. "Yes! the compact that binds South Carolina to the nigger worshiping Massachusetts! The compact that links together white and black, the gentleman and the trader—the planter and the poor white—the compact of those United States!—Bah—that has been broken and so can this!"

Clarence's face paled. But before he could speak there was a rapid clattering at the gate and a dismounted vaquero entered excitedly. Turning to Mrs. Brant, he said, hurriedly:

"Mother of God! the Casa is surrounded by a rabble of mounted men, and there is one among them even now who demands admittance in the name of the law."

"This is your work," said Brooks, facing Clarence furiously, "you have brought them with you, but, by God, they shall not save you!" He would have clutched Clarence, but the powerful arm of Judge Beeswinger intervened. Nevertheless, he still struggled to reach Clarence, appealing to the others. "Are you fools to stand there and let him triumph! Don't you see the cowardly Yankee trick he's played upon us?"

"He has not," said Mrs. Brant, haughtily; "I have no reason to love him or his friends—but I know he does not lie."

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" implored Col. Starbottle, with bearing and unctuous persuasion, "may I—er—remark—that all this is far from the question. Are we to be alarmed because an awkward rabble, no matter whence they come, demand entrance here in the name of the law? I am not aware of any law in the state of California that we are infringing. By all means—admit them."

The gate was thrown open. A single, thick-set man, apparently unarmed and dressed like an ordinary traveler, followed by half a dozen others equally unpretentious-looking men, entered. The leader turned to the balcony.

"I am the chief of police of San Francisco. I have warrants for the arrest of Col. Culpepper Starbottle, Joshua Brooks, Capt. Pinckney, Clarence Brant and Alice, his wife, and others charged with exciting to riot and unlawful practice calculated to disturb the peace of the state of California and its relations with the federal government," said the leader in a dry, official voice.

Clarence started. In spite of its monotonous utterance it was the voice of the red-bearded controversialist of the stage coach. But where was his characteristic beard and hair? Involuntarily Clarence glanced at Judge Beeswinger: that gentleman was quietly regarding the stranger with an impassive face that betrayed no recognition whatever.

"But the city of San Francisco has no jurisdiction here," said Capt. Starbottle, turning a bland smile towards his fellow members. "I am—er—sorry to inform you that you are simply trespassing, sir."

"I am here also as deputy sheriff," returned the stranger, coolly. "We were unable to locate the precise place of this meeting, although we knew of its existence. I was sworn in this morning at Santa Cruz by the judge of this district, and these gentlemen with me are my posse."

There was a quick movement of resistance by the members, which was, however, again waved blandly aside by Col. Starbottle. Leaning forward in a slightly forensic attitude with his fingers on the table, and a shirt frill that seemed to have become of itself erectile, he said with pained but polite precision:

"I grieve to have to state, sir, that even that position is utterly untenable here. I am a lawyer myself—as my friend here—Judge Beeswinger—eh? —I beg your pardon!—"

The officer of the law had momentarily started, with his eyes fixed on Judge Beeswinger, who, however, seemed to be quietly writing at the table.

"As Judge Beeswinger," continued Col. Starbottle, "will probably tell you—and, as a jurist himself, he will also probably agree with me when I also inform you—that as the United States government is an aggrieved party, it is a matter of the federal courts to prosecute, and that the only officer we can recognize is the United States marshal for the district. When I add that the marshal, Col. Crackenthorpe, is one of my oldest friends, and an active sympathizer with the south in the present struggle, you will understand that any action from him in this matter is exceedingly improbable."

The general murmur of laughter, relief and approval was broken by the quiet voice of Judge Beeswinger.

"Let me see your warrant, Mr. Deputy Sheriff."

The officer approached him with a slightly perplexed and constrained air and exhibited the paper.

Judge Beeswinger handed it back to him.

"Col. Starbottle is quite right in his contention," he said, quietly: "the only officer that this assembly can recognize is the United States marshal or his legal deputy. But Col. Starbottle is wrong in his supposition that Col. Crackenthorpe still retains the functions of that office. He was removed by the president of the United States, and his successor was appointed and sworn in by the federal judge early this morning."

He paused, and folding up the paper on which he had been writing, placed it in the hands of the deputy. "And this," he continued, in the same even voice, "constitutes you his deputy, and will enable you to carry out your duty in coming here."

"What the devil does this mean, sir? Who are you?" gasped Col. Starbottle, recoiling suddenly from the man at his side.

"I am the new United States marshal for the southern district of California."

Typhoid Fever.

 Rapid Convalescence

is experienced in this slow and dangerous disease, when the patient's strength is properly maintained until the crisis is passed. Don't force the stomach and other organs already weakened by sickness to wear themselvess out in a vain attempt to obtain nourishment from improper foods. Feed the sufferer with milk and that great food product. It is absorbed immediately into the system with the least possible effort on the part of the various organs. Besides making new flesh and blood, it strengthens all of the vital centres, enabling them to expel existing poisons. It is a germicide, and antidotes the fever microbes. In addition, its beneficial effect on the ulcerated condition of the bowels, so common in this disorder, is marvellous.

DOHLMAN'S INTELLIGENCE.

Bob Whitaker's Horse to be a Feature of the Orange Circus.

Robert Whitaker, the well-known bareback rider, whose home is in Plainfied, has charge of the ring performance of the Orange amateur circus. He will figure on the programme as "equestrian director," and will also appear in the ring as a performer. His trained horse, Dohlman, will also be one of the attractions offered.

There are a number of daring, dashing riders in the club and they are fast learning how to do their acts under Whitaker's guidance. He declares that the amateurs pick up the art of bareback riding surprisingly fast and ventures the opinion that the ring part of the performance will be better than many given by professionals.

Dohlman, Whitaker's horse, is no common animal, although he is by no means a thoroughbred. It is doubtful if he could, if gifted with the power of speech and the ability to write, prove his ancestry back further than his sire and dam, but his intelligence covers these omissions. He is a white animal, whose back, broad and firm, shows no trace of the liberally sprinkled rosin that is always put on the slippery hair of a circus horse to enable the artist to stick to his back.

Dohlman has his valet all the year round, and his own trunk, a huge affair that has in its ample space all sorts of blankets, sponges, medicines, lotions and a liberal supply of sugar, for this educated animal is very fond of sweets. He will pluck from between his master's lips a cube of sugar as cleanly and gently as ever gallant lover caressed a fair maiden. The horse is the apple of Mr. Whitaker's eye, and Mr. Whitaker is the object of Dohlman's solicitude. One of the duties of the horse's valet is to see that after each meal the teeth are carefully brushed with the special brushes made for that purpose, and after each performance he is bathed and pedicured.

Our Indians.

"Our Indians" is the title of a strong article by Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary of the Interior, published in The Youth's Companion of March 26th. Perhaps there is no national theme which arouses more quickly the sympathies of all fair-minded Americans. The Indian who once had complete liberty to hunt and occupy this fair land has found the United States Government a master whom he cannot understand. Secretary Smith gives much valuable information about the present condition and prospects of the Indians, their increasing numbers, their education, and indicates the position of the present national administration toward them.

CLUB WOMEN PROTEST.

They Had No Intention of Influencing Legislation, They Say.

The members of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's clubs are much stirred up over the report sent out by some correspondent in Trenton that the proposed constitutional amendment giving to women the right to vote at school elections was instigated by the organization as a move in favor of universal suffrage.

The club women, who are not all suffragists by any means, disclaim all responsibility for the measure, and declare that at the suggestion of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, the secretary, a vote of sympathy with the movement was passed during the recent convention in Trenton. The members declare that in taking this action they had no intention of influencing legislation.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARD.

The Trustees Meet and Elect Officers For the New Year.

The school trustees of North Plainfield Township met last evening in the office of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage company on North avenue, and organized by electing Robert Clark, Jr., president and W. H. Morris, clerk. The following committees were then appointed by the president:—Auditing, P. Voorhies, Ed. Luckhurst, Theo. Lewison; repair and supply, Frank Mobus, P. H. Acker, John Doty; teachers, first district, P. H. Acker, Frank Mobus, W. H. Morris; second district, Ed. Luckhurst, John Doty, W. H. Morris; text books, first district, Theo. Lewison, P. H. Acker, Robert Clark, Jr., second district, P. Voorhies, John Doty, Ed. Luckhurst.

After the trustees had ordered warrants drawn to pay the teachers' salaries, the meeting adjourned to meet Friday, April 24th.

Scalded by Steam.

A. I. Smalley, of Somerset street, met with an exceedingly painful accident at the stone crusher of Smalley Bros., Washingtonville, yesterday afternoon. He was inpecting the steam pipe of one of the numerous drills, and the engineer not knowing that he or anyone else was there, turned on the steam in full blast. The steam struck Mr. Smalley in the face, scalding him terribly, closing one eye. He was taken to his home and Dr. Carman was summoned, who gave proper treatment. It is not thought that Mr. Smalley will lose his eyesight, although his face may be disfigured for sometime.

Albert Woolsey's Suicide.

Albert Woolsey, a farmer, living near Bound Brook, attempted suicide on his farm yesterday morning by cutting his throat. The doctor found the man in a precarious condition. His wound was dressed, but he is likely to die. No cause is given.

Miss Libby Joseph, of Manning avenue, entertained about a dozen friends at her home last evening. Games and dancing helped to pass the time very pleasantly.

The card has been removed form the house of Peter Doeringer, of Duer street, as his daughter, Eva has entirely recovered from her recent illness of dyptheria.

BANK PRESIDENT BEALS

The Great Financier Found Health in Paine's Celery Compound.

Prominent among the New England men whose brains and energy have helped to make the western states rich and powerful is General David T. Beals, president of the Union National Bank, of Kansas City. Successful in his many enterprises, he lives today in a fine mansion at the corner of Independence and Wabash aves.

The work and the responsibility incumbent on the President of so important a banking institution as the Union National would endanger the sturdiest health. Gen. Beale's clear headedness and good sense were as manifest in the choice of a remedy as in his business enterprises. He strengthened his tired nervous system by the use of Paine's celery compound. Its invigorating, health-giving effects justified his expectations, and showed in his own case the remarkable power of this much-discussed remedy for thoroughly restoring and strengthening the "run down" system.

"I found Paine's celery compound an agreeable tonic and soothing to the nerves," says General Beals.

These are the concise words of commendation characteristic of the conservative business man and the influential banker, who has learned to weigh well his words.

The scanty sunlight and the stagnant, used-up air of living rooms during the winter reduces the strength and nervous energy, especially of persons employed constantly indoors. The need—the absolute necessity—of a genuine invigorator at this spring season has impressed itself on the attention of all thinking people.

In the famous laboratory of Dartmouth Medical School, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., discovered the formula of Paine's celery compound, a remedy that has become the standard nerve restorer, blood purifier, and strengthener from one end of the country to the other, a preparation that stands unrivalled as the medecine that makes people well.

It is a fact much commented upon that men and women of national reputation and prominence, like Gen. Beals, State Treasurer Colvin, of New York, Mr. Carlisle's private secretary, Mayor McShane of Montreal, Rev. Fr. Ouellet, Com. Howell, ex-Minister to Austria John M. Francis, and a host of others who are careful what they employ when sick, and have the amplest opportunities for finding out what is best, have of their own accord sent letters describing fully their permanent recovery from rheumatism, heart weakness, sleeplessness, debility, kidney troubles, and diseases of the stomach and liver. In all these cases Paine's celery compound was the one remedy that was able to completely and permanently bring back health, make poor blood again rich and pure, and regulate and build up the nervous system when weakened and deranged.

An Admirable Arrangement.

An arrangement has been made by the employment committee of the Organized Aid Association with E. F. Holmes, whereby he agrees to give work to four or five men each week in his woodyard for one day's labor. This has been a great help to the association. In one or two cases sufficient work has been given in this way to enable the husband to pay house rent. More work in this way is greatly needed. The woodyard has proved a help in testing a man's disposition to work.

Almost 200 Sewer Connections.

ANOTHER SUCKER DUPED

A WISCONSIN FARMER FOOLED ON THE GREEN GOODS GAME.

Visited Bound Brook With Confidence Men and Gave Them $1,000 in Good Money for a Lot of Tinted Paper.

Bound Brook has again been selected by the green goods men as the base of their operations. Owing to the many fast trains on the three railroad lines that pass through it they can easily escape after the usual confidential transaction is made.

This time the victim is a Milwaukee farmer, and the confidence men hail from New York city. Six weeks ago B. D. Y. Andrews, who says he lives on a farm near Milwaukee, Wis., received a letter from a green goods man in the metropolis quoting counterfeit money at the rate of $13,000 for $1,000 in Treasury notes. Andrews had just fallen heir to $1,200, and he proved an easy victim. With $1,000 to purchase the counterfeit money with and $200 in Treasury notes to "mix in," Andrews could easily figure it out how a fortune could be made, and in imagination he saw himself already a capitalist.

The circular stated:—"For instructions telegraph Mr. Antis, West street, New York." Andrews wired him, "Answer, best terms." He received a reply at once that the above were the lowest possible rates. Correspondence was carried on until he decided to come to Jersey.

It was agreed that Andrews should arrive in Phillipsburg Saturday, where he was to be met by the "bunco" man.

Andrews arrived on the nine o'clock train. According to directions, he seated himself in the station. A red ribbon tied to his vest made his identity known to the swindler, who soon arrived. The two took a stroll over to Easton, where the swindler told Andrews he would show him how easy it was to pass the bills. They made several purchases, and each time the swindler handed out a $10 bill and was given legal tender in change. Andrews, presuming that the bills were genuine, became anxious and requested that the exchange take place.

"Antis" suggested that Bound Brook was a good place to make the exchange, and the two left on the 11:13 a. m. train. When they arrived at Bound Brook they were met by two men and a carriage. After an introduction and a handshaking performance the trio entered the carriage and were driven into the country. On returning to Bound Brook, and just before the 2:14 p. m. train was due, the swindlers counted out the $13,000, placed it in the usual tin box, which was locked. Andrews then handed over his cash.

The driver was told to whip up his horse and they arrived just as the train began to leave. Andrews succeeded in boarding it, and when the train had gone several miles he attempted to open the box. The key would not fit and he became suspicious.

He broke open the box and found it contained a one dollar bill and a lot of tinted paper. When the train reached Flemington Junction the man alighted and returned to Bound Brook on the 6:45 p. m. train, but failed to obtain any clue as to the whereabouts of the swindlers. He said he was afraid to inform the police, fearing arrest, and left on a late train for his home, where he will endeavor to earn what he has lost by honest toil.

Look Out for a Surprise.

The next church sociable in the Seventh-Day Baptist church will occur on Wednesday evening and as the affair has been turned over to the young men of the congregation a novel affair will undoubtedly be the result. You know Wednesday is April Fools' Day, so look out for a surprise.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of property have been recorded in the Union County Clerk's office from March 19th to 25th:

Joseph B. Coward et ux. of Plainfield, to Julia A. Paff, of Fanwood, tract, road from Scotch Plains to Rahway, $1,575; Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company to the Central Railroad Company, tract 300 feet. Grant avenue, Plainfield, $1; Adeline Broadway to Peter Neuman, Plainfield, lot, La Grande avenue, Plainfield, $4,700.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me. For sale at Armstrong,'s Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

M'KINLEY THEIR CHOICE.

New Jersey Republicans for the Ohio Candidate.

Since the adjournment of the Legislature there has been an increase of interest in the Republican State and Congress district conventions to elect delegates to the St. Louis Convention, says the Sun. The First, Second, and Fifth district conventions will meet in Trenton on April 16th, the day of the State Convention. The Fourth district convention probably will be called for the same date and place. Some of the political leaders express a belief that the holding of district conventions outside the districts may result in contests in the National Convention. The call issued by the State Committee says that district conventions must be held in the same manner as conventions to nominate members of Congress, which are held within the districts.

There will be a hot fight over the election of three district delegates from Essex county. Newark and East Orange compose the Sixth Congress district, while the rest of the county, with Union county, and the city of Bayonne, in Hudson county, make up the Eighth Congress district. One of the delegates from the Eighth has been assigned to Essex county, and William Riker, Halsey M. Barrett and Andrew W. Bray, representing rival factions, are candidates. Riker will receive the aid of the regular party workers and probably will be successful. Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, will be chosen from Union county to represent the sister district. The candidates are Charles Bradley, Elisha B. Gaddis, Frank Parker, all of Newark, and George E. Halsey, Henry L. Potter, Joseph L. Munn, J. Frank Fort and Joel W. Hall, of East Orange.

The Essex county leaders believe that Charles Bradley and Mr. Fort will be successful, but the Republicans known as the "Herold faction" are preparing for a hard fight and express confidence in their ability to break any slate made by the regular Republican organization.

The sentiment among the voters is decidedly in favor of McKinley as the Presidential candidate, and this is largely shared by the leaders, several of whom express fear that the McKinley sentiment is so strong that it will be difficult to prevent some of the district conventions instructing in favor of the Ohio man. None of the leaders can remember that a New Jersey State Republican Convention ever has instructed its delegates, and any attempt to so this year will be opposed.

The leaders are giving considerable attention to the boom of Garrett A. Hobart for second place on the ticket, and predict that with McKinley and Hobart as the candidates Democratic New Jersey would give between 30,000 and 40,000 majority for the ticket. His friends say that because of his prominence as Vice-Chairman of the National Committee and his strong protection and sound money views Mr. Hobart would show equal strength in other states. Mr. Hobart will not admit that he is a candidate for second place.

Some of Mr. Hobart's friends believe that he would not be willing to accept the nomination, as it would take him out of the race for United States Senator in 1899, when Senator Smith's term will expire. Others who are close to Mr. Hobart believe he will prefer eight years as Vice-President to six as Senator, as they believe that he would be almost certain of re-election.

THE VETERAN WILL FIGHT.

An Elizabeth Democrat Means to Hold on to a Comfortable Place.

Jacob Sheppard has been clerk of the District Court in Elizabeth for some years. He is a Democrat and a war veteran. When Governor Griggs appointed City Attorney E. S. Atwater, a Republican, judge of the court in place of Judge P. H. Gilhooly, Clerk Sheppard announced his intention of retaining his position under the Veteran Soldier act. A bill was put through the Legislature empowering District Court Judges to appoint their own clerks. Friday Judge Atwater decided to appoint James C Calvert, when he took office on April 1st. Sheppard says he will fight the case to the end. Calvert is a member of the Republican City Executive Committee and prominent in the party.

Dr. Denning and brother, of New York, are visiting Dr. C. R. Thiers, of Grove street.

A. W. TenEyck, of Westervelt avenue, is quite ill, being threatened with pneumonia.

Miss Sophie Rudd, formerly of this city, will give a party at her present home in New York this evening. A number of her Plainfield friends are invited and expect to attend.

WHAT FAITH WILL DO.

NO MATTER HOW SMALL IT WILL LEAD TO SOMETHING BETTER.

Dr. A. V. D. Raymond Preaches an Interesting and Helpful Sermon in the Crescent Avenue Church Last Night.

The many friends of Rev. Dr. Raymond, formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of this city, now President of Union College, Schenectady, were glad to see his genial face in the Crescent Avenue church pulpit yesterday morning and evening. The weather being less unpleasant toward night, a large congregation gathered for the evening service, and listened to a strong and interesting sermon.

Dr. Raymond's text was John 9:35-38: "Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him he said unto him, dost thou believe on the Son of God? She answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him? And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee. And he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him."

We all remember the story of the blind man who who healed on the Sabbath, and then was turned out of the synagogue. He did not know that Jesus was the Messiah, he only thought him a prophet. But when tempted to deny the miracle, the Pharasies saying that Jesus could not have healed him, for he was a sinner he would not deny the one who had restored his sight. He was true to what little knowledge he possessed. And now this interview with Jesus meant new knowledge, larger knowledge for him. The lesson for us is obvious. Larger knowledge always comes to the one who is true to what he has already. All the possibilities of Christian development are locked up in the smallest seed of faith. How much is necessary, to bring a harvest that shall feed multitudes?

A little thing that you can hold in your hand. God never dispises the day of small things. A great blaze of enthusiasm has been kindled by a single spark in one man's heart. A little faith, if it is living, is just as real as a fully developed faith. The question is not, does a man believe this or that, but does he believe anything at all, in a way to influence his whole life toward God? Out of the faith the disciples had in Jesus as a man, grew their faith in Him as the Son of God. The man in our story tonight began by believing in Him as a prophet, and ended by believing in Him as the Messiah.

There must be some real faith to start with. It need be only a germ, but the germ must be there. The trouble is not so much men's denying the doctrine of the inspiration of the Bible, as their losing faith in it as a helpful book. If a man denies the divinity of Christ, but believes that Jesus of Nazareth was the best man that ever lived, one that it would be well for all men to copy, if that man will put himself under the influence of Jesus of Nazareth, and try day by day to be like Him and to follow His teachings, the Savior will reveal His divinity to that man.

If you want to believe much, begin by believing a little with all your hearts, and you shall "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Appearances Count for Nothing.

Rev. A. I. Martine, of Dunellen, addressed the annual meeting of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-School yesterday afternoon and during the time he was talking he held the attention of his little auditors by his very interesting remarks. His address was of a missionary nature, the tenor being to prove that no matter how bad outside appearances might be, there was a heart in everyone's body, and that heart when touched by the word of God might be productive of much good.

To Fight Saloons.

The success of John Klopf in stealing a march on the Mountainside women temperance workers, and securing a license, has emboldened another resident to attempt the same tactics. But by some means the scheme leaked out, and at a meeting of the Endeavorers a committee was named to keep its eyes open to forestall the effort. The borough considers one saloon sufficient.

Death of Mrs. Connelly.

Mrs. Bridget Connelly died at her home on West Third street, yesterday. She was the wife of Patrick Connelly, who has lived in this city for a great many years and has been a member of the T. A. B. Society for 42 years. Mr. Connelly has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in his affliction. The funeral will be held from the house, 627 West Third street, Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock and at St. Mary's R. C. church at 9 o'clock.

SERMON ON THE CANTATA

A BEAUTIFUL SERVICE IN THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

The Crucifixion Was Rendered in a Faultless Manner by the Choir—Dr. Johnstone Preaches on the Same Subject.

The beautiful and very religious cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer, M. A., Mus Doc., was rendered in a faultless manner last evening by the choir of the First Baptist church. Every seat in the large auditorium was taken and the service was especially helpful and interesting. The solo parts were grandly rendered by Miss F. May Grant, soprano; Mrs. Knight, alto; Mr. Smith, tenor, and Wm. Holmes, basso, while at different times the chorus assisted in making the rendition one of great pleasure to all. Under the direction of Organist E. J. Fitzhugh and C. W. McCutchen the sweetest harmony was produced and the general opinion was that no finer work of the kind has ever been given in this city.

Those who composed the choir were: Sopranos, Miss F. May Grant, Miss Bessie Blair, Miss Spear, Miss Petrie, Miss Swain, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Miss Allis; altos, Mrs. Knight, Miss Nancy Randolph, Miss Florence Kline, Miss Bertha Needham, Miss Grace Bonny, Miss Alice Needham; tenors, C. W. McCutchen, E. B. Ryder, L. H. Biglow, Jr., Mr. Smith; bassos, B. T. Barnes, Wm. Holmes, Geo. Snedicker, Harry Drake, Edward Kline.

After the rendition of the cantata, Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone, of the Church of the Redeemer, preached a powerful sermon from the text "They Crucified Him." In part he said:

On the other side of the water in a noted place their hangs on the wall a picture representing the theme which has been so grandly rendered by the choir tonight. That scene which was enacted at Jerusalem 1900 years ago, has a lesson for us. We see Mary Magdalene. She loved much because much had been forgiven her. This theme has been painted by many hands, as the great representation of human hate. There is nothing so holy and tender as a little child. No woman or mother can stand by and see a little one suffer. Millions of men are now looking back 1900 years and they see Jesus Christ slain for us. They see Him in pain and agony. His prayer showed that He was divine. He suffered the very pains of hell. His words were full of meaning which we shall never fathom, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." He gave words of comfort to the thief, "Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise." There is no condemnation to those that are in Christ Jesus. We should stand under the shadow of the cross. God is our friend and lover. Men, women or society never forgive, but Christ does and He has died for us. The service closed with the singing of a hymn and the benediction.

NO INJUNCTION YET.

The Contractors Are Rapidly Building the Trolley Line.

The plan of Contractor L. W. Serrell, who is building the extensions to the Plainfield Street Railway, worked like a charm and the work on the trolley road was continued today without hindrance. On Saturday the track was completed on East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Washington street. The heavy rain that fell Sunday was just what was needed to settle the earth that had been heaped over the tracks.

Many of the workmen who had proved so unsatisfactory Saturday were discharged and paid off this afternoon and a new gang of about sixty were brought to Plainfield early this morning and set to work.

The men have not been regularly organized yet, but a number of those who worked for the contractors before are expected back and the laborers will then be systematically organized and more work done. At two o'clock this afternoon the track was laid nearly to Franklin place and the ground was broken as far as Richmond street. The work went along more rapidly than on Saturday as the men became more used to it. The force was increased to 170 today.

Superintendent Yarnell told a Press reporter this afternoon that it was expected to complete the track as far as Richmond street before work was stopped. The rest of the Netherwood extension will be completed as fast as possible, and when everything is in working order the contractors expect make 1,200 feet a day.

—Mecca Temple, Mystic Shrine, will meet tomorrow night at New York. A number from this city will attend.

—All bills against the city must be in the city clerk's hands by tomorrow night.

NO MISSION IN THE SUMMER.

But Col. Hadley Says That Rescue Work Will Begin Again in the Fall.

Col. H. H. Hadley, of St. Bartholomew's Mission, New York city, delivered an interesting and instructive talk on Rescue Mission Work, in Grace P. E. church last night before a fair sized congregaton.

In his remarks, Mr. Hadley said that during the three months trial of the mission work in this city, fully thirty men and women had been brought to see the error of their way.

The three months lease of the quarters runs out soon and as no other quarters suitable for the purpose can be obtained at present, the work will be suspended until next fall, when the workers hope to have a building of their own completed. He desired as much support in the fall for the work as had already been given it, and said that the workers will labor with as much zest and will, when the work does begin in the fall, as they have hitherto.

The speaker related several interesting anecdotes about a number of cases which have come to his personal observation, and told how, after many weeks, months and years of sin, they had come forward to be cleansed by the blood of Jesus Christ. "More drunkards," said the speaker, "go to St. Bartholomew's Mission than to any church or mission in New York city."

Col. Hadley says he has never received one cent of commission out of all collections taken for the mission work.

A DRUMMER TALKS.

Not the Man of Sticks But of the Grip and Persuasive Voice.

There was a good-sized audience at the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall when Francis C. Harder related some of his experiences as a traveling salesman. He has been on the road for twenty-five years and in that time considerable has transpired.

Previous to the talk, P. Ludwig Conde, violinist, accompanied by Frank Raynolds, rendered two very fine solos.

Mr. Harder said that the average salesman traveled 35,000 miles. Some men averaged a few dollars comparatively in sales while others run up as high as $100,000 in one sale. Drummers are represented as jolly good men, with lots of money, and not as saints. At the same time they are not the worst men living.

Mr. Harder then went on to prove his text, "Whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap," by giving a large number of personal cases where men had sown wild oats and had reaped years of the deepest sorrow and finally filled a drunkard's grave. Profanity, he said, was one of the greatest evils among drummers. Some of them are always waiting to tell a vile story, and nothing but the grace of God keeps a man pure when obliged to be in such company.

A person don't have to go to New York to drown themseves, they can do it in some parts of Green brook, and so it is with small sins. They lead on to greater ones and then death. The speaker said that he was forty-two years old, and that since he was seventeen years of age he had only been out of work one-half day.

The service closed with a prayer by Mr. Sampson.

IN THEIR NEW HOME.

Organized Aid Association Has Moved Into the House Presented to Them.

The office of the Organized Aid Association has been removed to the building, 544 West Front street, recently given for the use of the Relief Association and the Organized Aid Association.

The Superintendent of the Organized Aid Association will be at her office every morning between 9:30 and 11:30. The Employment Bureau of the Organized Aid Association will have its office in the Boys Club building on North avenue until further notice. The office will be open every morning, except Thursday, from 9:30 to 11:30. The names of men and women desiring work by the day, whose references have been investigated, can be obtained at the employment office.

—This is the time of the year that everyone of the gentler sex wants to buy a pair of kid gloves for Easter. Louis Callman's Bee Hive Bazar advertisement treats of this subject. Read it.

—At the several masses in St Mary's church yesterday the congregations were large, considering the inclement weather. At the 10:30 service Father Murphy blessed the palms, after which they were distributed to the people by the altar boys. Father Smyth read the Passion of our Lord, and announced Rev. Father Stafford as the speaker for Wednesday evening. The music was of the usual high order.

A GOOD TIME FOR VETS.

AND THEIR WIVES AND SONS WERE THERE ALSO TO ENJOY IT.

Several G. A. R. State Officials Make a Visit to Major Anderson Post—Addresses Made by Visitors and Comrades.

Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., gave Department Commander Henry S. White and a portion of his staff a royal reception Saturday evening in their rooms on Park avenue. This is the first time in a long while that department officers have visited Plainfield, officially, and the event was a memorable one. Post No. 109 also had as their guests about forty members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, and a delegation from John Hand Camp, Sons of Veterans.

Commander Joseph T. Dunham, of Post No. 109, occupied the chair. He called on Rev. L. E Livermore, of Post No. 109, to take the chair for the evening.

Mr. Livermore upon assuming command spoke a few words of welcome. He extended to all a cordial greeting, and said in part: We are glad to see you here and meet you on such an occasion. As comrades, we have sustained a noble country and the best Republic on the face of the earth. We stand as free men, and discard all those things which are unworthy. If the United States today should say to Spain, hands off from Cuba, Spain could do nothing else. If she should say to England you must arbitrate, England would do it. It is not always a question of party, but the fact that it is our Republic.

Department Commander H. S. White was then introduced and made a few stirring remarks. He reviewed briefly the work accomplished in the department during the past year, and remarked that all ought to feel encouraged and stand shoulder to shoulder.

Department Chaplain C. E. Hill gave a short address in which he complimented the officers and comrades for their efficient work.

At times he became humorous and his witticism was greatly enjoyed.

At this time Mrs. Asa Collier rendered a choice vocal solo accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mary Collier, on the piano. She was obliged to respond to an encore.

The speech-making was then continued and Adjutant-General H. C. Terhune was introduced. His remarks were full of wisdom and advice, and he dwelt at length upon the value of comradeship. Dr. M. S. Crane, of Newark, department medical director, followed in a vein of humor and his jokes brought forth hearty applause. He thought that after listening to all the remarks he was unable to tell whether he was a Republican, Democrat, Prohibitionist, Baptist or Methodist, and came to the conclusion he was sadly mixed. After an excellent vocal solo by Past Commander W. C. Smith, of Post 73, Major Rogers, Superintendent of the the Soldier's Home, at Kearney, Essex County, was called upon and made a few excellent remarks. Assistant Adjutant-General John Chandler, of Red Bank, and Commander I. L. McVoy, were introduced and made remarks appropaiate to the occasion.

W. R. Mattox, of Post 73, won applause for his admirable rendition of "Barbara Fretchie," and H. S. Thatcher, of the Sons of Veterans, was called upon and gave a parody on "Barbara Fretchie" that was well received. The members of Post 109 then took charge and served coffee, sandwiches, cake, bananas, oranges, and cigars. During the refreshments genuine Grand Army sociability reigned supreme. Former incidents were recalled, some with sadness and some with joy. It was nearly twelve o'clock when the visitors departed, but all agreed that they had enjoyed themselves immensely.

—An important meeting of the Exempt Fireman's Assaciation, will be held in their rooms tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at which time the nomination of officers will take place.

Not to be Trifled With.
(From Cincinnati Gazette.)

Will people ever learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling systems. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park and North avenue.

AGAINST THE SALOON

New York's New Liquor Law Enforced at Many Places.

A VERY DRY SUNDAY AT BROOKLYN

273 Violations Out of 4,000 Dealers—Buffalo and Niagara Falls Wide Open. The Law Generally Observed Where Enforced.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 30.—After the clocks had chimed the hour of midnight the Raines liquor law was in force in Brooklyn. The mandate had gone forth from the police commissioner and district attorney that the law would be strictly enforced and every saloonkeeper within the jurisdiction of the police was notified to comply with its provisions. That they did so was apparent everywhere, and saloon side doors and all were closed tight and every facility was given to the police to observe that it was not a pretense but a positive fact. Blinds were drawn in all the liquor stores, and in cases where glass panels obstructed view of the bar from the street they were thrown open. Never in its history as a city has Brooklyn experienced such a dry Sunday. The restaurants and clubs were just as dry as the saloons. People who were accustomed to visit a favorite restaurant for their Sunday dinner found their supply of wine unexpectedly cut off. Not a cold bottle was to be had anywhere, which was particularly galling to men whose liberty in this respect had never before been interfered with. Their complaints were loud and long and will eventually reach the legislature. Even in the outlying sections of the city, where, it was thought, an effort would be made to defy the law, the liquar dealers reluctantly obeyed. There are over 4,000 saloons in the city and all of them except 273 complied with the provisions of the Raines bill. A notable feature of the day was the number of people who surreptitiously drew dark-colored bottles from their pockets and drank some of their contents. The streets in some localities were strewn with these bottles lying about empty.

New York City Saloons Closed.

New York, March 30.—The provisions of the Raines law were not enforced here yesterday, but the saloons were generally closed, as the crusade recently adopted against them was not relaxed.

Dry Sunday at Utica.

Utica, N. Y., March 30.—Not within the last twenty years have the places where liquor is on sale in Utica been so tightly closed as they were yesterday The saloonkeepers were told Saturday night what they must do, and only one of them violated the law. No arrests were made. As far as possible the interiors of the saloons were exposed to view, and in those parts of the city where the liquor places are the thickest the streets had a new and peculiar appearance. Crowds of people, mostly young men, who were shut out from their ordinary places of resort passed much of the day upon the streets.

Every Saloon Closed.

White Plains, N. Y., March 30.—The authorities here decided to enforce the Raines excise law yesterday and every saloon was closed and the bars exposed. This is the first time that an excise law has been so strictly enforced here.

Music Halls Wide Open.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 30.—Notwithstanding the Raines bill, saloon and music halls were wide open and running full blast yesterday, and the Sunday was as "wet" as ever. No attempt whatever was made to enforce the law.

No Interruption at Elmira.

Elmira, N. Y., March 30.—No one in Elmira would have known yesterday that the Raines law was in force. The saloons did their usual Sunday business unmolested. Mayor Collin says he has not had time to examine the measure, hence the inactivity of the authorities.

Raines Bill Denounced.

New York, March 30.—A mass meeting of east side residents to express indignation at the passage of the Raines bill was held in Concordia hall yesterday afternoon. Speeches were made by Assemblyman Kempner, Civil Justice Roasch and others. Resolutions were passed denouncing Gov. Morton, the legislature and Mayor Strong for their approval of the measure.

New Liquor Law Enforced.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., March 30.—The Raines excise law was enforced in this city yesterday with but little trouble. It is reported by the police that only about 2 per cent. of the saloonkeepers failed to observe the provisions of the law. Two or three of those who failed to do so will be arrested in order to test the validity of the law at the present time.

Buffalo's Thirsty Supplied.

Buffalo, March 30.—The provision of the Raines bill requiring the closing of saloons on Sunday was not enforced in this city yesterday and bars kept open as usual. It is considered likely however that the law will be put into operation before next Sunday.

Raines Bill Not Enforced at Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 30.—No attempt was made here yesterday to observe the provisions of the Raines excise law. President Sturges of the board of trustees, when seen this morning, said that he did not interpre the law as taking effect until May 1. Until that time, he said, nothing would be done.

Troy and Albany Wet.

Albany, March 30.—No effort was made either in Troy or Albany to enforce the provisions of the Raines liquor law yesterday.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN OHIO.

An Aged Wealthy Couple Murdered and Three Others Dying.

Cleveland, March 30.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning a crime of almost unparalleled atrocity was perpetrated near Talmadge, a village five miles north of Akron. Alvin Stone, aged 69, and his wife, aged 62, while sleeping at their home were brutally murdered by a fiend, who literally beat their heads to pieces, after which numerous knife thrusts were made into the bodies of the dead. Two daughters, Hattie, aged 29, and Emma, aged 27, and the family man servant, A. F. Stillson, were also attacked. All three of these were fatally injured and lie at their home, awaiting death. They had been beaten about the head with a blunt instrument, which must have been of great size and weight. Alvin Stone was one of the most wealthy and prominent farmers in Summit county and his wife was also a member of one of the wealthiest and most prominent families in northeastern Ohio. The object of the murderous assault on the family was not robbery, as numerous articles of value, including two gold watches of the aged people, which were on the bedroom dresser were not taken.

Discharged Chores Man Suspected.

The crime is shrouded in mystery and the whole country is agitated. The only suspicion as yet rests on one John Smith, who is employed at Edward Parler's blacksmith shop, one-eighth of a mile from the Stone homestead. Smith was discharged by Alvin Stone two weeks ago. The former was a chores man about the place. The two men had very angry words and Smith departed in great anger. He is now under police surveillance. One member of the family alone escaped injury—Flora, the youngest daughter, aged 16.

Bloodhounds on the Trail.

The whole neighborhood for miles around is aroused, and the Akron police department has been called into service on the case. Bloodhounds have been secured, and committees have been organized to scour the country in every direction. There is but one fate in store for the murderer if he is captured by the citizens who are searching for him, aided by the bloodhounds. This morning a strong clue leads towards Ravenna, where a strange horse and buggy were left by an unknown man, who acted very suspiciously.

THE MATABELE UPRISING.

Not So Serious as Reported, But Still the Situation Is Alarming.

Cape Town, March 30.—According to advices received here the rising among the Matabeles is not so serious as the first dispatches portended, but there is, nevertheless, much anxiety as to what the final outcome will be. A dispatch received last night from Buluwayo, the principal town of Matabeleland, says that thus far twenty whites have been killed by the natives. Sir Hercules Robinson, governor of Cape Colony and high commissioner in South Africa, has cabled to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in London that Capt. Nicholson telegraphs from Buluwayo that he has 350 rifles and plenty of ammunition. Capt. Nicholson thinks that the revolt will not spread. The only detachments of the native police who are known to have certainly deserted are thirty who shot Commissioner Bently. Another thirty were restless and were disarmed, after which they deserted.

Victims Horribly Mangled.

Cape Town, March 30.—Among the victims of the Matabeles was a family consisting of a husband and wife, three grown daughters and three sons. Commissary Bently and three other persons massacred were terribly mutilated. After death their faces were covered with dried grass, which was then set on fire, rendering their features unrecognizable. A late dispatch from Buluwayo said that it was feared an attack would be made on that place last night.

THE LANGDON CASE.

Chemist's Report on the Analysis of Annie McGrath's Viscera Expected To-day.

Philadelphia, March 30.—There is nothing new in the Langdon case, and until the chemist who is making an analysis of the blood and viscera of Annie McGrath reports the result of his work it is unlikely that anything will crop out. It is expected that the chemist will be ready to report this afternoon, but, as previously stated in these dispatches, it is likely that he will report that he has been unable to discover any traces of poisoning. The police still seem to adhere to the belief that Langdon is in some way responsible for the girl's death, and they will probably try to hold him and have an indictment returned against him.

One Fireman Fatally Injured.

Newark, N. J., March 30.—While hook and ladder truck No. 3 was going to a fire last evening it collided with a trolley car, and the driver, Dennis Guidera, received injuries which, it is thought, will result fatally. Seven other firemen who were on the truck at the time jumped just before the crash came, and all escaped injury. The truck was wrecked, and the front of the trolley car was badly damaged.

Two Killed by Falling Walls.

Cleveland, March 30.—A terrific wind storm, lasting only two minutes, sprang up yesterday afternoon and created considerable havoc. The walls of the six-story Kimball building which was burned the other day were blown down upon the dwelling of H. A Vaughn, crushing it into ruins, instantly killing Mrs. Sarah Bradford and Miss Emma Dietrich, who were in bed asleep. Five other people sleeping the house were injured.

The Pope Reported Ill.

Rome, March 30.—It is reported that the pope is seriously ill.

PINAR DEL RIO FALLS

Insurgents Capture the Stronghold of the Spaniards.

DESPERATE BATTLE AND MANY KILLED

Rebel Victory Due to the Skill of the American Gunners Landed by the Steamship Bermuda—Torch Applied to the Town.

New York, March 30.—A special correspondent of a morning paper sends the following from Havana: "Pinar del Rio has fallen. The stronghold of the Spanish army in the western part of the island was taken by the insurgents Friday. There was a desperate fight and many men on both sides were killed and wounded. Only the meagre news of the battle has been received in Havana, and the details at this moment cannot be obtained. What news has been received was sent to the captain-general by the officer in charge of the garrison at Pinar del Rio, after his troops had been utterly routed and while the insurgents were applying the torch to the city. At the palace absolutely nothing has been given out. The most that can be obtained there is confirmation of the story that there was a fight. The Spanish officials will not state the result of the battle nor have they furnished the local papers with an official note of it. This, in itself, is sufficient to confirm the report of Spanish defeat, for the authorities never lose any time in giving out the complete details of victories for their side.

Won by American Gunners.

"The Cuban sympathizers have received information from the scene of battle. The report made to them states that Gens. Antonio Maceo and Calixto Garcia were in command of the rebel forces. The hot fighting was done by the American artillerymen who came to Cuba on the Bermuda filibustering expedition for the express purpose of working the Hotchkiss and Gatling guns brought on the steamer. Without the assistance of the Americans Pinar del Rio would not have fallen. It was only the deadly fire sent into the town by the Gatling and Hotchkiss guns that saved the day for the insurgents. The Spanish garrison consisted of 4,000 men and the attacking force had fully 9,000 besides the sharpshooters and other skilled men of war who came on the Bermuda.

Spanish Troops' Condition Serious.

"Following his usual policy, Gen. Maceo did not hold the town. He simply destroyed it, and then passed out to some other place. Exactly where he is at present is not known. The Spanish troops in the province of Pinar del Rio are now without a refuge from the rains, malaria and yellow fever which sweep over that part of the island during the rainy season and which are so fatal to those who are not acclimated. It is predicted that if the war extends far into the rainy season the yellow fever will carry off the Spanish troops in groups. The news of the fall of the city was brought to the city of Havana by mounted couriers. They must have ridden for their lives to get here as they did, as the scene of action is close to 100 miles from this city."

SALVATION ARMY WAR.

Mrs. Tucker May Call on Her Brother Ballington Booth To-morrow.

New York, March 30.—Major Pattie Watkins, who had been ill for some days and who said she was threatened with pneumonia, presided at a meeting of the American Volunteers, over whom Ballington Booth has assumed command, at the Cooper Union institute building last evening. Miss Watkins was clad in her new uniform, which is of cadet blue material. The gathering was very large. A meeting of the followers of Ballington Booth was also held at the West Thirty-fifth street Tabernacle. The hall was crowded with the followers of Ballington Booth, and the greatest enthusiasm was displayed whenever his name was mentioned. The name of Ballington Booth's new paper has not yet been determined upon. Major J. Malan, who came over on the steamer St. Louis with Mrs. Booth-Tucker, presided over the meeting at the Salvation Army headquarters in Fourteenth street. Mrs. Tucker was said to be quite ill. It was reported that if she is able she will accept the invitation of Ballington Booth to meet him at his home at Montclair, N. J., to-morrow. A meeting of the staff officers will be held at Philadelphia soon, at which either Mrs. Booth-Tucker or her sister, Commissioner Eva Booth, will be present.

300 Men Made Idle.

Scranton, Pa., March 30.—By the burning Saturday night of breaker No. 4 of the Johnson Coal company at Priceburg, six miles from this city, three hundred men are thrown out of employment. The loss will be about $100,000. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Fire Loss on a Philadelphia Mill.

Philadelphia, March 30.—The loss sustained by the burning Saturday of the Glenmore worsted mills at Tenth street and Germantown avenue is now placed at $195,000, on which there is an insurance of $140,000. Three hundred hands are thrown out of work.

Average Catch of Seals.

St. Johns, N. F., March 30.—The steamer Newfoundland rarived here last nigt. She brings half a cargo of seals, equal to abou 25,000 young seals. She reports that over a dozen sealers are empty. This news indicates only an average catch.

Flood in Genesee River.

Rochester, N. Y., March 30.—The Genesee river is very high in this city, but no damage has yet been done.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

WEEK IN CONGRESS

Programme of the Work Before Both Branches.

APPROPRIATION BILLS IN THE SENATE

The House Also To Consider Like Work—Conference Report on Cuban Question Then To Be Called Up.

Washington, March 30.—The coming week in the senate will be devoted to the consideration of appropriation bills and routine business. The bill to approve the compromise between the United States and the state of Arkansas, which has been the unfinished business for two weeks, but which has not been passed, will be considered today. There appears to be little hope of its passing, and there likewise appears to be a disposition to devote today only to its consideration. The postoffice bill will be laid before the full committee to-day and an effort will be made to report it during the day. If this is done it will be called up in the senate te-morrow. The Indian and naval bills are before the committee on appropriations, and it is believed that the Indian bill will be reported before the week is out, although the house action relative to the appropriation for Indian schools is likely to cause some debate in committee. After the postoffice bill is disposed of, the senate will probably renew the discussion on Mr. Cannon's resolution directing the secretaoy of the interior to obey the law opening the Uncompaghre reservation to settlement. This, several days ago, was made the unfinished business after the Arkansas matter should be disposed of. The bill to protect the fur seals from extermination is demanding attention, and an effort will be made to take it up. The remainder of the week will probably be devoted to the consideration of bills on the calendar.

House of Representatives.

It is expected that consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill will be the first business of the house this week. The radical changes made by the bill will doubtless cause much discussion and several days may be spent over it. The reduction of the appropriation for continuing contract river and harbor work, and public buildings in course of construction, to a basis of eight months' operations, on the theory that the remainder of the year can be provided for at the next session of congress, will be attacked by the democratic members of the committee on appropriations. Other provisions, not so radical, will also be the subject of criticism, but no serious addition to the total carried in the bill is anticipated. When the sundry civil bill has been gotten out of the way Mr. Hitt will call up the conference report on the Cuban question, which recommends that the house agree to the senate resolution.

HAS PROBABLY CONFESSED.

Believed That Rech Has Admitted the Killing of His Wife.

Philadelphia, March 30.—John Rech, the suspected murderer of his wife at the hamlet of Estelville, N. J., who was arrested about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning in a little hotel just across the line in Montgomery country, it is probable has made a full confession, but the police refuse to deny or affirm this. Still, from various little circumstances, this refusal to affirm or deny it in all likelihood means that Rech has confessed. Rech was seen in his cell at the city hall by a reporter. The man is about 38 years of age, and is a well set up, good looking fellow of the ordinary type. While not overly intelligent, Rech seems clever enough, but, while giving no evidence of brutality, he seems to lack moral perception and to have little realization of the horrible crime of which he stands accused. He was not all wed to answer any question bearing directly upon his guilt or innocence.

NOT TO BE RECALLED.

Denial from Turkey Probably Referring to the Rumor About Its Minister.

Washington, March 30.—The Turkish legation has received the following telegram from the Turkish minister of foreign affairs: "The news telegraphed to the London Times about the Turkish legation at Washington being false, you may disregard it." The above undoubtedly refers to the dispatch from Constantinople to the effect that Mavroyeni Bey, the Turkish minister to this country, and his secretary were to be recalled.

French Political Situation.

Paris, March 30.—There has been no change in the political situation here since Saturday. The Temps, commenting upon the resignation of the foreign office portfolio of M. Berthelot, says that if the recent foreign policy was not a success the change has been inspired by Prime Minister Bourgeois, who is an able parliamentarian, but an inexperienced diplomat. Therefore Bourgeois in the foreign office will be more dangerous than was M. Berthelet. France must know who leads and where she is led.

Highest in Fifteen Years.

Senaca Falls, N. Y., March 30.—The water in the Senaca river has reached its highest point in fifteen years. Nearly every factory in this village and in Waterloo have their basements and first floors flooded.

Hearty Reception Promised Yale.

London, March 30.—The Daily News, commenting on the decision of the Yale navy to send a crew to take part in the Henley regatta, says that the Americans may rest assured that they will be given a hearty reception.

AS TO RECIPROCITY.

House Ways and Means Committee Receives Numerous Opinions.

Washington, March 30.—The ways and means sub-committee's queries to the commercial interests of this country on the reciprocity idea in tariff arrangements continue to attract widespread attention as shown in the numerous responses from leading organizations and from all sections. The investigation has resulted in an unprecedented expression of frank opinions and advice of a highly diversified character. From among the more important letters recieved in the past few days by the committee the following extracts are taken: Standard Oil company of New York: "We are not aware that reciprocity has materially affected the consumption of American oil one way or another. Several countries impose a large duty upon petroleum as a mere matter of revenue, which would not be helped by reciprocity, though a reduction of duty would undoubtedly stimulate consumption." Paterson, N. J., board of trade: "We consider it to the interest of our people to apply the reciprocity principle to future tariff legislation. By means of diplomatic negotiations, treaties may be arranged with many foreign nations by means of which the excess of production of American industries may find a profitable market." Pelton Wheel company, San Francisco, favor reciprocity most decidedly.

Wool Manufacturers Favor It.

New York & Cuba Mail Steamship company: "The reciprocity treaty enabled us to double our tonnage capacity to Cuba and yet carry full cargoes. Its abrogation left us with the increased tonnage capacity, but with less than half cargoes." National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Boston: "This organization believes most heartily in the general principles of the reciprocity clauses of the act of 1890, that they were most beneficial in extending the foreign commerce of the country, and favors their renewal at the earliest moment practicable."

EIGHT HUNDRED CONVERTED.

Flattering Success of an Evangelist's Work at Hornellsville, N. Y.

Hornellsville, N. Y., March 30.—This city has been swept by a wave of religious enthusiasm. Evangelist W. E. Geil, who has had flattering results conducting special evangelistic meetings throughout the state, finished last night a series of eighteen meetings held at the Shattuck Opera house, the average attendance being 2,000 nightly. Eight hundred people have pledged themselves to lead Christian lives, a large number of prominent and influential citizens being converted as well as those from the lower classes. The meetings and religion are the chief topics of conversation and the enthusiasm is intense. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Geil delivered a lecture on "Personal purity" to twelve hundred men. He endorsed the Raines bill as a move in the right direction, and suggested that the people opposing it should for one year give the money to their families that they usually spent in places the law expected to close. From here Mr. Geil will go to Oswego and will hold meetings in the state armory. On May 2 he leaves for Alexandria and the Holy Land to prepare a course of ten lectures on the life of Christ to be given in his next year's work.

INMATES DIE OF FRIGHT.

Exciting Scenes in a Burning Hospital in Lille.

Paris, March 30.—The Gothic church of St. Sauveur at Lille was destroyed by fire yesterday. The flames spread to the hospital of St. Sauveur, adjoining. There was the greatest excitement when it was seen that the hospital would be burned. The scenes among the patients were terrible. Those who were convalescent were hurriedly directed to leave the building, and the hospital attendants and others devoted themselves to removing those who were not able to help themselves. Four of the patients succumbed to fright and died before they could be taken out. The sappers who had been ordered to save the medicines in the hospital came across what they thought was a quantity of schnapps. They each took a drink and almost immediately seized with symptoms of poisoning. Physicians at once attended them, but, despite all their efforts, four of the sappers died.

Interesting Sessions Promised.

Albany, March 30.—The sessions of the senate this week promise to be exceedingly interesting. Those in th assembly will be devoted almost entirely to the advancement of purely local measures. Supplemental excise legislation will be considered by the senate committee on taxation and retrenchment on Wednesday afternoon. Senator Foley at that time intends to move out the bill allowing local option on Sunday opening in the large cities, and also the bill giving saloonkeepers relief from the court of appeals decision in relation to places within 200 feet of a church or schoolhouse. The anti-coal trust bills prepared by the attorney-general's office will again be reported from the senate judiciary committee early in the week, with amendments.

Flood at Dansville, N. Y.

Dansville, N. Y., March 30.—The heavy body of snow on the hills near here has melted rapidly under the influence of sun and rain and a flood is expected in the valley below. Creeks are bank full and the flats below the town are covered for miles with water nearly up to the railroad tracks.

One Vote for Quay, Then for McKinley.

Lebanon, Pa., March 30.—L. E. Weimer elected delegate to the republican national convention at St. Louis from Lebanon county says he will vote for Quay on the first ballot and afterwards for McKinley.

WITH MUCH POMP

The German Emperor and Empress' Visit to Italy.

LARGE RETINUE OF ATTENDANTS

Kneebs, the American Horseman, Must Remain in Prison Until the New Trial Granted Him Is Called—Other Gossip from Germany's Capital.

Berlin, March 30.—The imperial party in their visit to Italy are accompanied by a large and distinguished suite. Among those attached to the emperor are Gen. Von Plessen, Col. Engelbrecht and three aides-de-camp. Among the attendants of the empress are two chamberlains and two ladies of honor and the young princes are accompanied by three tutors. Court Pastor Drysander is also with the party for the purpose of officiating at the religious duties of Holy Week, and Court Painter Bohardt will make sketches of the coasts of Italy and Sicily, which will afterwards be produced in pictures commemorative of the trip. Leaving Naples on the 31st inst. on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern the emperor and empress with their suites will sail for Palermo. They will sojourn five days in Sicily and will sail thence for Venice, where a meeting will take place between the kaiser and King Humbert.

Playing Diplomacy with the Italians.

The enthusiastic reception given to the emperor in Italy is largely due to his own tact. Previous to his arriving in Genoa his majesty ordered the band of marines on board the Hohenzollern, which was awaiting him at Genoa, to give a concert for the benefit of the Italian soldiers who were wounded at the battle of Adowa in Abyssinia, the entertainment realizing a large sum. The kaiser also directed Prince Henry of Prussia to visit the wounded who were being treated in the hospital in Naples the day before he himself arrived there, and another concert will be given in Naples, where the emperor's popularity has reached a phenomenal intensity of enthusiasm.

Socialist Leader's Birthday Celebration.

The 70th birthday of Herr William Liebknecht, the socialist leader, was celebrated yesterday with unusual ceremony, the celebration being participated in by all the leading socialist deputies in the reichstag, the socialist members of the Berlin municipality and the officials of the socialist party. A grand banquet was held, at which 150 covers were laid and the chair in which Herr Liebknecht sat was garlanded with roses. The socialist group in the reichstag presented their venerable leader a bronze votive tablet inscribed: "To their senior, Wilhelm Liebknecht, on his 70th birthday, from the social democrats in the German reichstag." Herr Singer toasted Herr Liebknecht as "a soldier in the struggle for the liberation of humanity" and compared their dignified celebration of his natal day with the war jubilee and the druukenness of the German bourgeoise.

Kneebs Must Remain in Prison.

The action of the high court at Leipsic in quashing the conviction of Robert Kneebs, the American horseman, who was recently tried on the charge of "ringing" the American mare Bethel under the name of Nellie Kneebs on the German trotting courses was due to the fact that fifty-one witnesses, principally Americans, had tendered their testimony to the defense, but had not been heard by the lower court. The high court therefore quashed the judgment against Kneebs and ordered a new trial, pending which Kneebs will remain in prison.

Excitement Against England Renewed.

The changed situation in the Transvaal has reawakened the excitement against England. On all sides the preparations which the Boers are making to resist England's encroachments are approved. The consensus of opinion in the German press is that the denial of Mr. Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary, that England has purchased Delagoa bay is too vague to suffice, and it is pointed out, in support of this view, that Mr. Chamberlain has not denied that there have been negotiations between Great Britain and Portugal looking to such a purchase. The National Zeitung says: "England cannot suppose that the friendliness of Germany toward the Dongola expedition implies a pledge that she will remain passive in South Africa."

Count Von Bluementhal Ill.

The aged Count Leonhard Von Bluementhal, field marshal general and chief of the general staff of the Prussian army, is seriously ill with bronchitis. At his advanced age—he will be 86 on July 10—it is feared that he may not recover. Ex-Empress Frederick sends Count von Seckendorff, grand master of the ex-empress' court, daily to inquire as to the old soldier's condition and has ordered frequent bulletins to be wired to her.

Insurance Companies in Vermont.

Bellows Falls, Vt., March 30.—The report of the Vermont insurance commissioners, just issued, shows a material increase in life insurance premiums in this state during 1895. There has been a steady increase during the past five years. The assessment companies collected premiums amounting to $989,821.15, against $908,047,59 in 1894, and $689,546.30 in 1891. The accident and miscellaneous companies received last year $66,049.41.

Mills Closed Down.

Lawrence, Mass., March 30.—The Everett mills have shut down until Apr. 6. Agent Milligen announces that the stoppage is for the purpose of taking account of stock.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

March 31—Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, will open their new rooms in the Elkwood building.
March 31—Exempt Fireman's Association will meet.
April 1—Sociable at the Seventh-day Baptist church.
April 1—Fifth reception of the American Social Club at Central Hall.
April 1—Annual meeting of Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.
April 1—Grace M. E. church election.
April 1—Meeting of Young Friends' Association Evening.
April 4—Civil Service examination for Plainfield postal service. 9 a. m.

Tomorrow will see quite a revolution in Jersey judicial circles, when the Lay Judges will step down and out of office, and ex-Senator Thompson will begin the duties of clerk of the Chancery Court.

The New York Tribune this morning publishes a page of presidential preferences from New Jersey Republicans, though not one Plainfield man is quoted. Isn't the Plainfield man's opinion of any value?

It is a conceded fact that the major portion of church work is done by women, and it seems, therefore, that the rejectment, by the conference at Newark, of the proposition to permit women delegates at the General Conference, is a bit of heresy on the part of the men.

Rev. Dr. John L. Scudder, pastor of the Jersey City Tabernacle, in a prelude to his sermon last night about lobbyists, said: "A prominent Assemblyman of this county once frankly informed me that he sold his vote, as a matter of course, but, nevertheless, protested that he was an honest man and surpassed his associates in the Legislature, inasmuch as he sold his vote for a fair, honest price, whereas the rest of them charged outrageously high."

It is a vulgar old saying that "a new sucker is born every minute," referring to people who are easily duped by their avariciousness to get something for nothing, but it is one potent with truth. And right around this section of Jersey there is frequently exhibited apt illustrations of this saying, as in the Bound Brook green goods game, which is described in another column of The Press. But fortunately, Jerseymen can "point with pride" to the fact that none of their nativity are of the fishy variety. The dupes generally emigrate from the west or south, and are deserving of no sympathy.

Changes, Removals and Arrivals.

James Loughlin and family, from West Front street to Manning's flats.

George Gray and family, of Brooklyn, will move to Plainfield tomorrow where they will reside.

Mrs. R. S. Pangborn and daughter, from 143 Grove street to the house at the corner of Jackson and Watchung avenues.

Charles R. Norman and family, of Watchung avenue, left this morning for Brooklyn to take up their residence there.

L. J. Hartfelder has moved with his family to Plainfield. Mr. Hartfelder will still make Westfield his place of business.—Westfield Standard.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall will give up their house at 827 Third place, April 1st, and reside with Mrs. Kirk on Seventh street until they go away for the summer.

A Creditable Rendition.

Last night at the Park Avenue Baptist church the orchestra rendered an arrangement of "Calvary." Considering the fact that it was the first time that this organization played with the organ accompaniment, and that the music was read by most of the musicians at first sight, the performance was very creditable. During this week they will have three rehearsals and the music for Easter Sunday night promises to be very fine. It is a credit to Plainfield to have an organization of this kind and size and meets a want long felt. The next rehearsal will be held on Wednesday night at the piano parlors of Joseph Sattels, 221 Park avenue. It may be mentioned here that ten men from this orchestra will render the music for St. Mary's church on Easter Sunday morning, when, with full choir and orchestra, they will give Von Weber's Mass.

Franklin Wallace, tenor of the Syracuse Glee Club, that sang in Monroe Avenue chapel Friday night, assisted in the musical service at the Second Presbyterian church, of Newark, yesterday.

—The Plainfield boys that are studying at Yale are expected home Wednesday.

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER

"I prefer Cleveland's baking powder because it is pure and wholesome. It takes less for the same baking, it never fails, and bread and cake keep their freshness and flavor."

MISS CORNELIA CAMPBELL BEDFORD, Supt. New York Cooking School.

THEATRICAL.

Mlle. Salma's engagement at Proctor's Pleasure Palace in New York is a brilliant success and most notable in the records of American vaudeville. A charming and cultivated woman and a soprano singer of perfect method and rare quality of voice, she is cordially approved in her song offerings. Selma is an artiste of superior endowment and the New York critics endorse her in terms of warmest praise. Her new programme embrases selections from "Carmen," Denza's ballad "Call Me Back," and a pretty Scotch song, "My Laddie." In the field of muscular skill Sandow stands pre-eminent, and great interest is shown in his wonderful feats of strength, artistic posings and graphic tableaux vivants. Billy Emerson, the famous operatic minstrel, and Drummond Staley and Belle Birbeck, the original "Musical Blacksmiths," are important new comers, with Gertrude Mansfield, comedienne; Elsie Adair, serpentine dancer; Long and Little, musical clowns; the Parkins' giant heads; Mars and June, jugglers, and Nelsonia, shadowgraphist, all these being reinforced by Fields and Hanson popular musical comedians and their company, which includes Joe Flynn, author of "Down Went McGinty;" Jack and Rose Burke in athletic exhibits; Phyllis Allen, contralto; and Lalor and Chester, Irish comedians.

Holy Week Services.

The following are the Holy Week services at All Saints church at Scotch Plains, of which Rev. Edward H. True is rector:

Wednesday, April 1st, 8 p. m., litany service and lectute on the "Betrayal of Jesus."

Thursday, April 2d, 11 a. m., full morning service, Holy Communion and sermon.

Good Friday, April 3d, 11 a. m., full morning service and sermon; 3 p. m., evening prayer; 8 p. m., special service and sermon on "Paradise."

Easter eve, Saturday, April 4th, 4 p. m., evening prayer and baptism.

Easter Day, April 5th, 9:30 a. m., early celebration of Holy Communion; 10:45 a. m., morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon; 3 p. m., full choral evening prayer; 7:30 p. m., Easter festival of the Sunday-school. The offertory at all services will be for the extinguishment of the mortgage debt of the parish.

Easter Monday, April 6th, 7 p. m., evening prayer; 8 p. m., election of wardens and vestrymen. Polls open for one hour.

The newly-organized choir, under the direction of Mrs. Buckley, the organist, will give a special musical service on Easter morning, and the young ladies of the parish hope to surpass their previous decorations of the church with flowers and plants. The congregations of the church have increased largely during the year, and all the members of the parish are working harmoniously and enthusiastically for the success of the good work committed to their charge.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

DEER PARK.

On the Crest of the Alleghenies.

To those contemplating a trip to the mountains in search of health or pleasure, Deer Park, on the crest of the Allegheny Mountains, 3,000 feet above the sea level, offers such varied attractions as a delightful atmosphere during both day and night, pure water, smooth, winding roads through the mountains and valleys, and the most picturesque scenery in the Allegheny range. The hotel is equipped with all adjuncts conductive to the entertainment, pleasure and comfort of its guests.

There are also a number of furnished cottages with facilities for housekeeping.

The houses and grounds are supplied with absolutely pure water, piped from the celebrated "Boiling Spring" and are lighted with electricity. Deer Park is on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and has the advantages of its splendid Vestibuled Limited Express trains between the east and west. Season excursion tickets, good for return passage until October 31st, will be placed on sale at greatly reduced rates at all principal ticket offices throughout the country.

The season at Deer Park commences June 22d, 1896.

For full information as to rates, rooms, etc., address George D. DeShields, Manager, Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland. s w —Consecration meeting tonight at 8 o'clock of the Christian Endeavor society of Trinity Reformed church.

—W. S. Stevens, the old reliable real estate broker, of Dunellen, offers a bargain in the way of rental in The Press today. See notice in the cent-a-word column.

—The second weekly reception of the Watchung Avenue Social Club will be held tonight at the residence of George Schaeffer, 452 West Second street. Prof. Guttman will furnish the music.

—In another column of today's Press appears an advertisement of a big auction sale which will take place at Metuchen on Thursday of this week at 10 o'clock in the morning. The property is that of Postmaster Nathan Robbins, and at the sale many big bargains will be found.

—The choir of Trinity Reformed church yesterday was composed of Mrs. H. E. Rider, soprano; Miss Lizzie Dunn, contralto; and Messrs. Robert Clark, tenor, and F. S. Cutter, bass. Their rendition of "Jerusalem" during the offertory at the morning service, was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

SPORTS

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Ralph Campbell, of Netherwood avenue, a student at the University of New York, won the all-round gymnasium contest held in the college gymnasium last Friday night.

In the indoor games of the Twelfth Regiment of the New York National Guard, held in their armory at New York last Thursday, the 100-yard dash was won by Albert P. Simmonds, of this city, who defeated Mooney, the crack sprinter of the regiment, by a foot.

Plainfield was represented at the interscholastic athletic meet of the New Manhattan Athletic Club, held on Saturday evening at Madison Square Garden, by George P. Smith, of the High School. Smith was entered in the shot putting contest. It was won by Ingalls, of the Philadelphia High School, with a put of 42 feet, 1 inch. Smith was fifth, with a put of 37 feet, 7 inches. There were twenty-two other contestants. Jesse L. Hurlburt, of Berkely School, formerly of this city, contested in the pole vault, but did not get a place.

The executive committee of the National Interscholastic Athletic Association met at Woolston & Kellogg's School, Fifth avenue, New York, on Saturday morning. George P. Smith, of the Plainfield High School, represented the New Jersey Interscholastic Association. A communication was received from the New Manhattan Athletic Club, in which they offered to run the national games of the association and give the association a certain percentage of the net gain. C. G. McDavitt, president of the New York Association; H. I. Pratt, president, of the Long Island Association, and G. P. Smith, president of the New Jersey Association, were appointed a committee to confer with Harry Cornish, of the N. M. A. C. The date of the national meet was changed from the last Saturday in June to June 13th. It will probably be held at the Manhattan field.

BASKET BALL.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The members of the Y. M. C. A. Football Association hereby challenge the regular Y. M. C. A. basket ball team or the basket ball team of the business men's class to a game of basket ball at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to be played on any date mutually agreed upon. Thomas U. Smith.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The I. O. S., of Westfield, will roll a match with the champion team of the Westfield Athletic Club. The boys of the I. O. S. greatly astonished the winners of the Standard League trophy in the last match by winning both games. The veterans intend to bury their young rivals tonight.

GOLF.

The annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be held on Wednesday evening at the clubhouse. The meeting will be an important one as the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

AT THE TRAPS.

C. Smith will go to Elizabeth tomorrow to take part in the three-days tournament.

The trap-shooting tournament of Apgar and Hebbard opens at Elizabeth tomorrow.

INS AND OUTS.

The High School baseball team will meet for practice at the Crescent Oval on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock.

—In consequence of the many arangements of Holy Week, the meeting of the Improvement Association will be postponed until Friday morning, April, 16th, at 10 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

CYCLING COMMENT.

C. W. Burtis, of Cranford, came to Plainfield on his wheel Saturday afternoon and visited friends here.

With a view of reducing expenses the postoffice authorities are experimenting with carrier cycles in the collection of mail matter, says The Sporting Life.

Charles M. Murphy, of Brooklyn, who has riden on the Crescent Oval as a Class B man, has applied to the L. W. Racing Board to be transferred to the professional class.

While riding along Park avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets Friday afternoon, the rear wheel to Stanley Peck's safety suddenly collapsed and Peck sat down rather quickly. He was not injured, however.

The Plainfield Cycle Co., have taken the store corner of Park avenue and West Second street and will conduct a cycle business. Eugene A. Laine, the barber, will occupy a portion of the store. Johnson and Holder have given up the store.

It has finally been decided to hold the annual road race of the Metropolitan Association on Decoration Day over the usual Milburn course. A time limit of one hour and ten minutes has been placed on all who decide to compete for time medals.

George W. Gideon, chairman of the L. A. W. Racing Board says that the rules regarding amateur standing will be very strict. He says that any employe of a cycling company, or any amateur who rides a wheel which he has not paid for or even partially paid for, will be liable to be thrown into the professional ranks.

A. B. Rich, the once-noted racer, and a former contestant in the Crescent Wheelmen's races, has been appointed coach of the Harvard Cycling Association. The team will train on the new Charles River track in Cambridgeport. Mr. Rich has been at Howard before, but has never had the full charge of the bicyclists.

The delightful weather of Saturday made things lively for the local cycle dealers. The salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company were crowded all day, especially in the afternoon, when every rider that had no wheel at hand wanted to hire or buy one. Among the latest purchasers of wheels from that company are: O. T. Waring, two No. 4 Crescents; C. W. Burtis, of Cranford, a Cleveland, model 22; John Warner, of Roselle, a Cleveland, model 22; Col. Pope, of Roselle, a Cleveland, model 22; Chas. A. Wastlick, of New York, a Cleveland, model 24; W. J. Roome, five Crescents, Nos. 1, 1, 2, 2 and 8, and a Crescent tandem; George P. Mellick, a Cleveland, model 22; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Depew, two Clevelands, models 22 and 23; Joseph A. Penrose, of New Market, a Crescent, No. 1; C. W. MacInard, of Roselle, a Crescent, No. 1; Thomas Burke, a Crescent, No. 9; S. F. Kimball, a Crescent, No. 1.

—Impoverished blood causes that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, giving new life and increased vigor and vitality.

—The Peter Wooden will case came up at Somerville this morning. City Judge G. W. DeMeza, Assemblyman W. R. Codington and Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, went from this city.

—Among the comical sketches printed in the New York Evening Telegram last Friday, was one from the pen of Malcomb Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Barnes, of Norwood avenue.

—One of William Hand's large moving vans accidently ran into a sewer trench on West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue, this forenoon. The men were obliged to unload the furniture before they could remove the truck.

Its just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. Its easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Martin Rarick has returned home from her visit with friends in New York.

The Misses Smith, of New Brunswick, are spending a few days with friends in town.

Mrs. Edgar Giddis, of North avenue, is entertaining her mother, Mrs. C. Haskin, of Newark.

Miss Florence Maxwell, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned home to Somerville.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church held an invitation sociable Friday evening in the lecture room.

Mr. and Mrs. Reedy, of West Dunellen, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends over the arrival of a young son.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Laing, who went to South Carolina sometime ago for the benefit of Mr. Laing's health, have been heard from. Mr. Laing's health is much improved.

AVON PARK.

Ed Campbell has captured alive two red-winged blackbirds and expects to raise them.

Tom Terrill captured two raccoons at the New Brooklyn coal plant Wednesday evening.

A party of Avon Park young ladies are solving the mysteries of wheel riding and having lots of fun while doing it.

Charles C. Brower received a new trotter Thursday from New York. It was recently purchased by J. W. Arkell, of Westfield, and Mr. Brower expects to train the horse this summer for Mr. Arkell.

The house now occupied by Ed Campbell is to be divided into two parts. One half will remain on its present location while the owner of the house, Mr. Baumann, of Washington Heights, N. Y., will bave the other section moved on another lot.

The G. E. Club will meet with Miss Addie Weaver, of Plainfield, sometime this week.

Miss May White, of Somerville, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned home.

The many friends of Miss Bertha Giles will be glad to hear that she was able to sit up in bed on Thursday for the first time since she was struck at the Stelton crossing.

—The next dance of the American Social Club will be held Wednesday evening in Central Hall.

—Conductor Charles Dodwell, of the Jersey Central, is looking for setting hens and settings of eggs. His ardor for poultry is not abated in the least. —Newark Sunday Call.

—Joseph Sattells, as the successor to Vanderbeek & Sattells, is continuing the piano and organ business at 221 Park avenue with success and is rapidly increasing his business. Mr. Sattells is a musician of recognized talent and handles the best make of instruments on the market. He is a pleasant gentleman to deal with, and those who are thinking of purchasing either a piano or organ cannot do better than to inspect those handled by him.

HEAD THE KING A LESSON

A Marquis Gives Charles I. a Poem from Gower the Poet.

However dull to us are the works of that grave and ancient English poet, Gower, the contemporary of Chaucer, it is certain that his influence extended far beyond his own time, as he had admirers as late as the reign of Charles I.

In connection with the curious "conference" on the occasion of the visit Charles I. made to the marquis of Worcester at Raglan castle, with his court, an amusing incident is related. The marquis was a favorite of the king both for his frankness and his love of the arts.

Among his rare curiosities was a sumptuous copy of Gower's volume. King Charles usually visited the marquis after dinner, and one day found him with Gower's book lying open before him. The king remarked that he had never before seen the work.

"Oh, it is a book of books!" exclaimed the marquis, with enthusiasm. "If your majesty had been well versed in it, it would have made you a king of kings."

"Why so, my lord?" asked Charles, curiously.

"Why, here is set down how Aristotle brought up and instructed Alexander the Great in all the rudiments and principles belonging to a prince," said the marquis; and thereupon, under the persons of Aristotle and Alexander, the marquis read the king such a lesson that all the bystanders were amazed at his daring. The king asked whether he had his lesson by heart, or spoke out of the book.

"If you would read my heart," responded the marquis, "it may be that you might find it there; or if your majesty pleased to get it by heart, I will lend you my book."

Some of the new-made lords fretted at certain passages in the marquis' discourse, and protested that no man was so much for the absolute power of the king as Aristotle. Upon which the marquis, turning the pages till he came to a certain passage, read:

A king can kill, a king can save;
A king can make a lord a knave,
And of a knave a lord also.

At this point several of the courtiers slunk out of the room, and the king said, laughingly: "My lord, at this rate you will drive away all my nobility."

This anecdote certainly proves that after the lapse of two centuries and a half the words of the old poet had still vitality enough to afford a pungent lesson to the courtiers of Charles I., as they had to those of Richard II.—Youth's Companion.

AN NEAT BIT OF SARCASM.

The Judge Thought It Was About Time to Convict Some One.

Some years ago there lived in Alabama a judge who was noted for the sarcasm which he dispensed lavishly during his administration of justice. On one occasion during a term of court at Montgomery a young man was tried for stealing a pocketbook. The next case was for murder. The evidence in the larceny case was slight, but in the other seemed to the judge conclusive. To his amazement and wrath, however, the jury convicted the young man and acquitted the murderer.

In passing sentence upon the convicted thief, after the discharge of the other prisoner, the judge said:

"Young man, you have not been in this country long?"

"No, your honor," replied the prisoner.

"I thought not," said the judge. "You don't know these people; you may kill them, but don't touch their pocketbooks!"

On another occasion when the evidence seemed to point conclusively to the prisoner's guilt, but when the judge, from long experience, distrusted the jurymen's wisdom, the counsel for the defendant said: "It is better that 99 guilty persons should escape than one innocent man should suffer."

In his charge to the jury, the judge admitted the soundness of this proposition, but he added impressively and severely:

"Gentlemen, I want you to bear in mind that 99 have already escaped."—Youth's Companion.

Why Is It?

That when you put your hand in your pocket for a nickel and find a quarter, you are disappointed?

That, if a woman, you insist upon telling the conductor to stop the car at the next street when you have already seen him pull the bell cord for somebody else?

That, when you owe your grocer a small bill, you trade and pay cash at his competitor's?

That you wear your old coat without flinching, provided you have a better one at home?

That the weather gets cold so early in the autumn if you have a new sealskin sack?

That you say you "used to play a good game," when you can't make a simple carom at billiards?

That you use half a dozen towels on the sleeping car when one is sufficient at home?

That you tell an utter stranger facts you wouldn't whisper to your dearest friend?

That you grapple with and overcome a present trouble and misfortune when you worry over a theoretical one in the future?—St. Paul Dispatch.

Mnemonics.

Prof. A.—Would you believe it, my dear colleague, I actually do not know the ages of my children!

Prof. B.—Such a thing could never happen with me. I was born 2,300 years after Socrates; my wife 1,800 years after the death of Tiberius; our son Leo, 2,000 years after the promulgation of the Licinian laws by Tiberius Sempronius Gracchus, and our Amanda 1,500 years after the commencement of the great migration. Very simple, is it not?"—Zondaasblad.

There Were Others.

She—No, George; I like you, but I can never be your wife.

He (haughtily)—Never mind. There are others.

She—I know there are, George; I accepted one this morning.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Daughter—On account of the curtain lectures; you know, mamma dear, I have no oratorical talent whatever.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Nothing Like It.

Time brings many changes, but the climate of Calfornia, "The Italy of America," and the attractions of the many famous health and pleasure resorts, are the same yesterday, today and forever.

Tourists never will tire of speaking in praise of the soft and balmy air, the profusion of flowers, the magnificent display of fruits, the luxury of seabathing and the beautiful walks and drives.

Then, too, it must be conceded that with such excellent equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman Palace Sleepers and Pullman Dining Cars, all heated by steam and lighted with Pintsch Light, the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," is the tourists favorite. Ask your agents for tickets via this route.

UNITED STATES

Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be held by its local board in this city on Saturday, April 4th, 1896, commencing at 10:30 a. m., for the grade of carriers in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations for this examination are as follow: Not under 18 years. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned, in complete form, on the proper blank, before the hour of closing business on March 30th, 1896. Applications should be filed promptly, therefore, in order that time may remain for correction if necessary.

The Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, without regard to race or to their political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded, and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to any consideration save their efficiency as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, apply to

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion, and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties and the fat found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable, and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified; that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all?

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

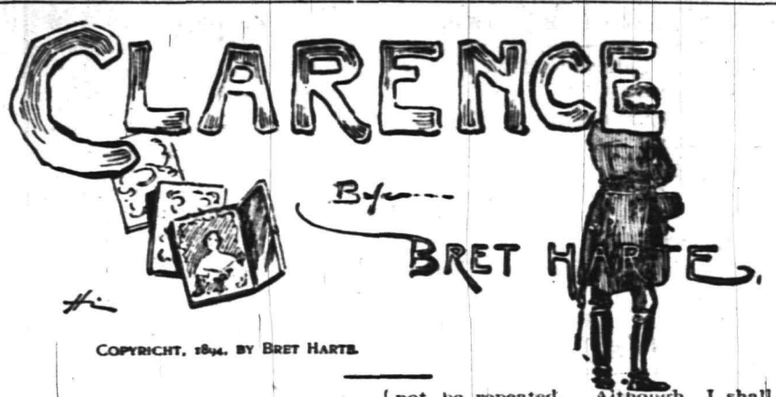
CLARENCE

By BRET HARTE.



COPYRIGHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

CHAPTER III.

Unsuspected and astounding as the revelation was to Clarence, its strange reception by the conspirators seemed to him astounding. He had started forward, half expecting that the complacent, self-confessed spy would be immolated by his infuriated dupes. But to his surprise the shock seemed to have changed their natures and given them the dignity they had lacked.

The excitability, irritation and recklessness which had previously characterized them had disappeared. The deputy and his posse, who had advanced to the assistance of their revealed chief, met with no resistance. They had evidently, as if with one accord, drawn away from Judge Beeswinger, leaving a cleared space around him, and regarded their captors with sullen, contemptuous silence. It was only broken by Col. Starbottle:

"Your duty commands you, sir, to use all possible diligence in bringing us before the federal judge of this district. Unless your master in Washington has violated the constitution so far as to remove him, too!"

"I understand you perfectly," returned Judge Beeswinger, with unchanged composure, "and as you know that Judge Wilson unfortunately cannot be removed except through regular cause of impeachment, I suppose you may still count upon his southern sympathies to befriend you. With that I have nothing to do; my duty is complete when my deputy has brought you before him, and I have stated the circumstances of the arrest."

"I congratulate you, sir," said Capt. Pinckney, with an ironical salute, "in your prompt reward for your treachery to the south, and your equally prompt adoption of the peculiar tactics of your friends in the way in which you have entered this house."

"I am sorry I cannot congratulate you, sir," returned Judge Beeswinger, gravely, "on breaking your oath to the government that has educated and supported you, and has given you the epaulettes you disgrace. Nor shall I discuss 'treachery' with the man who has not only violated the trust of his country but even the integrity of his friend's household. It is for that reason that I withhold the action of this warrant in so far as it affects the person of the master and mistress of this house. I am satisfied that Mr. Brant has been as ignorant of what has been done here as I am that his wife has been only the foolish dupe of a double traitor."

"Silence!"

The words broke simultaneously from the lips of Clarence and Capt. Pinckney. They stood staring at each other—the one pale, the other crimson—as Mrs. Brant, apparently oblivious of the significance of their united adjuration, turned to Judge Beeswinger in the fury of her still stifled rage and mortification.

"Keep your mercy for your fellow spy," she said with a contemptuous gesture towards her husband, "I go with these gentlemen!"

"You will not," said Clarence, quietly, until I have said a word to you alone."

He laid his hand firmly upon her wrist.

The deputy and his prisoners filed slowly out of the courtyard together, the latter courteously saluting Mrs. Brant as they passed, but turning from Judge Beeswinger in contemptuous silence. The latter followed them to the gate, but there he paused.

Turning to Mrs. Brant, who was still half struggling in the strong grip of her husband, he said:

"Any compunction I may have had in misleading you by accepting your invitation here, I dismissed after I had entered this house! And I trust," he added, turning to Clarence, sternly, "I leave you master of it!"

She sprang to her feet with flashing eyes.

As the gate closed behind him, Clarence locked it. As his wife turned upon him angrily, he said, quietly: "I have no intention of restraining your liberty a moment after our interview is over. But until then I do not intend to be disturbed."

She threw herself disdainfully back in her chair, her hands clasped in her lap, in half contemptuous resignation, with her eyes upon her long, slim, arched feet crossed before her. Even in her attitude there was something of her old fascination which, however, now seemed to sting Clarence to the quick.

"I have nothing to say to you in regard to what has just passed in this house, except that as long as I remain even nominally as its master, it shall not be repeated. Although I shall no longer attempt to influence or control your political sympathies, I shall not allow you to indulge them where in any way they seem to imply my sanction. But so little do I oppose your liberty that you are free to rejoin your political companions whenever you choose to do so on your own responsibility. But I must first know from your own lips that your sympathies are purely political—or a name for something else."

She had alternately flushed and paled, although still keeping her scornful attitude as he went on, but there was no mistaking the genuineness of her vague wonderment at his concluding words. "I don't understand you," she said, lifting her eyes to his in a moment of cold curiosity. "What do you mean?"

"What do I mean? What did Judge Beeswinger mean when he called Capt. Pinckney a double traitor?" he said, roughly.

She sprang to her feet with flashing eyes.

"And you—you—dare to repeat the cowardly lie of a confessed spy. This, then, is what you wished to tell me—this, the insult for which you have kept me here, because you are incapable of understanding unselfish patriotism or devotion—even to your own cause—you dare to judge me by your own base, Yankee trading standards. Yes, it is worthy of you!"

She walked rapidly up and down, and then suddenly faced him.

"I understand it all! I appreciate your magnanimity now. You are willing I should join the company of these chivalrous gentlemen in order to give color to your calumnies. Say at once that it was you who put up this spy to correspond with me—to come here—in order to entrap me. Yes, entrap me—I—who a moment ago stood up for you before these gentlemen and said you could not lie! Bah!"

Struck only by the wild extravagance of her speech and temper, Clarence did not know that when women are most illogical they are apt to be most sincere, and from a man's standpoint, her unreasoning deductions appeared to him only as an affectation to gain time for thought, or a theatrical display to dazzle, like Susy's. And he was turning, half contemptuously, away when she again faced him with flashing eyes:

"Well, hear me! I accept! I leave here at once to join my own people, my own friends—those who understand me—put what construction on it that you choose. Do your worst! You cannot do more to separate us than you have done just now."

She left him and ran up the steps, with an extravagant return of her old occasional nymph-like gracefulness—the movement of a woman who has never borne children—and a swish of her long skirts that he remembered for many a day after as she disappeared in the corridor.

He remained looking after her—indignant, outraged and—unconvinced! Then there was a rattling at the gate.

He remembered he had locked it. He opened it to the flushed, pink cheeks and dancing eyes of Susy. The rain was still dripping from her wet cloak, as she swung it from her shoulders.

"I know it all, all that's happened," she burst out, with half girlish exuberance, and half the actress' declamation. "We met them all in the road, posse and prisoners. Chief Thompson knew me and told me all. And so you've done it—and you're master in your old house again. Clarence, old boy! Jim said you wouldn't do it. Said you'd weaken on account of her! But I said 'No,' I knew you better, old Clarence, and I saw it in your face, for all your stiffness! He! But for all that I was mighty nervous and uneasy, and I just made Jim send an excuse to the theater, and we rushed it down here. Lordy, but it looks natural to see the old house again! And she—you packed her off with the others, didn't you? Tell me, Clarence," in her old appealing voice, "you shook her, too?"

Dazed and astounded, and yet expressing a vague sense of relief with an odd return of his old tenderness towards the willful woman before him, he had silently regarded her until her allusion to his wife recalled him to himself.

"Hush!" he said, quickly, with a glance towards the corridor.

"Ah!" said Susy, with a malicious smile, "then that's why Capt. Pinckney was lingering in the rear with the deputy."

"Silence!" said Clarence, sternly. "Go in there," pointing to the garden room below the balcony, "and wait until your husband comes."

He half led, half pushed her into the room which had been his business office and returned to the patio. A hesitating voice from the balcony said: "Clarence."

It was his wife's voice, but modified and gentler—more like her voice as he had first heard it—or as if it were chastened by some reminiscence of those days. It was his wife's face, too, that looked down on his, paler than he had seen it since he had entered the house. She was shawled and hooded, carrying a traveling-bag in her hand.

"I am going, Clarence," she said, with gentle gravity, "but not in anger! I even ask you to forgive me for the foolish words that I still think your still more foolish accusation," she smiled faintly, "dragged from me. I am going because I know that I have brought, and that while I am here I shall always be bringing upon you the imputation and even the responsibility of my own faith! While I am proud to own it, and, if needs be, suffer for it, I have no right to ruin your prospects, or even make you the victim of the slurs that others may cast upon me. Let us part as friends, separated only by our different political faiths, but keeping all other faiths together, until God shall settle the right of this struggle. Perhaps it may be soon—I sometimes think it may be years of agony for all—but until then good-by."

She had slowly descended the steps to the patio, looking handsomer than he had ever seen her, and as if sustained and upheld by the enthusiasm of her cause. Her hand was outstretched toward his, his heart beating violently; in another moment he might have forgotten all and clasped her to his breast.

Suddenly she stopped, her outstretched arm stiffened, her finger pointed to the chair on which Susy's cloak was hanging.

"What's that?" she said, in a sharp, high, metallic voice. "Who is here? Speak!"

"Susy," said Clarence.

She cast a scathing glance around the patio and then settled her piercing eyes on Clarence with a bitter smile.

"Already!"

Clarence felt the blood rush to his face as he stammered: "She knew what was happening here and came to give you warning."

"Liar!"

"Stop!" said Clarence, with a white face. "She came to tell me that Capt. Pinckney was still lingering for you in the road."

He threw open the gate to let her pass. As she swept out she lifted her hand. As she closed the gate there were the white marks of her four fingers on his cheek.

CHAPTER IV.

For once Susy had not exaggerated. Capt. Pinckney was lingering with the deputy who had charge of him on the trail near the casa. It had already been pretty well understood by both captives and captors that the arrest was simply a legal demonstration, that the sympathizing federal judge would undoubtedly order the discharge of the prisoners on their own recognizances and it was probable that the deputy saw no harm in granting Pinckney's request, which was virtually only a delay in his own liberation. It is also possible that Pinckney had worked upon the chivalrous sympathies of the man by professing his disinclination to leave their devoted colleague, Mrs. Brant, at the mercy of her antagonistic and cold-blooded husband at such a crisis, and it is to be feared, also, that Clarence, as a reputed lukewarm partisan, excited no personal sympathy even from his own party. Howbeit, the deputy agreed to delay Pinckney's journey for a parting interview with his fair hostess.

How far this expressed the real sentiments of Capt. Pinckney was never known. Whether his political association with Mrs. Brant had developed into a warmer solicitude, understood or ignored by her, and what were his hopes and aspirations regarding his future was by the course of fate never disclosed. A man of easy ethics but rigid artificialities of honor, flattered and pampered by class prejudice, a so-called "man of the world," with no experience beyond his own limited circle, yet brave and devoted to that, it were well, perhaps, to leave that last act of his ineffectual life to the simple record of the deputy.

Dismounting, he approached the house from the garden. He was already familiar with the low arched doorway which led to the business room, and from which he could gain admittance to the patio. But it so chanced that he entered the dark passage at the moment that Clarence had thrust Susy into the business room, and heard its door shut sharply. For an instant he believed that Mrs. Brant had taken refuge there, but as he cautiously moved forward he heard her voice in the patio beyond. Its accents struck him as pleading; an intense curiosity drew him further along the passage. Suddenly her voice seemed to change to angry denunciation, and the word "Liar" rang upon his ears. It was followed by his own name uttered sardonically by Clarence, the swift rustle of a skirt, the clash of the gate, and then, forgetting everything, he burst into the patio.

Clarence was just turning from the gate with the marks of his wife's hand still red on his white cheek. He saw Capt. Pinckney's eyes upon it, and a faint, half-malicious, half-hysteric smile upon his lips. But without a start or gesture of surprise, he locked the gate, and turning to him, said, with frigid significance:

"I thank you for returning so promptly, and for recognizing the only thing I now require at your hands."

But Capt. Pinckney had recovered his supercilious ease with the significant demand.

"You seem to have had something already from another's hand, sir—but I am at your service," he said, lightly.

"You will consider that I have accepted it from you, sir," said Clarence, drawing closer to him with a rigid face. "I suppose it will not be necessary for me to return it—to make you understand me."

"Go on," said Pinckney, flushing slightly. "Make your terms. I am ready."

PETER WOODEN'S WILL STANDS.

The Appelants Couldn't Overcome the Evidence Presented by Craig A. Marsh.

In the Somerset county court this morning, the contestants of the Peter Wooden will gave up the case, their attorneys stating that they couldn't overcome the evidence of the executors, who were represented by Craig A. Marsh. The five attorneys of the contestants insisted, however, that they were entitled to counsel fees, as they had acted in good faith. In view of the age of Peter Wooden, which was over ninety years, and the suspicious circumstance of the making of the will, they had only done their duty.

The court agreed, after the establishing of the will, to make allowences of counsel fees for the appelants attorneys as follows: W. R. Codington, $250. George DeMeza, $200; J. P. Powers and Steele and Meehan, $400; William M. Stillman as counsel for the Seventh-Day Baptist churches was allowed $350, and Craig A. Marsh, as counsel for the executors, was allowed $1,000. The estate amounts to $30,000. The Seventh-Day Baptist churches in this city and New Market will each receive $2,000 and the Seventh Day Baptist University at Alfred, N. Y., will receive $10,000. The rest of the estate will go to the heirs. There were about forty persons interested in the will.

Hoodlums Work.

Complaint was made to the police officials yesterday that a gang of hoodlums invaded the Netherwood district Saturday night, and committed a number of petty acts which, while causing no serious damage, were very aggravating to those who were subject to them. They pulled up one of the flag stones in the walk at the corner of South and Belvidere avenues, and deposited it quite a distance from where it belonged. They also tore up one of the ties which formes the driveway into a nearby barn, and carried it to the residence of Mrs. Freeman, on South avenue, and placed it against the front door where it would fall in on the one who first opened the door in the morning. The trick was discovered by a newsboy early in the morning, however, and the obstacle removed.

A Successful Year.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Crescent Avenue church, was held in the church parlors Saturday afternoon. Reports from all the charitable organizations were made, showing that the year's work of the church had been a most successful one.

The election of officers was held and the following were re-elected: President, Mrs. William Scribner; first vice-president, Mrs. William R. Richards; second vice-president, Mrs. Oliver R. King; secretary, Mrs. Walter L. C. Glenney; treasurer, Miss Kate Martine.

Appointed a Freight Agent.

Elmore D. Moffett, late Deputy County Clerk, has been appointed freight agent at the West Eighth Street station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and will enter on his duties as such on Wednesday.

The many friends of Mr. Moffett will be pleased to learn of his good luck in securing such a position. He has a thorough acquaintance with the clerical work which he will superintend.

—H. M. Jacqoett will take possession of his new store tomorrow.

—The congregation of the Filmore Avenue Baptist church gave their pastor a surprise Wednesday evening last which was a successful affair.

—The handsomest decoration yesterday were at the Crescent Avenue church and was done by Dr. Carman, of Franklin place, and the plants were from his greenhouse.

—Rev. A. E. Qunk, of New York, Superintendent of the Missionary Training Institute, will address the Plainfield Branch of the Christian Alliance tomorrow evening at 7:45 at the W C. T. U. rooms. Subject: "The Holy Ghost."

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75c. Sold by T.S.Armstrong, druggist, Park and North avenues. 2 12 y

PARTICULAR MENTION.

George B. DeRevere, of the Revere House, is seriously ill.

August Huntington, of Franklin place, is home from Yale.

George Rider, of East Front street, is home from Columbia Medical School.

Joseph Green, of Somerset street, has accepted a position with Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eaton Newman, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with relatives in this city.

Nathan Brownell, of the New York College of Pharmacy, was taken suddenly ill at the home of Seymour G. Smith, of Crescent avenue, this morning.

Miss Louise H. Billings, of East Fifth street, and her sister, Miss Billings, of Deerfield, Mass., have returned from a show sojourn at St. Augustine, Florida.

Miss Mabelle Force, of Brooklyn, who has been spendiug the winter in Florida has returned and is at present visiting her sister, Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Central avenue.

A very pleasant family gathering was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Newman, of West Fifth street, yesterday. Their five children and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Newman, were all home, and the day will long be remembered.

—Powlison & Jones are now in their new building and a more complete line of furniture can scarcely be found.

—Justice Newcorn issued a summons in the case of Long against Morris, on contract, which is returnable April 6th.

—The Ladies' Chorus will meet on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building for practice. The chorus is now preparing for a concert to be given for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and for the jamboree.

—A pleasant surprise party was given Friday evening to Miss Caroline Eriksen at her home, 999 South avenue. Among those present were the Misses Annie Bonup, Christine Sorensen, Caroline Bonup, Dora Frederickson, Lizzie Burrows, Maggie Ried, Carrie Ried, Minnie Hosinger, Ida Misicks, Fanny Shimmins, and Messrs. William Shimmins, Fred Schreiner, Ben Frederickson, Marius Sorensen, Jedde Sorensen, Christian Sorensen, Harry Noble, Alfred Lewauld, Ed Ried, Louis Henry, Ed Ericksen, Rasmus Krog and James Eriksen.

In Hard Luck.

Mr. Fake lost his gold-headed cane. He did not expect to see it again, but a tramp brought it to him saying he had found it.

"You are an honest man," exclaimed Fake, "and, as a reward for your honesty, you may keep the cane. The cane itself is not worth much, but you can sell the gold head to some jeweler."

"No, I can't," replied the tramp, "I've tried that already, and it won't work."—Texas Siftings.

Why She Felt Sure.

"So you overcame that old antipathy of yours," her husband remarked, "and called on Mrs. Bobbles?"

"Yes."

"Do you think she was glad to see you?"

"I am sure of it."

"Ahem!—you must have some reason for that belief outside of her assurances."

"I have. I had on the old dress that was made over twice, my hat was out of style, and my hair had become uncurled; while she had on a gown that couldn't have come from anywhere but Paris. Could she help being glad to see me?"—Judge.

Half a Loaf Better Than None.

At a dinner party the other night a handsome young physician had been particularly bright and entertaining. As the ladies left the table cigars were passed and accepted by all the gentlemen but the doctor. The host looked at him in astonishment. "What, not smoke?" said he; "why, my dear fellow, you lose half your dinner." "Yes, I know I do," replied the doctor, "but if I should smoke I would lose the whole of it."

In South Dakota.

"Do you remember the pretty Miss Brown?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, what's her name now? I've been trying to think of it, and I can't."

"It's Mrs. George William Jones."

"Oh, no, it isn't. That was her name before her last divorce."—Chicago Evening Post.

An Explanation.

"It seems to me that you are writing a good many mother-in-law jokes," remarked the critical friend.

"Yes," replied Merriman; "if the market for them holds out I'll be able to pay back some of the money my wife's mother was kind enough to lend us when we went to housekeeping."—Washington Star.

One of Its Possible Uses.

Mrs. McSwatt (at the theater)—For pity's sake, Billiger, what are you doing?

Mr. McSwatt (quiet but determined)—I'm attaching a vacuum tube to this pocket camera. I'm going to have a view of the stage through this hat in front of me.—Chicago Tribune.

MR. SAMPSON EXPLAINS.

He Tells Why He Objected to the Trolley Passing His Property.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of Saturday you stated that I was the first one of the residents of East Fifth street to protest against the trolley extension that was made Friday night, and that after watching the work for awhile I concluded to allow the contractor to proceed with the operations, he having "held the highest card."

Allow me to explain. Before the Common Council granted a franchise for the railroad through our street, I was called upon by a representative of the road and was asked more than once by them to give my consent to have the track laid in front of our house, and I respectfully declined each time to grant the privilege, believing that our block would not be benefitted by the trolley road. Since the franchise was granted upon the consent of the required majority, as I understand, I have taken no steps to prevent the construction of the road through our street, except to express my opinion on the matter when necessary to do so. Prior to the work of digging the holes for poles Friday night, I was told by a member of our Commen Council, who was looking on, that the trolley company could put the poles on our sidewalks wherever it pleased, and that nothing but an injunction would stop them. He also stated that it would be impossible then to interfere legally, as the Supreme Court had adjourned. After learning all that, I was agreeably surprised at the gentlemanly conduct of those in charge of the disagreeable work of locating the poles. When it was thought necessary to place a pole on our lot where it would interfere with our driveway, may son very properly objected, and upon our explanation to the engineer in charge, he readily sought to accomodate me by having the pole placed elsewhere; and upon further examination of his diagram (in connection with our Street Commissioner) he found that the pole was not to be put upon our lot at all. The consequence was that a neighbor unfortunately got the objectionable pole.

I am still of the opinion that the trolley road will be of no great service to the portions of streets that are near the Central railroad depot, and that the outlying districts will be benefitted at our expense.

MORE THAN ONE CLASS TO CONSIDER

The Rights of the Many are Dominant Over Those of a Few.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The editor of your Front street contemporary is very fond of saying that the street railway company has rights, and the property owners have rights. He altogether overlooks the children in the case who are expected to go to school regardless of storms, through mud or dust, snow or sleet, as the seasons come and go. Surely the little folks have the right to reasonable protection from storms—the rights that involve health and comfort.

He also overlooked the women who go to market, to church, or who have friends they desire to visit. They surely are entitled to the ordinary facilities of intercommunication that are to be found in towns like Plainfield.

He also ignores the commuter. Has he no rights if he behaves himself and pays his tax bills regularly?

The truth is, the street railway company is altogether able to defend its rights; and the handful of malcontents who preach the gospel of unselfishness and denounce in the same breath an improvement that pertains to the general good, do not deserve a champion.

Let your contemporary consider the welfare of the town—the people who are compelled to walk when they might ride, especially the little folks—and give peanut politics a rest.

Progress.

—The mail to New York, which formerly closed at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, now closes at 5:30 o'ciock.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Reach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought about a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle at Armstrong's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

ALL LIKE PLAINFIELD.

S. D. DRAKE'S ENCOURAGING WORDS FOR THIS CITY'S PROGRESS.

The Noted Real Estate Man Says That The City People Are Anxious To Come Here and The Town Will Grow Rapidly.

Silas D. Drake is one of the best known real estate men in New Jersey, and is a close and shrewd observer of the value of land for residential purposes. Mr. Drake has written the following for The Press, which will be read with a great deal of interest:

"It may be of interest to the readers of your valuable paper to hear what the outlook is in the greater New York in regard to real estate. I must say I am amazed at the prospects for a boom in real estate in Union county, particularly in Plainfield. I have advertised extensively in New York and Brooklyn papers offering bargains in real estate in Union county and am in correspondence with hundreds of prospective purchasers, and very many of them ask what bargains I can offer at Plainfield, and as Plainfield was my birthplace, and knowing it to be a good thing I am 'pushing it along.' Don't get the idea that purchasers are ready and willing to pay more than property is worth, but there is a demand for bargains in real estate in your ideal town. Arrangements will soon be perfected to build trolley lines from Plainfield to Elizabeth and when this is an accomplished fact, as it will be, it will be the means of creating a veritable boom along the line. The opening up of the Mountain Park, near Johnston's drive, for New Yorkers, who can reach a summer home within one hour of New York, is attracting a great deal of attention, and I already have orders booked for a number of plots on this famous location. They are anxious to get in on the ground floor of a good investment.

"I predict that within the next two years the increase in Plainfield's population will be greater than in the past five years, and I propose taking an active part to take my prediction good."

WOOLSEY'S HACKING FATAL.

First Begged His Father to Chop Off His Head With an Axe.

Albert Woolsey, the young truck farmer of Bound Brook, died late Sunday night after having hacked his throat Saturday. Woolsey had attempted to cut off his head while suffering from some religious mania.

Failing to kill himself, Woolsey went to his father, and, handing him an axe, asked him to cut off his head. When the father refused Woolsey placed his head on a chopping-block in the barnyard and entreated his father to end his life.

The doctors could do little for the man, and it was a marvel to them that he lived so long. as he had barely escaped severing the jugular vein.

Plainfielders Get a Good Man.

The following very interesting item was taken from the Newark Sunday Call, of last Sunday:

Passengers upon the Newark and New York road have missed their ideal conductor, Charles Keyser, for some days, and are beginning to make inquiries about him. There is no mystery about the matter. It is merely that some of the wealthy patrons of the road living in Plainfield saw and coveted him. Whether it was his shape, his beautiful blonde mustache or his elegant manner that they admired is not known, but they got him, and what is Plainfield's gain is Newark's loss. Keyser no longer graces the Newark platform, and his admiring friends may get only occasional glimpses of him at the Jersey City end, if they are lucky enough to strike his time of arriving or leaving. He takes out the fast express to Plainfield and Somerville every afternoon, and besides makes two runs to Roselle in the morning.

Sunday-School Teachers in Discussion.

The regular meeting of the Primary Teachers Union was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday afternoon. There were twenty-five members present. Mrs. Barkalew conducted the devotional exercises and Mrs. Darby taught the lesson which was on "Easter." An informal discussion followed when many valuable hints and suggestions for the Easter lesson were brought out. At the next meeting business of great importance will be transacted.

Better Pay Wanted for Postal Servants.

The reclassification bill, for the reclassification and reorganization of the railway mail service, has been reported favorably in the House at Washington. In the past twenty five years this business has increased 1,000 per cent. while the clerks, whose duties are of the most exacting, laborious and dangerous of all Government employes, receive the same pay today that they did twenty-five years ago.

Another New Residence.

T. E. F. Randolph has sold to Geo. A. Strong, a prominent New York lawyer, 525 feet of land on Central avenue, below Randolph avenue, running through to Field avenue, through J. T. Vail's real estate agency. Mr. Strong will build a handsome residence on this property.

NOAH RABY, 124 YEARS OLD.

Born in North Carolina, was a Sailor and Now Lives in a Jersey Poor House.

According to his own statements—and the people of Piscataway and Stelton have full confidence in his veracity—Noah Raby, an inmate of the Piscataway Poor Farm, will pass his one hundred and twenty-fourth year mark should he live to see next Wednesday. He is therefore the oldest man in the state. Henry G. Hummer, overseer of the farm, has known the man for more than fifty years, and he himself is firm in his belief that Raby is far past the century point. As he sits in an old-fashioned armchair before the fire in Mr. Hummer's house the old man looks every bit a cenetarian.

"Uncle Noah" is short and much bent. Sometimes his eves sparkle, but they are sightless, as he became blind about ten years ago. Although his shoulders are somewhat contracted the muscles of his legs and arms are as firm as they were thirty years ago. He is toothless, and in talking he gives vent to a wierd whistling noise. But his voice is strong and clear, and his life is hearty. His accent is of the South.

General good health has blessed the old man since a serious illness at the age of eighteen. His mind is wonderfully alert and he has an emphatic way of saying "Certain, sir." Fearing a rush of blood to his head, he sleeps sitting up in a chair. On pleasant days he goes to the well in the yard, guided by a wire stretched from the back door.

Boiled fish or rice, or some bread and milk, constitute the old man's simple diet. He weighs only about one hundred pounds although at his best he seldom averaged more than 130. Noah has developed a fondness for an occasional glass of rye whiskey and downs it like a cunnoisseur. He says he was born at Eatontown, Gates County, N. C., on April 1, 1772. He also says he heard Washington speak at Norfolk, Na. At that time Raby was a sailor in the United States Navy.

IN HONOR OF A COLLEGE MATE.

Miss Kathgrine Baxter Pleasantly Entertain a Party of Young Friends.

Miss Katherine Baxter entertained a few friends at her home on Putnam avenue last night in honor of her roommate at Vassar College, Miss Helen Thompson, of Cincinnati. The evening passed very pleasantly with music and cards, while dainty refreshments were served toward the close. Among those present, beside Miss Baxter and her guest, were Miss Florence Smith, of Brooklyn, Miss Adelaide Baxter Edward H. Field, Arthur J. Spicer and Guernsey Nevins.

ANXIOUS TO WORK FOR UNCLE SAM.

Fifteen Candidates for the Civil Service Examination Next Saturday.

The civil service examinations for postoffice clerks and carriers will be held Saturday from 1:30 to 6 o'clock, in the rooms of the Plainfield Business College. There are fifteen candidates that will take the examinations, the most to try for the positions in Plainfield since their start.

Owing to the large number to take the examinations, Postmaster Hetfield was at a loss where to hold them, but Prof. Phelps kindly offered the use of the college rooms and the offer was gratefully accepted.

Of Interest to Endeavorers.

The annual meeting of the local Christian Endeavor Union, which is to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, April 9th, promiseses to be one of special interest. Rev. C. C. Brett, of Jersey City, the chairman of the '96 programme committee, has been secured as the speaker of the evening. Endeavorers are urged to attend this meeting, as matters of interest pertaining to the Convention in October will be announced.

Did Not Know The Law.

A party of Italians, employed on the street railway, started to build a shanty for their own accommodation as soon as they arrived in town. They were suddenly stopped in the erection of their domicile by notification that they must obtain a permit from the building inspector first. The permit was obtained yesterday and the Italians are now comfortably housed.

An Affidavit.

This is to certify that on May 11th, I walked to Melick's drug store on a pair of crutches and bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for inflammatory rheumatism which had crippled me up. After using three bottles I am completely cured. I can cheerfully recommend it. Charles H. Wetzel, Sunbury, Pa. Sworn and subscribed to before me on August 10th, 1894. Walter Shipman, J. P. For sale at 50c per bottle at Armstrong's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

THE EDITOR STILL IN JAIL.

Reiner Fails to Get Bondsmen Who Will Qualify in Double the Sum.

Dr. John Max Reiner, the editor of The New Jersey Herald, Elizabeth, is still a prisoner in the county jail on the charge of libeling Mayor Rankin, and, although he expected to get bail yesterday, he was unsuccessful. His friends, it is said, have raised the $5,200 bail which Judge Van Syckel demands, but the hitch is in their inability to get two bondsmen who will qualify in double the amount of bail, or $10,400 each. Reiner's friends say that they are ready to deposit the $5,200 cash in the bank to secure whoever goes on the bond, but there appears to be a reluctance on the part of property owners to do this favor. John P. Powers, of the firm of Hance & Powers, is still acting as attorney for Reiner, and was in this city a few days ago seeking bail.

The Central to Raise its Tracks.

The Central Railroad Company has decided to raise its tracks at Bound Brook as soon as good weather comes. The recent high waters set the officials to thinking, and in order to improve the company's property the roadbed will be raised an average fill of three feet from just west of Brady's crossing to the new grade established at the lower crossing.

A Hustling Pair.

William N. Runyon has associated himself with George O. Stevens in the coal business. The partnership commences tomorrow. They will make a hustling pair.

TO BETTER THE STREETS.

COUNCILMANIC COMMITTEE MEET AND DISCUSS MATTERS.

A Proposition Made That Ptoperty Owners be Assessed by Some Method for the Improvements of the City Streets.

C. J. Fisk, Ralph I. Tolles and Geo. H. Frost, the Councilmanic Street Committee, held a meettng last evening and discussed plans for work on the streets this year. One thing proposed was to lay a direct sewer pipe from the Park avenue railroad bridge through Park avenue to Greenbrook to carry off the surplus water in heavy rains, and also to place a catch basin at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. This will be done if the committee can so arrange the appropriation to that end.

Owing to the fact that the amount for street purposes this year is only $15,000, the committee do not feel that much can be done on the streets outside of repairing them where the sewer pipes have been laid. The members thought it would be advisable, at an early date, to introduce a plan of assessment on each property owner, so that all of the streets could be put in first class condition. One of the members expressed the idea that $150,000 would be necessary for street improvements.

A. C. Stebbins, W. A. Westphal and C. J. Fisk, the Fire Committee from the Council, also met last evening and talked over in an informal manner plans for the department for 1896. The amount to be asked for at the Council meeting next Monday evening was decided upon, and other matters of importance received due consideration.

DEATH OF A MACHINIST.

A Well-Known and Valued Employe at Pond's Passes Away.

One of the smartest and brightest machinists employed by the Pond Tool Machine Company Works, Warren F. Bartlett, died at his home, 1109 West Front street, last night, at about 6 o'clock from dropsical heart disease. Mr. Bartlett came here from Worcester when the Pond Tool Work were first started about seven years ago and has been employed there ever since. He was a past-chancellor in Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias and was also quite prominent in Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M. He leaves a wife and one child. He has been ill for some time, but was thought to be better until three days ago when he began to sink rapidly.

GOING RIGHT AHEAD.

Work on the Trolley Road Extension Being Rapidly Pushed.

All the opposition to the trolley line seems to have died away for the work of extending it towards Netherwood meets no opposers. There is a feeble kick regarding the erection of the poles, but that is usually settled satisfactorily. The track was completed nearly to Richmond street yesterday, and by 2 o'clock today the rails were down on Richmond street from East Fifth street to LaGrande avenue, and need to be spiked down. The ground is broken nearly to Putnam avenue.

So far nothing has been done regarding the wires, but they will be strung in a few days.

Three Charges Against Him.

Three charges were brought against Edward Bergen, the only offender to appear before City Judge DeMeza this morning, and all were for riding on coal trains of the Jersey Central. Bergen was given his choice between paying $4 or going to jail for ten days for each offense, making the total sentence $12 or 30 days.

A Beautiful Exhibit.

The rooms of the Camera Club, although they are very large, will be filled with the beautiful collection of works of art loaned by the people of Plainfield for the exhibition which opens on Friday, April 10th, at 10 a.m.

Old Fellows as Host.

"The Old Fellows to the New Members" is the novel title given for a reception which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building, Tuesday evening April 7th. It will be an evening of amusement and social good fellowship. Refreshments will be served.

An Evening Reception.

A reception of the Watchung Avenue Social Club was held last evening at the home of George Schaefer, 452 West Second street. About twenty-five couples attended and danced until after midnight. Prof. Guttman furnished the music.

Know a Good Thing.

Several parties came to Plainfield Saturday afternoon for the purpose of purchasing five lots on Johnston drive near the new hotel. The sale will probably be made this week.

A Bad Street.

The condition of West Fourth street is at present so bad that in case of fire through that street, the fire apparatus would be unable to pass through it.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SOCIETY.

A Series of Six Lectures to be Commenced Next October.

A University Extension Society has been established with Isaac L. Miller as President, Miss A. P. Newton as Secretary and Albert H. Atterbury as Treasurer. It is contemplated to have two courses of six lectures each, beginning in the latter part of October next, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, the officers of that church having kindly consented to allow the chapel to be used for that purpose. One course will be delivered by Prof. Robert M. Prentiss, on Astronomy, with illustrations, and the other by Prof. Riggs, so well and favorably known in this city on some historical subject. The price of the tickets to both courses has been fixed at $1.50 and the officers of the society will be very glad to receive the names of parties expecting to attend.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Franc Bailey, of Bound Brook, is visiting friends in town today.

Harry Cottrell, of Prospect place, is confined to his home from the effects of an accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder, of Park avenue, have removed to Brooklyn, where they will reside.

Mrs. John H. Doane and son, of La Grande avenue, left this morning for a short visit to Brooklyn.

Frank Gleason, of New Brunswick, was the guest of David T. Kenney, of Grove street, last Sunday.

Letter-Carrier E. T. Hann, of Somerset street, returns from Flemington today, where he has been visiting.

A daughter came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kilbride, of West Fourth street, Sunday.

H. J. Martin, Division Chaplain of the Sons of Veterans, has received his commission from Division Commander J. B. Adams.

Mrs. Howard Fleming and children, Marjorie, Dorothy, James, Barbara and Owen, of Park avenue, spent Sunday with relatives at Flemington.

Mrs. Geo. Watson and son, George, of New York, leave today for California after a visit at the home of Mrs. Emma Darling, of Belvidere avenue.

William Kitchen, Frank J. Blatz and Robert M. Clark, went from this city to the party given by Miss Sophie Rudd at her home on East Third street, New York.

Andrew Vanderbeek has recovered sufficiently to be removed from the home of his son-in-law, John J. Shotwell, of College place, to his own home on Second place.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of West Fifth street, have been spending a few days with relatives at Centreville, Hunterdon county. Mr. Huff returned yesterday and Mrs. Huff today.

William J. Tallamy has resigned his position as tenor soloist of the Tabernacle, of Jersey City, to accept the position of solo tenor of the St. John's church, of Elizabeth. The resignation to take effect May 1st.

SALVATION ARMY COMMANDERS.

Arrangements for the Introduction of the Booth-Tuckers in New York.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who, with he husband now on the Majestic on his way to this country, is to command the American Salvation Army, is rapidly recuperating.

Ballington Booth has not yet visited his sister. A prominent officer at headquarters said this morning that no appointment had been made for a meeting, but that it would probably occur to day or tomorrow.

The Salvation Army officers are making elaborate arrangements for the welcome to Commander and Mrs. Booth-Tucker at Carnegie Hall in New York on the evening of Tuesday next, when the new officers will make their first public appearance. Shortly after the meeting Commissioner Eva Booth will say farewell, as she has been ordered by Gen. Booth to return to London.

County Board of Agriculture.

A regular meeting of the Union county board of agriculture will be held in the court house, Elizabeth, next Thursday, at 2 p. m., sharp. Subject for discussion, "Feeding Farm Animals."

A Card.

I have associated with me D. L. Gulick, who brings with him a full line of bicycle and golf suits.

H. Werner.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Armstrong's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

SPANISH EXCESSES

Story of the Outrages on the Three Farrar Brothers, Americans.

THEIR HOUSE FIRED ON AND ROBBED

An Indemnity Demanded and the Matter Now in Consul General Williams' Hands — A Wounded Rebel Executed.

Havana, March 31.—Here is the story of the three brothers Farrar, all American citizens and joint owners of the coffee plantation "Estrella" in Havana province near Alquizar. It does not differ greatly from the experiences of many other owners of estates in the interior, but as those men happen to be Americans and have made sworn statements protesting against the excesses committed by Spanish troops, and demanding damages, the affair has become one of official record, and cannot be brushed away with a general denial. The papers are now in the hands of Consul General Williams, and Miguel Farrar, one of the brothers, has furnished me with a copy of his statement. It is as follows:

Fired on the Dwelling.

"On Saturday, March 21, the dwelling house of the coffee plantation 'Estrella' was the object of wanton attack by the column of Gen. Bernat, operating in that region. The said building received cannon shots of grape and cannister, breaking the door, one window, several piazza columns and greatly endangering the lives of the families of my brothers, Don Tasio and Don Luis Farrar, both American citizens, the wife of the former being enciente. There were two small children in the house. From my information it appears that the troops mentioned had sustained fire with a rebel band in the Paz plantations, a quarter of a league from Estrella. The rebels having fled to Pedroso and Buena Esperanza plantations, the government troops advanced toward Estrella, in quite an opposite direction to that taken by the rebels.

Robbed of Jewelry and Clothing.

"On arriving at the borders of Estrella plantation the Spanish columns began firing cannon at the dwelling house, and it was immediately invaded by soldiers, who ransacked it, carrying off from wardrobes all jewelry and men's clothing which they contained as well as a sum of about $60 in money. They also took away everything found in workmen's dwellings, arresting at the same time twelve of the occupants, whom they conducted to Alquizar as insurgents. It should be observed that the cannons were fired solely at the dwelling house of the owners, although there were twenty other buildings on the plantation and the place was entirely clear of insurgents.

Indemnity Demanded.

"In consideration of all the above, and particularly on account of the danger to which his relatives were exposed, and also for the unjustifiable looting on the part of the regular troops in the service of a constitutional government, the undersigned does most solemnly protest and asks an immediate indemnity for the damage suffered, which he values at $5,000, as all work has been stopped on the plantation and everything abandoned."

Wounded Rebel Executed.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Havana, March 31.—Enrique Aleman was executed in the Cabanas, across the bay from this city, yesterday. He belonged to one of Maceo's bands, which was dispersed. Afterwards he joined a small band of insurgents and was captured in a fight with the troops, in which he was wounded in the arm, in both hands and in the fingers. His right hand was amputated in a hospital. There is no definite news regarding the movements of Maceo, who is in the province of Pinar del Rio. Insurgents have burned Penalver, a small town two leagues from Guanabacoa, province of Havana. They hanged the alcalde. Col. Moncada reports that his command made a reconnoitre in the Siguanea Valley and destroyed 100 houses that the insurgents were using as infirmaries and workshops. In the fighting the rebels lost eight killed, including one bearing the title of "Governor" Castro. A detachment of troops, acting in concert with a gunboat, fought an insurgent force at Rincon, near cape Cruz. Three rebels were killed, among the number being the leader Cervino, who had just landed with an expedition from Jamaica. The warship Alfonso XII. fired by mistake upon the Spanish coasting steamer Alava of Matanzas. One blank shot and five balls were fired at her, but no damage was done.

J. FRANK CLARK.

Charged with Embezzlement.

Baltimore, March 31.—Maurice Bunnell, aged 24, a bookkeeper for J. W. Bond & Co., stationers on East Baltimore street, is under arrest, charged with embezzling $1,500. It is stated the amount will likely reach high figures in the thousands, as the peculations have been going on for several years and the investigation of Bunnell's accounts has only begun.

Croker's Horse Backed for the Derby.

London, March 31.—Richard Croker's Montauk was backed yesterday to win the Derby at odds of 40 to 1. These odds were taken until the horse stood to win £15,000. Afterwards £3,000 to £100 was accepted twice, with £1,000 to £100 for place. The race will be run on Wednesday, June 3.

The Dolphin Coming Home.

Washington, March 31.—The dispatch boat Dolphin sailed from Tampico, Mexico, yesterday for Key West, enroute to Norfolk.

GOD'S AMERICAN VOLUNTEERS.

Ballington and Mrs. Booth Meet with a Hearty Reception at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 31.—An audience that filled the Academy of Music to overflowing welcomed Ballington Booth and his wife last night at the first meeting held in this city of God's American volunteers. Many of the best people socially in the city were present and they expressed their sympathy with the movement in every possible way. The Booths made very little reference to the trouble with the Salvation army. Mr. Booth did say that he received but two orders from London both of which he had obeyed, although he had been accused of disobedience. One of these orders was to resign his command, and a second one followed almost immediately peremptorily directing him to give up the command by 10 o'clock the next day. He also stated that he had been forcibly ejected from the Salvation army headquarters. Mrs. Booth said they had letters which would fully exonerate them, but they were too busy with the work that lay in their hands to further continue the controversy. Quite a substantial sum was realized from the collection that was taken up and the Defender's league, the organization similar to the auxiliary of the Salvation army, was organized and 200 names placed on the roll at five dollars a name.

INTEREST ON B. & O. BONDS.

Announcement That It Will Be Paid on April 1 Came as a Surprise.

Baltimore, March 31.—It was officially announced at the treasury office last night that the interest on the extended 4 1-2 per cent. bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company would be paid April 1. The payment of the interest on this issue may mean that all interest charges will be met when due. Considerable uncertainty had been felt among Baltimore & Ohio security holders as to whether or not the interest payments would be made. It was realized that default on April 1 (some of the oldest bonds of the company being included) would mean no hope of getting any returns on other bonds of the corporation and there was, therefore, a good feeling in financial circles when the announcement was made.

EVIDENCE IN A PENSION CASE.

Commissioner Lochran Takes Proceedings Against a Judge and His Clerk.

Washington, March 31.—Solicitor General Conrad yesterday made a motion in the supreme court of the United States for leave to file, on behalf of Pension Commissioner Lochran, a petition for a writ of mandamus against Hon. C. H. Benedict, judge of the district court for the eastern district of New York, and R. L. Benedict, the clerk. It is in order to obtain the evidence of Mathias Fugueira, a physician in Brooklyn, who refused to give testimony before a special examiner in a pension case and for whom the judge refused to issue a subpoena.

HAMMOND AT CAPE TOWN.

The American Permitted To Leave the Transvaal Under $100,000 Bail.

Cape Town, March 31.—John Hays Hammond, the American mining engineer who is one of the members of the Johannesburg reform committee who were arrested on the charge of sedition, arrived here last evening. He was permitted to leave the Transvaal owing to the condition of his health, but before he left his bail was increased to $100,000.

Herbert Booth To Go to Australia.

Winnipeg, Man., March 31.—Commander Herbert Booth, the head of the Salvation Army in Canada, has arrived here after a farewell tour through the northwest. He says that he is in almost daily communication with Ballington Booth, in an effort to induce him to return to the army. He says that he is going to Australia to relieve Commandant Coombs, who had been his predecessor in Canada.

McKinley First; Reed Second Choice.

Jersey City, March 31.—The republican congressional convention last night elected two delegates to the St. Louis convention. Samuel D. Dickinson and congressman Thomas McEwan were elected. Both are warm advocates of McKinley, with Reed for second choice. The convention declared in favor of the Monroe doctrine, sound money and a high protective tariff, and against free coinage.

An Open Library on Sunday.

Rochester, N. Y., March 31.—The trustees of Reynolds library have decided, in obedience to the wishes of the patrons of the institution, to keep it open on Sunday afternoon. As a consequence, Prof. Howard Osgood, one of the trustees and a member of the faculty of the Baptist Theological seminary, has resigned his position.

Flood at Ithaca.

Ithaca, N. Y., March 31.—Ithaca is experiencing the worst flood in its history. The water extends all over the lower portion of the city, and for five miles out a rushing torrent sweeps over the country. The railroad tracks south of Ithaca are washed away and only trains going north can get out of the city.

Situation at Buluwayo Serious.

London, March 31.—Lord Gifford, a director of the British South Africa company, to-day received a cable dispatch from Buluwayo, dated yesterday, saying that the position there was very serious.

For Hunting and Fishing in Maine.

Albany, March 31.—The Parmachenee club of New York city has been incorporated with the secretary of state, to secure desirable grounds in Maine for hunting and fishing.

HER FOREIGN POLICY

French Government Hopes To Profit by the Chamber's Delay.

EXPECTS A MAJORITY OF 75 OR 80

The Interpellation Debate Not To Come Up in the Chamber of Deputies Until Thursday—England and the United States.

Paris, March 31.—Although the government expects to profit by the postponement, until Thursday, of the interpellation by the chamber of deputies of the government's foreign policy, there are some among the prominent leaders who do not share this view. The government expects a majority of 75 to 80. Only a portion of the centrists desire to seize the occasion for upsetting the ministry, the others holding that even a radical cabinet should be supported at a moment like the present, when opposition is ill-timed and unpatriotic. Should the debate take a dangerous turn, it is probable that M. Deloncle, a member of the opposition, will speak in support of the ministry and point out the necessity of giving M. Bourgeois a free hand to deal with the situation. The political situation here has not changed, but it is believed that the status quo will be maintained until the discussion of the government's policy comes up in the chamber of deputies.

Was Requested To Resign.

The Gaulois publishes a sensational statement to the effect that it was the president, M. Faure, who caused the resignation of the minister for foreign affairs. According to the story, M. Faure summoned M. Bethelot to his study just before the cabinet council and appealed to him to give up his portfolio. M. Berthelot finally surrendered it upon the energetic insistence of the president, and consented to retire.

England and the United States.

London, March 31.—Replying in the House of commons to Sir Charles Dilke, member of the Forest of Dean division of Gloucester, George N. Curzon, the under secretary of state for foreign affairs, said the question whether the government would endeavor to take friendly joint action with the United States regarding the threatened action of France in Madagascar was of great importance, but the government was not prepared to add anything to the statement made on this subject on Friday last.

M. Sarrien, Minister of the Interior.

Paris, March 31.—It is announced that M. Sarrien, deputy from Saone-et Loire, and minister of the interior in 1887 in the cabinet of M. Tirard, has accepted the post of minister of the interior, which, in consequence of the changes due to the recent resignation of M. Berthelot, minister of foreign affairs, was assumed temporarily by M. Doumer, minister of finance.

Death of Col. Jas. S. McKay.

Elmira, N. Y., March 31.—Col. James S. McKay of Campbell, Steuben county, died last evening at Glenmary hospital, Oswego, aged 78. Col. McKay was born in Ireland and is of Scotch-Irish extraction. He went to Steuben county when a young man and his whole life has been identified with the progress and prosperity of the county.

Health

Depends upon keeping the blood in a pure condition, free from disease germs, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses, vitalizes and enriches the blood, throwing out the impurities that clog and irritate the system and permits no lodgment of the seeds of disease. Read the following:

"I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly for it has done wonders for me. I was

and all run down and my health was so poor I could not get out of doors. I was not able to do anything, being troubled with asthma and heart disease. I was nervous and could not sleep nights. I had become completely discouraged when I happened to read an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to give it a trial. After taking the first bottle I felt better and since taking five bottles I am so much improved that I feel like a new man. I am now able to do a fair day's work and sleep at night. My heart does not trouble me and I have realized great relief for asthma. I feel full of courage once more and life seems brighter and worth living. I would recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all afflicted as I have been, for I know it will help them. If this statement of facts will be of benefit, you are welcome to use it as you please." HENRY J. WRIGHT, Box 502, Oxford, New York.

Diphtheria

 Less Fatal.

If the patient's strength can be maintained, and the great vital centres of the body "kept up" to the performance of their natural functions, they will thus dispel the disease germs that impregnate the entire body, and if sufficient vitality is experienced, the fatality of this dreaded disease is lessened a hundred-fold.

Bovinine

that greatest raw food, is a wonderful creator of new flesh and nerve tissue, is indispensible in the treatment of this malady, as it gives strength to the patient with the least effort on the part of the digestive organs, and in addition, being itself a germicide, it antidotes the existing microbes of the disease. The ease with which it can be taken when the lesions of the throat preclude the use of other foods, makes it an additional necessity for the sufferer's recovery.

Your Spring Clothing

Rather early to speak of it, but if it needs cleaning or dyeing, it isn't too early to have us do that work for you. This is our dull season—our employes are here ready for work. We'd like to have your goods now. We can give them better attention than in the rush of the spring season. Then we'll have to have more time or rush them at the expense of good work. Now we can take our time, do the work better than if hurried and you'll have the clothing all ready for warm weather.

Look in the closet or trunk and find your spring wear that needs cleaning and dyeing and bring it to us now, or better still, our wagon will call for it if you will send us word.

RECENT BOND SALES

Resolutions Providing for Investigation in the Senate To-day.

OPPOSED BY HILL AND PLATT

Bill Passed for a Public Building in Indianapolis To Cost $2,000,000—Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill in the House.

Washington, March 31.—The resolution in the senate providing for the appointment of a select committee to investigate the recent issue of bonds by the government will be under consideration this afternoon, providing Senator Peffer, its author, can get the required permission. Senators Wolcott and Teller will aid Senator Peffer in having the matter brought up. When the resolution was reached yesterday Senators Hill and Platt objected to its immediate consideration, so the matter was permitted to go over until this afternoon. In the morning hour the bill to approve a compromise and settlement between the United States and the state of Arkansas, arising out of mutual claims for the principal and interest due on state bonds held by the United States and for lands claimed by the state under the swamp lands act and other acts, was taken up and passed after a debate lasting a couple of hours. No other business was transacted except the passage of some bills on the calendar that were unobjected to—including one for a public building at Indianapolis to cost $2,000,000.

House of Representatives.

The house to-day is still occupied in the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. Only one amendment has so far been made, appropriating $100,000 toward the completion of the public building at Newark, N. J. The house agreed to resolutions appointing Bernard R. Greene as successor to the late Gen. Casey in the construction of the new congressional library, and authorized ex-President Harrison to accept medals given to him by Brazil and Spain.

EMERGENCY RATIONS.

A Board Appointed To Fix Upon Proper Food for Soldiers in the Field.

Washington, March 31.—Despite a belief to the contrary, the war department has determined to reopen the question of obtaining an emergency ration for the army, and orders have been issued appointing a board of officers to meet in Washington immediately "to examine the reports of the boards which were convened in the several military departments to consider and recommend a proper ration for troops operating in emergencies." Major-Gen. Miles and Commissary-Gen. Stanton will appear before the board to make suggestions and give views. The board has been directed to make recommendations on the subject and to report upon the minimum amount of articles of food necessary to sustain a soldier in health and activity while in active service in the field for a limited period. The whole subject was considered some time ago by the commissary department and investigations were made and reports written by the principal subsistance officers in the eight military departments. Samples of the emergency rations used by foreign countries have been received at the war department and it is proposed to look into the matter thoroughly.

THE SNYDER INQUEST TO-DAY.

Discoveries of Various Medicines, Supposed To Be Poisonous.

Port Jervis, N. Y., March 31.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon the inquest upon the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, alleged to have been poisoned by their daughter, Mrs. Whittaker, will take place. It is ascertained that last Thursday Policeman Harvey, who was detailed by Coroner Harding to exercise surveillance over the daughter, discovered a bottle of white pills in Mrs. Snyder's residence. The coroner has sent the pills to Dr. Witthaus for analysis. Wilton Bennett, Mrs. Whittaker's counsel, will move to set aside the will made by her mother disinheriting her, on the ground of duress. Assistant District Attorney Powellach stated to a reporter that the ante-mortem statement of Mrs. Snyder, the contents of which have not as yet been made public, is not of itself sufficient to hold Mrs. Whittaker. In addition to the box of pills above mentioned a number of bottles found in the Snyder house containing medicines have been forwarded to Dr. Witthaus for analysis.

Confirmed by the Senate.

Washington, March 31.—The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations: Clement J. Dietrich of Maryland, United States consul at Nantes, France. Postmasters: New York—Theodore Smith, Goshen; Charles E. Willis, Homer. Also numerous promotions in the army.

For Embezzlement of a Violin.

Worcester, Mass., March 31.—Anatole Le Cam de Mezillac, instructor of a local French fencing club, who was arrested on a charge of the embezzlement of a violin from Arthur De Vermarce of Providence, has been taken to that city.

Maria Barberi's Appeal.

Albany, March 31.—The appeal of Maria Barberi, the young Italian murderess of New York city, will be argued before the court of appeals on Tuesday, April 7. The court will reconvene on April 6.

Steamer Paris Floated.

New York, March 31.—The American line steamer Paris, which was ashore southwest of Quickstep buoy, floated off at high tide last night.

STRUCK AGAIN ASSAULTED.

The ex-Priest Hit on the Head with a Rock and Shot At.

Scranton, Pa., March 31.—Ex-Priest Ruthven, whose lectures in Scranton have aroused considerable feeling between sections of the Protestants and Catholics, was again assaulted in Providence, a suburb of this city, last night. Ruthven lectured in the Providence Christian church, and as soon as he was seated in the street car opposite the church a large piece of rock was hurled through the window. The rock struck him on the back of the head, inflicting a very serious wound. He was conveyed to his boarding house, where his wound was stitched. The doctors report that he is not in danger. Two or three shots were fired, but none took effect. No one has yet been arrested.

ED PARDRIDGE OUT.

The Millionaire Wheat Pit Plunger Says He Is Through with Speculation.

Chicago, March 31.—Ed Pardridge, the millionaire plunger in the wheat pit of the board of trade, and the most conspicuous figure in the speculative line since the days of "Old Hutch," bought 4,000,000 bushels of wheat yesterday and says he will now retire from the market having no further interest in it. He said he was a sick man physically and would have to give up speculating. His appearance bore out his statement as to his ill health. His buying of such an immense line of wheat was merely to cover his short sales, so that he could quit the market even. The market, in consequence, was very much agitated and the price rose from 63⅞ to 64⅝ cents a bushel, while the retiring plunger's brokers were clammoring for his four million bushels of short wheat. When they had secured all they wanted the price dropped to 63¼.

UNCONSCIOUS HALF AN HOUR.

Leeds, Defeated by Everhardt, Has a Close Call for His Life.

Maspeth, L. I., March 31.—Jack Everhardt defeated Horace Leeds last night at the Empire Athletic club. Leeds fell out from weakness after one minute of the fifteenth round. Leeds remained unconscious for more than thirty minutes. The utmost secrecy was observed while Leeds lay in the dressing room. The police kept everyone out. Two physicians worked over him for half an hour before he showed any signs of life. Just at 11:40 Leeds opened his eyes and moved his head. Consciousness returned slowly but surely, and at a few minutes before midnight Leeds was assisted from the club house and taken to New York. It was believed for some time by the physicians and the attendants that the defeated pugilist would never regain consciousness.

IN SESSION ALL NIGHT.

British House of Commons Discusses the Supply Measure.

London, March 31.—The house was in session all night debating the supply. Mr. Balfour declared that the European situation was unchanged, adding that a European war was no nearer and that Great Britian was no more involved in the European arranging of treaties than she was before the Soudan expedition was decided upon. The supply was finally voted and the house adjourned.

Shipwrecked Seamen Reach Port.

New York, March 31.—Among the passengers who arrived last night on the steamer Trinidad from Bermuda were nine members of the crew of the steamer Volusia, which foundered at sea last week, all hands being rescued by the bark Linda and brought to Bermuda. On the Trinidad were also nine members of the German ship Ida, which put into Bermuda in distress, leaking.

FAT JOB GIVEN OUT

New York State Commissioner of Excise Appointed.

H. H. LYMAN OF OSWEGO THE MAN

One of the Best Offices in the Gift of the Governor — He Has the Appointment of Numerous Well Paid Subordinates.

Albany, March 31.—Gov. Morton last night sent to the state senate the nomination of Henry H. Lyman of Oswego to be the state excise commissioner under the Raines new liquor tax law. Col. Henry H. Lyman was born in Jefferson county, N. Y., and is 51 years old. His early life was spent on a farm. He studied engineering and surveying, which he practiced some three years. He enlisted as a private in the 147th New York volunteers and served until the close of the war, being successively promoted to lieutenant and adjutant and breveted major. After the war he engaged in mercantile pursuits. He held various town offices and in the year 1872 was elected sheriff of Oswego county, serving three years. In 1889 he was made collector of the port of Oswego by President Harrison. In 1895 he was appointed a member of the state forest, fish and game commission by Gov. Morton, which office he now holds. He is vice-president of the National bank of the city of Oswego, trustee of the Oswego Savings bank and secretary of the Oswego Water company and is connected with various other business enterprises in the city of Oswego. When the nomination was read in the senate it was referred to the finance committee. The position is one of the best in the gift of the governor. The commissioner will have the appointment of a deputy at a salary of $4,000, a secretary at a salary of $2,000, a financial clerk at a salary of $1,800; three special deputies, one in New York, at a salary of $4,000; one in Brooklyn, at $3,000, and one in Buffalo, at $2,000, also the appointment of a clerk to each of the special deputies. The commissioner also has the appointment of sixty confidential agents for the various counties of the state at a salary of $1,200 each and may also appoint special attorneys to assist the confidential agents.

SMITH WON ON POINTS.

Husband, However, Put Up a Game Fight Against the American.

London, March 31.—A large crowd gathered at the National Sporting club last night to witness the fight between "Mysterious" Billy Smith of Boston and Bill Husband. The latter tipped the scales at 148 pounds, while Smith was a pound lighter. The fight was eight rounds for a prize of £100. The betting was seven to two on Smith. The American opened the first round in a lively manner, but Husband was not a bit flurried and the round ended with honors even. In the second round Smith landed several heavy blows on Husband's ribs. Neither man had any advantage in the third round. In the fourth round Smith got in a heavy blow on Husband's head that knocked him dizzy, but he struggled on gamely through the succeeding rounds. At the end of the eighth round Smith was declared the winner on points. The next event was a twenty round match between Tom Tracy and Tom Williams, both Australians. Tracy weighed 144 and Williams 140. The fight was speedily finished, Tracy's right landing on his opponent's jaw at the end of the first round, knocking him out.

Lasters' Strike at Auburn.

Auburn, Me., March 31.—There is little change in the strike at the Pray-Small company factory. The factory is running a full crew except in the lasting department, where new men are being employed to take the places of the striking lasters. Lasting machines are also being put in. General Secretary Eaton of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union is still in town. The strikers say that other manufacturers needing lasters refuse them work.

To Reduce Officials' Salaries.

Washington, March 31.—General Wheeler, dem., Ala., has offered in the house a bill providing that so long as the gold standard is maintained in this country the salaries of officials, including congressmen, but excepting United States judges, shall be reduced to three-fourths the salaries now provided by law.

Nominated by the President.

Washington, March 31.—The president has sent to the senate the nominations of John B. Dusenbery of New Jersey to be an assistant appraiser of merchandise in the district of New York, and first assistant engineer Willits S. Pedrick of New Jersey to be a chief engineer in the revenue cutter service.

Instructed for Reed.

Melrose, Mass., March 31.—The seventh congressional district republican convention elected James Pierce of Malden and Amos F. Brand of Lynn as delegates to the St. Louis convention, and Walter F. Keene of Melrose and George H. Dunham of Chelsea alternates. The delegates were instructed for Reed.

Hudson River Shad Catch.

Albany, March 31.—Leonard Jaycox, special agent to gather shad statistics for the state fisheries, game and forest commission, reports that the total number of shad caught in the Hudson in 1895 was 1,156,382.

Ex-Gov. Seay Dead.

Montgomery, Ala., March 31.—Thos. Seay, who was governor of Alabama from 1886 to 1890, died at his home in Greensboro last night from grippe.

The Governor has signed the bill prohibiting trolley companies from carrying freight.

In its general working features the Raines excise law in New York, over which there is such a howl of protest by the big cities, is no more severe than the excise law which governs Plainfield.

The Democrats in Elizabeth seem to be in a quandary for a Mayoralty nomination, and it seems likely that if some one does not come to the front very soon, Mayor Rankin will have the field for re-election all to himself.

Governor Griggs yesterday placed his signature to the bill which empowers women to be made Masters in Chancery. If the advocates of woman's rights had a few more representatives like Miss Mary F. Phillbrook, who was the third house friend of the bill, the enfranchisement of the gentler sex would not be far off. She works and talks where these elements result in accomplishment.

This is certainly rich! On Friday last The Daily Press published the announcement of the death of Tom Jones, the Central baggage master, and spoke a few words of euology of his character and disposition. The next day the Elizabeth Journal copied what the Press said about Mr. Jones, but failed to give the proper credit. Yesterday, three days after the death of Mr. Jones and the exclusive announcement in the Press, the News appeared on the scene, and with its usual "enterprise" printed the same matter, word for word, that The Press published as original last Friday, and which the Elizabeth Journal had clipped the next day.

It would be wrong and unlawful for the Superintendent of Immigration at this port to discriminate against, or to discriminate in favor of the immigrants who come here from any particular country of Europe, or who belongs to any particular race of mankind. It would be wrong for him to deal less favorably with immigrants from Italy than with those from another, or any other, European country. Comparatively few of the Italians who land at Ellis Island are learned persons, but nearly all of them are healthy, muscular and sensible, possessed of a fair measure of discernment, and exceeding anxious to procure work of any kind. Among the immigrants who reach Ellis Island daily, there are some who are more learned than the Italians, yet who are far less desirable additions to the population of our country. The law does not permit the Superintendent to open the gates more widely to foreigners of one race than to those of any other race, or to make any discrimination, one way or the other, in case of immigrants from Sweden, Italy, Germany, Ireland or Russia.—New York Sun.

Charles T. Henry, the young colored assistant at Emuel Perry's tonsorial establishment on North avenue, was quietly married to Miss May Grobes, of Philadelphia, a few days ago.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

For thirty years Dr. Deane has made a study of dyspepsia, and in thirty years has cured more cases of it than probably any other fifty physicians combined. He gave up the study of theology and took to medicine, because the most eminent physicians of that day gave him up as a chronic dyspeptic, with only a short time to live.

Result of this change—a hearty, healthy, useful life, an enormous practice, and a demand for his pills greater than for all others combined wherever known. For sale at all druggists'. Send for a free sample. White wrapper if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose.

Charles H. Schermerhorn tells The Press that the reports concerning the health of Prosecutor Charles H. Winfield, of Hudson county, are very much exaggerated. Mr. Winfield caught a severe cold while traveling south, which confined him for a time at Palm Beach, but he has since recovered. His general health, however, is not very good.

LIVER CLOGGING.

When Your Stomach Clogs Your Liver See to Your Digestion.

Not one person in a thousand knows that the cause of biliousness is the clogging of the liver by the poisons of indigestion. Nor that the only proper cure for it is a tonic to aid the stomach.

But modern medicine declares the truth of it. And the Shakers have proved it by the wonderful success of their Shaker Digestive Cordial.

One of the most important uses of the liver is to arrest and destroy all poisons which try to find their way into the blood. When it is clogged it can't do this.

Undigested food ferments and putrefies in the stomach, and the poisons of putrefaction clog and paralyze the liver, after which they find their way into the blood.

Here is the true explanation of all the distressing disorders and complications caused by indigestion.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is the only tonic cordial which aids the stomach in a natural way to digest its food. By this means it cures indigestion, restores the liver and frees the body from poison and disease.

Headache, dizziness, neuralgia, mental depression, weakness, bad taste, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, anæmia, rheumatism, and many other disorders are relieved and cured by Shaker Digestive Cordial.

At druggists. 10c for a trial bottle. Write for book to The Shakers, 30 Reade street, New York.

Broken Promises.

Those unfortunate Democrats who were cajoled into voting the Republican ticket at the last State election have my sympathy. Cheap gas, cheaper ferriage, and like measures, for the people have died a common death at the hands of this Legislature. A great cry was raised against the monopoly that would raise the price of coal, and promptly, for political effect, a bill was drawn by the Judiciary Committee, after consultation with Attorney-General Stockton, to remedy this evil. Citizen, what has become of the measure which was to relieve you? It was so effectually sat on by the corporate bosses in the Senate that it was never called from the secretary's desk. Sequel—the President of the Senate is promptly promoted to a $6 000 per year clerkship. In a session that covened in the same halls but a few years ago, a Democratic majority did break the notorious 'Reading Coal Combine," and in all praise be it said a Democratic Governor did approve their acts.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A. B. Barnett and Jay Eaton, the two crack riders, visited friends in town this morning.

The celebrated Duplex spring saddle is now on sale at Lister's cycle store on North avenue.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has shipped a Dayton wheel, model A, to John Keegan, of Brooklyn.

Ned Waring and LeRoy Radford went to Elizabeth Saturday afternoon on the '96 Cleveland tandem.

Lister, of North avenue, has sold Appolo wheels to Miss Bowen and Charles Francisco, both of this city.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has received a sample of the Waverly wheel, for which the company is agent.

Phillip Zimmer, will probably continue the bicycle business on Somerset street, formerally conducted by H. J. Martin and himself.

Ira W. Travell, teacher of the Senior class, at the High school, has purchased an Elmore wheel from Lister, the North avenue cycle dealer.

Donald Stewart and Richard Waring tested the riding qualities of the new Cleveland tandem Saturday morning, in the vicinity of Dunellen.

Little five-year-old Eddie Cooper was run over by a local cyclist last Saturday afternoon in front of his home on East Fourth street. This same youngster has been knocked by bicycle riders several times before.

George Musgrave, of West Front street, has purchased a Vesper wheel from Lister, of North avenue. Thos. Carty, of Central avenue, has also purchased an Outing wheel from the same house.

Chief Counsel Robert Gentle, of the New Jersey Division, has appointed Frank G. Tower, of the Bloomfield Cycling and Athletic Association, a State representative. His district comprises Rutherford, Nutley, Glen Ridge, Bloomfield and Belleville.

Emil Grossman & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, have leased their vest-pocket "Cycling Record" book for 1896. This is similar to their famous pocket base ball League schedule and quite as useful in its way, especially to cycling editors, racing men and riders generally.

Charles Butts, of East Front street, expects to have his new Relay wheel next Saturday, and is expecially anxious to arrange with some one, about his size, for a five mile race. Last year Mr. Butts made the above distance in thirteen minutes and twenty seconds.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Montclair High School has, at last, decided definitely to come into the New Jersey Interscholastic Association.

Albert P. Simmonds, of this city, has joined the New York Athletic Club, and will run under its colors this year.

The Board of Directors of the Sportsmen's Game and Fish Protective and Propagative Society met last evening, and received a report from the committee on game. Henry Haurand was authorized to secure the game and this afternoon he went to New York to make arrangements for the same.

One of the features of the New Jersey Athletic Club's carnival of sports to be held on Decoration Day will be a relay race between teams of four men from schools in the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association. The following schools expect to enter teams: Plainfield High School, Pingry's School, of Elizabeth; Stevens Preparatory School, of Hoboken; the Montclair High School, and the Newark Academy. The team from the Plainfield High School will be picked from the following candidates: Walter Serrell, Herbert Richardson, J. Hazlewood Craig, Henry Eggerding, George P. Smi h and Arthur Lederer.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The head-pin tournament at the Cresscent Wheelmen's alleys comes to an end tonight. There is some talk of starting another for April and have three prizes.

The victors in the Standard League, the Westfield Athletic Club bowlers, found worthy antagonists in the I. O. S. team, which is composed of the same young men who rolled so well for the Westfield Y. M. C. A. The match was rolled on the Westfield Club's alleys. The veterans won the first by 15 pins, and expected to completely extinguish their opponents in the second. The young men pulled up in fine shape, and with the aid of five strikes by Manning, they took the game by 9 pins. The I. O. S. boys were highly elated over their victory, as it gives them the series, three games won out of the four games played. The individual scores were as follows:

WHIST.

The inter-club whist match that has been held at the rooms of the Brooklyn Whist Club every Saturday for the last two months, came to an end last Saturday. In the contest for the greatest number of tricks, the Manhattan Whist Club, of New York, was first, and the Park Club, of this city, second. The Manhattan Whist Club, of New York, and the Union League Whist Club, of Brooklyn, were tied for the greatest number of points with the Parks second, on one-half a point behind. The Park Club was handicapped for part of the time by not having theregular team.

GOLF.

The members of the Paterson Golf Club, whose first season last year was so successful, are looking forward to a more prosperous one this year. Some improvements will be made to the course, and a temporary club-house will be erected on the grounds next month, giving the golfers better facilities than they have previously had. The club has over 100 members, and is in a very prosperous condition.

THEATRICAL.

"The Heart of Maryland," David Belasco's superb melo-drama, now at the Herald Square Theatre, is conceded to be the greatest stage success New York has known in fifteen years. Every night since its advent in the early fall, the handsome Broadway playhouse has been crowded with the city's culture and fashion. Dramatic censors are one in its overwhelming praise, select magazines are even yet glowing in its favor and the public continue to throng to it. It is a beautiful drama, rich in colorful canvases and splendidly interpreted. "The Lilacs," "Confederate Headquarters at Boonesboro," "The Old Church," "The Vestibule" and "The Belfry" are among the play's striking scenes. It is chock-a-block with effects. One of these is the march of an army. And the magic of this illusion—this march! This movement of an overwhelming army, the tremendous roll of heavy infantry over pontoon bridges, the clank and clash and clatter of tens of thousands of scabbards, the hoof-falls of thousands of stamping cavalry, the huzzas and shouts of desperate men, the dust even of yellow roads blowing on in clouds in the wake of horses and scores of lumbering battalions!

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps meet for street practice tonight. An important business meeting will also be held.

—Yesterday being the fifth Monday in the month, the Monday Afternoon Club held its meeting for informal discussion at the Casino followed by a social tea.

—After April 1, Noe's stage, which runs between Plainfield and Metuchen, will start from Plainfield at 8 o'clock, instead of leaving Oak Tree at 7:15 and comin g to Plainfield.

Its just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. Its easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

LONGFELLOW AN ECLECTIC.

"Tales of a Wayside Inn" Appeals to All Americans.

If Longfellow is generally appreciated by our people it must be because he has something for them all, and not alone for those of Anglo-Saxon stock. And this is true. It arises from the fact that Longfellow is an eclectic in his tastes and sympathies. He might have said, with the Latin dramatist: "Because I am a man, nothing which pertains to humanity is beyond the range of my interest;" but it would have been more accurate to say: "I am an American, of English stock, born when continental ideas were beginning to permeate the civilization of New England, and conversant, by the very necessity of my vocation, with the literatures of western Europe; so that all that is best in the tongue of Lope de Vega, of Uhland, of Charles d'Orleans, of Tegner, and of Dante, I regard as no less my portion than the pages of the Bible or the history of Massachusetts."

Accordingly, Longfellow is at once a patriot and a cosmopolite. He roves with pleasure in Europe, but dwells for years in the house which had once sheltered Washington. He writes "The Courtship of Miles Standish" and "The Village Blacksmith," but also "The Spanish Student," "The Golden Legend," and "Michael Angelo." In fact, he is like a merchant who traffics extensively with foreign countries, though he has also a considerable domestic trade, and devotes all his gains to the embellishment of the city in which his lot is cast, and in which he dwells by preference.

The eclecticism of Longfellow is well illustrated by the "Tales of a Wayside Inn." The scene is the Red Horse tavern in Sudbury, 20 miles from Cambridge; but the characters include a Norwegian, a Sicilian, and a Jew, besides a student whose tastes make him a citizen of the world. In addition to these there are three characters identified with New England, of whom two, at least, are persons of the widest sympathies. Thus it happens that, while his foreigners are relatively fixed and bounded in knowledge and likings, his Americans are catholic in spirit, and the society which they temporarily form is delightful, because of the association of pronounced individualities with others whose personal characteristics are tempered with that universal love which is nothing less than the very efflorescence of wisdom.—Prof. Albert S. Cook, in Chautauquan.

ALAS FOR THE EGGS.

The Revenge of a Donkey That Had Been Beaten.

One morning, while in Rome, I walked out of the city with a friend writes Rev. George F. Haskins. After a walk of several hours we called at an inn for refreshment. As we neared the ever open door of the hostelry, our attention was arrested by the approach, from another direction, of a tall, stout, middle-aged woman, and by her side two large, moving panniers filled to the very top with eggs. From these panniers, if you looked up, you saw two very long ears; if you looked down you saw four small legs, and between the panniers was the head of an animal. It was a donkey who bore the heavy burden.

The woman was in great haste to reach the city; but the donkey was in no haste at all. On some previous occasion he had very likely been fed at the inn, and he stopped there now, probably in the hope of getting something to eat. Nor would he budge a foot.

The woman was armed with a stout stick about three feet long. With that she began belaying the poor donkey, shouting at him meantime. Then she went behind and strove to push him on by main strength, putting her shoulder to his rump. Then she renewed the beating and the shouting. All in vain.

Presently the donkey became sulky, perhaps revengeful. For to the horror of his agonized mistress, he kneeled and then down went his hind legs, and the next moment he was rolling over on his back. His feet were in the air, and the eggs were everywhere.

I could not help pitying the poor woman, who sobbed, shrieked and danced wildly about in her distress; and yet I reflected that if she had fed the poor donkey instead of beating him so unmercifully, the disaster might not have occurred. I hope the same thought struck her.—Youth's Companion.

Betrayed by His Child.

A publican who had a house a few miles out of London told me the following story not long since: One day a little girl, about seven or eight years old, came in for a pint of four ale in a tankard. Not having one in the bar, my friend sent her out into the pothouse, where the potman was busy boiling his pots, to obtain one. "Oh!" said the little girl, "do you boil yours? Why, my father fries his." Having lost several pots, the potman's suspicions were aroused, so, in company of a police officer, he followed the girl home and caught the father melting down some pewter pots in a frying pan. The man, who turned out to be a noted counterfeiter, got ten years' penal servitude.—London Answers.

What Decided His Vote.

When Dr. Kenealy, being returned to parliament by the electors of Stoke, took an early opportunity of moving a vote of censure on the judges, he found a teller in Mr. Whalley. On the house dividing, it was found that 433 men of all parties voted in the negative, Dr. Kenealy's proposition being supported by a single member. The single member was Maj. O'Gorman. Asked afterward why he had gone against his own party, for once merged in the majority, the major, mopping his massive brow, answered; "Bedad, it's a hot night, and I knew there would be more room in the 'aye' lobby."—San Francisco Argonaut.

MUNYON'S COLD CURE

Promptly Effectual in Curing the Most Obstinate Forms of Colds and Coughs and a Sure Preventive of Pneumonia and All Lung Diseases.

Colds lead to coughs, coughs to pneumonia and consumption; therefore it is all important to check a cold before it reaches the lungs. Munyon's Cold Cure will positively break a cold inside of twenty-four hours if taken as soon as the cold manifests itself. When the cold reaches the lungs or bronchial tubes the Cough Cure should be used alternately every half hour with the Cold Cure. The Cold Cure is guaranteed to prevent pneumonia if used in the beginning of a cold. Pneumonia, or inflammation of the lungs, can be controlled by the use of these two cures.

The Cough Cure positively cures bronchitis, tickling in the throat, hoarseness, loss of voice, soreness of the chest, difficulty in breathing, hacking cough and all pulmonary diseases where the lungs are not too far consumed or covered with tubercles.

A separate specific for each disease. Sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

Personal letters to Prof. Munyon, 1505 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., answered with free medical advice for any disease.

CHEAP PAINT.

The Kind That Soon Fades and Rubs Off.

Good Paint That Should Be Put On from the Inside, Instead of from the Outside.

You can make a very cheap paint by using an ordinary whitewash. It will cling to the house and barns just as well as it does to the upper walls of your rooms. To be sure it does not last very long and it rubs off. Perhaps you have seen young girls, and some not quite so young, try the trick of putting the color of health on their cheeks by using some red powder or paste. But it does not last long and it rubs off. Yet we can hardly blame them, for who does not like to see the rosy color of robust health, and who is not pained at the sight of the white lips and colorless cheeks? We advise all girls, whether old or young, to paint their cheeks if they are pale. But be sure to paint them with something which will last and will not rub off. Put the paint on from the inside, not from the outside.

The elements which give color to the blood are minute bodies, called the red blood corpuscles. If there is not enough of these in your blood, then you are pale, weak, without appetite, probably thin in flesh and quite nervous. In fact, everything seems to go wrong in the body when there is a deficiency in these life-giving red blood corpuscles. An abundance of these little bodies make rich blood, red blood. The circulation is improved and the bright tinge of color comes again to the lips and cheeks.

You have only to consult medical works to learn that cod-liver oil is one of the best remedies known to increase the number of these red corpuscles of the blood. Eminent medical writers declare that this is one of the most marked features of cod-liver oil. We prefer to recommend to you the oil after it has been broken up into minute particles, as in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites. The stomach bears it better in this form, and it makes the oil very palatable also. The hypophosphites are added because the nervous system needs a tonic, something to build it up on a permanent basis. If you are pale, do not get much benefit from your food, mentally and physically unable to work, simply dragging along day after day, take Scott's Emulsion. It puts color on the cheeks. It is a color that comes to stay, and you cannot rub it off.

Scott's Emulsion has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. Ask your doctor. Because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Insist on Scott's Emulsion with trademark of man and fish. Put up in 50c. and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

COPYRIGHT, 1894, BY BRET HARTE.

"But I'm not," said the unexpected voice of the deputy at the grille of the gateway. "Excuse my interfering, gentlemen, but this sort o' thing ain't down in my schedule. I've let this gentleman," pointing to Capt. Pinckney, "off for a minit to say good-by to a lady, who, I reckon, has just ridden off in her buggy with her servant, without saying by your leave—but I don't calkerlate to let him inter another business which, like as not, will prevent me from deliverin' his body safe and sound into court. You hear me!" As Clarence opened the gate he added: "I don't want ter spoil sport between gents, but it's got to come in after I've done my duty."

"I'll meet you, sir, anywhere, and with what weapons you choose," said Pinckney, turning angrily upon Clarence, "as soon as this farce—for which you and your friends are responsible—is over." He was furious at the reflection that Mrs. Brant had escaped him.

A different thought was in the husband's mind. "But what assurance have I that you are going on with the deputy?" he said, with purposely insulting deliberation.

"My word, sir," said Capt. Pinckney, sharply.

"And if that ain't enuff, there's mine," said the deputy. "For if this gentleman swerves to the right or left betwixt this and Santa Inez, I'll blow a hole through him myself! And that," he added, deprecatingly, "is saying a good deal for a man who doesn't want to spoil sport, and, for the matter of that, is willing to stand by and see fair play done at Santa Inez any time to-morrow before breakfast."

"Then I can count on you?" said Clarence, with a sudden impulse, extending his hand.

The man hesitated a moment, and then grasped it. "Well, I wasn't expecting that," he said, slowly; "but you look as if you meant business, and if you ain't got anybody else to see you through, I'm thar! I suppose this gentleman will have his friends?"

"I shall be there at six with my seconds," said Pinckney, curtly. "Lead on."

The gate closed behind them. Clarence looked around the now empty patio, and the silent house, from which he could now see that the servants had been withdrawn to insure the secrecy of the gathering. Cool and collected as he knew he was, he stood still for a moment in hesitation. Then the sound of voices came to his ear from the garden room, the light frivolity of Susy's laugh, and Hooker's huskier accents. He had forgotten they were there—he had even forgotten their existence.

Trusting still to his calmness, he called to Hooker in his usual voice. That gentleman appeared with a face which his attempts to make unconcerned and impassive had, however, only deepened his funereal gravity.

"I have something to attend to," said Clarence, with a faint smile, "and I must ask you and Susy to excuse me for a little while. She knows the house perfectly, and will call the servants from the annex to provide you both with refreshments. I will join you a little later." Satisfied from Hooker's manner that they knew nothing of his later interview with Pinckney he turned away and ascended to his own room.

He then threw himself into an armchair by the dim light of a single candle as if to reflect, but he was conscious, even then, of his own calmness and want of excitement, and that no reflection was necessary. What he had done and what he intended to do was quite clear; there was no alternative suggested, or to be even sought after. He had that sense of relief which comes with the climax of all great struggles—even of defeat. He had never known before how hopeless and continuous had been that struggle until now it was over. He had no fear for to-morrow; he would meet it as he had to-day with the same singular consciousness of being equal to the occasion. There was even no necessity of preparation for it; his will leaving his fortune to his wife—which seemed a slight thing now in this greater separation—was already in his safe in San Francisco; his pistols were in the next room. He was even slightly disturbed by his own insensibility and passed into his wife's bedroom, partly in the hope of disturbing his serenity by some memento of their past. There was no disorder of flight—everything was in its place, except the drawer of her desk, which was still open as if she had taken something from it as an afterthought. There were letters and papers there—some of his own and some in Capt. Pinckney's handwriting. It did not occur to him to look at them—even to justify himself—or excuse her. He knew that his hatred of Capt. Pinckney was not so much that he believed him her lover, as his sudden conviction that they were alike! He was the male of her species—a being antagonistic to himself whom he could fight and crush and revenge himself upon. But most of all he loathed his past, not on account of her, but of his own weakness that had made him her dupe, and a misunderstood man to his friends. He had been derelict of duty in his selfish devotion to her; he had stifled his ambition, and underrated his own possibilities—no wonder that others had accepted him at his own valuation. Clarence Brant was a modest man, but the egotism of modesty is more fatal than that of pretension, for it has the haunting consciousness of superior virtue.

He reentered his own room and again threw himself in his chair. His calm was being succeeded by a physical weariness; he remembered he had not slept the night before and he ought to take some rest to be fresh in the early morning. Yet he must also show himself before his self-invited guests, Susy and her husband, or their suspicions would be aroused. He would try to sleep for a little while in the chair, before he went downstairs again. He closed his eyes oddly enough on a dim, dreamy recollection of Susy, of the old days in the little Madrono hollow where she had once given him a rendezvous. He forgot the maturer and critical uneasiness with which he had then received her coquettish and willful advances which he now knew was the effect of the growing dominance of Mrs. Peyton over him—and remembered only her bright, youthful eyes, and the kisses he had pressed upon her soft, fragrant cheeks. The faintness he had felt when awaiting in the old rose garden, a few hours ago, seemed to steal on him once more, and to lapse into a delicious drowsiness. He even seemed again to inhale the perfume of the roses.

"Clarence!"

He started. He had been sleeping—but the voice sounded strangely real.

A little girlish laugh followed. He sprang to his feet. It was Susy, standing beside him—and Susy even as she looked in the old days!

For with a flash of her old audacity, aided by her perfect knowledge of the house, and the bunch of household keys she had found, which dangled from her girdle, as in the old fashion, she had disinterred one of her old frocks from a closet, slipped it on, and loosening her brown hair had let it fall in rippling waves down her back. It was Susy in her old girlishness, with the instinct of the grown actress in the arrangement of her short skirt over her pretty ankles, and the half conscious pose she had taken.

"Poor, dear old Clarence," she said with dancing eyes, "I might have won a dozen pairs of gloves from you while you slept there. But you're tired, dear old boy—and you've had a hard time of it. No matter—you've shown yourself a man at last!—and I'm proud of you."

Half ashamed of the pleasure he felt, even in his embarrassment, Clarence stammered: "But this change—this dress!"

Susy clapped her hands like a child. "I knew it would surprise you! It's an old frock I wore the year I went away with aunty. I knew where it was hidden, and fished it out again with these keys, Clarence—it seemed so like old times. Lord! when I was with the old

He even seemed again to inhale the perfume of the roses.

servants again—and you didn't come down—I just felt as if I'd never been away, and I just rampaged free! It seemed to me, don't you know, not as if I'd just come—but as if I'd always been right here—and it was you who'd just come! Don't you understand? Just as you came when me and Mary Rogers were here—don't you remember her, Clarence, and how she used to do 'gooseberry' for us!—well—just like that. So I said to Jim—'I don't know you any more—get!' and I just slipped on this frock and ordered Mannela around, as I used to do—and she in fits of laughter—I reckon, Clarence, she hasn't laughed as much since I left. And then I thought of you—perhaps worried and flustered yet over things and the change, and I just slipped into the kitchen, and I told old fat Conchita to make some of these tortillas, you know — with sugar and cinnamon sprinkled on top—and I tied on an apron, and brought 'em up to you on a tray with a glass of that old Catalan wine you used to like. Then I sorter felt frightened when I got here and I didn't hear any noise, and I put the tray down in the hall and peeped in and found you asleep. Sit still, I'll fetch 'em."

She tripped out into the passage, returning with the tray which she put on the table beside Clarence, and then standing back a little and with her hands tucked soubrette fashion in the tiny pockets of her apron, gazed at him with a mischievous smile.

It was impossible not to smile back as he nibbled the crisp Mexican cake and drank the old mission wine. And Susy's tongue trilled an accompaniment to his thanks.

"Lord! it seems so nice to be here—just you and me, Clarence—like in the old days—with nobody naggin' and snoopin' round after you. Don't be greedy, Clarence, but give me a cake." She took one and finished the dregs of his glass.

Then, sitting on the arm of his chair, she darted a violet ray of half reproach and half mischievousness into his amused and retrospective eyes. "There used to be room for two in that chair, Klarus."

The use of the old childish diminutive for his name seemed to him as natural as her familiarity, and he moved a little sideways to make room for her with an instinct of pleasure, but the same sense of irresponsibility that had characterized his reflections. Nevertheless, he looked critically into the mischievous eyes and said, quietly:

"Where is your husband?"

There was no trace of embarrassment, apology or even of consciousness in her pretty face, as she replied, passing her hand lightly through his hair:

"O, Jim?—I've packed him off!"

"Packed him off!" echoed Clarence, slightly astonished.

"Yes—to Fair Plains—full tilt after your wife's buggy. You see, Clarence, after the old cat—that's your wife, please—left, I wanted to make sure she had gone, and wasn't hangin' round to lead you off again, with your leg tied to her apron string, like a chicken's! No!—I said to Jim: 'Just you ride after her until you see she's safe and sound in the down coach from Fair Plains, without her knowin' it, and if she's inclined to hang back or wobble any, you post back here and let me know!' I told him I would stay and look after you, to see you didn't bolt, too!" She laughed and then added: "But I didn't think I should fall into the old ways so soon, and have such a nice time. Did you, Clarence?"

She looked so irresponsible sitting there with her face near his, and so childishly or perhaps thoughtlessly happy, that he could only admire her levity, and even the slight shock that her flippant allusion to his wife had given him seemed to him only a weakness of his own. After all was not hers the true philosophy? Why should not these bright eyes see things more clearly than his own? Nevertheless, with his eyes still fixed upon them, he continued:

"And Jim was willing to go?"

She stopped, with her fingers still lifting a lock of his hair. "Why, yes, you silly—why shouldn't he? I'd like to see him refuse. Why, Lord, Jim will do anything I ask him." She put down the lock of hair, and suddenly looking full into his eyes said: "That's just the difference between him and me and you and—that woman!"

"Then you love him?"

"About as much as you love her," she said, with an unaffected laugh, "only he don't wind me around his finger."

No doubt she was right, for all her thoughtlessness, and yet he was going to fight about that woman to-morrow! No!—he forgot—he was going to fight Capt. Pinckney because he was like her!

Susy had put her finger on the crease between his brows which this supposition had made, and tried to rub it out.

"You know it as well as I do, Clarence," she said, with a pretty wrinkling of her own brows, which was her nearest approach to thoughtfulness. "You know you never really liked her, only you thought her ways were grander and more proper than mine, and you know you were always a little bit of a snob and a prig, too, dear boy! And Mrs. Peyton was—bless my soul!—a Benham, and a planter's daughter, and I—I was only a picked-up orphan! That's where Jim is better than you. Now, sit still, goosey!—even if I don't like him as much. O, I know what you're always thinking—you're thinking we're both exaggerated and theatrical—ain't you? Don't you think it's a heap better to be exaggerated and theatrical about things that are just sentimental and romantic than to be so awfully possessed and overcome about things that are only real? There, you needn't stare at me so. It's true! You've had your fill of grandeur and propriety, and—here you are! And," she added, with a little chuckle, as she tucked up her feet and leaned a little closer to him, "here's me!"

Look Out for a Surprise.

The next church sociable in the Seventh-Day Baptist church will occur on Wednesday evening and as the affair has been turned over to the young men of the congregation a novel affair will undoubtedly be the result. You know Wednesday is April Fools' Day, so look out for a surprise.

Mrs. Seymour G. Smith, of Crescent avenue, is slowly improving from her recent illness.

Miss Phœbe Lovell, of Crescent avenue, has returned from Vassar College to spend the Easter vacation at her home.

James Dayton, of Trenton, visited Miss Provost, of Trenton, who is the guest of Mrs. T. O. Doane, of West Fifth street, yesterday.

—The last in the series of mid-week Lenten sermons that have been observed during the past six weeks in St. Mary's church, will be delivered tomorrow evening. The speaker will be Rev. J. A. Stafford, formerly assistant pastor of St. Mary's, but now of Seton Hall College, South Orange. Father Stafford is a very fluent speaker, and no doubt a large congregation will be present to greet him.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75c. Sold by T.S. Armstrong, druggist, Park and North avenues. 2 12 y

The Schubert Musical Club will hold their entertainment on Tuesday evening, instead of April 9th.

The annual meeting of the Borough Commissioners will be held Wednesday evening in Friendship Hall.

A union sociable will be held Wednesday evening at the residence of Miss Emma Nelson, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor societies of the Baptist and Seventh-Day Baptist churches.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The driver of Carmino Corlucci's beer wagon, of Westfield, had a fight with the driver of a rival wagon Friday at Scotch Plains and made a complaint against the rival before a Justice at Westfield. A hearing was held that night, and the man was held under bonds to keep the peace.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, has collected a number of interesting and valuable paintings, together with bric-a-brac and objects of art, at the Coles building, 222 Market street, and they will be exhibited this week for the benefit of the building fund of the Newsboys Lodging House. The art treasures exhibited are of a kind not usually available to the public, and the opportunity is one which all should be glad to improve.—Newark Call.

OAK TREE.

Miss May Terry, of Westfield, was the guest of Miss Stover over last Sunday.

David Kellogg, of New York, a student at Yale, has been visiting at the home of Gen. Schwenck.

Mr. Noe, driver of the Oak Tree stage, sold his farming tools yesterday, and will move to Plainfield tomorrow.

AVON PARK.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Brower is very ill.

Mrs. Louis MacIntosh, of Plainfield, spent Sunday last with Mrs. Edward Campbell.

Edward Campbell and Cornelius Teeple went duck shooting Saturday but had poor success.

Charles C. Brower has engaged sixteen stalls at Barnegat for next winter, when he will winter his horses there.

—A Leap Year April Fool sociable will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow night.

—While Miss Verdon was driving through Sixth street, near Division, Sunday, her horse sank in the mud and it was only after much trouble that the animal was extricated.

The breath of a chronic caterrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis which has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure.

Joint Memorial Detail.

The Joint Memorial Detail, comprising a committee from each of the G. A. R. Posts, held their first meeting last evening and organized by electing W. C. Smith, chairman, and W. W. Coriell, secretary and treasurer. Plans of a preliminary nature were discussed for the observance of Memorial Day. At the next meeting, Tuesday evening, April 7th, representatives from the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans will be present. The work of planning for Memorial Day will then be definitely started.

All Trains Will Stop at Lorraine.

W. H. Peddle, division superintendent of the Central railroad, issued an order Friday that all trains on the Newark and Elizabeth branch will stop at Lorraine station.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for furnishing crushed stone and also for furnishing material and doing the necessary work for building culverts and laying cross-walks.

Pursuant to resolution adopted by the Common Council of the city of Plainfield at the regular meeting held March 2, 1896, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets will meet at the Mayor's office, No. 109 Park avenue, in the city of Plainfield, on Saturday April 4, 1896 at eight o'clock p. m., at which time and place the said Committee on Streets will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying cross-walks as follows: For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1896, the bids to state the prices for furnishing the following sizes, viz: "Dust" No. 1 or one inch, No. 2 or one and one half inches, and No. 3 or two and one half inches in such quantities and in such places as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The stone must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Committee may direct and a voucher or way-bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

The right to reject any or all bids is hereby reserved. For furnishing material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks for the remainder of of the year 1896 according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner. Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Committee on Streets will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present and also make the proper record of the prices and terms upon their minutes.

The plans and specifications referred to above may be seen at the office of the Street Commissioner.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressively reserved.

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY,
City Clerk.
